Bolinas Group Opposes Job Corps Camp Site

Worried About Disorder

A meeting of 60 Bolinas residents last night voted its disapproval of a plan to station 220 young people involved in the federal Job Corps program near the community.

The door, however, was not closed completely.

James Dougan, vice president of Bolinas Community Inc., which called the meeting, said, "We felt we could not give approval at this time and have a problem landed in our laps sometime in the future.

'POLICING'

"What we want is an assurance that there will be the proper disciplining and policing of the area we think is necessary when you get a large number of people together."

Thomas J. Barfield, president of the group, will represent it at Tuesday's meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors when the subject comes up for discussion.

In January, Fred W. Binniewies, superintendent of Point Reyes National Seashore, said he had applied to federal officials to set up a job camp there for the Job Corps program, part of the government's "war on poverty."

MOST APPROVE

"The great majority of our residents," said Dougan today, "approve of the program and all it is doing. But try to imagine the effect 200 people aged 16 to 20 years would have on Bolinas if they were let loose after 5 p.m. each day.

"We do not have the recreation facilities."

"We have not closed the door completely," he added, "but feel we should have more answers to our questions before giving our approval."

LBJ Silent On Luci's Romance

(Combined AP & UPI)

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. — Luci Baines Johnson, daughter of the President, was at the LBJ Ranch today, seeking her parents' permission to marry Pat Nugent of Waukegan, Ill.

The 18-year-old Luci flew by Jetstar last night with Nugent, 22, to try to win her father's consent. Close Texas friends said Mrs. Johnson will go along with Luci's wishes, but the President is holding out.

The black-haired, blue-eyed youngest member of the first family is said to have wanted to have her engagement announced Wednesday, the first anniversary of the President's election to the White House.

The White House remained silent on the reports.

"I don't know anything about it," said Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers.

The first lady's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter said there was nothing unusual about Luci bringing a beau to the ranch.

Asked about a possible nuptial, she said, "We have no knowledge of any such plans."

Luci reportedly broke the news to the President while he was at Bethesda Naval Hospital recovering from gall bladder surgery.

It was understood that Johnson preferred she concentrate on her studies at the Georgetown University School of Nursing in Washington, where she is a freshman.

Nugent, a good-looking blond Marquette University graduate, has been working for the government in Washington for several months. He is about to be called into military service and is expected to go into the Air National Guard or Air Reserve soon.

Luci and Pat have been dating since they met last June in Milwaukee. Nugent was one of the special guests at Luci's baptism into the Roman Catholic Church July 2, her 18th birthday. He also is a Catholic.

Nugent went to Luci's surprise graduation party at the

Ditch Left Agape In Sewer Dispute

There is a 16-foot deep ditch in front of the Paradise Shopping Center in Corte Madera, and as far as the contractor who put it there is concerned, it can just stay there.

James Kirkwood, of Kirkwood-Bly, Inc., of Santa Rosa, said the town of Corte Madera has ordered his crew to stop work there, so he intends to pull his equipment out.

Meanwhile, Gabe M. Angel, head of the Paradise Shopping Center Merchants Assn., began pleading for action today because the ditch is a hazard and is keeping customers out of the shopping area.

The ditch was dug to lower a sewer for the Corte Madera Sanitary District, serving Mariner Cove. The contractor's city encroachment permit expired today, and Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said no new one will be issued unless it is on the town's terms.

Kirkwood said the town wants him to lower the street four

Novato Chase Gets Rough For Officer

Novato Police Sgt. P. J. (Jack) Haley saw a man drive through a red light at 1:36 a.m. today. A few minutes later, Haley had a swollen lip and another officer, Ronald Green, had a cut over his left eye and behind his left ear.

Booked into Marin County Jail afterward was John Douglas Smith, 32, of 1117 Second Street, Novato. He was charged with two counts of assaulting a police officer, one of resisting arrest and one of running a stop light.

He was released later on $550 bail and is due to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Haley said he used his red light and siren to try to stop Smith after he saw his car run the light on Vallejo Street. The driver continued to his home, Haley said.

When the man started into his home, Haley said, he ran after him, telling him to stop.

Police say the man cried "Get the hell off my property" as he smashed Haley in the mouth.

Haley called for help, and three other officers responded. The four of them finally were able to get Smith down, they reported. Haley and Green both ended up with bruised knuckles, and Green's helmet was ripped off his head.

Soviets Hit Kashmir U.N. Peace Attempt

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Soviet Union today was reported blocking a second Kashmir peace resolution in a new power play to reduce the importance of the secretary general's office.

The reports said the Soviet Union was opposed to any resolution that mention Secretary General Thant's efforts to enforce the Kashmir cease-fire and bring about the withdrawal of Pakistan and Indian troops.

Corte Madera Dump Project Speedup Seen

It might be possible to put the proposed county dump at Corte Madera before the newly formed Bay Conservation and Development Commission before January, county public works director Donald R. Frost said yesterday.

Earlier, the commission had ruled that no applications would be considered prior to January. This evidently did not include small projects, Frost said.

Frost, who talked to Alvin Baum of the commission staff yesterday, said it appeared the Corte Madera dump and golf course project might fit the category of a small project.

After today, there will be no county dump in operation. The present dump, in Larkspur, is being closed.

The plan (to use 100 acres on the south side of the mouth of Corte Madera Creek for a dump which would eventually become a golf course) must be approved by the new commission since tideland filling is involved.

Frost said it appeared the Gallinas Creek dredging project would definitely qualify as a small one and could go before the commission soon.

A member of Frost's staff will confer with Baum next week to get a firm answer.

Boy Spy Aids Red Attack On Marines

SAIGON (UPI)—A company of U.S. Marines, outnumbered four to one, today repelled a massive Communist human wave attack west of the Da Nang air base in hand to hand fighting. At least 56 guerrillas were killed.

Marine casualties in the bitter fighting in the dark early morning were listed as "moderate," but no totals were given.

The Viet Cong drove as far as the Marines' tents before they were driven back, dragging off their dead with meat hooks.

A U.S. military spokesman said a 15 year old boy, who had been selling Marines soft drinks the day before, apparently was a Viet Cong intelligence agent.

The leathernecks recognized the boy among the 56 dead Communists around their defensive positions guarding the Da Nang air base, the biggest American complex in South Viet Nam.

The youth still carried a map he apparently had drawn while selling drinks to the Marines yesterday.

"They had everything pinpointed," one Marine platoon leader said. "They knew where all the positions were."

The Viet Cong attack came at 2:20 a.m. about 10 miles west of the huge airbase, not far from the scene of a Communist suicide squad assault two days ago which destroyed 18 U.S. helicopters and damaged 22 others.

The fighting occurred on Hill 22, a small piece of ground rising from rice paddies about 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the first time the Communists had attacked a Marine unit dug in at a defensive position.

The attack was spearheaded by a hard core company of Viet Cong regulars with three other companies in reserve. They hit with automatic weapons, 57 mm. recoilles rifles, mortars, grenades and small arms fire.

The Marine company took between 50 and 70 mortar shells, according to UPI correspondent Martin Stuart-Fox who reported from the area.

Fairfax City Fathers Deny 'Bias' On Aide

Comments circulating in Fairfax that Mayor Frank L. Lawrence and other councilmen have shown bias in accepting city building inspector Rolfe M. Ockenden's resignation Oct. 18 were repudiated last night at a special meeting of the council.

"I am not concerned with bias comments. We do what we think is best for this city. What people think about it is their business," said Lawrence.

Lawrence joined with two other councilmen present, Robert R. Souza and George A. Pagni, in authorizing City Administrator David J. Sumbardo to seek a new inspector to replace Ockenden.

Absent were councilmen Peter R. Arrigoni, who voted against accepting Ockenden's resignation, and Waldemar R. Radtke, who also missed the Oct. 18 session but had earlier supported Ockenden in a dispute with Souza.

Octogenarian Max Bootzin sat forlornly yesterday with his daughter, Mrs. Adeline Rodriguez, in a car parked in front of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in Mill Valley.

"I have just asked them to turn off the gas and electricity," he said. He planned to go next to a garbage company and the Marin Municipal Water District to stop other services.

Bootzin, 82, who had been paying for these utilities at his hilltop house at 8 Robertson Terrace, filed a suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court charging that two women whom he befriended — Charmaine Klenman, 27, and Joan Taylor, 18 — bilked him out of $120,000 in money and property and took possession of his Mill Valley home.

A hearing has been set by Judge Joseph G. Wilson for 2 p.m. Nov. 9 in which the two women must show cause why they should not be temporarily enjoined from disposing of any of the property.

Bootzin said he gave Miss Klenman more than $25,000 in

Viet Bonus Paid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The nation's first state bonus for service in Viet Nam has gone to the widow of an Army officer. He was killed in action on their 13th wedding anniversary. Gov. Otto Kerner presented a $1,000 check to Beverly Louise Dexter, 33, of Decatur, Ill., a mother of five. Her husband, Maj. Herbert J. Dexter, was killed Sept. 18.

Politico Predicts

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Democratic State Controller Alan Cranston has predicted that Ronald Reagan will be the Republican choice to run against Gov. Edmund G. Brown next November. Cranston, honored last night at a dinner at the National Orange Show, said he was confident Gov. Brown would win but he cautioned against taking Reagan lightly.

Federal Jobs Fewer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government employed 2,520,724 civilians in September, an increase of 59,184 over a year ago, a Senate-House committee reported today. The total was 29,261 less than the August figure, a decline largely caused by seasonal factors, the committee said.

Riot Trial Ending

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Final arguments are scheduled Monday in the trial of Mrs. Rena Frye, who is charged with interfering with an officer attempting to arrest her 21-year-old son. The arrest of Mrs. Frye, 49, Marquette, and Ronald Frye, 22, were believed to have been the incident that started Los Angeles' week of wild rioting.

East Cool, West Hot

Dry, cool weather was massed over the nation today. The Atlantic Coast suffered frost and freezing temperatures as far south as the Carolinas. On the West Coast, Los Angeles was plagued for the fourth day yesterday with a choking combination of millions of exhaust-spewing automobiles and atmospheric conditions that kept the fouled air close to the ground.

Rockets Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Army has given General Dynamics Corp. a $41 million order for production of the Redeye, a 30-pound anti-aircraft missile designed for the use of individual front line troops. The Redeye is fired from the shoulder, much like the World War II bazooka. It has a heat-seeking nose that leads it to low-flying supersonic aircraft.

Gory Crashes On U.S. Roads

A total of 26 persons died last night and early today in four auto accidents across the nation. Eleven of those killed were students, according to United Press International.

The most lethal accident occurred at Carthage, Tex., where nine persons died after a two-car collision turned both autos involved into a "blazing mass of wreckage."

A head-on collision at Emmitsburg, Md., brought death to eight people including six students at Mt. St. Mary's College. Two other students were pulled from the wreckage and taken to a Gettysburg, Pa., hospital where they are in critical condition.

Five teen-agers on their way to a high school football game were killed when their convertible overturned at Pomona, Calif.

At Stratton, Maine, four men died when their car plunged out of control and into the south branch of the Dead River. Police said their car failed to make a sharp turn just before coming to a bridge over the river.

Atomic Earthquake Studied

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (UPI)—Project Long-Shot scientists, admitting only that things so far looked good, today began scrutiny of records kept on a giant explosion to see if they can determine the difference between the flinch of the Earth's crust left by an earthquake and that which follows a nuclear blast.

To provide needed data, the U.S. yesterday set off without a hitch an 80-kiloton hydrogen bomb 2,300 feet below tiny Amchitka Island, located 750 miles from the Siberian coast in the neckline of Aleutian Islands stretching from the Alaska peninsula.

The principal hope of the test was that the U.S. might devise a way to detect underground nuclear explosions without having to inspect test sites such as those in Russia. One of the chief obstacles to international regulation of underground nuclear explosions is the need for on-site inspections to prevent cheating.

Teen-Age Charmer Crowned

DALLAS (UPI)—The new Miss Teen-age America is Colette Agnes Daiute, a slender, 16-year-old charmer from Paramus, N.J., who intends to spend part of her reign advising shaggy haired boys to see a barber.

Miss Daiute

Miss Daiute, as "Miss New York City," won the 1966 Miss Teen-age pageant last night. For her talent performance in the 90-minute television pageant, she twirled two flaming batons.

As winner, the brown-haired, brown-eyed Colette got a $10,000 college scholarship, and other prizes.

One of Colette's duties is traveling about the country and talking to teen-agers, among other things, about traffic safety. She intends to campaign against shaggy haired boys during her travels.

"I don't think shaggy-haired boys are necessarily trying to identify themselves as girls," she said as a young man in stovepipe trousers and beatle boots tried to get her to sign an autograph. "It's a part of growing up, but I don't like it."

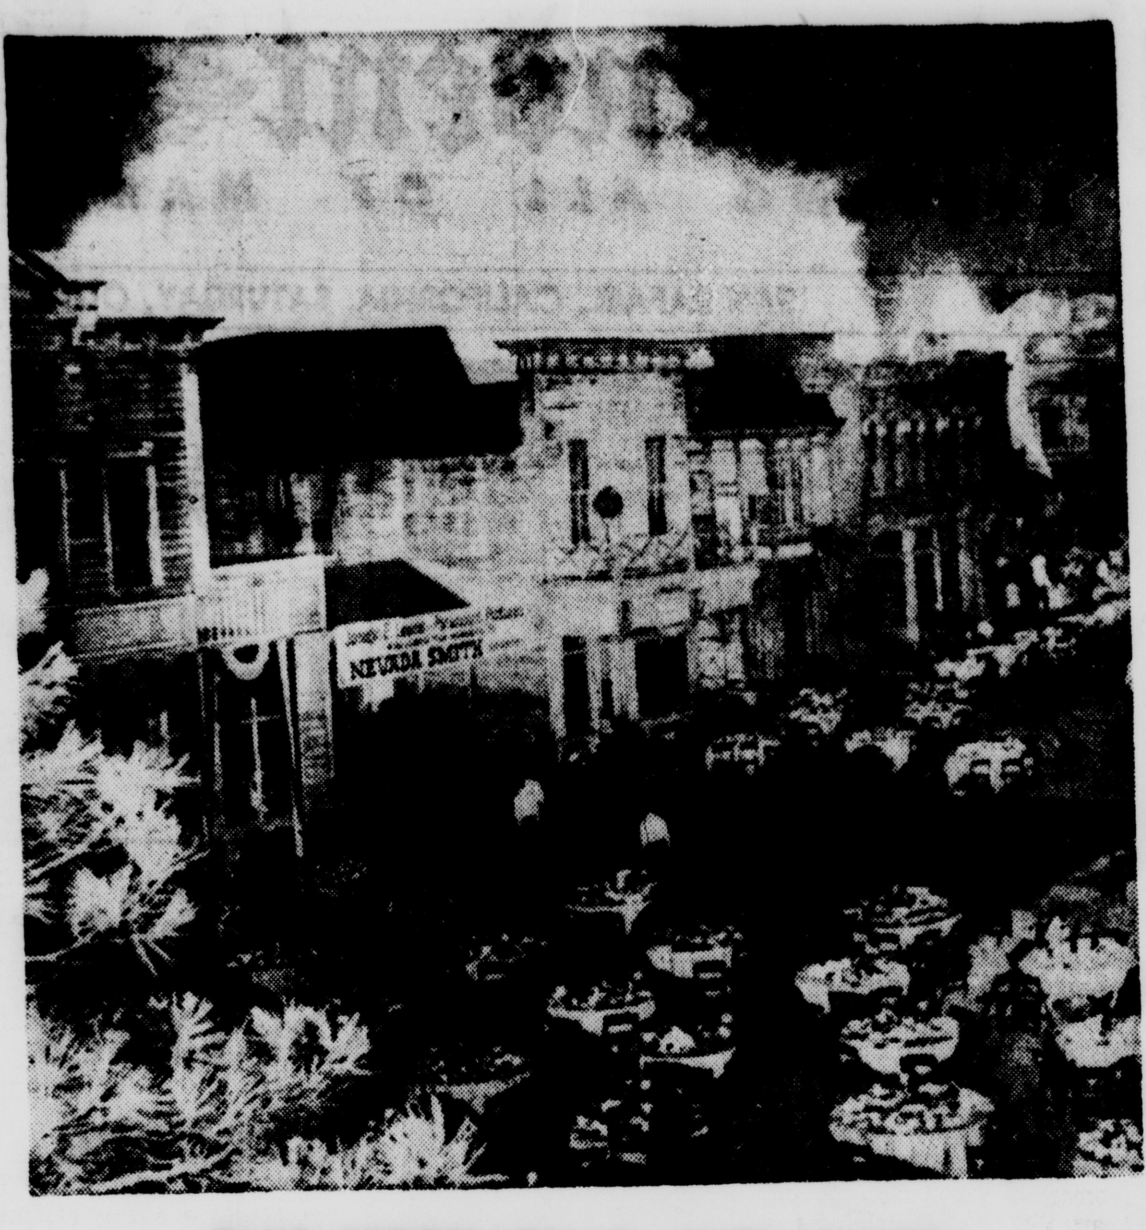
New York Contest Hits Climax

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democratic candidate Abraham D. Beame, bolstered by President Johnson's endorsement, meets his chief opponent, Republican-Liberal John V. Lindsay, tonight in the final television debate of the campaign for mayor.

The president, in a statement issued yesterday, gave his unreserved backing to Beame, and said he was "ideally qualified for the administrative challenges of the office" of mayor of New York.

The third mayor contender, conservative Willam Buckley, will not participate in tonight's debate. Most observers have agreed that in previous electronic appearances the acid-tongued Buckley seemed to have an edge over the other two men.

Mission San Rafael Arcangel was originally intended as a health rehabilitation center and was named for the Patron Saint of Good Health, St. Raphael.



THIS SPECTACUAR UNPLANNED

Hollywood's most dramatic fire scene in years wasn't before the cameras last night, as flames did $200,000 damage to sets in the Desilu and Paramount studios. More than 1,500 theater owners and film stars attending an outdoor party on the set of a Paramount Western, "Nevada Smith," fled the flames safely, leaving dinner tables deserted. (AP Wirephoto)

Cubans Drown While Officials Talk Of Airlift

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Refugees in small boats poured out of Cuba without letup today, braving a spray-driving nor'easter in the Florida Straits while U.S. and Cuban officials neared agreement on a safer and more comfortable air shuttle for exiles.

Yesterday, highly placed sources both in Washington and Havana said Monday was the more likely day for an announcement of a plan for moving 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month to this country. The same sources said it was possible Fidel Castro might agree to release between 15,000 and 30,000 political prisoners.

The Florida Straits claimed the first victims of the small boat shuttle which has been under way since Oct. 7. One woman died en route to freedom and a dazed man told of four companions who went down with a boat they were taking to Cuba to bring back refugees.

Britain Warns Rhodesians, Says Solution Is Possible

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today Britain does not believe Rhodesia is ready for independence under black African majority rule.

He said he thinks the present crisis can be ended "in a short time."

Wilson ruled out the use of any air attack, military invasion or any other form of force by Britain to impose an African majority government on this white-ruled colony.

He also warned white extremists that Britain will not stand idly by if they try to "take the law into their own hands."

He said although Britain had decided to forego the use of military force it still might employ economic sanctions.

Wilson said he and Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith had agreed that a royal commission might find a solution to the crisis.

Arizona Aide Refuses To Help Indians Vote

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Apache County Atty. Richard Greer says he will refuse to register prospective Indian voters who can't speak English despite a ruling that language tests used in the county violate the new federal Voting Rights Act.

"We'll invite the federal registrars in and let them live in the (Indian) hogans," he said Friday. "We're not going to assume responsibility for registering them."

There are 39,000 persons in Apache County. Only 4,500 of them are registered voters.

Navajos, who live on federal reservations, outnumber whites more than three to one in the county, the only one in Arizona in which the U.S. Justice Department presumes possible discrimination under the new law.

Greer says most members of the tribe are illiterate and can't speak English.

Greer contends the lack of tests would result in reservation Indians taking control of the county, although they don't pay taxes and aren't liable to prosecution for such state crimes as election fraud.

Big Parade Today Backs Viet Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — A massive demonstration of support for American fighting men in Viet Nam is being marshaled today on New York's Fifth Avenue.

A turnout of 50,000 to 100,000 is estimated by leaders of the march, set to begin at noon.

Five holders of the Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military decoration, are grand marshals for the demonstration, billed as an answer to the anti-Viet Nam protests two weeks ago.

The parade was new evidence of welling support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Elsewhere, other signs of support appeared, particularly on the college campus.

A "silent vigil" against the Viet Nam war will be held at the same time by several peace organizations in Times Square.

Politicos Trade Charges Over Smog Woes

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Los Angeles suffered through its fifth straight day of thick, eye-burning smog today and Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and Gov. Edmund G. Brown accused each other of part of the blame. The smog attack, described by the Air Pollution Control district (APCD) as the worst since the mid 1950s, was aggravated by 90-plus temperatures for the 11th day in a row.

Friday's heavy shroud of smog prompted the APCD's emergency committee to appeal to motorists to reduce or curtail driving on streets and freeways. Scientists fixed the major portion of blame of the four million vehicles which daily use the vast network of freeways in the Los Angeles area.

In an angry exchange of telegrams, Yorty charged Brown with delaying smog control measures, and Brown retorted that it was the first time Yorty was "showing an interest in the work the state has been doing to ease the smog problem in Los Angeles."

WITH DAUGHTER—Former Mill Valleyan Max Bootzin, 82, gets a guiding hand from his daughter, Mrs. Adeline Rodriguez of San Francisco, as he enters utility office in Mill Valley to cut off gas and electricity at the Robertson Terrace home he formerly shared with two young women. He filed suit against the women yesterday, charging they had swindled him out of $120,000 worth of money and property through insincere vows of affection.

cash and mortgaged his apartment house for $30,000. He now owns an apartment house where he lives in San Francisco as well as one in Oakland and the Mill Valley home.

Asked who was to blame, Bootzin replied that "it is Jesus's fault."

"I always read in the bible that Jesus said if you give them one cheek, give them the other. I will try to be like Jesus, I said. I will try and give them more and more."

But when Miss Klenman got the money, "she threw me out," he declared. "I gave them four lots. After that, she wrote a dirty letter to my boy in Los Angeles that I'm a stingy guy.

"Charmaine is my girl. She said she was going to marry me."

He explained that he met Miss Klenman after his wife, Minnie, died five years ago. Miss Klenman lived in his apartment house on 14th Avenue in San Francisco and declined to pay the rent, said Bootzin.

"I told her to go. But I didn't demand rent payment when she said she would marry me."

Bootzin said he moved to Mill Valley in 1960 and lived one year with Charmaine before she told him to leave. He then moved to San Francisco.

The partially blind widower reminisced about his late wife, known to Mill Valleyans as "Mushka, the Russian."

Long-haired, she used to wear bright jackets and peddle pushers rolled part way up, and would walk up and down Mount Tamalpais collecting flowers.

"Everyone liked her," said Bootzin.

Mrs. Rodriguez, who lives in San Francisco, said she had long warned her father about the situation.

"She will wrap you around her finger," Mrs. Rodriguez recalled telling her father.

"I paid for gas, light and utilities and I paid everything," said Bootzin sadly. "She said things would be good. It was not good."

"This is a lesson for another one," he added. "Not to take things from an old man."

Jewels, Pistol Taken From Home

Jewelry worth $2,385 and a fully-loaded automatic pistol were stolen yesterday from the home of Dean M. Nelson, 403 Jewell Street, San Rafael, police reported today.

The theft was reported by Nelson a few minutes after he returned home at 7 p.m. last night.

Police said the thief entered through an unlocked side door into a backyard. A rear door window also was smashed.

Inside, a fire safe was pried open to reach its contents of wrist watches and rings. The pistol was taken from Nelson's bedroom, he told officers.

Battery Run Down, But Cycle Stolen

In spite of the fact that his black and gray Honda motorcycle had a dead battery, Robert B. Bales of 811 Hacienda Road, Santa Venetia, complained to sheriff's officers yesterday, it proved no protection against theft.

Somebody stole it from in front of his home, he said.

FBI Claimed To Know Of Cannon Sale

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—A gun dealer who sold two anti-tank guns which might have been used in a $400,000 robbery in Syracuse, N.Y., said today he had kept the FBI informed throughout on the sale.

Johnny Richards, 39, owner of the Potomac Arms Co., said he checked with police and the FBI last March 30 when a man sought to purchase the guns.

He said the man gave his name as John Finch and address as 620 Oronoco, Alexandria. He said police told him there was no such address.

Richards telephoned the FBI and said he was told not to refuse to make the sale, but to stall until the next day.

He did, the man returned, paid $99.95 each for two anti-tank guns and bought ammunition for them. Later, two men went to the Railway Express Agency here and shipped crates they said contained machine parts to Plattsburgh, N.Y. Police were notified there.

Sometime early on April 8, someone broke into the company's office and stole what apparently were the guns.

At FBI headquarters, a spokesman said the department had no comment.

tor seek a new man for the job, and said he was disappointed the other members could not be present to discuss the action.

"This particular position has been an extremely controversial one," he said. "Certain comments have been made . . . I do not want to be subjected to comments of bias regarding this."

Lawrence commented that: "We want a new building inspector as soon as possible. I am not biased in any sense of the word. I do what I think is best despite what people say . . . or write."

Sumbardo told Souza an outline of specific duties for the building inspector had already been drawn up so there would be no conflict between any phases of the job.

"There were times our lines of communication were fogged, that's for sure," said Souza.

Last night's action gave Sumbardo permission to seek a new man at a salary rate of $556 to $676—higher than the proposed $550 salary which had been a bone of contention in this year's budget sessions.

Pagni said he was disturbed about this, although he went along with the vote.

Sumbardo replied that it would be necessary to pay the prevailing rate in order to hire a new man.

HOMECOMING QUEEN CHOSEN

All was happiness when Karen Goldberg was crowned queen of San Rafael High School's homecoming at half-time ceremonies during last night's game between San Rafael and Sir Francis Drake High School. The smiles disappeared later, however, as Drake won 34-7. For details of the game, see page. 21

Federal Vote Signup Pace Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal examiners were on their way to 12 more deep south counties today under orders from Atty. Gen. Nicholas B. Katzenbach to speed registration of Negro voters before next year's primary elections.

Acting after complaints from civil rights leaders that he was moving too slowly to enforce the new Voting Rights Act, Katzenbach deplored slowdown tactics of southern officials.

He sent examiners to South Carolina for the first time and listed additional counties in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana where he has found interference with registration of Negroes. They will open their offices early next week.

In an implied warning to other southern voting officials, the attorney general said:

"In evaluating compliance with the Voting Rights Act, we look for full compliance — not only the suspension of unlawful literacy tests, but the provision of reasonable access to new applicants."

Goldstein Condition Said Still Critical

Publicist Peter L. Goldstein, 31, of San Anselmo remained in critical condition today at Marin General Hospital with severe head injuries suffered in a freak auto accident Oct. 19 on the Waldo Grade.

Hospital officials said Goldstein, of 26 Carlson Court, still was only occasionally able to respond when spoken to.

inches, at a cost of perhaps $20,000. Filling the ditch and leaving the street as he found it would cost about $3,000, he said.

Usher claimed that the street was damaged during the work by the contractor, and that it must be repaired before a city project to widen the street to four lanes and resurface it can be started.

The contractor claimed the sanitary district has, so far, backed him in the matter. He admitted he orally agreed to fix the street to the town's satisfaction several weeks ago, when a broken water main caused large cracks to form.

But, Kirkwood added today, he did not think such a large change would be asked.

Usher said the entire matter will probably come up before the town council at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, although it is not on the agenda.

WITH DAUGHTER—Former Mill Valleyan Max Bootzin, 82, gets a guiding hand from his daughter, Mrs. Adeline Rodriguez of San Francisco, as he enters utility office in Mill Valley to cut off gas and electricity at the Robertson Terrace home he formerly shared with two young women. He filed suit against the women yesterday, charging they had swindled him out of $120,000 worth of money and property through insincere vows of affection.

cash and mortgaged his apartment house for $30,000. He now owns an apartment house where he lives in San Francisco as well as one in Oakland and the Mill Valley home.

Asked who was to blame, Bootzin replied that "it is Jesus's fault."

"I always read in the bible that Jesus said if you give them one cheek, give them the other. I will try to be like Jesus, I said. I will try and give them more and more."

But when Miss Klenman got the money, "she threw me out," he declared. "I gave them four lots. After that, she wrote a dirty letter to my boy in Los Angeles that I'm a stingy guy.

"Charmaine is my girl. She said she was going to marry me."

He explained that he met Miss Klenman after his wife, Minnie, died five years ago. Miss Klenman lived in his apartment house on 14th Avenue in San Francisco and declined to pay the rent, said Bootzin.

"I told her to go. But I didn't demand rent payment when she said she would marry me."

Bootzin said he moved to Mill Valley in 1960 and lived one year with Charmaine before she told him to leave. He then moved to San Francisco.

The partially blind widower reminisced about his late wife, known to Mill Valleyans as "Mushka, the Russian."

Long-haired, she used to wear bright jackets and peddle pushers rolled part way up, and would walk up and down Mount Tamalpais collecting flowers.

"Everyone liked her," said Bootzin.

Mrs. Rodriguez, who lives in San Francisco, said she had long warned her father about the situation.

"She will wrap you around her finger," Mrs. Rodriguez recalled telling her father.

"I paid for gas, light and utilities and I paid everything," said Bootzin sadly. "She said things would be good. It was not good."

"This is a lesson for another one," he added. "Not to take things from an old man."

Jewels, Pistol Taken From Home

Jewelry worth $2,385 and a fully-loaded automatic pistol were stolen yesterday from the home of Dean M. Nelson, 403 Jewell Street, San Rafael, police reported today.

The theft was reported by Nelson a few minutes after he returned home at 7 p.m. last night.

Police said the thief entered through an unlocked side door into a backyard. A rear door window also was smashed.

Inside, a fire safe was pried open to reach its contents of wrist watches and rings. The pistol was taken from Nelson's bedroom, he told officers.

Battery Run Down, But Cycle Stolen

In spite of the fact that his black and gray Honda motorcycle had a dead battery, Robert B. Bales of 811 Hacienda Road, Santa Venetia, complained to sheriff's officers yesterday, it proved no protection against theft.

Somebody stole it from in front of his home, he said.

FBI Claimed To Know Of Cannon Sale

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—A gun dealer who sold two antitank guns which might have been used in a $400,000 robbery in Syracuse, N.Y., said today he had kept the FBI informed throughout on the sale.

Johnny Richards, 39, owner of the Potomac Arms Co., said he checked with police and the FBI last March 30 when a man sought to purchase the guns.

He said the man gave his name as John Finch and address as 620 Oronoco, Alexandria. He said police told him there was no such address.

Richards telephoned the FBI and said he was told not to refuse to make the sale, but to stall until the next day.

He did, the man returned, paid $99.95 each for two antitank guns and bought ammunition for them. Later, two men went to the Railway Express Agency here and shipped crates they said contained machine parts to Plattsburgh, N.Y. Police were notified there.

Sometime early on April 8, someone broke into the company's office and stole what apparently were the guns.

At FBI headquarters, a spokesman said the department had no comment.

tor seek a new man for the job, and said he was disappointed the other members could not be present to discuss the action.

"This particular position has been an extremely controversial one," he said. "Certain comments have been made . . . I do not want to be subjected to comments of bias regarding this."

Lawrence commented that: "We want a new building inspector as soon as possible. I am not biased in any sense of the word. I do what I think is best despite what people say . . . or write."

Sumbardo told Souza an outline of specific duties for the building inspector had already been drawn up so there would be no conflict between any phases of the job.

"There were times our lines of communication were fogged, that's for sure," said Souza.

Last night's action gave Sumbardo permission to seek a new man at a salary rate of $556 to $676—higher than the proposed $550 salary which had been a bone of contention in this year's budget sessions.

Pagni said he was disturbed about this, although he went along with the vote.

Sumbardo replied that it would be necessary to pay the prevailing rate in order to hire a new man.

Electric Scissors Are Praised, Extremely Easy On The Hands

By EUNICE FARMER

Thanks for sending your opinions of the electric scissors in answer to the letter written by Mrs. B. A. Most all of the letters praised the scissors, and very few found them unsatisfactory. It seems they are great for cutting several thicknesses of fabric, even fairly heavy fabric, but not too good for cutting very sheer, pully or stretch fabrics. We are warned to practice with them before using them as they are a little difficult to control because of the speed at which they operate.

They are extremely easy on your hands and for this reason are especially good for women with arthritis or any weakness in their hands. Be cautious, be accurate and most of all, be alert because you can't change your mind once you have cut!

Mrs. Everett L. Deason, Okawville, Ill., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for the following suggestion.

"If you made a belt of any type knit fabric or stretchy fabric, it would stretch too much if you constructed it in the conventional way. So instead, baste both edges of the fabric under to form the correct width. Then by placing the backing on top of the fabric while machine stitching, it won't stretch and the belt will turn out perfect every time."

I need your advice in regard to altering four lovely woolen suits given me by a friend. The suits, very expensive at one time, are out of style now because they are quite fitted at the waistline. I can't afford to take these suits to the dressmaker. Can you help me alter them so they will look more like today's style?

Mrs. A. M.

Dear Mrs. A. M:

I'm afraid you will be disappointed in me because I can't help you much with this project. Once a suit has been fitted in at the waistline, the darts and seams have also been clipped in order to curve in at the waist. You won't be able to let these seams and darts out because of the clippings and there isn't any other way to achieve a straight look to the jackets. You might be able to cut them short, just below the waistline and wear the jackets open like a bolero jacket. Just hang on to them, who knows when we will be going back to that style again!

I have two teen-age girls, and it seems that I am constantly taking in or letting out their skirts. Every time I have to alter them I have to remove and replace the zipper. Surely there is a better way of altering the side seams of a skirt. Please help!

Mrs. J. K.

Dear Mrs. J. K.:

I will share the solution I used when I was sewing for my girls and, as you say, "spending all my time altering." Once they know how a skirt should fit, they aren't satisfied with anything else. Try putting the zipper into the center back seam instead of the side seam. The procedure is just the same and the side seams will be free to take up or let out without having to replace the zipper.

When you requested letters about things that annoy seamstresses, I decided to write to you. I would gladly pay twice as much for the thread I use if I could depend on the quality. I have so much trouble with thread breaking I told my local store and got the reply, "The thread just isn't the same as it used to be." What an answer! If anything, it should be better. It is the thread and not the sewing machine because I just had the machine put into perfect order.

Mrs. R. W. B.

Dear Mrs. R. W. B.:

Yours is not the first letter I have received about the quality of thread. I have checked with the thread companies, and they do claim that the quality is better than ever, so who knows where the problem is. If enough of you write to me and tell me the problems you are having concerning thread, I will be more than happy to be the middle man and take them to the proper sources for immediate action. Write me and let's see what can be done!

Eightieth Birthday Marked With Ignacio Dinner Party

Special festivities marked the 80th birthday of Mrs. Eudora Codoni of San Rafael, who has taken an active part in community affairs in Marin County for the past 50 years.

Fifty friends, neighbors and family members were invited to celebrate the occasion at a dinner party at Nero's Restaurant in Ignacio by Mrs. Codoni's children, Miss Edwina Codoni, Mrs. Josephine Leary and Fred Codoni. She is the widow of the late Joseph Codoni of San Rafael.

Her son, who had just returned from a vacation in Hawaii, brought a lei of carnations, anthuriums, and orchids for the honoree. An old friend, Miss Alvina Lopez of Honolulu, attended the party.

Decor of gold and blue was used. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fracchia of Santa Rosa made a three tiered cake for the 80th birthday fete.

The Rev. John Dwyer, of Gilroy, long-time family friend, and the Rev. Thomas Kennedy of St. Raphael's Church, were present. Warren Crane was master of ceremonies at the birthday tribute.

Mrs. Codoni is a past grand president of the Catholic Ladies Aid Society, a founder of the Marin Music Chest, served as secretary for the San Rafael Tree committee for 15 years, and was secretary of the Grand Jury in 1929. She was the first P-TA president in San Rafael, a past president of the National Council of Catholic Women, and is a charter member of the Social Service Auxiliary of Marin County.

Currently Mrs. Codoni is the financial secretary of the Young Ladies Institute, is on the board of Neighbors of Woodcraft and active in the Catholic Daughters of America.

The future bridegroom is a graduate of El Cerrito High School and expects to be graduated from the University of Nevada in January. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He is the brother of John Rossi, a student at the University of California.

The young people will be married in January and will live in Reno.

Presidents Assembly Sees Need For Scholarships

Not generally realized is the great need for scholarships and loan funds among college students in Marin the Presidents Assembly of Marin believes.

The Assembly is composed of past presidents of Marin women's clubs affiliated with the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

One of its most important projects is its scholarship program.

"Since its founding in 1936, the Assembly has awarded a scholarship each year from funds contributed by members of the federated women's clubs in Marin," said Mrs. William McKay, current Assembly president.

"Additional funds are raised through such projects as luncheons and white elephants sales. The last students to receive scholarships were Maureen Purcell, who is in the field of nursing, and Katherine De Brett, who is a pre-medical student. Both were College of Marin honor students."

Mrs. Paul Hammer, scholarship chairman, described some of the reasons for the program.

"Because the Junior College District is by law prohibited from contributing directly to the financial support of its students, it must look to individuals and groups in the community," she explained.

"There is a critical shortage at the College of Marin of scholarship and loan funds. Enrollment increased 80 per cent in two years, but funds have remained the same.

"More than 50 per cent of the students find it necessary to combine study and a job. Some 15 per cent, in fact, work 20 or more hours a week. This is in the face of the fact that students carrying a normal study program should put in approximately 40 hours or the equivalent of a full-time job in out-of-class study.

"Of those students who drop out of college in mid-semester, 40 per cent do so for financial reasons. Many are the most capable students.

"Most crucial need in the scholarship and loan program," she pointed out, is for expansion in the number and amount of book scholarships to cover books, supplies and other incidentals (average cost is $50 per semester), and for scholarships at graduation. These help relieve extreme financial pressure on College of Marin transfer students during their first year at a four-year institution."

Women's clubs who have contributed to this program in Marin are the San Rafael Improvement Club, Larkspur Women's Club, Outdoor Art Club, Fairfax Women's Club, Tamalpais Centre Women's Club, Sausalito Woman's Club and Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, she said.

Other current officers of the Marin Presidents Assembly are Mesdames Albert Heston, vice president; Leslie Cowen, secretary; Donald A. Denton, treasurer; W. A. Fusselman, auditor; Richard D. Hardin, publicity; and Russell C. Mills, historian.

Marin League Members Assist In Planning For Conference

By MOLLY MARIN

Junior League members from Marin will be taking an active part in the combined Regional Meeting, which will find 120 league delegates from Arizona, California, New Mexico, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Western Canada convening Tuesday for a three day session at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, San Francisco.

TO DANCE AGAIN — David R. White, 11, of Corte Madera, was portrayed in this photo as he rehearsed last year for an appearance with a leading Soviet ballet troupe. Now, the boy is scheduled to appear with another European group, the Royal Danish ballet. He will be one of three children appearing in performances of the ballet "Coppelia," which is set in a toy shop. (Independent-Journal photo)

Marin Boy To Dance With Danish Ballet

Last November, 11 - year - old David R. White of Corte Madera danced with Russians. Now he is going to appear with the Royal Danish Ballet.

White, known as Rocky to his friends and family, has been chosen to appear three times next weekend with the ballet in its performance of the ballet "Coppelia" by Louis Merante.

His mother, Mrs. Ralph White of 263 Morningside Drive, said the youngster won the role without a tryout, partly because he made an impression on San Francisco dance teacher Carolyn Parks and partly because there is a shortage of boys who can dance well.

Mrs. Parks teaches youngsters for San Francisco's Pacific Ballet. After seing David in the Marin Civic Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" last December, she invited him to appear in the ballet in San Francisco.

She apparently liked what he did, because when the Danish troupe asked her to supply three youngsters for "Coppelia," she thought of Rocky.

Mrs. Parks called the youngster's teacher, Mrs. Leona Norman of San Rafael, who in turn talked to David's father. The family left it up to him to decide whether he wanted the part. Over the breakfast table yesterday, he said he did.

He will appear in a Nov. 6 matinee and two performances the next day.

Fresno Police Arrest Suspect In Theft Case

Teddy Richard Schneider, 19-year-old Fresno youth facing five counts of burglary in Marin County last July, was in county jail here yesterday after his arrest by Fresno police on a bench warrant.

Bail is $5,000.

Schneider, Bryan Richard Lindelli, of 60 Tamalpais Avenue, San Anselmo, and an 18-year-old companion are charged with burglaries of the homes of John A. Kneelen, 319 Goodhill Road, Kentfield; Alyce Conradi, 110 Evergreen Drive, Kentfield; Billie C. Mills, 81 Handerly Road, San Rafael, and Paul L. Larson, 81 Brentwood Drive, San Rafael.

In addition, the 18-year-old, whose case was transferred to juvenile court, and Schneider are charged with burglary of Honda of Marin, 1542 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Mill Valley Sets Talk On Marina

Mill Valley city councilmen will consider a six-month option by Paul B. Fischer and associates of Corona Del Mar, Orange County, on a $3 million plan to privately develop the city's yacht harbor at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday in city hall.

The plan, already enthusiastically received by councilmen in a "workshop session" Oct. 9, would provide 350 boat slips, shopping mall, club and restaurant.

The council will hold a hearing on the proposed planned unit development and subdivision map of William S. Allen for a 15-unit single family development in Blithedale Canyon. It is also expected to discuss the garbage franchise of Mill Valley Refuse Co. and a report on underground utilities in Scott Highlands by Councilman Albert E. White.

DRAMA REVIEW

Grand Larceny Seen In 'Juno, Paycock'

By KARL BARRON

Two expert larcenists made off with last night's opening performance of Sean O'Casey's "Juno And The Paycock" at Sausalito Little Theatre, although this Irish drama is not the production that last season's "The Hostage" was.

The potential is here, however.

"Juno" will be repeated tonight at 8:30 and on Friday December 4.

The larceny of Jessie Diffley and Bill Sweeney was nothing so petty as scene-stealing. They simply outshone the rest like a couple of incandescent lights beside the oil lamps of the set, nicely designed and lighted by Lavonne Bain.

Nipping a man-sized drink, telling a long-winded story, breaking into song and finally descending on "Captain" Jack Boyle in full Irish fury, Miss Diffley gave a virtuoso performance as Maisie Madigan.

Sweeney's "Joxer" Daly was seemingly unacted. His involvement was total, his humor sly, his counterpoint of Dion Chesse's "Captain" flawless.

Plagued by line uncertainty, the cast under John King's direction managed to maintain a good pace, but the balance of power in the characters seemed to end other than the way O'Casey intended them.

In this story of lazy, malingering Boyle's efforts to avoid working for a living, set against the terroristic background of the 1922 IRA revolt, Juno (Adelaide Roberts) is obviously the dominant character. It is she who calls the turns throughout, while Boyle dances to her call—except in the second act, when an inheritance has raised his status to that of true master of the house.

Miss Roberts was more mouse than turn-caller, and seldom dominated Chesse's rascally Captain, although she showed good power in her final scene.

Cheese appeared to be working harder than necessary to achieve Boyle's bumbling, lying, guzzling charm. His characterization should settle down to a thing of joy by tonight.

Tom Littlefield as Jerry Devine seemed to be working toward a character which did not quite make it, but should solidify, while Ann Rhine did a very effective bit as the mother whose son has been found riddled with bullets.

As Mary, the daughter of the Boyle family, Barbara Higgins had trouble keeping her accent in gear, as well as emotional gearshifting troubles, while Ian Frankenstein as crippled brother Johnny was in the main totally unintelligible. (In fairness to the actor, my companion said she has never been able to understand what the character says. Perhaps O'Casey wrote it that way.)

As the "Captain" put it, "the world is in chaysus" — chaos, that is.

Expansion At Bridge Approved

A $300,000 expansion of the Golden Gate Bridge Administration Building was approved yesterday by bridge district directors.

Directors approved plans and specifications for the project and authorized general manager James Adam to call for bids.

The plan calls for the building located at the bridge toll plaza to be extended 114 feet to the north of its present location.

It would contain 4,500 square feet of additional office space and will have a redesigned, sound proof meeting room for bridge directors.

Director Dan E. London of San Francisco, chairman of the bridge's building and operating committee, said $100,000 in electrical work would be required in addition to the $300,000 in the building expansion.

Bridge directors also followed a recommendation of the same committee to give the present tenants of the Round House Restaurant 30 days notice to move out by Dec. 1.

They authorized London to work with Adam in seeking proposals from firms which might be interested in operating the restaurant on a month to month basis until the future of the restaurant is determined.

Samuel H. DeLisle is executive director and manager of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors of Marin-Sonoma-Mendocino counties.

Slide Showing Set

Clara Belle Hamilton of Larkspur will discuss and show slides of her recent European tour before the American Assn. of Retired Persons, Marin Chapter, at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 6, at the First Methodist Church of San Rafael, Ross Valley Drive and Miracle Mile.

Mill Valley Sets Talk On Marina

Mill Valley city councilmen will consider a six-month option by Paul B. Fischer and associates of Corona Del Mar, Orange County, on a $3 million plan to privately develop the city's yacht harbor at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday in city hall.

The plan, already enthusiastically received by councilmen in a "workshop session" Oct. 9, would provide 350 boat slips, shopping mall, club and restaurant.

The council will hold a hearing on the proposed planned unit development and subdivision map of William S. Allen for a 15-unit single family development in Blithedale Canyon. It is also expected to discuss the garbage franchise of Mill Valley Refuse Co. and a report on underground utilities in Scott Highlands by Councilman Albert E. White.

DRAMA REVIEW

Grand Larceny Seen In 'Juno, Paycock'

By KARL BARRON

Two expert larcenists made off with last night's opening performance of Sean O'Casey's "Juno And The Paycock" at Sausalito Little Theatre, although this Irish drama is not the production that last season's "The Hostage" was.

The potential is here, however.

"Juno" will be repeated tonight at 8:30 and on Friday December 4.

The larceny of Jessie Diffley and Bill Sweeney was nothing so petty as scene-stealing. They simply outshone the rest like a couple of incandescent lights beside the oil lamps of the set, nicely designed and lighted by Lavonne Bain.

Nipping a man-sized drink, telling a long-winded story, breaking into song and finally descending on "Captain" Jack Boyle in full Irish fury, Miss Diffley gave a virtuoso performance as Maisie Madigan.

Sweeney's "Joxer" Daly was seemingly unacted. His involvement was total, his humor sly, his counterpoint of Dion Chesse's "Captain" flawless.

Plagued by line uncertainty, the cast under John King's direction managed to maintain a good pace, but the balance of power in the characters seemed to end other than the way O'Casey intended them.

In this story of lazy, malingering Boyle's efforts to avoid working for a living, set against the terroristic background of the 1922 IRA revolt, Juno (Adelaide Roberts) is obviously the dominant character. It is she who calls the turns throughout, while Boyle dances to her call—except in the second act, when an inheritance has raised his status to that of true master of the house.

Miss Roberts was more mouse than turn-caller, and seldom dominated Chesse's rascally Captain, although she showed good power in her final scene.

Cheese appeared to be working harder than necessary to achieve Boyle's bumbling, lying, guzzling charm. His characterization should settle down to a thing of joy by tonight.

Tom Littlefield as Jerry Devine seemed to be working toward a character which did not quite make it, but should solidify, while Ann Rhine did a very effective bit as the mother whose son has been found riddled with bullets.

As Mary, the daughter of the Boyle family, Barbara Higgins had trouble keeping her accent in gear, as well as emotional gearshifting troubles, while Ian Frankenstein as crippled brother Johnny was in the main totally unintelligible. (In fairness to the actor, my companion said she has never been able to understand what the character says. Perhaps O'Casey wrote it that way.)

As the "Captain" put it, "the world is in chaysus" — chaos, that is.

Expansion At Bridge Approved

A $300,000 expansion of the Golden Gate Bridge Administration Building was approved yesterday by bridge district directors.

Directors approved plans and specifications for the project and authorized general manager James Adam to call for bids.

The plan calls for the building located at the bridge toll plaza to be extended 114 feet to the north of its present location.

It would contain 4,500 square feet of additional office space and will have a redesigned, sound proof meeting room for bridge directors.

Director Dan E. London of San Francisco, chairman of the bridge's building and operating committee, said $100,000 in electrical work would be required in addition to the $300,000 in the building expansion.

Bridge directors also followed a recommendation of the same committee to give the present tenants of the Round House Restaurant 30 days notice to move out by Dec. 1.

They authorized London to work with Adam in seeking proposals from firms which might be interested in operating the restaurant on a month to month basis until the future of the restaurant is determined.

Samuel H. DeLisle is executive director and manager of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors of Marin-Sonoma-Mendocino counties.

Student To Have Practical Ministry

By STEPHEN COOK

Last April, William E. Thomas, 29, and others who shared his beliefs, made daily marches on the town of Camden, Ala. Their goal was the Negro's right to vote.

That demonstration is finished, the voting rights bill has been passed by Congress and Thomas is in San Anselmo, arming himself for a new campaign for the rights of Negro people.

Thomas lives with his wife and four children at 108 Ross Avenue, San Anselmo, and is studying at San Francisco Theological Seminary for his bachelor of divinity degree.

He wants to be ordained a minister of the Presbyterian Church, then return to the South to provide the Negro there the practical leadership he thinks the church should, but often does not, offer.

Thomas taught in a Presbyterian mission school, financed by the church and Wilcox County, in Mills Ferry, nine miles from Camden.

He thinks he probably would have gone to a seminary one day, but credits a group of students from the seminary in San Anselmo, who came to Camden to demonstrate last spring, with his enrollment here.

"The students who came South influenced me a whole lot," he said. "I felt I should be in the company of people who know the church's place is out in the world."

The church's place in society is of major concern to Thomas. He complains of such things as too much emotionalism in the Negro's religion.

"The Negro just cannot hide behind emotionalism and superstition any more," he said. Thomas claims minister preach too much of the "spiritual" and not enough of the practical life.

The "God's going to take care of you" approach is not right for the Negro people, he said. "They don't talk about what you can do today but what's going to come."

Thomas' education is paid for by the Presbyterian Church. Living expenses are taken care of by his part time job in the seminary cafeteria and his wife, Barbara's job as a switchboard operator in San Rafael.

When his three years at the seminary are up, they will head back to the South, preferably to a small town.

"Leadership is very badly needed there, especially in the small towns," he says. "People in those towns are the worst off because they are in need of an education."

Though the southern churches have been rallying points for several major civil rirghts demonstrations in the South, Thomas does not think the church is doing its part. Its worst offense, he said, is silence.

"Some ministers won't speak up for civil rights," he says. "Others are cautious and keep telling us to stay out and study the movement until we really know what's happening.

Thomas thinks one of the southern ministers' worst problems "is that he does not know enough about government and politics to give the people any real help."

He does think there has been progress since the civil rights movement began.

"There are signs. They are opening up more jobs now. I think they are realizing you just can't hold people down anymore," he said.

ALABAMA STUDENT—William E. Thomas came from Alabama to study at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. He wants to become a minister and sees his duty as taking an active part in the community and civil rights work.

Lutheran Asks Change In Habits Of Africans

ADDIS ABABA—Delegates to the third All-Africa Lutheran Conference here heard a strong plea for less church discipline and more personal pastoral counselling, especially in problems of sex and marriage.

"What is needed in Africa are not church disciplinarians but marriage counsellors," declared Rev. Walter Robisch.

To deal with polygamy, adultery and other kinds of sexual "misconduct," the churches ought to provide the people of this continent with "not excommunicators but confessors," emphasized the German clergyman, who is on study leave from service in the American Lutheran Mission in Cameroun.

Rev. Trobisch, who conducts a "Marriage Guidance Service for Africa" by mail from his furlough home in Mannheim, Germany, told the conference that "church discipline means to go and to win, not to wait and to judge," the Lutheran press reported.

In keeping with his own affirmation that "in a concrete situation, general principles are not enough—we need a message tailored for each individual," he dedicated most of a plenary session paper to a pastoral analysis of three actual cases in which he was able to give premarital or marriage counsel.

Among the problems he dealt with was that of many African husbands' understanding of their wives' role in marriage as an inferior one.

"This conception of marriage," according to Rev. Trobisch, "is not only based on a wrong and inaccurate biology, but it is also not in accordance with the New Testamenrt which conceives of husband and wife as equal partners before God."

In Africa, he asserted, "there will be no free nations unless there are free couple, and there will be no free couples unless the wife grows into a true partnership with her husband."

Chaplain Keeps His Promise

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Walt Hiskett made a promise to God, and he kept it.

Hiskett, a native of Chicago, was wounded in the Korean War during the battle of the Chosin Reservoir in November 1950. He asked God to spare his life, and promised to serve Him in any way he could.

Hiskett was 20 years old then and a Marine sergeant. Today, he is a Navy lieutenant serving with the Marine Corps as a chaplain in the same battalion he served with during the Korean War as a squad leader — the 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines.

Hiskett, 35, spent three years as a construction worker in Chicago to save enough money to finance him through Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

From Wittenberg, he went on to the Chicago Lutheran Seminary where he received a bachelor of divinity degree in May 1961.

He volunteered for service in Viet Nam.

His wife, Marilynn, and two children reside in San Diego.

Hiskett lives in a tent in a valley about 15 miles southwest of Qui Nhon, and frequently goes up into the hills, where the Marines have their defensive perimeters, to visit the frontline men.

"In serving with the Marines, I feel it's some kind of asmall token of repayment for the blessing that I received at the reservoir," he said.

"Our company was surrounded at Chosin Reservoir for six days. I got wounded on the first day. We thought the wounded would be evacuated. One helicopter came to evacuate us, but it was under sniper fire and had to take off before they could get any wounded to the chopper.

"On the third day, I was getting in bad shape with pain and I went back to the aid tent. That night the Chinese attacked again.

"I made special petitions for my life. I asked God to save me and keep me from being killed and to help the Marines push back the enemy.

"On the sixth day, one of the companies broke through to us from the forward elements."

Choir, Brass In Reformation Observance

The choir of San Francisco Theological Seminary, and a brass trio will join the chancel choir of First Presbyterian Church, San Anselmo, in music to observe reformation day tomorrow at the church's 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

The music will be drawn entirely from the reformation period, beginning with the prelude, Johann Sebastian Bach's setting of the chorale "Sleepers Awake." Trumpets and organ will join for the introit fanfare on "Praise Ye the Lord," also by Bach.

MONT ST. MICHEL — One hundred years ago Benedictine monks came to this island off the coast of France. Today it is best known as a tourist focal point, but monks this year are helping to point out the religious meaning of the island.
(AP Wirephoto)

Abbey Having Its 100th Anniversary

MONT ST. MICHEL, France (UPI — Commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the coming of Benedictine monks to this holy island is being carried on by 20 monks.

Mont St. Michel towers 300 feet above the sea off Britany on coast of France. The historic abbey which tops it is a landmark visible for miles.

The black-robed Benedictines from the monastery of St. Wandrille, near Rouen, and their white-robed brothers from Bec Hellouin walked a path to the island hallowed by tens of thousands of pilgrims, over tidal mud flats and quicksand patches in which many have been swallowed up by inrushing tides during the past 10 centuries.

According to tradition, the Mount became a Christian place of worship after Saint Michael appeared three times in the dreams of Saint Aubert, the bishop of nearby Avranches, in the year 708.

For more than 200 years a college of 12 canons founded by Saint Aubert managed the mountaintop shrine.

In the winter of 965-966 A.D., Richard I, Duke of Normandy, replaced the canyons with Benedictine monks from St. Wandrille and Monte Cassino, Italy.

Members of the same order maintained the monastery, fighting off military sieges by the British but finally succumbing to their own desires for a non-Spartan life. The French Revolution turned their hilltop haven into a prison for recalcitrant religious figures and nobles in 1793.

Philosopher Says There Is Intellectual Basis For God

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Is it possible to believe in God on purely intellectual grounds?

Many theologians would say no. Religious thought today is dominated by the assumption that God is beyond the reach of human intelligence and can be known only as He takes the initiative in revealing Himself.

This view is vigorously challenged by Michael Novak, a brilliant young philosopher on the faculty of Stanford University, in a new book entitled, "Belief and Unbelief."

Novak argues that man can arrive at belief in God without making a "leap of faith" and without depending on the authority of any religious revelation, simply by reflecting upon his own experience and identity.

Looking inward at his own deepest nature, Novak says, man finds himself gripped by "a drive to understand," a basic hunger to make sense out of the world in which he lives.

This drive to understand is unlimited. It is not satisfied with explanations of the way things work in the physical universe. Nor does it stop with asking how the universe came into being.

It wants to know, ultimately, "why should anything exist at all?"

Behind the quest for understanding, Novak says, is a deep human intuition that what is real must be intelligible.

"It does not make sense to say that the real just happens; for then the real is radically unintelligible.

"If . . . there is not a God, then the intelligible just happens; it is of itself unintelligible."

He contends the thoughtful man is led to believe in God as the "source of the intelligible."

"We conclude that there is a God, and that his existence and power explain why the real is intelligible, and why our drive to understand is as it is."

In this concept, God is "not an explanation among explanations, but the explantion of why there are explanations."

He is "the source of active understanding in man and of intelligibility in things . . . the prompter of the drive to understand and its fulfillment."

Although a purely intellectual belief in God's existence is more satisfying than unbelief as a basis for organizing one's life, Novak says, man hungers for more than the mere knowledge that God is.

"To believe in God is not to accept the conclusion of a deduction . . . It is, above all, to enter into a conversation with that God, not through words so much as through words so much as through the direction of one's attention.

"To come to believe is to begin to pray," Novak says. "To come to recognize God is to become aware of standing in a conscious presence; it is to stand in silent, wordless communication; and this is prayer."

Pastors Switch For The Day

Rev. Edwin C. Gomke, pastor of the newly formed United Church of Christ in Novato and Rev. Benton S. Gaskell, pastor of the Belvedere-Tiburon Community Congregational Church, will exchange places tomorrow.

Each will be at the otherr's church with Rev. Gomke speaking on "The Christian Image in Today's World." Rev. Gaskell's sermon will be "Thinking Small."

Pastor Appeals For Clothing

Chinle Indians on their reservation in Arizona urgently need adult, youth and children's clothing and shoes, Rev. Joseph Ray, formerly of Fairfax, reports.

Rev. Ray is pastor of two small Seventh Day Adventist churches in Arizona and has appealed to church members in Fairfax for aid. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ray.

Clothing will be picekd up by local congregation members if donors will telephone Ralph R. Ellis of 4 Liberty Street, Larkspur.

Student To Have Practical Ministry

By STEPHEN COOK

Last April, William E. Thomas, 29, and others who shared his beliefs, made daily marches on the town of Camden, Ala. Their goal was the Negro's right to vote.

That demonstration is finished, the voting rights bill has been passed by Congress and Thomas is in San Anselmo, arming himself for a new campaign for the rights of Negro people.

Thomas lives with his wife and four children at 108 Ross Avenue, San Anselmo, and is studying at San Francisco Theological Seminary for his bachelor of divinity degree.

He wants to be ordained a minister of the Presbyterian Church, then return to the South to provide the Negro there the practical leadership he thinks the church should, but often does not, offer.

Thomas taught in a Presbyterian mission school, financed by the church and Wilcox County, in Mills Ferry, nine miles from Camden.

He thinks he probably would have gone to a seminary one day, but credits a group of students from the seminary in San Anselmo, who came to Camden to demonstrate last spring, with his enrollment here.

"The students who came South influenced me a whole lot," he said. "I felt I should be in the company of people who know the church's place is out in the world."

The church's place in society is of major concern to Thomas. He complains of such things as too much emotionalism in the Negro's religion.

"The Negro just cannot hide behind emotionalism and superstition any more," he said. Thomas claims minister preach too much of the "spiritual" and not enough of the practical life.

The "God's going to take care of you" approach is not right for the Negro people, he said. "They don't talk about what you can do today but what's going to come."

Thomas' education is paid for by the Presbyterian Church. Living expenses are taken care of by his part time job in the seminary cafeteria and his wife, Barbara's job as a switchboard operator in San Rafael.

When his three years at the seminary are up, they will head back to the South, preferably to a small town.

"Leadership is very badly needed there, especially in the small towns," he says. "People in those towns are the worst off because they are in need of an education."

Though the southern churches have been rallying points for several major civil rirghts demonstrations in the South, Thomas does not think the church is doing its part. Its worst offense, he said, is silence.

"Some ministers won't speak up for civil rights," he says. "Others are cautious and keep telling us to stay out and study the movement until we really know what's happening.

Thomas thinks one of the southern ministers' worst problems "is that he does not know enough about government and politics to give the people any real help."

He does think there has been progress since the civil rights movement began.

"There are signs. They are opening up more jobs now. I think they are realizing you just can't hold people down anymore," he said.

Lutheran Asks Change In Habits Of Africans

ADDIS ABABA—Delegates to the third All-Africa Lutheran Conference here heard a strong plea for less church discipline and more personal pastoral counselling, especially in problems of sex and marriage.

"What is needed in Africa are not church disciplinarians but marriage counsellors," declared Rev. Walter Robisch.

To deal with polygamy, adultery and other kinds of sexual "misconduct," the churches ought to provide the people of this continent with "not excommunicators but confessors," emphasized the German clergyman, who is on study leave from service in the American Lutheran Mission in Cameroun.

Rev. Trobisch, who conducts a "Marriage Guidance Service for Africa" by mail from his furlough home in Mannheim, Germany, told the conference that "church discipline means to go and to win, not to wait and to judge," the Lutheran press reported.

In keeping with his own affirmation that "in a concrete situation, general principles are not enough—we need a message tailored for each individual," he dedicated most of a plenary session paper to a pastoral analysis of three actual cases in which he was able to give premarital or marriage counsel.

Among the problems he dealt with was that of many African husbands' understanding of their wives' role in marriage as an inferior one.

"This conception of marriage," according to Rev. Trobisch, "is not only based on a wrong and inaccurate biology, but it is also not in accordance with the New Testamenrt which conceives of husband and wife as equal partners before God."

In Africa, he asserted, "there will be no free nations unless there are free couple, and there will be no free couples unless the wife grows into a true partnership with her husband."

Chaplain Keeps His Promise

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Walt Hiskett made a promise to God, and he kept it.

Hiskett, a native of Chicago, was wounded in the Korean War during the battle of the Chosin Reservoir in November 1950. He asked God to spare his life, and promised to serve Him in any way he could.

Hiskett was 20 years old then and a Marine sergeant. Today, he is a Navy lieutenant serving with the Marine Corps as a chaplain in the same battalion he served with during the Korean War as a squad leader — the 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines.

Hiskett, 35, spent three years as a construction worker in Chicago to save enough money to finance him through Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

From Wittenberg, he went on to the Chicago Lutheran Seminary where he received a bachelor of divinity degree in May 1961.

He volunteered for service in Viet Nam.

His wife, Marilynn, and two children reside in San Diego.

Hiskett lives in a tent in a valley about 15 miles southwest of Qui Nhon, and frequently goes up into the hills, where the Marines have their defensive perimeters, to visit the frontline men.

"In serving with the Marines, I feel it's some kind of asmall token of repayment for the blessing that I received at the reservoir," he said.

"Our company was surrounded at Chosin Reservoir for six days. I got wounded on the first day. We thought the wounded would be evacuated. One helicopter came to evacuate us, but it was under sniper fire and had to take off before they could get any wounded to the chopper.

"On the third day, I was getting in bad shape with pain and I went back to the aid tent. That night the Chinese attacked again.

"I made special petitions for my life. I asked God to save me and keep me from being killed and to help the Marines push back the enemy.

"On the sixth day, one of the companies broke through to us from the forward elements."

Choir, Brass In Reformation Observance

The choir of San Francisco Theological Seminary, and a brass trio will join the chancel choir of First Presbyterian Church, San Anselmo, in music to observe reformation day tomorrow at the church's 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

The music will be drawn entirely from the reformation period, beginning with the prelude, Johann Sebastian Bach's setting of the chorale "Sleepers Awake." Trumpets and organ will join for the introit fanfare on "Praise Ye the Lord," also by Bach.

MONT ST. MICHEL — One hundred years ago Benedictine monks came to this island off the coast of France. Today it is best known as a tourist focal point, but monks this year are helping to point out the religious meaning of the island. (AP Wirephoto)

Abbey Having Its 100th Anniversary

MONT ST. MICHEL, France (UPI — Commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the coming of Benedictine monks to this holy island is being carried on by 20 monks.

Mont St. Michel towers 300 feet above the sea off Britany on coast of France. The historic abbey which tops it is a landmark visible for miles.

The black-robed Benedictines from the monastery of St. Wandrille, near Rouen, and their white-robed brothers from Bec Hellouin walked a path to the island hallowed by tens of thousands of pilgrims, over tidal mud flats and quicksand patches in which many have been swallowed up by inrushing tides during the past 10 centuries.

According to tradition, the Mount became a Christian place of worship after Saint Michael appeared three times in the dreams of Saint Aubert, the bishop of nearby Avranches, in the year 708.

For more than 200 years a college of 12 canons founded by Saint Aubert managed the mountaintop shrine.

In the winter of 965-966 A.D., Richard I, Duke of Normandy, replaced the canyons with Benedictine monks from St. Wandrille and Monte Cassino, Italy.

Members of the same order maintained the monastery, fighting off military sieges by the British but finally succumbing to their own desires for a non-Spartan life. The French Revolution turned their hilltop haven into a prison for recalcitrant religious figures and nobles in 1793.

Philosopher Says There Is Intellectual Basis For God

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Is it possible to believe in God on purely intellectual grounds?

Many theologians would say no. Religious thought today is dominated by the assumption that God is beyond the reach of human intelligence and can be known only as He takes the initiative in revealing Himself.

This view is vigorously challenged by Michael Novak, a brilliant young philosopher on the faculty of Stanford University, in a new book entitled, "Belief and Unbelief."

Novak argues that man can arrive at belief in God without making a "leap of faith" and without depending on the authority of any religious revelation, simply by reflecting upon his own experience and identity.

Looking inward at his own deepest nature, Novak says, man finds himself gripped by "a drive to understand," a basic hunger to make sense out of the world in which he lives.

This drive to understand is unlimited. It is not satisfied with explanations of the way things work in the physical universe. Nor does it stop with asking how the universe came into being.

It wants to know, ultimately, "why should anything exist at all?"

Behind the quest for understanding, Novak says, is a deep human intuition that what is real must be intelligible.

"It does not make sense to say that the real just happens; for then the real is radically unintelligible.

"If . . . there is not a God, then the intelligible just happens; it is of itself unintelligible."

He contends the thoughtful man is led to believe in God as the "source of the intelligible."

"We conclude that there is a God, and that his existence and power explain why the real is intelligible, and why our drive to understand is as it is."

In this concept, God is "not an explanation among explanations, but the explantion of why there are explanations."

He is "the source of active understanding in man and of intelligibility in things . . . the prompter of the drive to understand and its fulfillment."

Although a purely intellectual belief in God's existence is more satisfying than unbelief as a basis for organizing one's life, Novak says, man hungers for more than the mere knowledge that God is.

"To believe in God is not to accept the conclusion of a deduction . . . It is, above all, to enter into a conversation with that God, not through words so much as through words so much as through the direction of one's attention.

"To come to believe is to begin to pray," Novak says. "To come to recognize God is to become aware of standing in a conscious presence; it is to stand in silent, wordless communication; and this is prayer."

Courthouse Square Proposals Slated

The San Rafael City Council Monday will receive engineer Daniel P. Coleman's report on the future of the Marin County courthouse site.

The report is expected to be a major topic when the council meets at 8 p.m. Monday at city hall. It is 24th on a 25 item agenda.

Also on the agenda are proposals for the interior design of the new city hall, now under construction. A change order in the project also is slated for approval.

Councilmen will receive a report on how much it would cost to move the city recreation center from its present site at 37 Union Street.

Arden-Mayfair Inc. of Los Angeles, which recently bought the site for a supermarket, has offered to give the building to the city if the city will pay to move it. Councilmen fear this will cost too much.

Another report will deal with City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen's efforts to find new quarters for the center. It must be vacated by Nov. 19.

Public hearings will deal with downtown parking, the proposed "cluster" amendment to the zoning ordinance, extension of the downtown underground utilities district to the west, and an appeal of the city planning commission's turndown on the tentative map of a subdivision on the Redwood Highway.

Councilmen are expected to approve two street names: J. B. Rice Drive for a new street between Francisco Boulevard and DuBois Street; and Bahia Way for what is now called Bay Street, next to the site of the planned Bahia Vista elementary school.

Final adoption of two ordinances is scheduled. One puts into effect the long-discussed city slope policy; the other creates a finance department and spells out its director's duties.

Union Officer Hears Charge In News Row

Douglas A. Smith, 45, of San Jose, president of Mailers Union Local 18, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a complaint of trespassing signed by Harry H. Johnson, Marin Guide publisher.

Smith pleaded innocent before Judge Leonard A. Thomas. Trial by jury was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 30.

Smith was represented by Socrates Mamakos, San Francisco attorney.

He was booked in county jail Wednesday on a citizen's arrest by Johnson following a reported bombing of a room at 200 Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley where copies of the Marin Guide were being prepared for distribution. He is free on $110 bail.

Sheriff's officers and the district attorney's office are investigating possible arson in the incident.

Trespassing Verdict Means Fine Of $110

Clifford Albert Ghames, 32, was fined $110 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on his guilty plea to trespassing on property of W. W. Anderson on Frank Valley Road in Mount Tamalpais State Park last Aug. 10.

A second count of destroying state park property against Ghames, of 348 Montford Avenue, Mill Valley, was dismissed following his plea.

Tam Candy Sale Set

An all-school candy sale will be held from Monday through Nov. 16 at Tamalpais High School to raise money for the student body and individual classes. Prizes will be awarded to the most successful salesman in each class.

Span Directors Reject Cheaper Reflectors Bid

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday awarded a $2,789.80 contract to a New Jersey firm to supply reflective traffic lane markers for the bridge.

Stimsonite Signal Products Division of the Elastic Stop Nut Corp. of America was the only firm which bid according to specifications. Directors rejected a bid from Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. of St. Paul, Minn., even though it was for less than half the price asked by Stimsonite.

The Minnesota firm's $1,357.20 bid was to supply markers made of its "Scotchgard" material, which general manager James Adam said had not been tested in the area. Stimsonite, he said, has been used by the State of California for 18 months with good results.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board also:

1. Authorized a $6,000 appropriation to buy five air-powered rigging hoists for bridge painting and maintenance. The district already has 12 such hoists.

2. Agreed to buy a $650 portable traffic lane marker for parking areas and other spots not reachable with large equipment.

3. Approved purchase of two electric toll receipt printers in the truck lanes at the toll plaza, to cost a total of $1,350.

4. Authorized Adam to prepare specifications and call for bids on a large portable air compressor for maintenance work.

She was severly cut on the upper left arm and the right ear, according to the hospital.

Corte Madera Officials' Moving Day Draws Near

Corte Madera town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said yesterday that architects Crawford and Banning of San Rafael have told him work will probably be complete Monday on the new Public Safety Building.

We're gearing our plan to move into the building next week—I would imagine in the latter part of the week," Usher said.

The new building will house the town's police and volunteer fire departments. Before the move from the Town Hall can be made, Usher said, new furniture for the building must be moved in.

Monday, the town's fire horn system will be moved from Town Hall to the Public Safety Building.

Police and Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson warned that the fire horn will be out of commission all day Monday and possibly longer. During the move, alarms for volunteer firemen will be sounded with the town's air raid siren, he said.

In three years, 127 sunfish introduced in an Illinois lake multiplied to 67,700.

UNICEF Spooks Prowl Tomorrow

Costumed Marin children tomorrow will carry orange and black cartons door to door in the annual UNICEF Trick or Treat. More than 7,500 cartons have been distributed this year, 1,000 more than in 1964.

The children will not ask for candy, but for money to help support the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, which operates on an annual budget of 35 million dollars and which this year was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

The 1965 program started early in Mill Valley, where last Sunday, United Nations Day, children in Mill Valley collected $460.

Secondarily, you may lose sleep and suffer from Headaches, Backaches and feel old, tired, depressed. In such irritation, CYSTEX usually brings fast, relaxing comfort by curbing irritating germs in strong, acid urine and by analgesic pain relief. Get CYSTEX at druggists. Feel better fast.

Span Directors Reject Cheaper Reflectors Bid

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday awarded a $2,789.80 contract to a New Jersey firm to supply reflective traffic lane markers for the bridge.

Stimsonite Signal Products Division of the Elastic Stop Nut Corp. of America was the only firm which bid according to specifications. Directors rejected a bid from Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. of St. Paul, Minn., even though it was for less than half the price asked by Stimsonite.

The Minnesota firm's $1,357.20 bid was to supply markers made of its "Scotchgard" material, which general manager James Adam said had not been tested in the area. Stimsonite, he said, has been used by the State of California for 18 months with good results.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board also:

1. Authorized a $6,000 appropriation to buy five air-powered rigging hoists for bridge painting and maintenance. The district already has 12 such hoists.

2. Agreed to buy a $650 portable traffic lane marker for parking areas and other spots not reachable with large equipment.

3. Approved purchase of two electric toll receipt printers in the truck lanes at the toll plaza, to cost a total of $1,350.

4. Authorized Adam to prepare specifications and call for bids on a large portable air compressor for maintenance work.

Falls Into Glass

Mrs. Frances Silva, 43, of 775 McClay Road, Novato, was in good condition today at Novato Hospital suffering from cuts received Thursday when she accidentally fell through glass shower doors at her home.

She was severly cut on the upper left arm and the right ear, according to the hospital.

Corte Madera Officials' Moving Day Draws Near

Corte Madera town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said yesterday that architects Crawford and Banning of San Rafael have told him work will probably be complete Monday on the new Public Safety Building.

We're gearing our plan to move into the building next week—I would imagine in the latter part of the week," Usher said.

The new building will house the town's police and volunteer fire departments. Before the move from the Town Hall can be made, Usher said, new furniture for the building must be moved in.

Monday, the town's fire horn system will be moved from Town Hall to the Public Safety Building.

Police and Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson warned that the fire horn will be out of commission all day Monday and possibly longer. During the move, alarms for volunteer firemen will be sounded with the town's air raid siren, he said.

In three years, 127 sunfish introduced in an Illinois lake multiplied to 67,700.

UNICEF Spooks Prowl Tomorrow

Costumed Marin children tomorrow will carry orange and black cartons door to door in the annual UNICEF Trick or Treat. More than 7,500 cartons have been distributed this year, 1,000 more than in 1964.

The children will not ask for candy, but for money to help support the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, which operates on an annual budget of 35 million dollars and which this year was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

The 1965 program started early in Mill Valley, where last Sunday, United Nations Day, children in Mill Valley collected $460.

Marin Reaches Hands Into San Francisco Bay

Marin County's ridges of hills form numerous peninsulas in San Francisco Bay from Sausalito, near the bottom left corner of the picture to the Sonoma County line at the top. The most prominent is the Tiburon Peninsula, pointing at Angel Island, with the town of Belvedere connected by roads across a lagoon near the tip. In Richardson Bay to the southwest, Strawberry Point can be seen at the far left. Point San Quentin provides the west footing of the San Rafael-Richmond Bay Bridge. North of that is the San Pedro Peninsula, with the Peacock Gap development at its tip. Flatlands of the Gallinas and Novato creek watersheds extend north to Sonoma County. The major city on the right side of the picture is Richmond. San Pablo Bay and the lower part of the Napa Valley may be seen at the top.

Dedication To Sport Pays Off; UCLA Brewin' Up Another Title

MEET THE CHAMPS:

It's been a long road back for John Noonan. Five years ago the Novato lad couldn't run across the street. Osteomyelitis of an ankle hospitalized him for a couple of months and certainly didn't encourage his athletic ambitions.

But John Noonan is a young man in a hurry and he ran along the comeback road, starring for the Novato High School cross country team and keeping active the year 'round in Amateur Athletic Union races.

His dedication to sport is paying off. Today, as an 18-year-old freshman, he is the best cross country runner at Sonoma State College, having led his team in seven races thus far, including a sparkling 23-minute, 39-second performance over the rugged 4.7-mile course against powerful Sacramento State recently. He runs for an hour to an hour and a half daily. Looks like John Noonan is going places.

FORMER DRAKE High gridder Charles Hahn, who sat out his senior prep year due to a shoulder injury, is earning straight A grades in football at U. of Oregon. A linebacker on the Duckling (frosh) team, Hahn was described by Coach Len Casanova as "one of the most intense boys I have ever seen on a football field." Cas is counting on Hahn to develop into one of the outstanding players on the coast, according to Oregon alum Al Murray.

FAST START—Otis Roberts, a beginner in the sport, bowled a 237 game—106 pins above his average—at Greenbrae Lanes the other night. Not bad when you consider it was his first night of league competition.

UCLA BASKETBALL coach Johnny Wooden's appearance at the Marin Coaching Clinic in Kentfield today brings our attention to the fact that former Redwood High and College of Marin whiz Jay Johnson is vying for a berth with the Bruin varsity this year. The 6-foot Johnson, All-Northern California J.C. last year, was one of the most prolific scorers in history at the Kentfield school noted for producing basketball champs.

Equipped with cat-like quickness, hands of a burglar and an eye that scores points just by looking at the basket, Johnson would appear to be perfectly-suited for the Bruin style of play.

It looks like Papa Bear Wooden is brewin' up another great team, what with seven lettermen returning from last year's club that won its second straight NCAA title. Although Gail Goodrich and Keith Erickson are gone, Bruin returnees include such pips as Edgar Lacey, Doug McIntosh, Mike Lynn, Freddie Goss and Kenny Washington.

It looks like a long winter for UCLA opponents.

Litchfields Eye Third Straight

Litchfield's semi-pro baseball team from San Rafael will be trying for its third straight triumph in San Francisco AAA Winter League action tomorrow when it goes against the Gino Benedetti nine.

Southpaw Bob DeRosa is expected to pitch for the Marin team in the game slated for the Graham diamond in Golden Gate Park. It will start at 2 p.m.

Joe Anselmo, manager of the Litchfield team, announced yesterday the signing of Walt Williams who was No. 2 batter last season in the Texas League with a .330 mark. The outfielder was initially signed by the Houston Astros last year and then traded to the St. Louis Cards.

Indians Top 'Cats By 19-12

By MAURICE WEINGER

Holding off a last quarter bid, Tamalpais had enough strength to defeat a determined Marin Catholic eleven, 19-12, last night at Kentfield.

It was the Indians' third win in four contests in the Marin Athletic League and left them in a tie for first place.

Marin, however, in losing its fifth straight league game, did play Tamalpais even for the first two quarters, leaving the field at halftime tied 6-6, and then rallied from a 19-6 deficit in the fourth quarter to score one touchdown and was moving towards a second when the gun sounded ending the ball game.

It was Marin's offensive mistakes that lost the game as Tamalpais took advantage to score its three touchdowns.

Tamalpais scored first in the opening quarter when Marin quarterback Mike Giacomini tried a pitchout to halfback Stan Hardeman, but the latter fumbled the ball on his 14 yard line and defensive end Ken Blasingame fell on it.

Steve Meyers and Mike Fowler, who did almost all of the Indian running throughout the contest, each took turns carrying the ball and moved it in five plays for the score with Fowler getting the final yard after Meyers had gotten a first down on the previous play.

Marin came back with the surprise play of the game with three seconds remaining on the clock before halftime.

Taking a Meyer's punt on his own 35, fullback George King started to run towards his right and up the field near the sidelines next to the Tamalpais bench.

Everyone converged at the midfield line next to the Indian bench — either trying to stop King or block him through. The runner bounced off three players, and before anyone knew where King was, he was in the clear and on his way to the end zone for a 65-yard punt to tie the game at halftime.

Tamalpais moved out to a two touchdown lead in the third quarter with the defense setting up both scores.

Deep in its territory, Marin fumbled the ball on the eight-yard line and Honor Jackson, a defensive halfback, recovered for Tam on the five yard line. Again it was Fowler who started the two play drive with four yards and quarterback Tom Lecy finished it with a sneak with 3:21 left.

The Indians came right back to increase the lead to 19-6 on Marin's ensuing series of plays. Quarterback Bob Nelson, taking over for Giacomini who injured his leg, tried a pass from his 38 yard line, but safety Ray Stark intercepted on the 42 and

Player Wins Aussie Open By Six Strokes Over Nicklaus

ADELAIDE, Australia, (AP) — Gary Player, South Africa's wonderboy of golf, won the Australian Open Championship today by six strokes after posting another spectacular 62 in the third round and then finishing the 72-hole test with a 69 for an aggregate of 264.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, who started the final day four strokes ahead of Player, zoomed to a 70 in the third round and then took a 71 in the fourth round over the flat Kooyonga Course, where par is 37-36—73.

Frank Phillips of Australia, registered 66-69 for his two rounds and pulled into a tie with Nicklaus for second place honors at 270.

Player, already the U.S. Open champion and winner of two world titles in international competition this summer, was threatened with a two-stroke penalty for slow play but it was disallowed.

He started the day four strokes behind Nicklaus but got eagles on the first two holes of the morning round and was even. By the time they went to lunch, Player was four strokes ahead of the Ohioan.

Whatever chance Nicklaus had of catching up with Player, who also had a 62 in the opening round on Thursday, went down the drain on the second hole of the final round. The American teed off an hour after Player and had just been told of the South African's progress.

He smashed his drive deep into the rough and when the ball was found it was unplayable. He took a seven on the hole. That virtually assured Player of the title.

The victory was worth $2,632 to Player and Nicklaus got a check for $812.

Peter Thomson of Australia, the current British Open champion, was fourth at 271 and Bob Charles of New Zealand fifth at 275.

Lazzarini Scores Three More TD's

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Drake High School's powerful offensive machine, and especially its main wheel, was all too much for San Rafael Bulldogs last night as Dean Lazzarini ran his way to three touchdowns to lead the Pirates to a 34-7 romp.

The Drake triumph spoiled San Rafael's homecoming festivities and kept the Pirates in a tie for the Marin Athletic League lead. It was the largest crowd of the season on the San Rafael High School field, with 4,000 fans jamming the stands and spilling onto the sidelines.

Lazzarini, the speedy fullback, ran his touchdown total to 13 for the season and gained 116 yards in 19 carries. Most of his yardage came in the middle of the Bulldogs' line, as the Drake blockers up front never looked better. Time after time huge holes were gouged in the San Rafael defensive front wall.

As they say, you can contain Lazzarini part of the time, but don't expect to hold him for the whole game. San Rafael had held him to nine yards net for the first 20 minutes and 15 seconds of the game before he exploded for his first touchdown late in the second quarter. The first quarter was scoreless.

After a five-yard penalty had given the Pirates a first down on the San Rafael 35, Lazz struck. He took a handoff from quarterback Bill Ingram and slanted over left tackle. It was one of his better open field runs of the season as he dodged one of the San Rafael defensive backs on the 10 and then carried two more with him into the end zone after being hit on the five. Ingram, on a quarterback sneak, bulled over for the extra point to give the Pirates a 7-0 lead with 3:45 left in the first half.

Before the half was over, the Pirates struck again, this time on a pass play. It was sophomore end Don Alvarado for the TD, catching a pass from Ingram that netted 46 yards. Alvarado, who has surprisingly fine moves for a boy playing his first year of varsity ball, got a step on defensive back Paul Giompaoli and made a great catch on the 20 and ran the rest of the way for the score. Ingram again added the PAT on a sneak and with only 47 seconds left in the half, Drake had itself a 14-0 bulge.

Starting off the second half, Drake drove all the way to the Bulldogs' 14 before Giompaoli intercepted an Ingram pass to cut off the drive. But two plays later halfback Dick Loomis fumbled and Drake's Jerry Sprout fell on the ball on the San Rafael 15-yard stripe.

After a five-yard off sides penalty against San Rafael moved the ball to the 10, Lazzarini took a handoff and blasted through a huge hole at his own right tackle spot and shot past the dazed San Rafael secondary to score standing up. Halfback Tom Mauer skirted right end for the extra point and now it was Drake 21-0.

After the ensuing kickoff, San Rafael hit its touchdown and it was a dazzler. End Sam Crowell faked his way past a Drake defender and S.R. quarterback Jay Widmer had one of his few opportunities to take time to spot him. Jay tossed a long bomb which Crowell caught on the Drake 40 and ran the rest of the way to the end zone with a key block thrown by Joel Bortfeld. The play netted 79 yards. Tom Gagen's kick was good for San Rafael's seventh point.

But Drake came right back after getting the ball on their own 49 on a short San Rafael kickoff.

Ingram passed to Alvarado for 30 yards and it was first and 10 on the Bulldogs' 21. Then Mauer carried three straight times, gaining 7, 5 and 3 yards to the 6. From there, Ingram faked a handoff through the middle and then bootlegged around his own left end for the touchdown. Ingram, who passed for 129 yards and ran for another 24, missed this time on his quar-

Everyone converged at the midfield line next to the Indian bench — either trying to stop King or block him through. The runner bounced off three players, and before anyone knew where King was, he was in the clear and on his way to the end zone for a 65-yard punt to tie the game at halftime.

Tamalpais moved out to a two touchdown lead in the third quarter with the defense setting up both scores.

Deep in its territory, Marin fumbled the ball on the eight-yard line and Honor Jackson, a defensive halfback, recovered for Tam on the five yard line. Again it was Fowler who started the two play drive with four yards and quarterback Tom Lecy finished it with a sneak with 3:21 left.

The Indians came right back to increase the lead to 19-6 on Marin's ensuing series of plays. Quarterback Bob Nelson, taking over for Giacomini who injured his leg, tried a pass from his 38 yard line, but safety Ray Stark intercepted on the 42 and

ADELAIDE, Australia, (AP) — Gary Player, South Africa's wonderboy of golf, won the Australian Open Championship today by six strokes after posting another spectacular 62 in the third round and then finishing the 72-hole test with a 69 for an aggregate of 264.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, who started the final day four strokes ahead of Player, zoomed to a 70 in the third round and then took a 71 in the fourth round over the flat Kooyonga Course, where par is 37-36—73.

Frank Phillips of Australia, registered 66-69 for his two rounds and pulled into a tie with Nicklaus for second place honors at 270.

Player, already the U.S. Open champion and winner of two world titles in international competition this summer, was threatened with a two-stroke penalty for slow play but it was disallowed.

He started the day four strokes behind Nicklaus but got eagles on the first two holes of the morning round and was even. By the time they went to lunch, Player was four strokes ahead of the Ohioan.

Whatever chance Nicklaus had of catching up with Player, who also had a 62 in the opening round on Thursday, went down the drain on the second hole of the final round. The American teed off an hour after Player and had just been told of the South African's progress.

He smashed his drive deep into the rough and when the ball was found it was unplayable. He took a seven on the hole. That virtually assured Player of the title.

The victory was worth $2,632 to Player and Nicklaus got a check for $812.

Peter Thomson of Australia, the current British Open champion, was fourth at 271 and Bob Charles of New Zealand fifth at 275.

Terrell-Chuvalo: Well-Kept Secret

I'd appreciate it if you wouldn't noise it around—I hate to break such a well-kept secret—but there's going to be a heavyweight championship fight in Toronto Monday night. Not since the night Marvin Hart fought Tommy Burns has there been such excitement.

The participants are that well-known heavyweight champion, a man whose name is a household word wherever fight fans gather (and that household word is "sink stopper"), and a Croatian-Canadian with a strong back, a chin to match, and a boxing style modeled after a guy raiding the refrigerator after midnight.

George Chuvalo, the Canadian challenger, can do more damage to a stomach than Mexican food. Against Ernest Terrell, the champion, he's going to get a lot of target. Ernest is 6 feet 6 inches tall, and all but a few inches on each end is stomach. He's got such a long trunk, it should have bark on it. His chin is above timber line.

TERRELL'S PLUS is that he's got a longer range than a .22 rifle. All he has to be, to hit you, is in the same country. His arms are so long that when he hits someone, they turn around to see who did it. Terrell is almost over the horizon. He could be the world's greatest pickpocket because, even if he got caught with his hands in somebody's wallet, it would take him several hours to track it back to the shoulder.

Terrell's boxing style is modeled after a yacht race — or a channel swim. It's the Australian crawl with six ounce gloves. But it has stood him in good stead. He has won slashing victories over Gerhard Zech of Germany, Henry Wallitsch of New York, Herb Siler of parts unknown, and several other all-time anonymities. His chief claim to fame is he never fought Sonny Liston. But, then, neither did Floyd Patterson.

CHUVALO HAS a reach just long enough so that he can comb his hair if he lies down. He can scratch his ear easier with his foot. But he has a back broad enough to advertise Volkswagens without hyphens. He fights like a surgeon probing for an ulcer. He hasn't landed a punch above the navel in years. He makes Gene Fullmer look like a stylist. He has never been knocked off his feet — and that includes 44 prize fights and two streetcar accidents. Report has it he did severe damage to the streetcar's mid-section.

Everybody knows Ernest Terrell isn't the heavyweight champion of the world except a comic opera chorus called the "World Boxing Assn." It is a group that has all the say of a Russian voter.

TERRELL FIGHTS people like ancient China. He doesn't beat them, he absorbs them. A few fighters have disappeared into those forests of forearms, elbows, biceps, and have never come out. Terrell gets the decision because he's the only one they can find at the end of 15 rounds. The other guy is extricated after search parties go in and when they emerge, blinking, into the ring lights, and are asked "How was it?" they reply "Dark." You should be allowed a miner's lamp and a gauze mask when you fight Terrell. Your oxygen is apt to be cut off about the fourth round.

Terrell "won" the "heavyweight championship" by beating Eddie Machen. Machen, apparently, was the only fighter who wasn't busy that night. There was no other reason to give him a "title" shot.

CHUVALO'S CHIEF claim to fame is, he went 12 rounds with Floyd Patterson without knocking him out. Or even down. This is a feat not many of Patterson's opponents can boast. George did it by ignoring Floyd's chin. Apparently he did not want to get hit with any flying glass. As a matter of fact, his face was cut enough from flying gloves. The best thing he has going for him defensively, is, he clots nicely.

If Chuvalo wins, it will be a shot in the head. At least, neither of these guys ever robbed any trains, kicked the canes out from under old men, or recommended the obliteration of the white race. But there is nothing in their records to indicate they should be favored over anybody who has.

THE WINNER will get a shot at the Cassius Clay-Patterson winner. Men of good will everywhere will be rooting for a draw. Together, they might be a match for Clay. Get a price, though, if you're betting.

49ers (Brodie), Colts (Unitas) Collide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Baltimore's Johnny Unitas has completed more passes than any other National Football League quarterback this fall except the fellow the Colts face tomorrow—John Brodie.

The veteran San Francisco 49er has hit 106 times for 1,450 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Unitas takes the field at Kezar Stadium with 94 completions for 1,461 yards and 12 touchdowns. Each has had seven intercepted.

The game, scheduled for a 1 p.m. kickoff, will be the second between the two clubs this season. At Baltimore, the Colts ran up a 24-7 halftime lead and then had to hang on for a 27-24 triumph.

They come to San Francisco with a 5-1 record, second in the Western Conference to Green Bay's 6-0. The 49ers, after dropping a 42-41 verdict to Minnesota last week, stand 3-3.

San Francisco end Dave Parks was voted the offensive player of the week by The Associated Press after his performance at Baltimore when he caught nine passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns.

Still he was disappointed and declared, "We should have won it. We will next time."

A crowd of 40,000 is expected to see if the 49ers will generate enough offense and have the defense to stop Unitas and the defending divisional champions.

The Colts may have to operate without defensive tackle Fred Miller and halfback Lenny Moore. The former was injured in last week's 35-20 victory over Los Angeles. The latter has missed the past two games because of bruised ribs.

Moore's replacement, Tom Matte, ran for 41 yards against the Rams, caught a pass for 10, threw one for 19 and returned to kickoffs a total of 71.

Defensive halfback Lenny Lyles also has been out since the 49er game in Baltimore but may be able to see action this week.

San Francisco came out of the Minnesota game with no additional injuries and will start the same club again. Rookie Ken Willard, the club's leading rusher with 340 yards, opens at fullback with John David Crow at halfback, Bernie Casey at flanker and Parks the spread end.

Rejoining the club will be veteran linebacker Matt Hazeltine who has been out since undergoing knee surgery on Sept. 24.

Despite all the 49er throwing and running, the leading scorer hasn't tallied a touchdown. He's Tommy Davis, the kicking specialist who has booted 25 conversions and eight field goals for 49 points. Parks, Casey and Willard each have 30 on five touchdowns.

$1 Million Suit Over Machen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The services of heavyweight boxer Eddie Machen have become a matter of a $1 million damage suit in federal court.

Professional Boxers Inc., of Portland, Ore., whose president is Machen's former manager, Sid Flaherty, filed the suit yesterday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Main defendants are Vincent Correnti, a car wash owner, and fight manager in San Francisco, and Los Angeles boxing figures Walter and Leo Minskoff.

The suit asks $250,000 actual and $750,000 punitive damages for allegedly inducing Machen to break an exclusive seven-year contract with Professional Boxers one year after he signed it in 1961.

The California Athletic Commission approved Machen's contract with Walter Minskoff on Feb. 7, 1963.

Bob Turley, chief commission inspector, said then, "In 1959, Flaherty signed a release from the contract and he has stated numerous times he has no fighters under contract, and specifically not Eddie Machen."

sailed down the sidelines for the third score.

Marin was not giving up in this ball game as it rallied to close the score with the opening of the last quarter.

Starting from their own 47, the Wildcats moved five yards on runs by King and Tom Murray, but Nelson put the spark into the drive with a long pass down the middle of the field to Stan Hardeman for 40 yards and a first down on the Tamalpais 14.

King added two on a shot off tackle but Nelson was the hero as he again called for a pass, this time to Mark Stempel, who slanted in from his right end spot to catch the ball on the five and bounced his way into the end zone with 9:39 in the contest.

Marin almost got moving again as it started a last ditch drive from its own 20 that went to the Indians' 43, but the gun sounded and the Wildcats had suffered its 27th straight MCAL defeat.

Marin Vs. Yuba At Marysville Tonight

The big one has come early for the Marin Tars football team.

College of Marin's gridders travel to Marysville tonight for a key Golden Valley Conference game with Yuba College 49ers, starting at 8 o'clock.

Yuba has the honor this season of being the first GVC team to beat Santa Rosa in conference action, snapping the Bear Cubs' string of 15 straight conference wins. Yuba is favored to win the GVC championship.

The 49ers have a 2-0 conference mark compared to a 1-0 for the Tars. Winner of tonight's game has a good chance to go all the way to the title. Marin's win was an impressive 34-16 triumph over Sierra.

Normally, Marin's most important game of the season comes on the final day when the Tars play Santa Rosa, but this time the biggie is only the second conference game of the year.

Terra Linda Vs. Manteca In Practice

Terra Linda High School's Trojans get a break from Marin Athletic League football action this week, but they do not have things easy.

The Trojans trek to Manteca tonight for a non-league battle with the Manteca High School Buffaloes starting at 8 o'clock. Terra Linda will be matching its 3-1-1 record against the 3-2 mark of Manteca.

Included in Manteca's three wins is a 15-0 triumph over Downey of Modesto. Terra Linda coach Brad Squires scouted that game and reports the Buffaloes are big and strong. They are in the Valley Oak League.

Only injured Tropans who will see limited action tonight are John Forry and center Steve Machado. Forry, nursing an ankle injury, will be moved to end for tonight's game, while Machado is on the doubtful list with a knee bruise.

Warriors Grab Lead; Battle L.A. Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, suddenly a threat to Los Angeles superiority in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, meet the Lakers tonight in a battle for the early lead.

The Lakers beat the Warriors 122-115 in the season opener, the last San Francisco loss. The Warriors then went on a three-game winning streak that included last night's 110-100 triumph over New York.

The Warrior victory was the first after 16 straight losses in their San Francisco Civic Auditorium home, stretching back to Dec. 18 last season. And it marked the first three - game winning streak since the season before last when the Warriors won the divisional title.

Last season, the Warriors won only 17 games for an all - time NBA low. Now they're in first place with a 3-1 record compared to the Lakers' 4-2.

Guy Rodgers stole the show for San Francisco last night against the Knicks, scoring a game-high 24 points, contributing 13 assists and stealing the ball seven times.

Paul Neumann threw in 20 points as the Warriors broke a 54-54 halftime tie. After a 10-minute rest in the third period, Neumann scored 11 points in the fourth quarter.

Up front, Tom Meschery and sensational rookie Rick Barry tossed in 18 points each for the Warriors, equaling Willis Reed's high point total for the losers.

Drake Whips San Rafael To Stay Tied For Lead

terback sneak for the PAT. But with still the fourth quarter to go, Drake was ahead 27-7.

Lazzarini scored his third touchdown in the final stanza on a play that was apparently "blown."

The Pirates drove from their own 34 to the San Rafael 4, using 12 plays, and now it was third and goal. Ingram started to run but was stacked up at the line of scrimmage. As he was hit, he pitched back to Lazzarini but the ball went a couple of feet over Dean's head. Lazzarini scooped up the ball back on the eight-yard line and shot like a bullet straight over right tackle and dove into the end zone. Dave Simonini scored the conversion on a run over right tackle. That ended the scoring for the night.

Lazzarini would have had more yardage last night if it wasn't for San Rafael defensive end John Balzan who stopped him a few times, one time for a 10-yard loss. As usual, Balzan was all over the field, and one time even carried the ball as a fullback and gained 5 yards.

Top defensive player for Drake appeared to be Sprout, the 210-pound tackle for the Pirates. He was in on numerous tackles and was one of the key men that kept Widmer back pedaling all game. Drake's defense was really up for the game, holding San Rafael to minus 4 yards.

Widmer's passing accounted for 125 of San Rafael's yards. Drake, on the other hand, rolled up a total of 317 yards.

It was raining red handkerchiefs, the officials calling a total of 240 yards on penalties, 110 against Drake and 130 against San Rafael.

Ferree Captures Lead At Almaden

SAN JOSE (AP)—When Jim Ferree takes off his glasses and lines up a putt in the San Jose-Almaden golf tournament, he could be thinking "50."

He could because so far this year he ranks No. 51 on the pro golfers' money-winning list and the top half-hundred at the end of the campaign will be exempt from qualifying at PGA tournaments all through 1966.

The 5-foot 9-inch, 165-pounder playing out of Corona, Calif., fired a 67 in the second round of the $46,000 tournament at San Jose to grab the lead at the midway point with an 11-under-par 133.

The North Carolina native, who putts cross handed and takes his spectacles off when he reaches the greens, has won $14,432.92 so far this year and now goes after the $7,200 first prize which will be decided with roundse today and tomorrow over the Almaden Country Club layout.

That would virtually assure him of finishing in the top 50 and gaining the valuable exemption.

Hot on his heels at 135, two strokes back, comes a pair with similar thoughts.

Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., shot a 69 yesterday while South Africa's Bob Verwey had a 66. Strangely enough, Coody ranks 50th right now and Verey 52nd in money winnings.

They have some of the bigger money winners firing at them—notably Billy Casper, of Peacock Gap, winner of last week's Sahara Invitational, who has posted 69-71.

CO-LEADERS FALL

The first round co-leaders fell back — Al Geiberger combining a 73 with his 65 for 138 and Steve Oppermann a 74 for 139.

Anyone shooting a stroke over par on each of the first two rounds over the par 36-36 — 72 course of 7,035 yards, missed the cut. It took 145 or better for 74 golfers to remain in the tournament.

Five were tied at 137—Billy Martindale, Gary Bauer, and Larry Mowry with 67 on the second day, Don Massengale with 69 and Ken Still with 70.

Ken Venturi, the 1964 U.S. Open champion who suffered from a circulation ailment in his hands this year and underwent surgery, proved himself on the comeback trail with a 65, equalling the competitive course record and posting 141 at the midway mark.

Guy Bill of Oakland and Tom Culligan of Hillsborough, each had 142 to share the lead for amateurs, the former having a 72 and the latter 68 on the second round.

Terrell's boxing style is modeled after a yacht race — or a channel swim. It's the Australian crawl with six ounce gloves. But it has stood him in good stead. He has won slashing victories over Gerhard Zech of Germany, Henry Wallitsch of New York, Herb Siler of parts unknown, and several other all-time anonymities. His chief claim to fame is he never fought Sonny Liston. But, then, neither did Floyd Patterson.

CHUVALO HAS a reach just long enough so that he can comb his hair if he lies down. He can scratch his ear easier with his foot. But he has a back broad enough to advertise Volkswagens without hyphens. He fights like a surgeon probing for an ulcer. He hasn't landed a punch above the navel in years. He makes Gene Fullmer look like a stylist. He has never been knocked off his feet — and that includes 44 prize fights and two streetcar accidents. Report has it he did severe damage to the streetcar's mid-section.

Everybody knows Ernest Terrell isn't the heavyweight champion of the world except a comic opera chorus called the "World Boxing Assn." It is a group that has all the say of a Russian voter.

TERRELL FIGHTS people like ancient China. He doesn't beat them, he absorbs them. A few fighters have disappeared into those forests of forearms, elbows, biceps, and have never come out. Terrell gets the decision because he's the only one they can find at the end of 15 rounds. The other guy is extricated after search parties go in and when they emerge, blinking, into the ring lights, and are asked "How was it?" they reply "Dark." You should be allowed a miner's lamp and a gauze mask when you fight Terrell. Your oxygen is apt to be cut off about the fourth round.

Terrell "won" the "heavyweight championship" by beating Eddie Machen. Machen, apparently, was the only fighter who wasn't busy that night. There was no other reason to give him a "title" shot.

CHUVALO'S CHIEF claim to fame is, he went 12 rounds with Floyd Patterson without knocking him out. Or even down. This is a feat not many of Patterson's opponents can boast. George did it by ignoring Floyd's chin. Apparently he did not want to get hit with any flying glass. As a matter of fact, his face was cut enough from flying gloves. The best thing he has going for him defensively, is, he clots nicely.

If Chuvalo wins, it will be a shot in the head. At least, neither of these guys ever robbed any trains, kicked the canes out from under old men, or recommended the obliteration of the white race. But there is nothing in their records to indicate they should be favored over anybody who has.

THE WINNER will get a shot at the Cassius Clay-Patterson winner. Men of good will everywhere will be rooting for a draw. Together, they might be a match for Clay. Get a price, though, if you're betting.

Drake Whips San Rafael To Stay Tied For Lead

terback sneak for the PAT. But with still the fourth quarter to go, Drake was ahead 27-7.

Lazzarini scored his third touchdown in the final stanza on a play that was apparently "blown."

The Pirates drove from their own 34 to the San Rafael 4, using 12 plays, and now it was third and goal. Ingram started to run but was stacked up at the line of scrimmage. As he was hit, he pitched back to Lazzarini but the ball went a couple of feet over Dean's head. Lazzarini scooped up the ball back on the eight-yard line and shot like a bullet straight over right tackle and dove into the end zone. Dave Simonini scored the conversion on a run over right tackle. That ended the scoring for the night.

Lazzarini would have had more yardage last night if it wasn't for San Rafael defensive end John Balzan who stopped him a few times, one time for a 10-yard loss. As usual, Balzan was all over the field, and one time even carried the ball as a fullback and gained 5 yards.

Top defensive player for Drake appeared to be Sprout, the 210-pound tackle for the Pirates. He was in on numerous tackles and was one of the key men that kept Widmer back pedaling all game. Drake's defense was really up for the game, holding San Rafael to minus 4 yards.

Widmer's passing accounted for 125 of San Rafael's yards. Drake, on the other hand, rolled up a total of 317 yards.

It was raining red handkerchiefs, the officials calling a total of 240 yards on penalties, 110 against Drake and 130 against San Rafael.

Mel Allen Quits Atlanta Air Job

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mel Allen, former baseball broadcaster for the New York Yankees, resigned Thursday from a similar position with the Atlanta Braves.

Allen cited professional and business commitments and family obligations for quitting.

49ers (Brodie), Colts (Unitas) Collide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Baltimore's Johnny Unitas has completed more passes than any other National Football League quarterback this fall except the fellow the Colts face tomorrow—John Brodie.

The veteran San Francisco 49er has hit 106 times for 1,450 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Unitas takes the field at Kezar Stadium with 94 completions for 1,461 yards and 12 touchdowns. Each has had seven intercepted.

The game, scheduled for a 1 p.m. kickoff, will be the second between the two clubs this season. At Baltimore, the Colts ran up a 24-7 halftime lead and then had to hang on for a 27-24 triumph.

They come to San Francisco with a 5-1 record, second in the Western Conference to Green Bay's 6-0. The 49ers, after dropping a 42-41 verdict to Minnesota last week, stand 3-3.

San Francisco end Dave Parks was voted the offensive player of the week by The Associated Press after his performance at Baltimore when he caught nine passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns.

Still he was disappointed and declared, "We should have won it. We will next time."

A crowd of 40,000 is expected to see if the 49ers will generate enough offense and have the defense to stop Unitas and the defending divisional champions.

The Colts may have to operate without defensive tackle Fred Miller and halfback Lenny Moore. The former was injured in last week's 35-20 victory over Los Angeles. The latter has missed the past two games because of bruised ribs.

Moore's replacement, Tom Matte, ran for 41 yards against the Rams, caught a pass for 10, threw one for 19 and returned to kickoffs a total of 71.

Defensive halfback Lenny Lyles also has been out since the 49er game in Baltimore but may be able to see action this week.

San Francisco came out of the Minnesota game with no additional injuries and will start the same club again. Rookie Ken Willard, the club's leading rusher with 340 yards, opens at fullback with John David Crow at halfback, Bernie Casey at flanker and Parks the spread end.

Rejoining the club will be veteran linebacker Matt Hazeltine who has been out since undergoing knee surgery on Sept. 24.

Despite all the 49er throwing and running, the leading scorer hasn't tallied a touchdown. He's Tommy Davis, the kicking specialist who has booted 25 conversions and eight field goals for 49 points. Parks, Casey and Willard each have 30 on five touchdowns.

$1 Million Suit Over Machen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The services of heavyweight boxer Eddie Machen have become a matter of a $1 million damage suit in federal court.

Professional Boxers Inc., of Portland, Ore., whose president is Machen's former manager, Sid Flaherty, filed the suit yesterday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Main defendants are Vincent Correnti, a car wash owner, and fight manager in San Francisco, and Los Angeles boxing figures Walter and Leo Minskoff.

The suit asks $250,000 actual and $750,000 punitive damages for allegedly inducing Machen to break an exclusive seven-year contract with Professional Boxers one year after he signed it in 1961.

The California Athletic Commission approved Machen's contract with Walter Minskoff on Feb. 7, 1963.

Bob Turley, chief commission inspector, said then, "In 1959, Flaherty signed a release from the contract and he has stated numerous times he has no fighters under contract, and specifically not Eddie Machen."

sailed down the sidelines for the third score.

Marin was not giving up in this ball game as it rallied to close the score with the opening of the last quarter.

Starting from their own 47, the Wildcats moved five yards on runs by King and Tom Murray, but Nelson put the spark into the drive with a long pass down the middle of the field to Stan Hardeman for 40 yards and a first down on the Tamalpais 14.

King added two on a shot off tackle but Nelson was the hero as he again called for a pass, this time to Mark Stempel, who slanted in from his right end spot to catch the ball on the five and bounced his way into the end zone with 9:39 in the contest.

Marin almost got moving again as it started a last ditch drive from its own 20 that went to the Indians' 43, but the gun sounded and the Wildcats had suffered its 27th straight MCAL defeat.

DOLLED UP FOR HALLOWEEN

New York Knicks Willis Reed wears a face mask to protect a broken nose and it must be quite a sight to someone trying to guard the 6-10, 235-pound center. Marin Vs. Yuba At Marysville Tonight

The big one has come early for the Marin Tars football team.

College of Marin's gridders travel to Marysville tonight for a key Golden Valley Conference game with Yuba College 49ers, starting at 8 o'clock.

Yuba has the honor this season of being the first GVC team to beat Santa Rosa in conference action, snapping the Bear Cubs' string of 15 straight conference wins. Yuba is favored to win the GVC championship.

The 49ers have a 2-0 conference mark compared to a 1-0 for the Tars. Winner of tonight's game has a good chance to go all the way to the title. Marin's win was an impressive 34-16 triumph over Sierra.

Normally, Marin's most important game of the season comes on the final day when the Tars play Santa Rosa, but this time the biggie is only the second conference game of the year.

Warriors Grab Lead; Battle L.A. Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, suddenly a threat to Los Angeles superiority in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, meet the Lakers tonight in a battle for the early lead.

The Lakers beat the Warriors 122-115 in the season opener, the last San Francisco loss. The Warriors then went on a three-game winning streak that included last night's 110-100 triumph over New York.

The Warrior victory was the first after 16 straight losses in their San Francisco Civic Auditorium home, stretching back to Dec. 18 last season. And it marked the first three - game winning streak since the season before last when the Warriors won the divisional title.

Last season, the Warriors won only 17 games for an all - time NBA low. Now they're in first place with a 3-1 record compared to the Lakers' 4-2.

Guy Rodgers stole the show for San Francisco last night against the Knicks, scoring a game-high 24 points, contributing 13 assists and stealing the ball seven times.

Paul Neumann threw in 20 points as the Warriors broke a 54-54 halftime tie. After a 10-minute rest in the third period, Neumann scored 11 points in the fourth quarter.

Up front, Tom Meschery and sensational rookie Rick Barry tossed in 18 points each for the Warriors, equaling Willis Reed's high point total for the losers.

Terra Linda Vs. Manteca In Practice

Terra Linda High School's Trojans get a break from Marin Athletic League football action this week, but they do not have things easy.

The Trojans trek to Manteca tonight for a non-league battle with the Manteca High School Buffaloes starting at 8 o'clock. Terra Linda will be matching its 3-1-1 record against the 3-2 mark of Manteca.

Included in Manteca's three wins is a 15-0 triumph over Downey of Modesto. Terra Linda coach Brad Squires scouted that game and reports the Buffaloes are big and strong. They are in the Valley Oak League.

Only injured Tropans who will see limited action tonight are John Forry and center Steve Machado. Forry, nursing an ankle injury, will be moved to end for tonight's game, while Machado is on the doubtful list with a knee bruise.

Ferree Captures Lead At Almaden

SAN JOSE (AP)—When Jim Ferree takes off his glasses and lines up a putt in the San Jose-Almaden golf tournament, he could be thinking "50."

He could because so far this year he ranks No. 51 on the pro golfers' money-winning list and the top half-hundred at the end of the campaign will be exempt from qualifying at PGA tournaments all through 1966.

The 5-foot 9-inch, 165-pounder playing out of Corona, Calif., fired a 67 in the second round of the $46,000 tournament at San Jose to grab the lead at the midway point with an 11-under-par 133.

The North Carolina native, who putts cross handed and takes his spectacles off when he reaches the greens, has won $14,432.92 so far this year and now goes after the $7,200 first prize which will be decided with roundse today and tomorrow over the Almaden Country Club layout.

That would virtually assure him of finishing in the top 50 and gaining the valuable exemption.

Hot on his heels at 135, two strokes back, comes a pair with similar thoughts.

Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., shot a 69 yesterday while South Africa's Bob Verwey had a 66. Strangely enough, Coody ranks 50th right now and Verey 52nd in money winnings.

They have some of the bigger money winners firing at them—notably Billy Casper, of Peacock Gap, winner of last week's Sahara Invitational, who has posted 69-71.

CO-LEADERS FALL

The first round co-leaders fell back — Al Geiberger combining a 73 with his 65 for 138 and Steve Oppermann a 74 for 139.

Anyone shooting a stroke over par on each of the first two rounds over the par 36-36 — 72 course of 7,035 yards, missed the cut. It took 145 or better for 74 golfers to remain in the tournament.

Five were tied at 137—Billy Martindale, Gary Bauer, and Larry Mowry with 67 on the second day, Don Massengale with 69 and Ken Still with 70.

Ken Venturi, the 1964 U.S. Open champion who suffered from a circulation ailment in his hands this year and underwent surgery, proved himself on the comeback trail with a 65, equalling the competitive course record and posting 141 at the midway mark.

Guy Bill of Oakland and Tom Culligan of Hillsborough, each had 142 to share the lead for amateurs, the former having a 72 and the latter 68 on the second round.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Help Your Partner's Long Suit By Garnering Early Tricks

When your partner leads a long suit against three no-trump you must use your entries early to set up his suit.

Let your partner save his entry so that by the time he gains the lead he can run his suit and defeat the contract.

Opening lead — ♡ 5

West opened the five of hearts, and South allowed East to win the first trick with the jack. East returned a heart to dummy's king.

Declarer next led a diamond from dummy, and East played low in the hope that South would misguess a finesse. South tried a finesse with the jack, but this did the defenders no good at all.

West had to win with the queen of diamonds, and now his hand was dead. He made a switch to the jack of spades, but South was too shrewd to take a losing finesse. He put up the ace of spades and led another diamond from dummy.

END OF DEFENSE

The defense had now come to an end. East could take the ace of diamonds and the king of spades if he cashed them at once. Then South had tricks to burn.

East's best chance to defeat the contract was to step up with the ace of diamonds when declarer first led that suit from dummy. East would then return his last heart, setting up West's suit.

If South played for the diamonds he would let West in with the queen of diamonds and the rest of the hearts. If South fell back on the spade finesse instead of continuing with diamonds, East would take the king of spades and return a spade, holding South to eight tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ A Q 4 2
♥ K 7
♦ 9 4 2
♣ K J 3 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club.

With four cards in each black suit open with one club rather than one spade. You have a very convenient rebid if partner responds in any new suit.

Thousand Fires Daily

NEW YORK (UPI)—Every day, more than 1,000 American homes are struck by fire according to Insurance Facts, a booklet published by the Insurance Information Institute.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1965 with 62 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Mars, Venus and Saturn.

In 1929, heavy selling on the New York Stock Exchange followed the big plunge of the day before.

In 1938, Actor Orson Welles caused a national panic with his radio dramatization of an invasion of New Jersey by men from Mars.

In 1941, a German sumarine torpedoed and sank a U.S. naval destroyer, although America was not yet at war.

In 1948, an Army transport from Germany arrived in New York City with the first refugees to arrive in the United States under the Displaced Persons Act.

A Thought for the Day — Former American President John Adams said: "The happiness of society is the end of government."

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1965 with 62 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Mars, Venus and Saturn.

In 1929, heavy selling on the New York Stock Exchange followed the big plunge of the day before.

In 1938, Actor Orson Welles caused a national panic with his radio dramatization of an invasion of New Jersey by men from Mars.

In 1941, a German sumarine torpedoed and sank a U.S. naval destroyer, although America was not yet at war.

In 1948, an Army transport from Germany arrived in New York City with the first refugees to arrive in the United States under the Displaced Persons Act.

A Thought for the Day — Former American President John Adams said: "The happiness of society is the end of government."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Help Your Partner's Long Suit By Garnering Early Tricks

When your partner leads a long suit against three no-trump you must use your entries early to set up his suit.

Let your partner save his entry so that by the time he gains the lead he can run his suit and defeat the contract.

Opening lead — ♡ 5

West opened the five of hearts, and South allowed East to win the first trick with the jack. East returned a heart to dummy's king.

Declarer next led a diamond from dummy, and East played low in the hope that South would misguess a finesse. South tried a finesse with the jack, but this did the defenders no good at all.

West had to win with the queen of diamonds, and now his hand was dead. He made a switch to the jack of spades, but South was too shrewd to take a losing finesse. He put up the ace of spades and led another diamond from dummy.

END OF DEFENSE

The defense had now come to an end. East could take the ace of diamonds and the king of spades if he cashed them at once. Then South had tricks to burn.

East's best chance to defeat the contract was to step up with the ace of diamonds when declarer first led that suit from dummy. East would then return his last heart, setting up West's suit.

If South played for the diamonds he would let West in with the queen of diamonds and the rest of the hearts. If South fell back on the spade finesse instead of continuing with diamonds, East would take the king of spades and return a spade, holding South to eight tricks.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club.

With four cards in each black suit open with one club rather than one spade. You have a very convenient rebid if partner responds in any new suit.

CHANGES HEIGHT—Navy pilot Lt. Frank Ellis, 32, already had won nationwide attention for continuing his military aviation career after losing both legs in a jet accident three years ago. Yesterday, the Pentagon revealed that Ellis had been selected as a candidate for astronaut training. The flier, shown having his artificial legs adjusted, holds that being able to change his height actually is an advantage in space flight. (UPI Telephoto)

Legless Navy Pilot May Be Space Flier

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — One of the nation's newest potential astronauts is a double amputee who thinks he had an advantage over other candidates because his "height is adjustable."

"I'm so anxious to be an astronaut that I'd join immediately," said Lt. Frank K. Ellis, a 32-year-old Navy flyer who lost both legs in a plane crash three years ago.

Ellis thinks the way to convince the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) of what he can do is to show them. When United Press International first tried to contact Ellis Friday to inform him of his possible selection as an astronaut by NASA, he was flying a T-28 aircraft.

The astronanut candidate is an authentic Navy hero. He lost both legs in 1962 when his jet crashed near Pt. Mugu, Calif., as he struggled to miss a residential district.

The brave pilot stayed with his plane too long for his personal safety and bailed out only 65 feet above the ground. Both his legs were cut off.

Ellis said he had applied for the space program before the accident and was delighted to hear that he is still being considered.

"I have the desire," he said, "but I am surprised to hear this now. I think it is awfully premature. There are a lot of candidates."

"The prevalent attitude about an amputee is, 'That's too bad, you can't do this and you can't do that.' " He hopes to change all that.

"I think it should be 'Now, let's see what you can do,' " said the potential spaceman.

Sub Rosa Campus Sanction Gains Official Sanction

"The White Pizza," a two-page newspaper published anonymously last week at Redwood High School, has come above ground and received approval to continue as an official student publication.

The paper, describing itself as "the newspaper for upper classmen," contained tongue-in-cheek features, "letters," and editorial comment on such matters as impolite teachers and Larkspur police officers who keep a close eye on students.

Principal Donald Kreps took no offense and said "there was quite a lot of good writing in it."

Senior Mark Reed of Greenbrae will edit the new, sanctioned version. Others on the staff are Craig Faulkner, Jim Gough, Joe Fernandez and Bruce Stock.

In their anonymous issue, the students said the Redwood Bark, official student newspaper, "has become less and less student oriented" in recent years.

Vice Suspects Granted Delays To Enter Plea

Donna Lee Donaleche, 24, charged with soliciting or engaging in prostitution, and Barbara Ellen Benson, 40, facing that charge and another of operating a house of ill repute, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas granted Barbara Benson a continuance until Nov. 5 at 1:30 p.m. to secure counsel. Miss Donaleche, of San Francisco, was given until 1:30 p.m. on Nov. 12 for plea entry.

She was represented by Roger A. Bramy, San Francisco attorney who told the court his client also is facing two similar counts in San Francisco courts.

The women were arrested by Sausalito police at the Benson apartment, 77 Bulkley Avenue, Wednesday, after allegedly being involved in an expensive call girl operation. Both were released on bail.

Tiburon Master Plan Speedup To Be Discussed

The Tiburon Planning Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Del Mar School, will consider a plan to speed work on revision of the 1956 Tiburon Master Plan.

As originally proposed by the planners, federal funds were to be sought to help pay for the revision to be prepared by the consultant firm of Williams, Cook and Mocine.

The city council reviewed the program Oct. 25. After deciding it would be better for the city to pay for getting the work started, councilmen sent it back to the planners.

Federal aid will still be sought, they agreed, but estimated that eight to 10 month time can be saved by starting the work while the government is processing the application for aid.

The revised master plan is expected to cost about $3,900, with the federal government paying two-thirds of this.

Spanish moss, which grows on southern trees in long strands, neither originated in Spain nor is moss. The flowering, rootless plant grows from a seed and depends on water, light, dust and air for growth.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Look At Teen-Agers Avoids Prime Topic

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Last night's ABC-TV documentary, "Teen-age Revolution," was another example of television's avoidance of perhaps the most fascinating aspect of the subject:

The exploiters of teen-agers—the people, many famous, and industries, many big, that couldn't care less about the youngsters except for their increasing numbers and spending power. And, on the other hand, the kind of people that genuinely care about them.

Instead, the ABC-TV documentary took one hour to come to these conclusions: Some teen-agers are good, and some are not. Some are smart, and some are not.

It was, at least, a bit more fair-minded than the teen-age idol, who, when I asked him the other day whether he was going to watch last night's show replied: "Are you kidding? I perform for those creeps almost every day. I don't want to see them when I don't have to."

The essential ingredient that last night's program missed was the fact that the best of today's teen-agers are romantic as only skeptics can be. In this sense, they are a beautiful generation, if one can make that kind of generalization. Instead, ABC-TV had film clips.

Instead, also, it utilized almost every meaningless cliche on the subject that you have ever heard, taking advantage of the topic rather than illuminating it with a fresh vision. And all of this was presented solemnly, like a sociologist's devotion to the obvious.

The quantitative importance of teen-agers is indicated, by the way, by television ratings figures which suggest that the two main prime-time viewing groups are: Persons under 18, and women over 50.

You can be certain, of course, that last night's documentary had plenty of rock 'n' wriggle shots— strictly for enlightenment, naturally. Which reminds me of the comment of a young lady named Lada Edmund Jr. who dances in a cage on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo" musicale:

"Funny about these dances—many adults criticize them for various reasons. They don't understand that they are our avenues for venting frustrations. Some adults get rid of their frustrations by going out and getting smashed. We dance. Now I ask you, which do you think is preferable?"

There must be a way out of this dilemma.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: The great Italian film director, Federico Fellini, is interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" program Tuesday...Allan Sherman discusses his autobiography, "Gift of Laughter," on "Today" Monday... The pressures and responsibilities of congressmen are explored on "ABC Scope" next Saturday . . . The well-known public relations counsel, Edward L. Bernays, whose book "Biography of an Idea" deals with his memoirs, is a guest on "Today" Thursday.

With ABC-TV introducing a one-hour British series entitled "The Baron" Jan. 20, the English will have at least three of their weekly secret agent-type programs on American networks next season . . . The others are CBS-TV's "Secret Agent," which returns Dec. 4, and NBC-TV's "The Waint," which will switch from syndication to that network in 1966 . . . Ralph Bellamy replaces Henry Fonda as host of NBC-TV's "Telephone Hour" Nov. 7 . . . Nancy Sinatra bowed out of her appearance on ABC-TV's "Shindig" next Saturday because of a movie commitment.

Although Monday's planned Gemini 6 mission was unsuccessful, International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) says television's intended first live coverage of recovery of the astronauts opens the way to live short-notice video reporting of news events anyhere . . . The recovery would have been transmitted via the Early Bird satellite, by way of a transportable earth station on the USS Wasp . . . Says ITT: "An important political election in Europe, a revolution in South American or a disaster in Asia could all be covered live via satellite transmission origination from compact, fast-moving earth stations."

Vatican Council Nears Conclusion

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council, with only five items left to vote on, began a 10-day recess today. Final adjournment on Dec. 8 appeared certain.

The council gave a final approval yesterday by a vote of 2,081 to 27 to a decree on divine revelation which lends new weight to scripture in the Roman Catholic Church. It paves the way for joint translation of the Bible by scholars of all denominations.

The five items left on the council's agenda have all been thoroughly debated and need only be voted on. The current recess was necessary to give council committees time to revise and rewrite the documents before they come to a vote.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Snail-Carried Parasite May Pose Threats In This Nation

VAN DELLEN

Molluscicides (snail killers) are replacing insecticides in many tropical countries as a means of controlling schistosamiasis. These blood flukes infect 200 million people in parts of China, Egypt, Africa, the West Indies, and Latin and South America. Almost one-third of the Puerto Rican population is said to harbor the causative parasite. This is important to us because one million citizens from Latin America have come to New York City.

IT IS NECESSARY to understand the life cycle of the schistoma worm. A freshwater snail is a necessary intermediate vector. The process begins when a human contaminates the water with schistosomal eggs. They hatch almost immediately into an organism that is capable of swimming to and entering the host snail. In one month the critter develops into a wiggling parasite (larva) that leaves the snail and penetrates the skin of a person who is wading in or drinks the polluted water.

At this stage, the outcome depends upon the type of schistosomal involvement. The most common variety (S. mansoni) settle in the veins of the intestinal wall and rectum. They lay eggs that escape via the intestinal contents to complete the cycle. This type is prevalent in Latin America but the disease is not yet a threat to us, because only one of the 72 North American snails is a possible host. In addition, we have better sanitation. Other types of blood flukes have the same life cycle except that these migrate to the walls of the bladder, bile ducts, and lungs.

THESE ARE inconspicuous maladies in that the manifestations vary in severity and are not specific. Symptoms include fever, chills, cough, headache, diarrhea, pallor, abdominal pain, and bladder irritability. Remedies are available but prevention with molluscicides is more promising.

The disease is growing in seriousness especially in the underdeveloped, tropical countries that are digging irrigation ditches and dams. The climates in these areas are fertile fields for the causative organism.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

DAILY TEA

Mrs. E. D. writes: I drink three cups of tea a day and have been told this amount is as harmful as coffee. Please advise.

REPLY

Neither tea nor coffee is harmful in moderation. Only a few medical conditions involving chiefly the heart, stomach, and intestine are aggravated by these stimulants.

HAIR AND NERVES

Mrs. C. writes: My hairdresser tells me my thinning hair is due to nerves. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Loss of hair may be a hereditary trait or it may be due to a variety of conditions, varying from age to insufficient thyroid secretion.

COUGH "LOOSENER"

H. P. writes: Why are expectorant drugs given for cough?

REPLY

To loosen the secretions, making it easier to bring up the mucus. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cough.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW

Mrs. F. writes: Could a prospective mother be unaware of her condition for four months?

REPLY

Yes, but the day of reckoning will soon be here.

SKIN CANCER

S. A. writes: What are the chances of curing a malignancy of the skin?

REPLY

Excellent, more than 95 per cent when removed early.

CHANGES HEIGHT—Navy pilot Lt. Frank Ellis, 32, already had won nationwide attention for continuing his military aviation career after losing both legs in a jet accident three years ago. Yesterday, the Pentagon revealed that Ellis had been selected as a candidate for astronaut training. The flier, shown having his artificial legs adjusted, holds that being able to change his height actually is an advantage in space flight. (UPI Telephoto)

Legless Navy Pilot May Be Space Flier

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — One of the nation's newest potential astronauts is a double amputee who thinks he had an advantage over other candidates because his "height is adjustable."

"I'm so anxious to be an astronaut that I'd join immediately," said Lt. Frank K. Ellis, a 32-year-old Navy flyer who lost both legs in a plane crash three years ago.

Ellis thinks the way to convince the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) of what he can do is to show them. When United Press International first tried to contact Ellis Friday to inform him of his possible selection as an astronaut by NASA, he was flying a T-28 aircraft.

The astronanut candidate is an authentic Navy hero. He lost both legs in 1962 when his jet crashed near Pt. Mugu, Calif., as he struggled to miss a residential district.

The brave pilot stayed with his plane too long for his personal safety and bailed out only 65 feet above the ground. Both his legs were cut off.

Ellis said he had applied for the space program before the accident and was delighted to hear that he is still being considered.

"I have the desire," he said, "but I am surprised to hear this now. I think it is awfully premature. There are a lot of candidates."

"The prevalent attitude about an amputee is, 'That's too bad, you can't do this and you can't do that.'" He hopes to change all that.

"I think it should be 'Now, let's see what you can do,'" said the potential spaceman.

Sub Rosa Campus Sanction Gains Official Sanction

"The White Pizza," a two-page newspaper published anonymously last week at Redwood High School, has come above ground and received approval to continue as an official student publication.

The paper, describing itself as "the newspaper for upper classmen," contained tongue-in-cheek features, "letters," and editorial comment on such matters as impolite teachers and Larkspur police officers who keep a close eye on students.

Principal Donald Kreps took no offense and said "there was quite a lot of good writing in it."

Senior Mark Reed of Greenbrae will edit the new, sanctioned version. Others on the staff are Craig Faulkner, Jim Gough, Joe Fernandez and Bruce Stock.

In their anonymous issue, the students said the Redwood Bark, official student newspaper, "has become less and less student oriented" in recent years.

Vice Suspects Granted Delays To Enter Plea

Donna Lee Donaleche, 24, charged with soliciting or engaging in prostitution, and Barbara Ellen Benson, 40, facing that charge and another of operating a house of ill repute, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas granted Barbara Benson a continuance until Nov. 5 at 1:30 p.m. to secure counsel. Miss Donaleche, of San Francisco, was given until 1:30 p.m. on Nov. 12 for plea entry.

She was represented by Roger A. Bramy, San Francisco attorney who told the court his client also is facing two similar counts in San Francisco courts.

The women were arrested by Sausalito police at the Benson apartment, 77 Bulkley Avenue, Wednesday, after allegedly being involved in an expensive call girl operation. Both were released on bail.

Tiburon Master Plan Speedup To Be Discussed

The Tiburon Planning Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Del Mar School, will consider a plan to speed work on revision of the 1956 Tiburon Master Plan.

As originally proposed by the planners, federal funds were to be sought to help pay for the revision to be prepared by the consultant firm of Williams, Cook and Mocine.

The city council reviewed the program Oct. 25. After deciding it would be better for the city to pay for getting the work started, councilmen sent it back to the planners.

Federal aid will still be sought, they agreed, but estimated that eight to 10 month time can be saved by starting the work while the government is processing the application for aid.

The revised master plan is expected to cost about $3.900. with the federal government paying two-thirds of this.

Spanish moss, which grows on southern trees in long strands, neither originated in Spain nor is moss. The flowering, rootless plant grows from a seed and depends on water, light, dust and air for growth.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Look At Teen-Agers Avoids Prime Topic

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Last night's ABC-TV documentary, "Teen-age Revolution," was another example of television's avoidance of perhaps the most fascinating aspect of the subject:

The exploiters of teen-agers—the people, many famous, and industries, many big, that couldn't care less about the youngsters except for their increasing numbers and spending power. And, on the other hand, the kind of people that genuinely care about them.

Instead, the ABC-TV documentary took one hour to come to these conclusions: Some teen-agers are good, and some are not. Some are smart, and some are not.

It was, at least, a bit more fair-minded than the teen-age idol, who, when I asked him the other day whether he was going to watch last night's show replied: "Are you kidding? I perform for those creeps almost every day. I don't want to see them when I don't have to."

The essential ingredient that last night's program missed was the fact that the best of today's teen-agers are romantic as only skeptics can be. In this sense, they are a beautiful generation, if one can make that kind of generalization. Instead, ABC-TV had film clips.

Instead, also, it utilized almost every meaningless cliche on the subject that you have ever heard, taking advantage of the topic rather than illuminating it with a fresh vision. And all of this was presented solemnly, like a sociologist's devotion to the obvious.

The quantitative importance of teen-agers is indicated, by the way, by television ratings figures which suggest that the two main prime-time viewing groups are: Persons under 18, and women over 50.

You can be certain, of course, that last night's documentary had plenty of rock 'n' wriggle shots— strictly for enlightenment, naturally. Which reminds me of the comment of a young lady named Lada Edmund Jr. who dances in a cage on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo" musicale:

"Funny about these dances—many adults criticize them for various reasons. They don't understand that they are our avenues for venting frustrations. Some adults get rid of their frustrations by going out and getting smashed. We dance. Now I ask you, which do you think is preferable?"

There must be a way out of this dilemma.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: The great Italian film director, Federico Fellini, is interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" program Tuesday...Allan Sherman discusses his autobiography, "Gift of Laughter," on "Today" Monday... The pressures and responsibilities of congressmen are explored on "ABC Scope" next Saturday . . . The well-known public relations counsel, Edward L. Bernays, whose book "Biography of an Idea" deals with his memoirs, is a guest on "Today" Thursday.

With ABC-TV introducing a one-hour British series entitled "The Baron" Jan. 20, the English will have at least three of their weekly secret agent-type programs on American networks next season . . . The others are CBS-TV's "Secret Agent," which returns Dec. 4, and NBC-TV's "The Waint," which will switch from syndication to that network in 1966 . . . Ralph Bellamy replaces Henry Fonda as host of NBC-TV's "Telephone Hour" Nov. 7 . . . Nancy Sinatra bowed out of her appearance on ABC-TV's "Shindig" next Saturday because of a movie commitment.

Although Monday's planned Gemini 6 mission was unsuccessful, International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) says television's intended first live coverage of recovery of the astronauts opens the way to live short-notice video reporting of news events anyhere . . . The recovery would have been transmitted via the Early Bird satellite, by way of a transportable earth station on the USS Wasp . . . Says ITT: "An important political election in Europe, a revolution in South American or a disaster in Asia could all be covered live via satellite transmission origination from compact, fast-moving earth stations."

Vatican Council Nears Conclusion

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council, with only five items left to vote on, began a 10-day recess today. Final adjournment on Dec. 8 appeared certain.

The council gave a final approval yesterday by a vote of 2,081 to 27 to a decree on divine revelation which lends new weight to scripture in the Roman Catholic Church. It paves the way for joint translation of the Bible by scholars of all denominations.

The five items left on the council's agenda have all been thoroughly debated and need only be voted on. The current recess was necessary to give council committees time to revise and rewrite the documents before they come to a vote.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

Molluscicides (snail killers) are replacing insecticides in many tropical countries as a means of controlling schistosamiasis. These blood flukes infect 200 million people in parts of China, Egypt, Africa, the West Indies, and Latin and South America. Almost one-third of the Puerto Rican population is said to harbor the causative parasite. This is important to us because one million citizens from Latin America have come to New York City.

IT IS NECESSARY to understand the life cycle of the schistoma worm. A freshwater snail is a necessary intermediate vector. The process begins when a human contaminates the water with schistosomal eggs. They hatch almost immediately into an organism that is capable of swimming to and entering the host snail. In one month the critter develops into a wiggling parasite (larva) that leaves the snail and penetrates the skin of a person who is wading in or drinks the polluted water.

At this stage, the outcome depends upon the type of schistosomal involvement. The most common variety (S. mansoni) settle in the veins of the intestinal wall and rectum. They lay eggs that escape via the intestinal contents to complete the cycle. This type is prevalent in Latin America but the disease is not yet a threat to us, because only one of the 72 North American snails is a possible host. In addition, we have better sanitation. Other types of blood flukes have the same life cycle except that these migrate to the walls of the bladder, bile ducts, and lungs.

THESE ARE inconspicuous maladies in that the manisfestations vary in severity and are not specific. Symptoms include fever, chills, cough, headache, diarrhea, pallor, abdominal pain, and bladder irritability. Remedies are available but prevention with molluscicides is more promising.

The disease is growing in seriousness especially in the underdeveloped, tropical countries that are digging irrigation ditches and dams. The climates in these areas are fertile fields for the causative organism.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

DAILY TEA

Mrs. E. D. writes: I drink three cups of tea a day and have been told this amount is as harmful as coffee. Please advise.

REPLY

Neither tea nor coffee is harmful in moderation. Only a few medical conditions involving chiefly the heart, stomach, and intestine are aggravated by these stimulants.

HAIR AND NERVES

Mrs. C. writes: My hairdresser tells me my thinning hair is due to nerves. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Loss of hair may be a hereditary trait or it may be due to a variety of conditions, varying from age to insufficient thyroid secretion.

COUGH "LOOSENER"

H. P. writes: Why are expectorant drugs given for cough?

REPLY

To loosen the secretions, making it easier to bring up the mucus. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cough.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW

Mrs. F. writes: Could a prospective mother be unaware of her condition for four months?

REPLY

Yes, but the day of reckoning will soon be here.

SKIN CANCER

S. A. writes: What are the chances of curing a malignancy of the skin?

REPLY

Excellent, more than 95 per cent when removed early.

Election Is Months Away But Ritual's Already On

CALIFORNIA'S PRIMARY elections are still more than seven months away, but already the political pot is being stirred.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a political slugger, appears to have "chosen" Governor Brown. It looks like a contest—possibly a hard-fought one—on the Democratic side, just for Pat Brown to win his party's nomination for reelection.

On the Republican side, you have to say that Ronald Reagan, at this stage, must be considered "out in front."

Former Governor Goodwin Knight and former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, at this stage, must be regarded as potentially strong contenders, while Laughlin Waters (who visited Marin this week) and Warren Dorn are possibilities.

IN THE STRANGE GAME of politics, considerable cat and mouse are played in connection with one's formal declaration of candidacy.

Ideally, an aspirant does his initial campaigning on the ostensible basis that he "is being urged by friends to seek the nomination."

At a psychological moment, he seemingly succumbs to the pressure of this urging and formally declares his candidacy (long before the date for formal filing of an official declaration of candidacy to get his name on the ballot.)

It all adds up to ritual which politicians think they must practice.

The results at times get silly.

Ronald Reagan, the best financed and best organized and staffed candidate, for instance, hasn't yet declared or announced his candidacy and, therefore, is still in the imagined position of trying to decide whether or not to run.

WITH FORMER GOVERNOR Knight, the situation is a bit different. He says privately to his supporters that he is in the race to stay and intends to continue campaigning up to election day. He will, he says, formally declare his candidacy when he thinks a public declaration will do him the most good.

It is hard to escape the idea that he really is still surveying the situation to see if he can generate enough enthusiastic support to have a good chance of winning. This means having campaign contributions in sight to finance the race.

Goody Knight is a realist. If he doesn't see enthusiasm rising for his candidacy among potential campaign workers and if he doesn't see campaign contributions heading his way, he will have the good judgment to pull out and preserve his dignity.

George Christopher is an impatient slugger. He has impatiently gone through the required rituals and just the other day made his "announcement of candidacy."

He will give Reagan some trouble. There are some curious things in Reagan's background and record which the public deserves to know. Christopher can be counted upon, in fairly gentlemanly fashion, to direct the public's attention to said items of curiosity in Reagan's background.

WARREN DORN, CHAIRMAN of the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors, is up to his ears in advocating a state constitutional amendment which would give to cities and counties the power to legislate their own "decency laws."

The question that politicos debate about Dorn is this:

Is he using this proposed constitutional amendment as a vehicle to get his name before the public as an initial step toward the GOP gubernatorial nomination, or is he using the possibility of his candidacy to further the campaign for his "decency" amendment?

THAT LEAVES "LOCK" WATERS. In a sense, he is a "progressive" Republican like Earl Warren and, therefore, could be counted upon to attract Democratic votes as did Warren and as does Republican U.S. Senator Thomas Kuchel.

Waters' background and experience —including service as U.S. Attorney for Southern California under Eisenhower) and in the state legislature — would seem to qualify him well for the governor's job.

When you talk to him, he's all business. You get well-considered answers to questions. He obviously has the capacity to give serious and well-reasoned leadership toward the solution of our state's problems.

Unfortunately, he lacks what is sometimes termed political sex appeal. That his, stage presence is too business-like; no warm personality shows through. In this, he is like Earl Warren, and unlike Ronald Reagan or Goody Knight or Nelson Rockefeller.

Lock Waters is the only aspirant who has brushed aside the traditional ritual and proceeded along simple, common sense lines. As soon as he became seriously interested in seeking the governorship, he said so in a declaration of candidacy. He has traveled about the state tirelessly ever since, meeting individuals and speaking before groups.

His lack of political sex appeal may prevent the development of a great wave of emotional support for him, but he could make the best governor California has had in many a year.

UNDERSTAND WHY YOU COUNT

The contempt of Adolph Hitler for the sacred worth of every person is summed up in his own words: "To the Christian doctrine of the infinite significance of the individual human soul . . . I oppose with icy clarity the saving doctrine of the nothingness and insignificance of the human being."

In many parts of the earth, human beings are still being taught that they are worth little more than animals. This degraded concept of man can have disastrous effects. A person who has no respect for himself seldom has respect for anyone else. He can be either coldly indifferent to the misery of others or even brutal toward them.

The better you comprehend your own divine value and eternal destiny, the more readily you recognize the same divine image in others and wish to treat them as brothers and sisters of a common Father . . . Keep in mind the old proverb: "Most of all reverence yourself."

Then you will better understand the divine commandment of love.

"What is man that You should be mindful of him . . . You have made him little less than the angels." (Psalm 8:5, 6)

Let me see in every person in the world, O heavenly Father, a reflection of Your bountiful goodness.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Another 'Crisis' In Americus, Ga.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As you know, a disproportionately large number of Marin residents are interested in various facets of the civil rights movement. Many of our young people in particular have spent time in the South doing work which was there to be done. At least two of these spent time in Americus, Ga., during a particularly critical period there last summer.

I believe, therefore, that your readers may be interested in the enclosed bulletin occasioned by still another "crisis" in Americus, and originating from the Davis campus of the University of California.

The need is obvious and urgent. Anyone wishing to help may do so by sending check or money order to Mr. Judson Ford, care of Barnum's Funeral Home, Americus, Ga.,

Stars Tournament Thanks Given

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We are most grateful to you and the members of your staff for the outstanding help and cooperation which we received in this year's Tournament of Stars.

We consider Jim Gilmartin to be a working member of our tournament committee since he came up with so many constructive ideas as well as excellent coverage of the event in your newspaper. Barbara Hosmer, Pat Zinn and Lois Sens in the society department also helped a great deal.

Although the final accounting has not been completed, we estimate the net proceeds from this year's event to be approximately $10,000, which is roughly three times as much as we netted last year. Although we had extensive radio and television coverage of this year's event, we see the ultimate potential of this tournament becoming a national event and are hopeful of having network television coverage next year. We also see many opportunities of increasing our net proceeds substantially in future years. None of this would have been possible without the excellent cooperation of your newspaper and the effective work of your competent staff. Our sincere thanks on behalf of the committee and the charities which benefit.

Why Communists Are Called Reds

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We are in grade four and during our recent current events discussion the question "Why are the communists called Reds?" was asked. We are having a hard time finding the answer to this question. Can you help us?

We wonder how many of your readers know why the communists are called "Reds."

MELINDA SLOAN

(According to Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," the red flag was a symbol of insurrection and terrorism during the French Revolution. Red Republicans were extremists who never hesitated to dye their hands in blood to attain political goals. The red flag was adopted by the Bolsheviks in the Russian revolution. The Bolsheviks later became the Communist Party. Hence, "red" came to be identified with communists.—Editor)

Governor Brown Is Out Of Line

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Not only Simon Casady's but also every top-ranking individual's right to be heard is under fire.

Governor Brown has declared that as president of the California Democratic Council, Simon Casady was representing the views of the majority of the membership; and he asked him to resign so that "he would then be free to express his point of view as a private citizen." Is he not then affirming the right to free expression to the private citizens and denying it to those in leading positions? Is our freedom of speech confined solely to the private people whose voices are seldom, if ever, heard or heeded? Should not one's high position afford him an even wider range for free expression, especially since our country is suffering so much from imperfection and wrong leadership?

I am afraid Governor Brown is confusing our Democratic system of government with church government. A minister or a priest speaks for his church and represents its ideas; whereas in leadership outside of the church, the individual expresses his own ideas and represents only himself. Top voices must never be stifled, but rather highly scrutinized. Simon Casady no more represented the views of the membership of the Democratic Council than Edmund G. Brown represents the views of those over whom he presides.

One cannot strip another of his right to be heard without also depriving himself of the same privilege. The stripper is always left bare in the end.

Student Says U.S. Is 'Greatest'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to hear a few more comments supporting our government and its decision to be in the war in Viet Nam. If these student demonstrators would spend more time studying the situation in Viet Nam and less time marching and protesting, then the whole world would benefit.

Too many people are quick to criticize our government and President Lyndon B. Johnson. I am sure that if these protesters spent as much time researching and had as much experience in world affairs as our government, then maybe they could understand the U.S. policy.

America is the land of freedom and freedom of speech and opinion are two very wonderful freedoms. But let us think, reason, and place confidence in our elected representatives before we are so quick to criticize.

America is the greatest country in the world. Let's hear it once in a while.

Johnson's Views Needed Again To Explain Nation's Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missing for months has been a detailed address to the nation—and thus to the world—by President Lyndon Johnson on the aims and actions of American foreign policy.

He has made such explanations in the past, particularly on this country's role in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, when the United States was initiating or stepping up action in those places.

This was especially true last spring when he considered it necessary to send 22,000 troops into the Dominican Republic.

BUT TENSION finally dwindled there, American action in Viet Nam although greatly increased had lost its novelty, and more and more of the President's time was taken up with getting his programs through Congress.

And for months now he has not attempted a lengthy, detailed, and carefully reasoned explanation to the world. Thus he left a vacuum and the critics of American foreign policy stepped into it.

The criticism has come not only from abroad but from American school campuses and not only from Republicans in Congress but, much more vehemently, from some of Johnson's own Democrats there.

In particular one Democrat, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, attacked American policy in the Dominican Republic, and another, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, has been a thorn to Johnson on Viet Nam.

The House Republican leadership has raised questions on and off but never with the same head-on assaults of Fulbright and Morse.

AND PROTESTS on college campuses, even though only a minority of students was involved, have reached the point of parades and demonstrations. All this is ammunition for American critics abroad.

This week the need for a single, careful, authoritative American voice — meaning the President's — to discuss American foreign policy was illustrated by the CBS television show, "Town Meeting of the World."

Through a satellite relay, students in London, Belgrade, Paris and Mexico City were able to appear on television to question former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall.

It was an unsatisfactory performance all around and, on the part of the students, a hostile one. Amid sneers and apparent contempt the students quizzed the three distinguished Americans about this country's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

The three Americans —although Marshall said little and seemed angered by the attitude of the questioners — were sometimes too long, rambling or platitudinous.

And they certainly weren't always on the beam even though the questions themselves were part of a now familiar pattern of criticism of American policy.

This was hardly the way in which American foreign policy can be explained or understood and absorbed at home or abroad. The program made it clear that the need for such explanation can be filled by no one as well as Johnson.

YET, BECAUSE of the need for some peace and quiet to recover from his recent operation, Johnson is not likely to take the airways soon.

BARKER ON CHINA

Red Dragon Is Noisy But Really Cautious

By GEORGE BARKER

Peking's biggest export is fear and its biggest crop is babies. The two are interwoven like strands in some great fabric. The world fears that an aggressive China, multiplying at geometric rate, will explode by sheer pressure into Southeast Asia. Some people actually believe China's leaders think the country would be benefitted by a nuclear war; that they are so barbarous they would gladly sacrifice a third of their populace to ensure a higher standard of living for the remaining two-thirds.

THE CHINESE DRAGON breathes fire, thrashes its tail, paws the ground and roars loudly, but seldom attacks. China's recent withdrawal from the borders of Sikkim was typical Chinese behavior. Despite the bellicose propaganda which emanates from Peking, the leaders are quite cautious in their actions. In Korea they acted with the backing of the Soviet Union, but later China declared her independence of Russia and a mighty, unbridgable chasm now divides them. China's leaders know that war with the U.S. would do terrible damage to that nation's already weak industrial economy.

Contrary to the widespread popular notion that China could survive a nuclear war better than most countries, China is particularly vulnerable to nuclear attack because her industries are concentrated in a few places. We could make deserts of China's industrial centers and seats of political power.

Some people might call this a victory. Even with conventional weapons, the U.S. could probably make a shambles of Chinese industry in a short time.

To compare Mao's China to Hitler's Germany is like comparing an ill-tempered shrew with a man-eating tiger. Hitler had a massive armaments industry and the most advanced technological know-how. Thirty years ago Japan was mass-producing military aircraft. China has yet to produce a plane.

China has produced some fine scientists, but taken as a nation China is backward scientifically. By concentrating all her scientific know-how on producing an A-Bomb, China succeeded. But three or four leaves don't make a summer.

CHINESE INDUSTRY is really pitiable. Several months ago, I had the bright idea of making a chart which would dramatize this fact. I asked an artistic friend to make a bar graph, showing per capita production of certain key industries in the U.S. and Red China. I gave him some figures and in a week he was back—without the graph. He said that in everything except grain production, a thin pencil line for China would put the U.S. off the sheet of paper.

China's manpower is her most formidable asset, as well as her greatest weakness. War is an expensive business, which China, like India and Pakistan, can ill afford. China's leaders know this, but it may be doubted if the average Chinese, fed a steady diet of baloney, is quite as aware of this unpleasant fact.

I AM A SINOPHILE, but recognizing the realities of power in the Far East, I hope we can keep Japan with us. A resurgent militarism in Japan seems to me more menacing in the long run, than a weak China gnashing her teeth and growling.

IN THE STRANGE GAME of politics, considerable cat and mouse are played in connection with one's formal declaration of candidacy.

Ideally, an aspirant does his initial campaigning on the ostensible basis that he "is being urged by friends to seek the nomination."

At a psychological moment, he seemingly succumbs to the pressure of this urging and formally declares his candidacy (long before the date for formal filing of an official declaration of candidacy to get his name on the ballot.)

It all adds up to ritual which politicians think they must practice.

The results at times get silly.

Ronald Reagan, the best financed and best organized and staffed candidate, for instance, hasn't yet declared or announced his candidacy and, therefore, is still in the imagined position of trying to decide whether or not to run.

WITH FORMER GOVERNOR Knight, the situation is a bit different. He says privately to his supporters that he is in the race to stay and intends to continue campaigning up to election day. He will, he says, formally declare his candidacy when he thinks a public declaration will do him the most good.

It is hard to escape the idea that he really is still surveying the situation to see if he can generate enough enthusiastic support to have a good chance of winning. This means having campaign contributions in sight to finance the race.

Goody Knight is a realist. If he doesn't see enthusiasm rising for his candidacy among potential campaign workers and if he doesn't see campaign contributions heading his way, he will have the good judgment to pull out and preserve his dignity.

George Christopher is an impatient slugger. He has impatiently gone through the required rituals and just the other day made his "announcement of candidacy."

He will give Reagan some trouble. There are some curious things in Reagan's background and record which the public deserves to know. Christopher can be counted upon, in fairly gentlemanly fashion, to direct the public's attention to said items of curiosity in Reagan's background.

WARREN DORN, CHAIRMAN of the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors, is up to his ears in advocating a state constitutional amendment which would give to cities and counties the power to legislate their own "decency laws."

The question that politicos debate about Dorn is this:

Is he using this proposed constitutional amendment as a vehicle to get his name before the public as an initial step toward the GOP gubernatorial nomination, or is he using the possibility of his candidacy to further the campaign for his "decency" amendment?

THAT LEAVES "LOCK" WATERS. In a sense, he is a "progressive" Republican like Earl Warren and, therefore, could be counted upon to attract Democratic votes as did Warren and as does Republican U.S. Senator Thomas Kuchel.

Waters' background and experience —including service as U.S. Attorney for Southern California under Eisenhower) and in the state legislature — would seem to qualify him well for the governor's job.

When you talk to him, he's all business. You get well-considered answers to questions. He obviously has the capacity to give serious and well-reasoned leadership toward the solution of our state's problems.

Unfortunately, he lacks what is sometimes termed political sex appeal. That his, stage presence is too business-like; no warm personality shows through. In this, he is like Earl Warren, and unlike Ronald Reagan or Goody Knight or Nelson Rockefeller.

Lock Waters is the only aspirant who has brushed aside the traditional ritual and proceeded along simple, common sense lines. As soon as he became seriously interested in seeking the governorship, he said so in a declaration of candidacy. He has traveled about the state tirelessly ever since, meeting individuals and speaking before groups.

His lack of political sex appeal may prevent the development of a great wave of emotional support for him, but he could make the best governor California has had in many a year.

UNDERSTAND WHY YOU COUNT

The contempt of Adolph Hitler for the sacred worth of every person is summed up in his own words: "To the Christian doctrine of the infinite significance of the individual human soul . . . I oppose with icy clarity the saving doctrine of the nothingness and insignificance of the human being."

In many parts of the earth, human beings are still being taught that they are worth little more than animals. This degraded concept of man can have disastrous effects. A person who has no respect for himself seldom has respect for anyone else. He can be either coldly indifferent to the misery of others or even brutal toward them.

The better you comprehend your own divine value and eternal destiny, the more readily you recognize the same divine image in others and wish to treat them as brothers and sisters of a common Father . . . Keep in mind the old proverb: "Most of all reverence yourself."

Then you will better understand the divine commandment of love.

"What is man that You should be mindful of him . . . You have made him little less than the angels." (Psalm 8:5, 6)

Let me see in every person in the world, O heavenly Father, a reflection of Your bountiful goodness.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Another 'Crisis' In Americus, Ga.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As you know, a disproportionately large number of Marin residents are interested in various facets of the civil rights movement. Many of our young people in particular have spent time in the South doing work which was there to be done. At least two of these spent time in Americus, Ga., during a particularly critical period there last summer.

I believe, therefore, that your readers may be interested in the enclosed bulletin occasioned by still another "crisis" in Americus, and originating from the Davis campus of the University of California.

The need is obvious and urgent. Anyone wishing to help may do so by sending check or money order to Mr. Judson Ford, care of Barnum's Funeral Home, Americus, Ga.,

Stars Tournament Thanks Given

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We are most grateful to you and the members of your staff for the outstanding help and cooperation which we received in this year's Tournament of Stars.

We consider Jim Gilmartin to be a working member of our tournament committee since he came up with so many constructive ideas as well as excellent coverage of the event in your newspaper. Barbara Hosmer, Pat Zinn and Lois Sens in the society department also helped a great deal.

Although the final accounting has not been completed, we estimate the net proceeds from this year's event to be approximately $10,000, which is roughly three times as much as we netted last year. Although we had extensive radio and television coverage of this year's event, we see the ultimate potential of this tournament becoming a national event and are hopeful of having network television coverage next year. We also see many opportunities of increasing our net proceeds substantially in future years. None of this would have been possible without the excellent cooperation of your newspaper and the effective work of your competent staff. Our sincere thanks on behalf of the committee and the charities which benefit.

Why Communists Are Called Reds

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We are in grade four and during our recent current events discussion the question "Why are the communists called Reds?" was asked. We are having a hard time finding the answer to this question. Can you help us?

We wonder how many of your readers know why the communists are called "Reds."

(According to Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," the red flag was a symbol of insurrection and terrorism during the French Revolution. Red Republicans were extremists who never hesitated to dye their hands in blood to attain political goals. The red flag was adopted by the Bolsheviks in the Russian revolution. The Bolsheviks later became the Communist Party. Hence, "red" came to be identified with communists.—Editor)

Governor Brown Is Out Of Line

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Not only Simon Casady's but also every top-ranking individual's right to be heard is under fire.

Governor Brown has declared that as president of the California Democratic Council, Simon Casady was representing the views of the majority of the membership; and he asked him to resign so that "he would then be free to express his point of view as a private citizen." Is he not then affirming the right to free expression to the private citizens and denying it to those in leading positions? Is our freedom of speech confined solely to the private people whose voices are seldom, if ever, heard or heeded? Should not one's high position afford him an even wider range for free expression, especially since our country is suffering so much from imperfection and wrong leadership?

I am afraid Governor Brown is confusing our Democratic system of government with church government. A minister or a priest speaks for his church and represents its ideas; whereas in leadership outside of the church, the individual expresses his own ideas and represents only himself. Top voices must never be stifled, but rather highly scrutinized. Simon Casady no more represented the views of the membership of the Democratic Council than Edmund G. Brown represents the views of those over whom he presides.

One cannot strip another of his right to be heard without also depriving himself of the same privilege. The stripper is always left bare in the end.

Student Says U.S. Is 'Greatest'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to hear a few more comments supporting our government and its decision to be in the war in Viet Nam. If these student demonstrators would spend more time studying the situation in Viet Nam and less time marching and protesting, then the whole world would benefit.

Too many people are quick to criticize our government and President Lyndon B. Johnson. I am sure that if these protesters spent as much time researching and had as much experience in world affairs as our government, then maybe they could understand the U.S. policy.

America is the land of freedom and freedom of speech and opinion are two very wonderful freedoms. But let us think, reason, and place confidence in our elected representatives before we are so quick to criticize.

America is the greatest country in the world. Let's hear it once in a while.

Johnson's Views Needed Again To Explain Nation's Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missing for months has been a detailed address to the nation—and thus to the world — by President Lyndon Johnson on the aims and actions of American foreign policy.

He has made such explanations in the past, particularly on this country's role in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, when the United States was initiating or stepping up action in those places.

This was especially true last spring when he considered it necessary to send 22,000 troops into the Dominican Republic.

BUT TENSION finally dwindled there, American action in Viet Nam although greatly increased had lost its novelty, and more and more of the President's time was taken up with getting his programs through Congress.

And for months now he has not attempted a lengthy, detailed, and carefully reasoned explanation to the world. Thus he left a vacuum and the critics of American foreign policy stepped into it.

The criticism has come not only from abroad but from American school campuses and not only from Republicans in Congress but, much more vehemently, from some of Johnson's own Democrats there.

In particular one Democrat, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, attacked American policy in the Dominican Republic, and another, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, has been a thorn to Johnson on Viet Nam.

The House Republican leadership has raised questions on and off but never with the same head-on assaults of Fulbright and Morse.

AND PROTESTS on college campuses, even though only a minority of students was involved, have reached the point of parades and demonstrations. All this is ammunition for American critics abroad.

This week the need for a single, careful, authoritative American voice — meaning the President's — to discuss American foreign policy was illustrated by the CBS television show, "Town Meeting of the World."

Through a satellite relay, students in London, Belgrade, Paris and Mexico City were able to appear on television to question former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall.

It was an unsatisfactory performance all around and, on the part of the students, a hostile one. Amid sneers and apparent contempt the students quizzed the three distinguished Americans about this country's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

The three Americans —although Marshall said little and seemed angered by the attitude of the questioners — were sometimes too long, rambling or platitudinous.

And they certainly weren't always on the beam even though the questions themselves were part of a now familiar pattern of criticism of American policy.

This was hardly the way in which American foreign policy can be explained or understood and absorbed at home or abroad. The program made it clear that the need for such explanation can be filled by no one as well as Johnson.

YET, BECAUSE of the need for some peace and quiet to recover from his recent operation, Johnson is not likely to take the airways soon.

BARKER ON CHINA

Red Dragon Is Noisy But Really Cautious

By GEORGE BARKER

Peking's biggest export is fear and its biggest crop is babies. The two are interwoven like strands in some great fabric. The world fears that an aggressive China, multiplying at geometric rate, will explode by sheer pressure into Southeast Asia. Some people actually believe China's leaders think the country would be benefitted by a nuclear war; that they are so barbarous they would gladly sacrifice a third of their populace to ensure a higher standard of living for the remaining two-thirds.

THE CHINESE DRAGON breathes fire, thrashes its tail, paws the ground and roars loudly, but seldom attacks. China's recent withdrawal from the borders of Sikkim was typical Chinese behavior. Despite the bellicose propaganda which emanates from Peking, the leaders are quite cautious in their actions. In Korea they acted with the backing of the Soviet Union, but later China declared her independence of Russia and a mighty, unbridgable chasm now divides them. China's leaders know that war with the U.S. would do terrible damage to that nation's already weak industrial economy.

Contrary to the widespread popular notion that China could survive a nuclear war better than most countries, China is particularly vulnerable to nuclear attack because her industries are concentrated in a few places. We could make deserts of China's industrial centers and seats of political power.

Some people might call this a victory. Even with conventional weapons, the U.S. could probably make a shambles of Chinese industry in a short time.

To compare Mao's China to Hitler's Germany is like comparing an ill-tempered shrew with a man-eating tiger. Hitler had a massive armaments industry and the most advanced technological know-how. Thirty years ago Japan was mass-producing military aircraft. China has yet to produce a plane.

China has produced some fine scientists, but taken as a nation China is backward scientifically. By concentrating all her scientific know-how on producing an A-Bomb, China succeeded. But three or four leaves don't make a summer.

CHINESE INDUSTRY is really pitiable. Several months ago, I had the bright idea of making a chart which would dramatize this fact. I asked an artistic friend to make a bar graph, showing per capita production of certain key industries in the U.S. and Red China. I gave him some figures and in a week he was back—without the graph. He said that in everything except grain production, a thin pencil line for China would put the U.S. off the sheet of paper.

China's manpower is her most formidable asset, as well as her greatest weakness. War is an expensive business, which China, like India and Pakistan, can ill afford. China's leaders know this, but it may be doubted if the average Chinese, fed a steady diet of baloney, is quite as aware of this unpleasant fact.

I AM A SINOPHILE, but recognizing the realities of power in the Far East, I hope we can keep Japan with us. A resurgent militarism in Japan seems to me more menacing in the long run, than a weak China gnashing her teeth and growling.

Canadian Tory Seeks To Recapture Vote-Getting Title

By BEN BASSETT
Associated Press Writer

John Diefenbaker, once the greatest vote-getter in Canadian history, is trying for a comeback in Canda's national election Nov. 8.

As head of the Conservative (Tory) party, Diefenbaker seeks to unseat the Liberals of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson as the leading party in Canada's Parliament.

Pearson, in turn, hopes to improve the standing of his party, which holds only 127 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. He has been able to run the government only with the support of minor parties. This time he seeks a clearcut majority.

That, in fact, is why he called the election.

In Canada the party in power needs to go to the voters only after five years, unless it is brought down in the meantime on a question of confidence. Since the last election was held in 1963, Pearson might have struggled along until 1968. But he decided to call an election with the expectation of increasing the number of Liberal seats in the Commons.

The Liberals were Canada's dominant party for 22 years in this century—at the period of the New Deal in Washington and in the immediate postwar years. The Liberal leaders who were prime ministers in this long tenure were W. L. McKenzie King and Louis St. Laurent.

Diefenbaker was the giant killer. The prairie lawyer led his Tories to victory in 1957, winning 42 per cent of the Commons seats. The Liberals took 39 per cent and minor parties and independents 19 per cent.

Diefenbaker saw his chance to increase this margin, and called another election in 1958. That polling brought him an unprecedented victory and tabbed him as Canada's champion vote-magnet. His Conservatives took 78 per cent of the House of Commons.

Diefenbaker and his party lost much of their appeal in the ensuing four years. In 1962's election the Conservatives could win only 44 per cent of the seats, against the Liberals' 38 per cent.

This election was so indecisive that Diefenbaker had to go to the polls again in 1963, but the Liberals took 49 per cent of the seats and the Conservatives dropped to 35. That put Diefenbaker out of office and brought in Pearson as Prime Minister.

Pearson's lack of a majority over the combined opposition—the Conservatives and minor parties such as the New Democratic and Social Credit groups—has hampered the government in dealing effectively with such problems as Frence-speaking Canada's demands for a larger voice in its affairs.

Quebec, the province where most French-speaking Canadians live, has tended to go Liberal in recent elections, and there is no sign of any significant change this year. The other big province, Ontario, also went Liberal last time by about a 2-1 margin but Diefenbaker's forces hope for gains there.

The Conservatives have been successful in the Prairie provinces, and can't make many gains there. In fact the Liberals hope to cut into the Tory strength in these lightly populated areas.

Diefenbaker, at 70, must make a showing in this election if he is to remain as leader of the Conservative forces. In fact his leadership has been under attack in the last few years, but now most Conservative Party chiefs, including those who dislike Diefenbaker, are closing ranks behind him.

Just before Diefenbaker bowed out as prime minister his government almost disintegrated under the impact of a controversy over Canada's taking nuclear warheads for missiles, in agreement with the United States.

Pearson, 68, was foreign secretary under St. Laurent and won the Nobel peace prize in 1956 for his part in resolving the Suez crisis. This year his regime has been beset by a series of scandals, but it is doubtful how many of the voters will connect Pearson personally with responsibility for the actions of some of the men under him.

Non-Candidate Brown's Campaign Kitty Elevates Some Eyebrows

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The business of soliciting campaign contributions—a business second in age only to the business of politics—caused a stir in the capitol last week when it was revealed Gov. Edmund G. Brown's aides were putting the bite on political appointees.

While no one felt there was anything especially new in a governor accepting monetary expressions of confidence and gratitude from his appointees, the present case had two notable different twists: 1) Brown has not announced he will seek reeelction and, in fact, will not make known his plans until after Jan. 1; and 2) This solicitation included a schedule of minimum and optimum contributions based on salaries, ranging from $100-$250 for persons making $12,000 a year or less to $1,250-$1,500 for persons in the $25,000 bracket or higher.

Brown said the collections were made without his knowledge by persons who wanted him to run for a third term. His executive secretary, Winslow Christian, was believed to be the organizer of the effort.

There was a question as to whether any of the solicitations and collections were made on state time and on state property—as prohibited by law. Brown said he was sure this hadn't happened but several of the collectors were seen making their rounds in state buildings and during working hours.

Laughlin E. Waters, former U.S. attorney in southern California who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor next year, called for an investigation by the attorney general into possible law violations. Brown said he would welcome any investigation of possible violations.

Another Republican has tossed his hat into the ring in the race for governor next year. George Christopher, former mayor and supervisor in San Francisco, made his official announcement in a flying trip around the state.

The candidacy of Christopher, an avowed moderate, caused few surprises as he had been making speeches like a candidate for some time. Christopher said he hoped the so-called moderates would permit him to represent that philosophy alone in the primary, in an obvious reference to what he feels is the need to beat the front-running GOP candidate, Ronald Reagan. Christopher, who served two terms on the San Francisco supervisors and twice was mayor of that city, has been unsuccessful in statewide campaigns for lieutenant governor and U.S. senator.

A voluminous report by Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger has cleared the California highway patrol officers involved of any wrongdoing in the arrests which are believed to have touched off the Watts riots in Los Angeles county in August. There had been charges that the officers were responsible for starting the uprising through improper actions.

Meanwhile, Governor Brown said the report from his special commission investigating the Watts riots may report by Dec. 1, rather than Jan. 1, and that the commission may be retained for two years in order to see what happens to its recommendations.

The liquor license of a San Francisco bar featuring "topless" waitresses has been ordered revoked by the department of alcoholic beverage control, but only on charges indirectly connected with the waitress' nudity. James O. Reimel, ABC director, said charges were filed against the premises and, when officers investigated later, they were beaten by patrons and a bartender.

The revocation was ordered on the beating charge and a 30-day suspension ordered on the topless charge. Reimel said he is in the process of preparing a rule which would set standards of dress or undress for employees in licensed premises.

California consumers enjoy rates for natural gas, electric and telephone service among the lowest in the nation, an annual survey of the state public utilities commission has indicated. The study covered the 25 largest cities in the country and, of these, San Francisco had the lowest rates of the 25.

Los Angeles had the second lowest rates and San Diego ranked 11th. A combined charge for all services for a typical residence amounted to $15.96 per month in San Francisco, $16.49 in Los Angeles and $19.66 in San Diego. The combined charges of 14 of the largest cities were above $20 per month, to a high of $34.86 in Boston.

Governor Brown's family was in the news again. It was revealed that one of his sons-in-law, Joseph Kelly, a San Francisco attorney, was representing the American Machine & Foundry firm, manufacturers of an anti-smog device. The special session of the legislature was opened to include consideration of changes in the smog law. However, both Brown and an AMF represenaative said Kelly had not even discussed the subject with the governor.

Twin-Gemini Try Set

By U. P. International

Two manned capsules will keep a date in space soon if America's newest step toward landing a man on the moon is successful.

The White House announced this week that Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 would attempt to whiz around the world side-by-side "like two cars on a super highway."

Unlike Monday's aborted rendezvous attempt the vehicles will not try to make physical contact. It is planned to have them sail within feet of each other with their occupants in a position to take snapshots, talk by voice radio and exchange greetings.

Gemini 7 will blast off first on a 14-day endurance flight as previously planned. Gemini 6 will leave the launching pad about a week later and attempt to creep up to Gemini 7 and fly alongside it for approximately two days.

Each capsule will carry two astronauts during the space spectacular scheduled for early January. Informed sources said, however, it could take place as early as Dec. 8.

If successful the project would wipe out much of the scientific and prestige setback sustained by Monday's scrubbing of the rendezvous effort.

In connection with that setback, scientists are investigating the failure of the Agena target rocket to orbit, a development which caused the cancellation of the docking mission.

Around The World, Around The Clock:

SAIGON: Communist Viet Cong suicide squads, attacking two bases 60 miles apart, destroyed or damaged 47 aircraft in mortar and hand grenade attacks. It was the worst loss suffered by U.S. and south Vietnamese Air Force installations at the hand of the guerrillas.

VATICAN CITY: A major decree of the Ecumenical Council's final session, exonerating the Jewish people of any collective guilt for Christ's death, was made effective by Pope Paul VI.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia: Rhodesia appeared determined to go on with its push toward independence despite the threat of world counter-measures. A week-long visit by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in an attempt to dissuade Rhodesia from making any unilateral declaration of independence had apparently met with failure.

BRASILIA, Brazil: President Humberto Castello issued a decree suspending all political parties and giving himself virtually dictatorial powers.

OSLO: UNICEF, the United Nation's Children's Fund, was awarded the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize. The 18 year old agency will receive the $57,000 award in ceremonies at Oslo University in December.

State Acts To Prevent Babies' Brain Damage

BERKELEY (AP)—The State Board of Public Health adopted regulations yesterday for tests, beginning Jan. 1, of babies for a brain-damaging disorder which leads to mental retardation.

The disorder is called, in simplest form, PKU. Spelled out it is phenylketonuria, an hereditary ailment.

The regulations: As soon as practical after the baby leaves the nursery, the hospital is to draw a blood sample. Within 36 hours, the hospital must send the sample to an approved laboratory for testing. The laboratory has five days to make findings.

Officials said the disease involves a body's inability to use phenylalanine (part of the protein in food). If this can be identified early enough in infancy, the effects can be avoided by use of a special diet free of that part of the protein food which a child cannot metabolize.

Investigators say that foods such as meat, fish, eggs, milk and most cereals are harmful to babies with PKU. In order for such a child to have protein for normal growth, a synthetic substitute must be used. The substitute utilizes an amino acid mixture made from a natural protein from which phenylalanine has been removed.

British Columbians Flirting With Secession Thoughts

By WILLIAM CLEMENGER

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—Canada worries about Quebec. It may break away from the Confederation of Canadian Provinces.

But Quebec is not the only province where there is talk of secession. Some observers here have suggested that there is more danger of British Columbia leaving the confederation than Quebec.

Provinces like Manitoba and Saskatchewan could not "go it alone" should the central government break down. But British Columbia with its vast resources and solid west coast U. S. market, could survive very nicely on its own.

In fact, some claim, it might even grow richer, not have to contribute as it does now to federal subsidization of the poorer provinces.

To put it simply, British Columbia exports while eastern Canada imports. Without British Columbia's exports to the U.S., economists say the imbalance in commodity trade which occurs each year would reach unbearable proportions.

Economic independence creates in British Columbia its own secessionist, or more correctly, anti-central government, forces.

B.C. Premier W.A.C. Bennett, during his recent trade mission to Japan, told Japanese officials he felt closer to Tokyo in some ways than to Ottawa, home of the central Canadian government.

He was referring to the tremendous expansion of trade between British Columbia and Japan, and although he was only joking, his remark riled Ottawa, currently wrangling with Bennett's government over a number of jurisdictional issues including offshore mineral rights and the question of provincial ownership of shares in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

One of Bennett's right hand men, Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi, told Ottawa recently "to keep its cotton picking fingers off B.C.'s off shore minerals."

Gaglardi, Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark and other B.C. cabinet ministers have made front page news across Canada in recent months with anti-Ottawa remarks concerning a variety of issues.

More ominously, some recent comments by cabinet members indicate the British Columbia government may have been curious about public reaction to union with the U.S. Something of a trial balloon was launched.

The public rejected the idea, although opposition could not be termed "violent."

It has been estimated that it costs British Columbia $100 million a year to stay in confederation and Bennett said last month, "B.C. is being bled to death by Ottawa."

British Columbia gets back only 21 per cent of the taxes collected by the federal government. "we are the only government outside Ontario which doesn't get equalization grant in addition to this," Bennett has said.

"Ontario, being the central province (and) close to the capital, gets all the benefits. B.C. pays the largest tribute in taxes because we have the highest wages and income tax is highest per person."

Quebec's motive for secession is more racial and linguistic. Its people are largely French in heritage. British Columbia's motive is economic. The question Ottawa worries about is which motive is stronger.

Destructive Mobs Erode Ancient 'Rights Of Legation' Overseas

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In less than two years more than 40 U.S. embassies, consulates, libraries and other non-military installations in some 21 countries have been damaged by mob attacks, according to new U.S. government figures.

Total damage since the beginning of 1964: an estimated $952,000.

Library books destroyed or damaged: roughly 98,600 volumes.

Mob violence against U.S. diplomatic installations abroad has been on the rise in recent years. The problem is more than cost in dollars or loss of the knowledge in books.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has spoken of it as a modern "erosion" of historic "rights of legation," affecting the "very heart of the structure of international relations."

MOB'S TARGET—United States Information Service library in Jakarta, Indonesia, shown in 1964 photo, is typical of what happens in mob demonstrations against foreign powers' embassies and other diplomatic quarters. Indonesians have been most frequent offenders of any, against American legations. (UPI File Telephoto)

The State Department's historical office recently prepared a 95-page report listing assaults which resulted in damage to U.S. diplomatic, consular and information installations abroad from the turn of the century to August, 1965.

Applying a little arithmetic to the report leads to the following conclusions:

From 1900 through 1945 there were 14 incidents in eight countries. Some of these, and some listed below, were multiple incidents involving attacks on more than one outpost in a country at about the same time.

From 1946 through 1956 there were 15. Since the beginning of 1960 there have been 64.

As a matter of record, demonstrators have thrown rocks, bottles, gasoline, ink, tomatoes, mangoes, hand grenades, Molotov cocktails, iron bolts, ball bearings, bricks, chunks of ice and plastic bags filled with oil. They have employed rifles, shotguns, machine-guns, bamboo poles and dynamite.

Since the beginning of 1964, analysis of the report plus other data shows attacks resulting in damage to:

Thirteen U.S. embassies in Panama, Cyprus, Gabon, Sudan, United Arab Republic, Czechoslovakia, Russia, three times, Burundi, South Viet Nam, twice, Indonesia, three times, Ghana, Cambodia and Venezuela.

At least 22 U.S. Information Agency installations in Panama, Cambodia, Bolivia, Pakistan, Sudan, UAR, Burundi, South Viet Nam, Malaysia, Ghana, Venezuela, British Guiana and Indonesia.

Five U.S. consulates, two legations and two diplomatic residences.

Eight U.S. flags damaged or hauled down, in Panama, Cambodia, Sudan, Czechoslovakia, Indonesia, Chile and Cambodia.

At least 19 American automobiles overturned or damaged.

Five coats of arms removed or defaced.

The most costly single attack appears to have been the sacking of the U.S. Information Agency library in Cairo Nov. 26, 1964, a loss estimated at $560,000. U.A.R. President Nasser has since given the United States 1,000 books and free temporary quarters for a new library.

In recent years Indonesia has been the scene of most frequent attacks, 10 sets of incidents since 1961, many involving more than one installation.

Records show that the Russians always promptly compensate the U.S. for damage, or repair it themselves. Other countries sometimes pay and sometimes don't.

Officials could locate no figure on how much of the total damage has been compensated, but it is relatively small.

Secretary Rusk has complained that in too many cases local police seem to be lax to such a degree that it appeared the local government "connived or acquiesced in" allegedly spontaneous citizens' demonstrations.

"It has taken several centuries to get these rights of legation on a stable basis," Rusk recently said. "It is not necessary that governments always agree with each other. But it is necessary, if they are to have communication and some chance to establish relationships on a reciprocal basis, that these elementary rights of legation be fully respected."

Teacher Says Cars Not Vital

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—Some things Americans regard as necessities for a happy life really aren't necessary, says a Fulbright scholar, home after a year in Vienna.

"Most European students don't have nearly as much money as American students and few of them drive cars," says Jean Sloop, a music professor at Kansas State University.

Canadian Tory Seeks To Recapture Vote-Getting Title

By BEN BASSETT
Associated Press Writer

John Diefenbaker, once the greatest vote-getter in Canadian history, is trying for a comeback in Canda's national election Nov. 8.

As head of the Conservative (Tory) party, Diefenbaker seeks to unseat the Liberals of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson as the leading party in Canada's Parliament.

Pearson, in turn, hopes to improve the standing of his party, which holds only 127 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. He has been able to run the government only with the support of minor parties. This time he seeks a clearcut majority.

That, in fact, is why he called the election.

In Canada the party in power needs to go to the voters only after five years, unless it is brought down in the meantime on a question of confidence. Since the last election was held in 1963, Pearson might have struggled along until 1968. But he decided to call an election with the expectation of increasing the number of Liberal seats in the Commons.

The Liberals were Canada's dominant party for 22 years in this century—at the period of the New Deal in Washington and in the immediate postwar years. The Liberal leaders who were prime ministers in this long tenure were W. L. McKenzie King and Louis St. Laurent.

Diefenbaker was the giant killer. The prairie lawyer led his Tories to victory in 1957, winning 42 per cent of the Commons seats. The Liberals took 39 per cent and minor parties and independents 19 per cent.

Diefenbaker saw his chance to increase this margin, and called another election in 1958. That polling brought him an unprecedented victory and tabbed him as Canada's champion vote-magnet. His Conservatives took 78 per cent of the House of Commons.

Diefenbaker and his party lost much of their appeal in the ensuing four years. In 1962's election the Conservatives could win only 44 per cent of the seats, against the Liberals' 38 per cent.

This election was so indecisive that Diefenbaker had to go to the polls again in 1963, but the Liberals took 49 per cent of the seats and the Conservatives dropped to 35. That put Diefenbaker out of office and brought in Pearson as Prime Minister.

Pearson's lack of a majority over the combined opposition—the Conservatives and minor parties such as the New Democratic and Social Credit groups—has hampered the government in dealing effectively with such problems as Frence-speaking Canada's demands for a larger voice in its affairs.

Quebec, the province where most French-speaking Canadians live, has tended to go Liberal in recent elections, and there is no sign of any significant change this year. The other big province, Ontario, also went Liberal last time by about a 2-1 margin but Diefenbaker's forces hope for gains there.

The Conservatives have been successful in the Prairie provinces, and can't make many gains there. In fact the Liberals hope to cut into the Tory strength in these lightly populated areas.

Diefenbaker, at 70, must make a showing in this election if he is to remain as leader of the Conservative forces. In fact his leadership has been under attack in the last few years, but now most Conservative Party chiefs, including those who dislike Diefenbaker, are closing ranks behind him.

Just before Diefenbaker bowed out as prime minister his government almost disintegrated under the impact of a controversy over Canada's taking nuclear warheads for missiles, in agreement with the United States.

Pearson, 68, was foreign secretary under St. Laurent and won the Nobel peace prize in 1956 for his part in resolving the Suez crisis. This year his regime has been beset by a series of scandals, but it is doubtful how many of the voters will connect Pearson personally with responsibility for the actions of some of the men under him.

Non-Candidate Brown's Campaign Kitty Elevates Some Eyebrows

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The business of soliciting campaign contributions—a business second in age only to the business of politics—caused a stir in the capitol last week when it was revealed Gov. Edmund G. Brown's aides were putting the bite on political appointees.

While no one felt there was anything especially new in a governor accepting monetary expressions of confidence and gratitude from his appointees, the present case had two notable different twists: 1) Brown has not announced he will seek reeelction and, in fact, will not make known his plans until after Jan. 1; and 2) This solicitation included a schedule of minimum and optimum contributions based on salaries, ranging from $100-$250 for persons making $12,000 a year or less to $1,250-$1,500 for persons in the $25,000 bracket or higher.

Brown said the collections were made without his knowledge by persons who wanted him to run for a third term. His executive secretary, Winslow Christian, was believed to be the organizer of the effort.

There was a question as to whether any of the solicitations and collections were made on state time and on state property—as prohibited by law. Brown said he was sure this hadn't happened but several of the collectors were seen making their rounds in state buildings and during working hours.

Laughlin E. Waters, former U.S. attorney in southern California who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor next year, called for an investigation by the attorney general into possible law violations. Brown said he would welcome any investigation of possible violations.

Another Republican has tossed his hat into the ring in the race for governor next year. George Christopher, former mayor and supervisor in San Francisco, made his official announcement in a flying trip around the state.

The candidacy of Christopher, an avowed moderate, caused few surprises as he had been making speeches like a candidate for some time. Christopher said he hoped the so-called moderates would permit him to represent that philosophy alone in the primary, in an obvious reference to what he feels is the need to beat the front-running GOP candidate, Ronald Reagan. Christopher, who served two terms on the San Francisco supervisors and twice was mayor of that city, has been unsuccessful in statewide campaigns for lieutenant governor and U.S. senator.

A volumious report by Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger has cleared the California highway patrol officers involved of any wrongdoing in the arrests which are believed to have touched off the Watts riots in Los Angeles county in August. There had been charges that the officers were responsible for starting the uprising through improper actions.

Meanwhile, Governor Brown said the report from his special commission investigating the Watts riots may report by Dec. 1, rather than Jan. 1, and that the commission may be retained for two years in order to see what happens to its recommendations.

The liquor license of a San Francisco bar featuring "topless" waitresses has been ordered revoked by the department of alcoholic beverage control, but only on charges indirectly connected with the waitress' nudity. James O. Reimel, ABC director, said charges were filed against the premises and, when officers investigated later, they were beaten by patrons and a bartender.

The revocation was ordered on the beating charge and a 30-day suspension ordered on the topless charge. Reimel said he is in the process of preparing a rule which would set standards of dress or undress for employees in licensed premises.

California consumers enjoy rates for natural gas, electric and telephone service among the lowest in the nation, an annual survey of the state public utilities commission has indicated. The study covered the 25 largest cities in the country and, of these, San Francisco had the lowest rates of the 25.

Los Angeles had the second lowest rates and San Diego ranked 11th. A combined charge for all services for a typical residence amounted to $15.96 per month in San Francisco, $16.49 in Los Angeles and $19.66 in San Diego. The combined charges of 14 of the largest cities were above $20 per month, to a high of $34.86 in Boston.

Governor Brown's family was in the news again. It was revealed that one of his sons-in-law, Joseph Kelly, a San Francisco attorney, was representing the American Machine & Foundry firm, manufacturers of an anti-smog device. The special session of the legislature was opened to include consideration of changes in the smog law. However, both Brown and an AMF represenaative said Kelly had not even discussed the subject with the governor.

Twin-Gemini Try Set

By U. P. International

Two manned capsules will keep a date in space soon if America's newest step toward landing a man on the moon is successful.

The White House announced this week that Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 would attempt to whiz around the world side-by-side "like two cars on a super highway."

Unlike Monday's aborted rendezvous attempt the vehicles will not try to make physical contact. It is planned to have them sail within feet of each other with their occupants in a position to take snapshots, talk by voice radio and exchange greetings.

Gemini 7 will blast off first on a 14-day endurance flight as previously planned. Gemini 6 will leave the launching pad about a week later and attempt to creep up to Gemini 7 and fly alongside it for approximately two days.

Each capsule will carry two astronauts during the space spectacular scheduled for early January. Informed sources said, however, it could take place as early as Dec. 8.

If successful the project would wipe out much of the scientific and prestige setback sustained by Monday's scrubbing of the rendezvous effort.

In connection with that setback, scientists are investigating the failure of the Agena target rocket to orbit, a development which caused the cancellation of the docking mission.

Around The World, Around The Clock:

SAIGON: Communist Viet Cong suicide squads, attacking two bases 60 miles apart, destroyed or damaged 47 aircraft in mortar and hand grenade attacks. It was the worst loss suffered by U.S. and south Vietnamese Air Force installations at the hand of the guerrillas.

VATICAN CITY: A major decree of the Ecumenical Council's final session, exonerating the Jewish people of any collective guilt for Christ's death, was made effective by Pope Paul VI.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia: Rhodesia appeared determined to go on with its push toward independence despite the threat of world counter-measures. A week-long visit by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in an attempt to dissuade Rhodesia from making any unilateral declaration of independence had apparently met with failure.

BRASILIA, Brazil: President Humberto Castello issued a decree suspending all political parties and giving himself virtually dictatorial powers.

OSLO: UNICEF, the United Nation's Children's Fund, was awarded the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize. The 18 year old agency will receive the $57,000 award in ceremonies at Oslo University in December.

State Acts To Prevent Babies' Brain Damage

BERKELEY (AP)—The State Board of Public Health adopted regulations yesterday for tests, beginning Jan. 1, of babies for a brain-damaging disorder which leads to mental retardation.

The disorder is called, in simplest form, PKU. Spelled out it is phenylketonuria, an hereditary ailment.

The regulations: As soon as practical after the baby leaves the nursery, the hospital is to draw a blood sample. Within 36 hours, the hospital must send the sample to an approved laboratory for testing. The laboratory has five days to make findings.

Officials said the disease involves a body's inability to use phenylalanine (part of the protein in food). If this can be identified early enough in infancy, the effects can be avoided by use of a special diet free of that part of the protein food which a child cannot metabolize.

Investigators say that foods such as meat, fish, eggs, milk and most cereals are harmful to babies with PKU. In order for such a child to have protein for normal growth, a synthetic substitute must be used. The substitute utilizes an amino acid mixture made from a natural protein from which phenylalanine has been removed.

British Columbians Flirting With Secession Thoughts

By WILLIAM CLEMENGER

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—Canada worries about Quebec. It may break away from the Confederation of Canadian Provinces.

But Quebec is not the only province where there is talk of secession. Some observers here have suggested that there is more danger of British Columbia leaving the confederation than Quebec.

Provinces like Manitoba and Saskatchewan could not "go it alone" should the central government break down. But British Columbia with its vast resources and solid west coast U. S. market, could survive very nicely on its own.

In fact, some claim, it might even grow richer, not have to contribute as it does now to federal subsidization of the poorer provinces.

To put it simply, British Columbia exports while eastern Canada imports. Without British Columbia's exports to the U.S., economists say the imbalance in commodity trade which occurs each year would reach unbearable proportions.

Economic independence creates in British Columbia its own secessionist, or more correctly, anti-central government, forces.

B.C. Premier W.A.C. Bennett, during his recent trade mission to Japan, told Japanese officials he felt closer to Tokyo in some ways than to Ottawa, home of the central Canadian government.

He was referring to the tremendous expansion of trade between British Columbia and Japan, and although he was only joking, his remark riled Ottawa, currently wrangling with Bennett's government over a number of jurisdictional issues including offshore mineral rights and the question of provincial ownership of shares in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

One of Bennett's right hand men, Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi, told Ottawa recently "to keep its cotton picking fingers off B.C.'s off shore minerals."

Gaglardi, Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark and other B.C. cabinet ministers have made front page news across Canada in recent months with anti-Ottawa remarks concerning a variety of issues.

More ominously, some recent comments by cabinet members indicate the British Columbia government may have been curious about public reaction to union with the U.S. Something of a trial balloon was launched.

The public rejected the idea, although opposition could not be termed "violent."

It has been estimated that it costs British Columbia $100 million a year to stay in confederation and Bennett said last month, "B.C. is being bled to death by Ottawa."

British Columbia gets back only 21 per cent of the taxes collected by the federal government. "we are the only government outside Ontario which doesn't get equalization grant in addition to this," Bennett has said.

"Ontario, being the central province (and) close to the capital, gets all the benefits. B.C. pays the largest tribute in taxes because we have the highest wages and income tax is highest per person."

Quebec's motive for secession is more racial and linguistic. Its people are largely French in heritage. British Columbia's motive is economic. The question Ottawa worries about is which motive is stronger.

Destructive Mobs Erode Ancient 'Rights Of Legation' Overseas

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In less than two years more than 40 U.S. embassies, consulates, libraries and other non-military installations in some 21 countries have been damaged by mob attacks, according to new U.S. government figures.

Total damage since the beginning of 1964: an estimated $952,000.

Library books destroyed or damaged: roughly 98,600 volumes.

Mob violence against U.S. diplomatic installations abroad has been on the rise in recent years. The problem is more than cost in dollars or loss of the knowledge in books.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has spoken of it as a modern "erosion" of historic "rights of legation," affecting the "very heart of the structure of international relations."

The State Department's historical office recently prepared a 95-page report listing assaults which resulted in damage to U.S. diplomatic, consular and information installations abroad from the turn of the century to August, 1965.

Applying a little arithmetic to the report leads to the following conclusions:

From 1900 through 1945 there were 14 incidents in eight countries. Some of these, and some listed below, were multiple incidents involving attacks on more than one outpost in a country at about the same time.

From 1946 through 1956 there were 15. Since the beginning of 1960 there have been 64.

As a matter of record, demonstrators have thrown rocks, bottles, gasoline, ink, tomatoes, mangoes, hand grenades, Molotov cocktails, iron bolts, ball bearings, bricks, chunks of ice and plastic bags filled with oil. They have employed rifles, shotguns, machine-guns, bamboo poles and dynamite.

Since the beginning of 1964, analysis of the report plus other data shows attacks resulting in damage to:

Thirteen U.S. embassies in Panama, Cyprus, Gabon, Sudan, United Arab Republic, Czechoslovakia, Russia, three times, Burundi, South Viet Nam, twice, Indonesia, three times, Ghana, Cambodia and Venezuela.

At least 22 U.S. Information Agency installations in Panama, Cambodia, Bolivia, Pakistan, Sudan, UAR, Burundi, South Viet Nam, Malaysia, Ghana, Venezuela, British Guiana and Indonesia.

Five U.S. consulates, two legations and two diplomatic residences.

Eight U.S. flags damaged or hauled down, in Panama, Cambodia, Sudan, Czechoslovakia, Indonesia, Chile and Cambodia.

At least 19 American automobiles overturned or damaged.

Five coats of arms removed or defaced.

The most costly single attack appears to have been the sacking of the U.S. Information Agency library in Cairo Nov. 26, 1964, a loss estimated at $560,000. U.A.R. President Nasser has since given the United States 1,000 books and free temporary quarters for a new library.

In recent years Indonesia has been the scene of most frequent attacks, 10 sets of incidents since 1961, many involving more than one installation.

Records show that the Russians always promptly compensate the U.S. for damage, or repair it themselves. Other countries sometimes pay and sometimes don't.

Officials could locate no figure on how much of the total damage has been compensated, but it is relatively small.

Secretary Rusk has complained that in too many cases local police seem to be lax to such a degree that it appeared the local government "connived or acquiesced in" allegedly spontaneous citizens' demonstrations.

"It has taken several centuries to get these rights of legation on a stable basis," Rusk recently said. "It is not necessary that governments always agree with each other. But it is necessary, if they are to have communication and some chance to establish relationships on a reciprocal basis, that these elementary rights of legation be fully respected."

MOB'S TARGET—United States Information Service library in Jakarta, Indonesia, shown in 1964 photo, is typical of what happens in mob demonstrations against foreign powers' embassies and other diplomatic quarters. Indonesians have been most frequent offenders of any, against American legations.

Box Lunches For Uncle Sam's Airmen

Small Kitchen At Hamilton Is Performing A Big Job

In a small, spotless and secluded corner of hangar seven at Hamilton Air Force Base, a food service unit busily prepares and packages more than 485 flight lunches a day.

Dubbed the "In-Flight Kitchen," this tiny three-man section is usually hard at work, fulfilling requests for in-flight lunches for the feeding of passengers, air crews, and alert personnel at the North Marin Air Defense Command base.

Considered support personnel, since they are not on flying status, these individuals have more than their share of work, sustaining flying units in meeting mission requirements.

WORKING IN dining hall "whites," the trio manages to prepare the food, package it, and still have time to arrange a variety of menus for flight lunches.

Cardboard containers no larger than an ordinary shoe box are used for the lunches. A2C Arthur Horsfall of Ukiah, Calif., says he packs sandwiches, vegetables, fruits, pastries, beverages, eggs, spreads and seasonings for breakfast, lunch and dinner meals, on a 24-hour basis.

Milk is placed in the lunch boxes last to prevent spoilage, and the sandwiches are sealed electrically to retain freshness.

SINCE SOME requests for flight lunches arrive only minutes before flight time, the In-Flight Kitchen is geared for last minute preparations. The exception is that a two-hour advance notice is needed for fried chicken.

Although the emphasis seems to be on "rush," Hamilton personnel already are aware that a real stress is placed in the In-Flight Kitchen on "care."

T/Sgt. Lee Montague of Philadelphia, Pa., supervising the operation, notes that no complaints have been received concerning the service since the facility opened a few years ago.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS have been added, of course, and with modern conveniences—like the electrical sealer for sandwich wrappers and the meat slicer — jobs are accomplished

Box Lunches For Uncle Sam's Airmen

Small Kitchen At Hamilton Is Performing A Big Job

In a small, spotless and secluded corner of hangar seven at Hamilton Air Force Base, a food service unit busily prepares and packages more than 485 flight lunches a day.

Dubbed the "In-Flight Kitchen," this tiny three-man section is usually hard at work, fulfilling requests for in-flight lunches for the feeding of passengers, air crews, and alert personnel at the North Marin Air Defense Command base.

Considered support personnel, since they are not on flying status, these individuals have more than their share of work, sustaining flying units in meeting mission requirements.

WORKING IN dining hall "whites," the trio manages to prepare the food, package it, and still have time to arrange a variety of menus for flight lunches.

Cardboard containers no larger than an ordinary shoe box are used for the lunches. A2C Arthur Horsfall of Ukiah, Calif., says he packs sandwiches, vegetables, fruits, pastries, beverages, eggs, spreads and seasonings for breakfast, lunch and dinner meals, on a 24-hour basis.

Milk is placed in the lunch boxes last to prevent spoilage, and the sandwiches are sealed electrically to retain freshness.

Swift of Hamilton Air Force Base's "In-Flight Kitchen" personnel work together in the packing of flight lunches for personnel of the air base. Sergeant Montague checks his menus while Airman Swift packs the food. (Air Force photos)

SINCE SOME requests for flight lunches arrive only minutes before flight time, the In-Flight Kitchen is geared for last minute preparations. The exception is that a two-hour advance notice is needed for fried chicken.

Although the emphasis seems to be on "rush," Hamilton personnel already are aware that a real stress is placed in the In-Flight Kitchen on "care."

T/Sgt. Lee Montague of Philadelphia, Pa., supervising the operation, notes that no complaints have been received concerning the service since the facility opened a few years ago.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS have been added, of course, and with modern conveniences—like the electrical sealer for sandwich wrappers and the meat slicer — jobs are accomplished

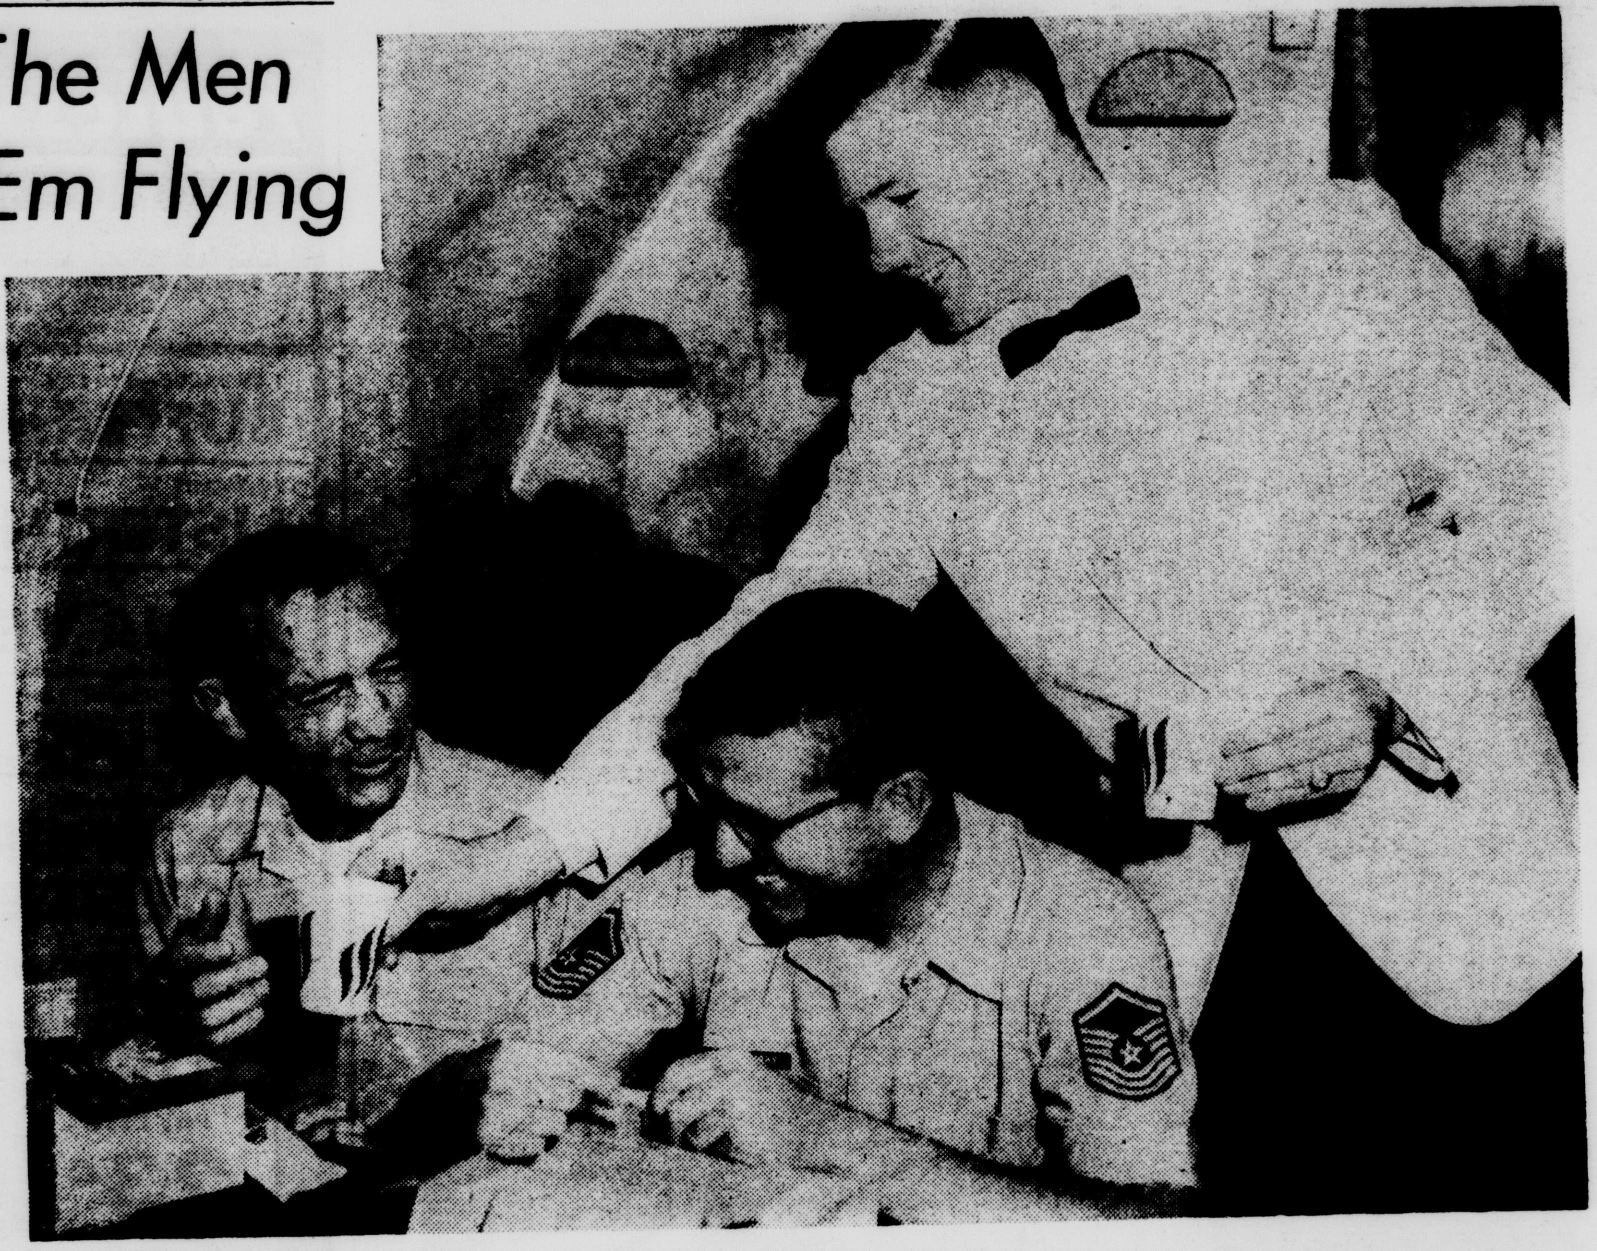
They Feed The Men Who Keep 'Em Flying



IT'S GOOD eating aboard a T-29 aircraft en route from Hamilton Air Force Base to Air Defense Command Headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo. A1C William Holden, flight steward, provides Sgts. quicker and with greater efficiency.

In day-to-day operations at the In-Flight Kitchen, there is the packaging to accomplish, the stock level to maintain, and on-the-job training for younger airmen working there.

Since variety seems to be the key to better appetites, menus are periodically changed and improved.

WHEN LUNCHES are ready for delivery, a telephone call to nearby operations will result in passengers picking up their individual box lunches prior to flight time.

How much are the lunches?

For temporary duty persons, the lunches are at government expense. For personnel on leave the cost is 85 cents. And if the individual is on separate rations, a mere 40 cents will buy a lunch.

FOR PASSENGERS on most United States Air Force aircraft, coffee or tea is served with the lunch at no extra charge. In many instances, flight stewards serve the beverages and assist with other mealtime requirements.

Whatever those requirements might be, the passenger with a flight lunch prepared and boxed at Hamilton's In-Flight Kitchen is assured of a well-balanced meal while enroute to his destination, which may be a half-hour or as much as 10 hours from the Air Defense Command installation.

THERE A TV TOUCH TO HALLOWEEN GARB

It's almost Halloween, and assorted spooky creatures will be prowling the streets of Marin tomorrow night, asking "tricks or treats?"

But whereas ghosts and witches once predominated, little girls in "Mary Poppins" costumes and boys garbed and masked as characters from "The Munsters" television show are more prevalent now.

Walter Zurcher, owner of the San Rafael Toy Shop, says that the influence of the movies and TV are apparent in the sales popularity of masks and costumes at his store.

Walt Disney's Daniel Boone, for instance, is one new disguise that has received an enthusiastic reception from Marin boys.

Animal costumes, many of these, too, derived from television characters, remain the favorites of the smallest children.

Girls may prefer to dress as pretty princesses.

But for the boys, it's skeletons, hoboes, clowns, devils, and, of course, the monstrous Munsters.

Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax snapped pictures as children from the Meadowsweet School in Corte Madera visited the San Rafael Toy Shop and indicated their preferences from among the array of Halloween costumes offered there. A lion, one of the Munsters and a fairy princess won out among the three children followed by photographer Hax. And those choices, says Zurcher, are just about typical of the selections being made this year by little Marinites.

FREDDY AND Charles proceed with the donning of their Halloween costumes, already chortling at the thought of the fun that lies ahead when they go "trick or treating."

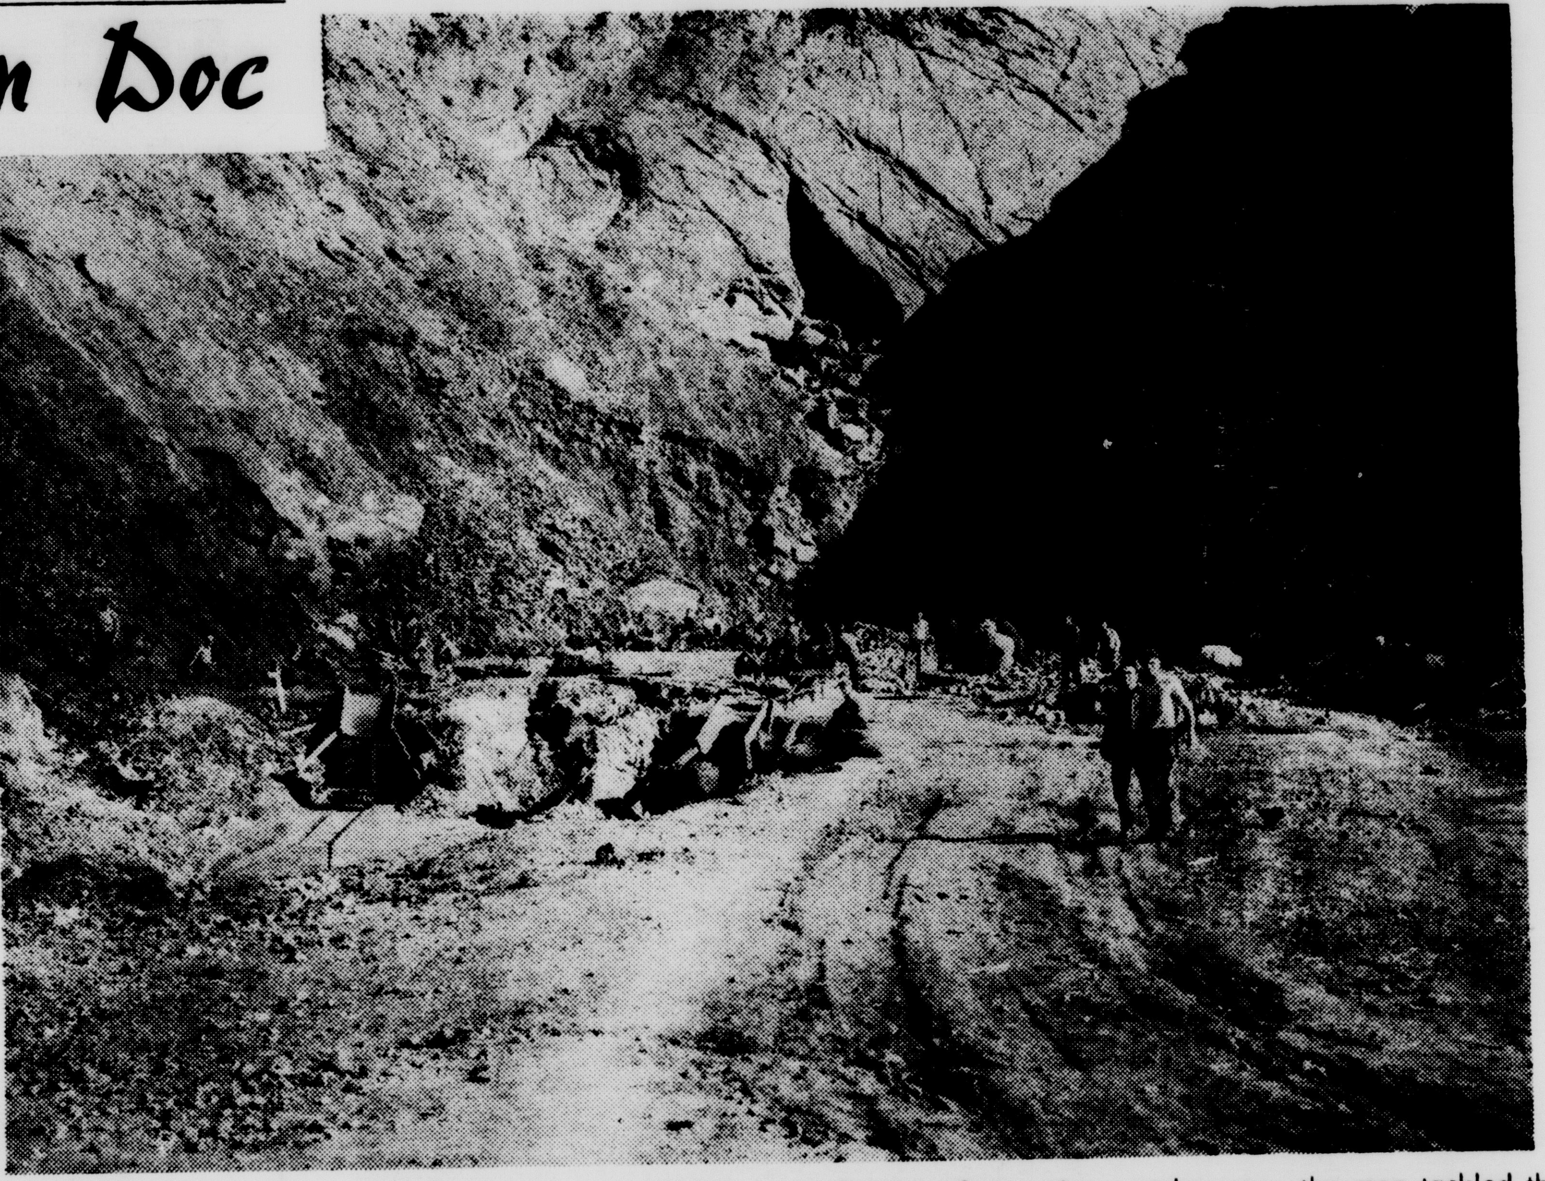
The Prison Doc

The Swim Pool Was Never Built

(Editor's Note: Dr. Leo L. Stanley served for many years as chief medical officer at San Quentin State Prison. From time to time he has written stories for the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, based upon his experiences while on the prison staff. This is another of that series.)

By DR. LEO L. STANLEY



EXCAVATION WAS under way at the quarry at San Quentin Prison for a swimming pool with natural rock base and walls and capturing and holding fresh spring water when this photograph was taken in 1933. Dr. Leo L. Stanley, then acting warden, says the men tackled the project with tremendous enthusiasm. But all went for naught. A public uproar over alleged "coddling of the cons" denied the prisoners their pool.

What? A swimming pool for convicts?

Ridiculous! What is this world coming to?

Swimming pools are only for fancy clubs and private homes. Will they never stop coddling those cons?

These were just some of the reactions from the public, most of them highly uncomplimentary, when the press heard of and publicized the idea that a swimming pool might be built for San Quentin's prisoners.

THIS ALL OCCURRED while I was acting warden in 1933, serving at the request of Warden James B. Holohan, who was on leave because of illness.

In the less modern part of the prison then there were four long four-tiered brick and stone cell blocks. Between each of them was an alley.

The first one was known as "Kid Alley." It was there the younger prisoners were celled. This was an attempt to keep them away from the possible bad influence of some of the older convicts.

THE NEXT ALLEY was known as "Crazy Alley." In the cells facing this narrow passageway were housed some of the mildly insane prisoners, the ones who were peculiar, the ones who were "a little teched," and some of those who just could not get along with the others.

In the third alley was located the latrines and sumps. It was there that every morning at "unlock time," one inmate from each cell would carry his night bucket, empty its contents, put in a scoop of quick lime, and then return the bucket to the cell.

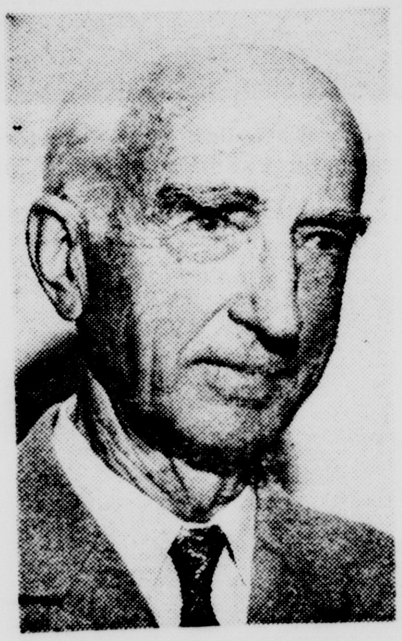
Here, also, in this alley, was a rather small and shallow concrete-lined depression which could be filled with salt water from the bay. Some of the men enjoyed taking a little wade in this "pool," and the guards did not prohibit this.

SALT WATER showers were provided at the jute mill and in some of the shops. But one bath a week was considered sufficient, available when the prisoner came to the laundry for his regular change of clothing.

There were many things which I felt could be remedied and improved with very little expense, and some of these were on behalf of common decency and cleanliness. But I did not know how long I would be the acting warden and I did not want to do anything which Warden Holohan, upon his return, would think was done to undermine him and to retain my position.

I made numerous tours of the prison, something I could do but which Holohan, because of his ill health, had been unable to do. I saw many conditions which could be improved upon.

CLEAN-UP GANGS were organized. These, under the supervision of a reliable "con boss," did wonders in policing the grounds. And the men in these work gangs were kept busy and out of trouble.



DR. LEO L. STANLEY
He was acting warden

Some of the buildings needed paint or whitewash. Work of this kind was beneficial to the men as well as the institution.

But I must say that none of these improvements was accomplished without the knowledge, consent and encouragement of the members of the board of prison directors, who visited the prison frequently.

IN THE HILLSIDE above the walled enclosure was the quarry. This had been in existence since the beginning of construction of San Quentin in 1851. Tons and tons of sandstone had been taken out, much of it to build the cell blocks and walls. Some of it had been broken into smaller pieces, too, for road ballast.

It had gotten to be quite a sizable hole.

From the sides, numerous small veins of fresh water had been uncovered, and there was a nice stream of pure water flowing into a sump. From this, a few iron pipes and ditches were installed to conduct this fluid to some of the garden areas below the quarry. There the prisoners, with proper approval, were permitted to plant small plots of tomatoes, lettuce, beans and other vegetables for their own personal consumption.

QUARRY WORK is extremely dusty. Some of the men had even built makeshift showers. Piping laid along the ground in the hot sun warmed the water to a comfortable level.

On an inspection tour one day with the president of the directors, I remarked that in the early days the warden had reported that he thought the health of the inmates was so good because he insisted that once a week the men be required to bathe in the salt water of the bay.

At the quarry, remembering the popularity of the small wading pond in the alley between the cell blocks, I pointed out the springs of fresh water to the board president and suggested that it might be a fine thing for "the boys" if they were allowed to excavate a rectangular area in the sandstone so that the fresh water could flow into it and form a swimming pool.

THE SANDSTONE so excavated could be used for construction purposes along with that already being dug from the side of the hill. And the stored water would serve as fire protection, or for additional garden development.

The president thought this was a capital idea. It would save on use of water that was then costing the institution more than $1,000 a month from the Marin Municipal Water District.

The prisoners were appraised of the plan and were greatly pleased. Never, in so short a time, had so much sandstone been quarried. And never among working inmates had I seen such enthusiasm.

THEN THE WORD leaked out. I understand the president of the board informed the press himself. It was then that the great uproar took place about the "coddling of cons."

In defending my action, I asserted that I was not coddling the men, but instead was doing only those things which I felt to be decent and beneficial. I had visited numerous prisons throughout the world, I noted, and some of them had pools.

After all, wasn't cleanliness next to Godliness?

THE PRIVILEGE of using the pool could be employed as a reward for good conduct, I pointed out. And there were many other reasons I advanced on behalf of the project.

I knew Warden Holohan would be perturbed by the uproar. So I wrote him:

"I sincerely hope you will not be troubled by the newspaper report of the swimming pool at San Quentin. At the quarry the men have dug a hole in the solid rock. They have been encouraged to make this a place where they can bathe.

"The board of prison directors, on an inspection trip, saw this. The remark was made that it might be well to have a larger one for the men in the yard. Our master mechanic, accordingly, was asked to draw up plans and estimates.

"The announcement to the papers was made by the president of the board."

BUT, UPON HIS return from sick leave, it was plain that Warden Holohan was not pleased. Some of his "friends" had gotten his ears and filled him with a lot of nonsense about my trying to get his job.

The rift in our friendship was finally patched. But the swimming pool never eventuated.

And the quarry excavation finally was filled with rubble and broken sandstone.

Thus ended one early and seemingly mild and sensible attempt at "prison reform."

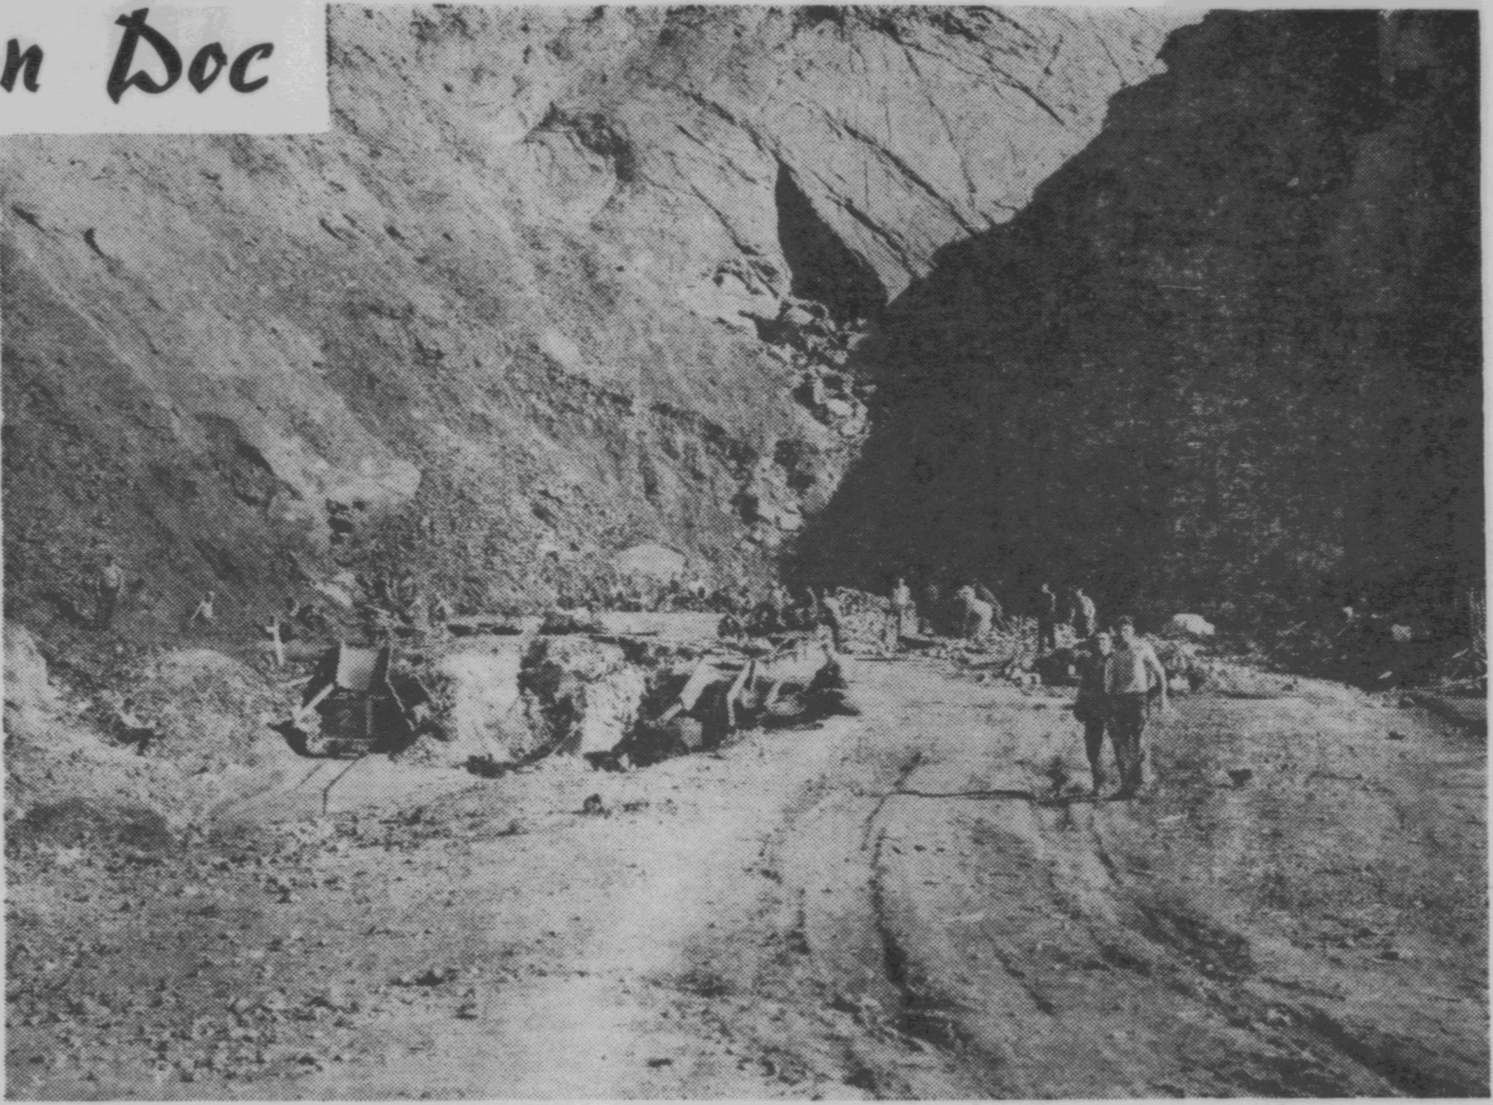
The Prison Doc

The Swim Pool Was Never Built

(Editor's Note: Dr. Leo L. Stanley served for many years as chief medical officer at San Quentin State Prison. From time to time he has written stories for the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, based upon his experiences while on the prison staff. This is another of that series.)

By DR. LEO L. STANLEY



EXCAVATION WAS under way at the quarry at San Quentin Prison for a swimming pool with natural rock base and walls and capturing and holding fresh spring water when this photograph was taken in 1933. Dr. Leo L. Stanley, then acting warden, says the men tackled the project with tremendous enthusiasm. But all went for naught. A public uproar over alleged "coddling of the cons" denied the prisoners their pool.

What? A swimming pool for convicts?

Ridiculous! What is this world coming to?

"AN APARTMENT ON a deck" is what interior designer Clement Cointe calls this home he planned for himself and his wife. The basic design is a cube. All rooms open onto the deck except the bathrooms. Although floor space totals but 1,600 square feet, the sweeping deck creates the appearance of far more room.

The House That Is Designed Like A Cube

Its Planner Calls It 'An Apartment Set On A Deck'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

An extraordinary combination of continental elegance with small size and easy maintenance may be seen in the house that interior designer Clement Cointe planned as a home for himself and his wife Marion.

Located at 4 Eagle Rock Road on the knoll just east of the Alto overpass near Mill Valley, it is actually an apartment on a deck, he says. The 1,000-square-foot deck encircling the house adds to the impression of size.

It is all wood, painted sienna, or brownish pink, with white trim and looks like many houses seen in Italy, according to Cointe. It is so landscaped, however, that there are no garden problems.

"WE CAN JUST close it up when we travel," he says.

"The basic design," he explains, "is a cube. I got the idea from a picture of a house I saw five years ago. Because it was square, the architect, Richard Platt, called it 'The Decorated Box,' and it showed what can be done with the cube.

"Our house has only 1,600 square feet of floor space. The deck is the key to its success, for the plan wouldn't work without it. You can go out onto the deck from any room except the bathrooms, and this avoids constant traffic through the house."

Not only is the house designed without wasted space, but all of the decoration is planned to give the illusion of more space than there is.

As an interior designer Clem Cointe was well equipped to do this. A member of the American Institute of Design, he has recently become associated with Western Contract Furnishers in San Francisco, but decorating has been a lifelong occupation. He attended the California School of Fine Arts, going subsequently into the furniture business, department store work and designing in wholesale furniture.

Some of the devices he has used to increase the illusion of space are high ceilings, receding colors, the same floors of square vinyl tiles throughout the house and matching wallpaper and fabrics.

Entry to the house is through a high-ceilinged formal reception hall. From there one steps into the living room, which has an adjoining dining area separated from the living area only by marbleized vinyl columns which continue around the perimeter of the dining area.

These columns, together with arched windows near the top of the 15-foot ceiling—ceilings are 10 feet in the living area—give the look of a Venetian palazio.

In decor and furnishings the rooms have a continental feeling with color scheme in blue, gold and white taken from a handsome picture over the fireplace, which is a copy of an old English one. The blue adds to the illusion of size.

In accordance with a period in which they were used, the oriental is integrated with the continental, especially French influences. Among oriental art objects is a huge Coromandel screen.

DESPITE ITS elegance, Mrs. Cointe says, cleaning is simple, for the vinyl walls, ceilings and bisque-white nylon rug are all washable, and shutters are used rather than drapes and curtains.

Instead of closing doors to shut off the dining room with its unattractive after-dinner appearance, one may darken the area so that the impression of space is retained.

A separate area of two bedrooms and two baths has been combined to form a suite so that though the rooms are not large, the allocation of space to closets

Elegance In A House That's Small

and drawers is so integrated that the size factor is not important.

The master bedroom, in pomegranate and white, has an interesting decorator touch in the space above the bed. Cointe had a small black and white print, one in a series of stylized French garden scenes, blown up to fit that space.

"The high ceiling," the designer points out, "eliminates steam on the mirror."

Adjoining the master bedroom is a TV and dressing room in black, gold and beige. Walls are vinylized marble paper, and closets instead of doors have pull-down shades of the same paper, again increasing the illusion of greater size.

Window treatment is unusual here. Camouflaging small, plain windows and giving better proportion in relation to the furniture are black frames extending beyond the real windows on one side with nylon curtains stretched taut top and bottom to eliminate flapping. Art in this room is from the Far East.

The guest bedroom in French powder blue and gray has French toile wallpaper and matching fabrics on the couch, another size-increasing trick. Since this is the only room facing on the street, gray slat shades can be pulled down behind the framed windows for privacy.

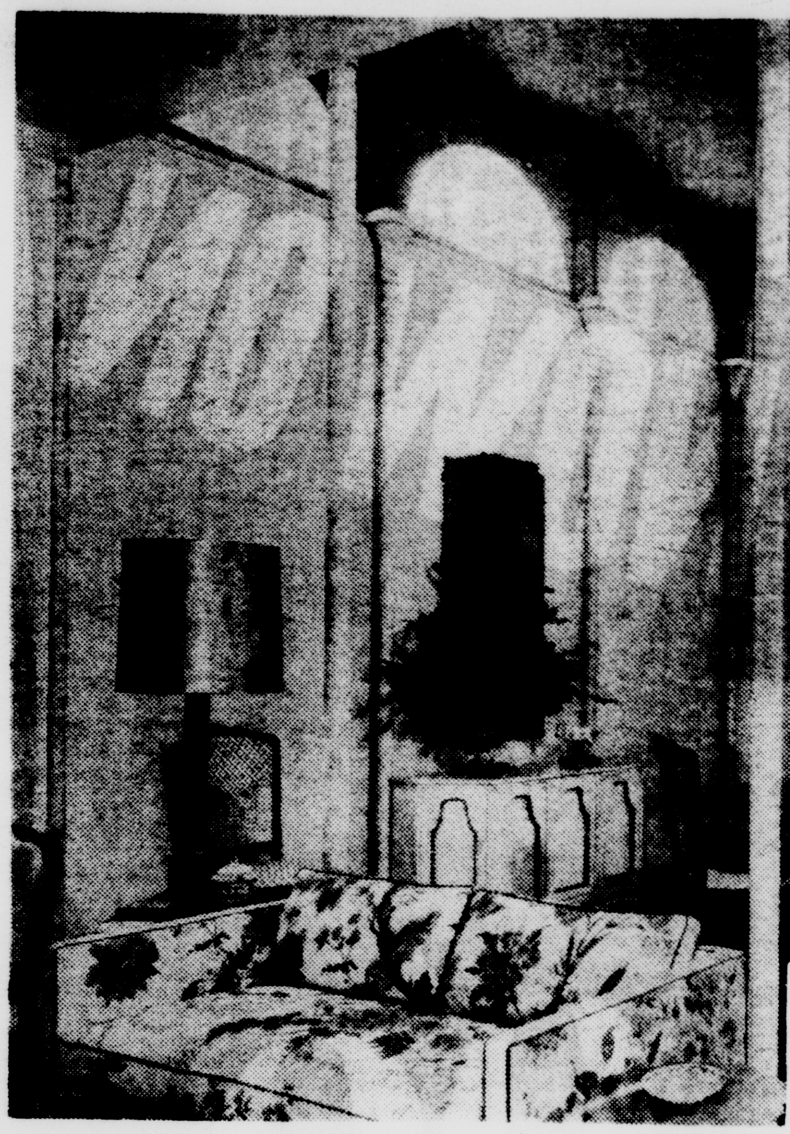
The guest bathroom, which doubles as a powder room, is very elegant with marble topped sink, gold lavatory fixtures and crystal light fixtures. A picture hides the door of the medicine cabinet.

Two features are most interesting in the all-electric kitchen. A border above the cabinets and below the ceiling is composed of motifs cut from a hand-printed Swedish fabric, plasticized and applied with black tape.

IN THE center of the room is what the designer calls a portable island. On casters so that it may be moved anywhere in the room, it is a square table with leaf on each of two opposite sides with drawers and cupboards on the other two sides. It is electrically wired so that the appliances stored in the cupboards may be used with greatest convenience.

Below the house, which is on a hill, is a laundry and storage area nine feet by 40 feet. Two bedrooms and another bath could be developed above grade so that they would have the same view as that from the deck.

Much of the work in this remarkable and very colorful house, such as painting, glazing and marbleizing, was done by the designer himself.



ONE OF THE MOST distinctive rooms in the Cointes' home is this dining room in which the high arched windows and columns around the perimeter of the room give the look of a Venetian palazio. The 14-foot ceilings increase the impression of size in this small house.

IN THE GUEST ROOM, designer Clement Cointe has used matching wallpaper and fabric to make a room look larger than it is, an impression increased by the color scheme of French powder blue and gray. The elegance of the guest room bath makes possible its use as a powder room.

CONCENTRATED IN the gold, black and beige TV-dressing room are numerous pieces of Oriental art, which decorator Clem Cointe has used elsewhere in the house. Walls are vinylized marble paper.

"Why Did My Husband's Trouser Waist Band Stretch?"

The stretch-type waist band trousers are more and more popular. For that reason more and more complaints are being received about enlarged waist bands.

These stretch-type waist bands are generally produced by wrapping a rubber core with cotton. During wear the cotton wrapping constantly chafes the rubber, weakening it. In drycleaning the weakened rubber breaks and the waist of the trousers would fit a hippo. Unfortunately there is nothing that can be done to restore the rubber core.

The fault is in the manufacture and the offending trousers should be returned to the store where they were purchased.

The guest bedroom in French powder blue and gray has French toile wallpaper and matching fabrics on the couch, another size-increasing trick. Since this is the only room facing on the street, gray slat shades can be pulled down behind the framed windows for privacy.

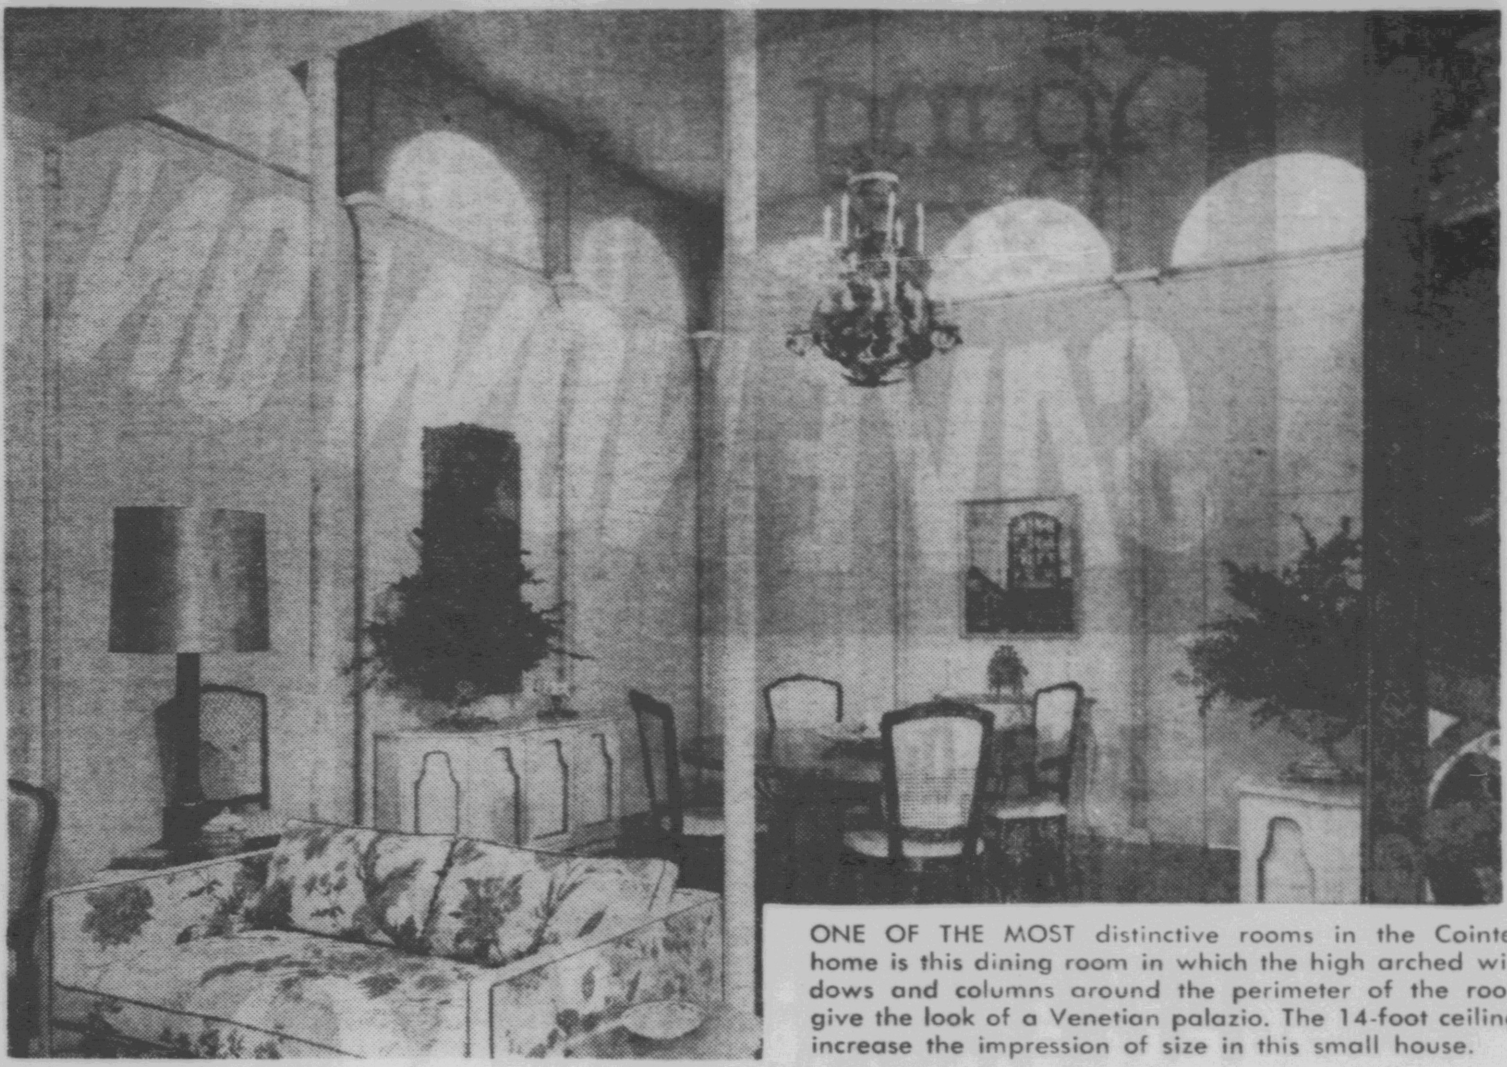
The guest bathroom, which doubles as a powder room, is very elegant with marble topped sink, gold lavatory fixtures and crystal light fixtures. A picture hides the door of the medicine cabinet.

Two features are most interesting in the all-electric kitchen. A border above the cabinets and below the ceiling is composed of motifs cut from a handprinted Swedish fabric, plasticized and applied with black tape.

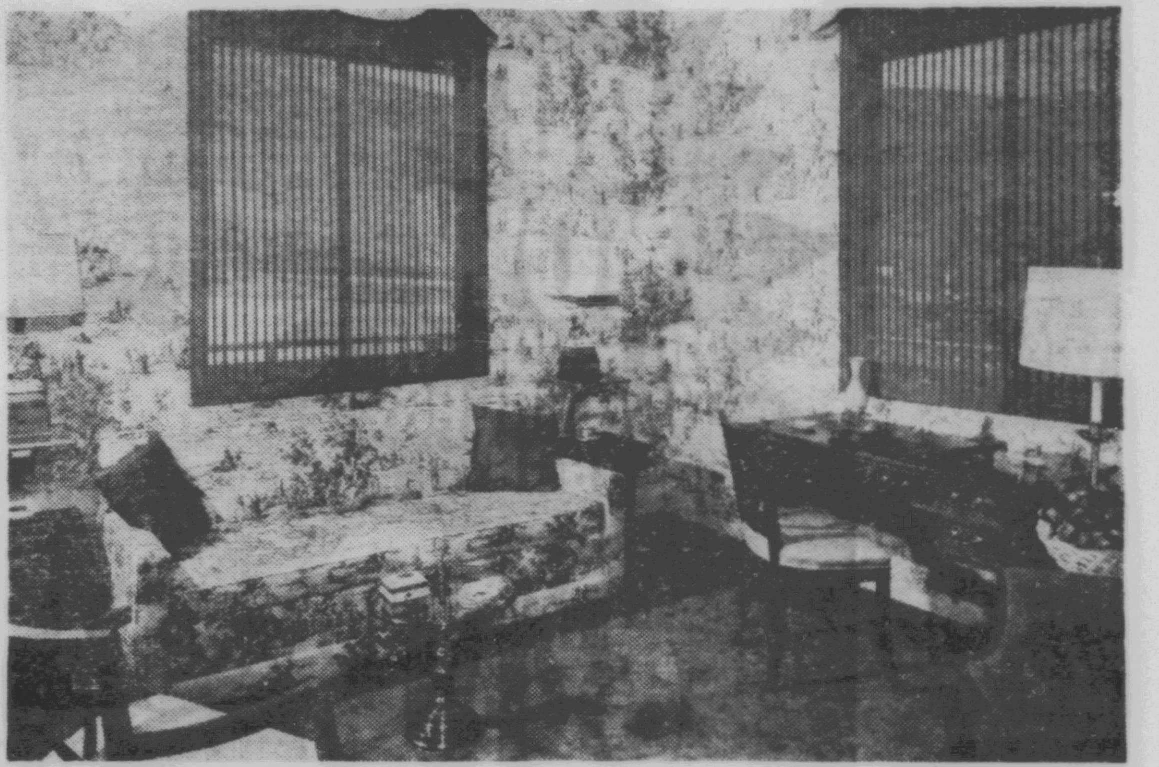
IN THE center of the room is what the designer calls a portable island. On casters so that it may be moved anywhere in the room, it is a square table with leaf on each of two opposite sides with drawers and cupboards on the other two sides. It is electrically wired so that the appliances stored in the cupboards may be used with greatest convenience.

Below the house, which is on a hill, is a laundry and storage area nine feet by 40 feet. Two bedrooms and another bath could be developed above grade so that they would have the same view as that from the deck.

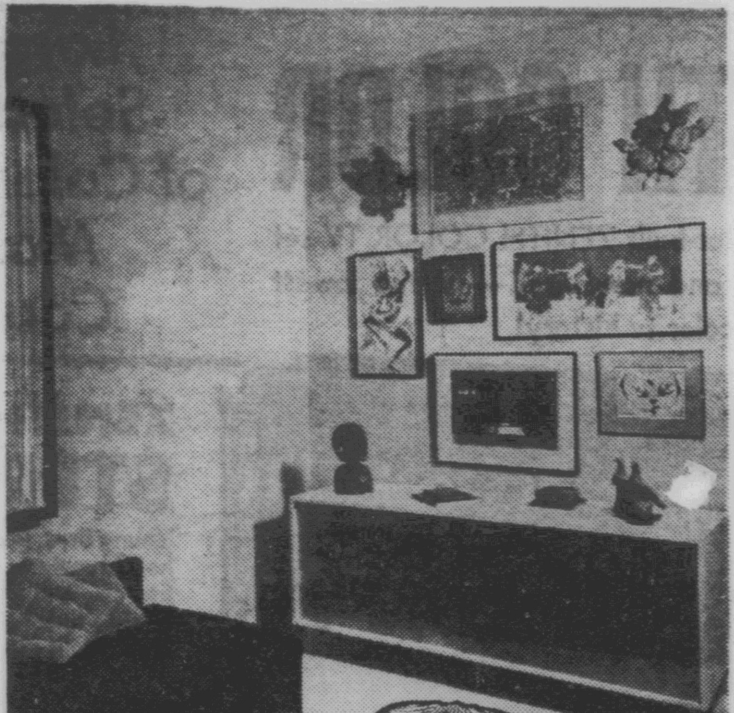
Much of the work in this remarkable and very colorful house, such as painting, glazing and marbleizing, was done by the designer himself.



ONE OF THE MOST distinctive rooms in the Cointes' home is this dining room in which the high arched windows and columns around the perimeter of the room give the look of a Venetian palazio. The 14-foot ceilings increase the impression of size in this small house.



IN THE GUEST ROOM, designer Clement Cointe has used matching wallpaper and fabric to make a room look larger than it is, an impression increased by the color scheme of French powder blue and gray. The elegance of the guest room bath makes possible its use as a powder room.



CONCENTRATED IN the gold, black and beige TV-dressing room are numerous pieces of Oriental art, which decorator Clem Cointe has used elsewhere in the house. Walls are vinylized marble paper.

"Why Did My Husband's Trouser Waist Band Stretch?"

The stretch-type waist band trousers are more and more popular. For that reason more and more complaints are being received about enlarged waist bands.

These stretch-type waist bands are generally produced by wrapping a rubber core with cotton. During wear the cotton wrapping constantly chafes the rubber, weakening it. In drycleaning the weakened rubber breaks and the waist of the trousers would fit a hippo. Unfortunately there is nothing that can be done to restore the rubber core.

The fault is in the manufacture and the offending trousers should be returned to the store where they were purchased.

A Novel Of The Middle East, And A Hollywood Biography

By DON KEOWN

THE MULE ON THE MINARET by Alec Waugh, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 506 pages, $6.95.

MARILYN: THE TRAGIC VENUS by Edwin Hoyt, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 279 pages, $5.95.

The principal characters of Alec Waugh's "The Mule on the Minaret" are involved in intelligence work. Yet this novel should not be confused with the current spate of spy thriller fiction.

Far more important than their field of endeavor are the characters themselves. And the North African-Middle Eastern setting of World War II is another essential factor.

Waugh, writing his first novel in six years, has turned out an epic story through which run many threads. These strands are woven expertly into a well-meshed, cohesive book. Such a multifaceted plot could easily have become unwieldly or disorganized. But Waugh keeps his characters distinct as individuals, even as their relationships mingle and intermingle.

It is essentially the story of a group of men grasping for their proper niche in a war effort for which most of them are ill-suited.

Noel Reid, a scholar of considerable repute, is the central character. Assigned to counter-espionage work, first in Beirut, then in Baghdad, Reid has less difficulty than his colleagues in adjusting to his new conditions.

MARILYN MONROE
A thirst for fame

The switch, however, effects great changes in his outlook toward the life he has left behind in England. What had then seemed a satisfactory, if not wholly satisfying, existence now appears dull and incomplete, especially in light of his new relationship with his beautiful co-worker Diana Challis.

Others in his circle and those who become involved with them undergo tests and changes of their own. Reid, however, remains the key figure. It is through him that the author makes his prime point. Ultimately, Reid learns and acknowledges that while he must forego the idyllic in the postwar world, he can still savor a certain contentment. Total happiness, he finds, is not attainable, and is not a necessity.

Waugh has written an absorbing book. There is a considerable grasp of the political climate of the time, in the manner of a Sir Charles Snow, with none of the rather ponderous overtones of that writer. Waugh's account of World War II intelligence work is based upon personal experience, and its authenticity is apparent. But more important is Waugh's keen feeling for human reactions and inter-reactions. This is what makes his novel a superior one. It would be almost—although not quite—as absorbing, were his characters engaged in a somewhat less glamorous occupation.

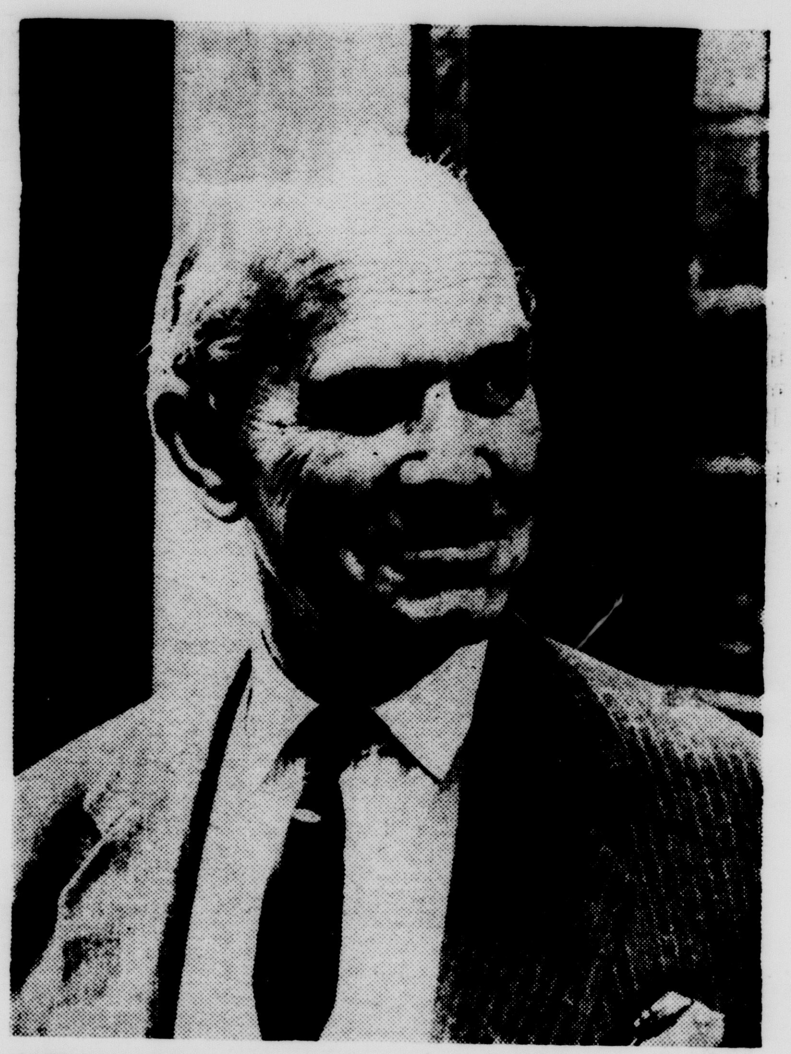
BIOGRAPHER Edwin P. Hoyt has written a frank and penetrating account of the life of Hollywood sex goddess Marilyn Monroe in his "Marilyn: The Tragic Venus."

In it, he presents a vastly different Marilyn from the one pictured by the movie gossip columnists.

Far from being exploited, he tells us, the actress was driven and tormented—by a personal goal and by a thirst for fame.

She was, however, a contradictory character, full of paradoxes, complex, ridden by uncertainties.

Hoyt feels that Marilyn Monroe might have led a happier, more satisfied life if she had indeed been the victim of manipulators and exploiters, as she has so often been pictured. She was, Hoyt believes, incapable of charting her own course. But she insisted upon doing so, and none of her husbands, associates or friends was permitted to interfere.



ALEC WAUGH is the author of some 40 books, but "The Mule on the Minaret" is his first novel to be published in six years. It represents his most ambitious undertaking since "Island in the Sun." He is intimately acquainted with the Middle East which provides the setting for his new novel.

Hoyt also presents many sympathetic aspects of the Monroe personality. He contrasts sharply the on-camera and off-camera Marilyns. He makes it clear that in real life, despite her inner problems, Marilyn was no dumb blonde. Nor was she without acting talent.

Hoyt presents his story of Marilyn Monroe from sordid beginnings to international celebrity status to tragic death in an interesting, highly readable manner, and with considerably more taste and understanding than these candid biographies are sometimes handled — i.e., Irving Shulman's "Harlow." Still, there is a squeamish feeling that comes from reading any of these very personal, completely candid biographies. It is present as you read this book. And yet, undeniably, the story of "The Tragic Venus" makes for engrossing reading.

The fascination that lured millions to theater boxoffices remains, although it somehow seems a bit unhealthy now.

711 — OFFICER NEEDS HELP by Whit Masterson, Dodd, Mead, 213 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The veteran Whit Masterson has written a generally solid crime novel that becomes just a bit soft in its concluding chapters.

Homicide Detective Thomas Valens, on a stakeout for a psychopathic killer who has terrorized his Southern California community, shoots and slays what he believes to be an armed prowler. His victim, it develops, is a respected physician. And the gun Valens saw him draw disappears.

Valens' career as a law enforcement officer is at stake as press, politicians and public affix to him the tag of "trigger-happy cop." It is up to Valens to prove he acted justifiably in firing the fatal shot.

The story moves rapidly. The puzzle is an interesting and challenging one. And Valens is a well-drawn, believable central character. There is a tendency on Masterson's part to overpreach just a bit on the problems of the police officer working in an unsympathetic climate. But the principal weakness of the book is that the author telegraphs the identity of his main villain, so that the "unmasking" by Valens offers no real surprise.

Still, this one provides quite satisfactory fare for an evening of light reading.

Some New Books For The Juniors

Some new reading for the juniors:

Many young Americans have astounded their elders with the courage and self-sacrifice they have shown in volunteering their time and skills to the civil rights movement. "Where Were You That Year?" by Margaret Pitcairn Strachan (Ives Washburn, $3.75) is the story of one such volunteer, Polly Masterson, University of Washington coed who answers the call for help from the SNCC in registering Negroes in Mississippi to vote. The novel, written for teen-agers, presents an honest and interesting picture of what life is like for these young and dedicated people.

Holiday season books are appearing on the publishers' lists. A beautiful entry in this category is "The First Christmas Gifts" by Hertha Pauli with pictures by Joan Berg (Ives Washburn, $3.50). It is, of course, the story of the three wise men or kings who sought out the Baby Jesus to offer him their gifts. The illustrations are unusually beautiful.

"The Case of the Cat's Meow" by Crosby Bonsall (Harper, $1.95) is an "I Can Read Mystery." The mystery here is the disappearance of Snitch's cat Mildred. Young detectives Wizard, Tubby, Skinny and Snitch set out to find the vanished feline. Funny, and delightfully illustrated, certain to please the 5, 6 and 7-year-olds.

"Kangaroo & Kangaroo" by Kathy Broun (Doubleday, $3.25) is a ridiculous story about two kangaroos who have the very human habit of acquiring and saving things for no good reason at all. Finally they must get rid of them for a very good reason: No more room. At first, people find it hard to believe that they're actually getting something for nothing, but when they get in the swing of things everything goes in good order. In the end, nothing is left but some paper and string. And since there is so much space, "It wouldn't hurt to save this. . . ." Illustrated by Jim McMullan.

The Gateway Books series published by Random House offers substantial and worthwhile reading for youngsters at a reasonable price — $1.95. "The Horse That Swam Away" relates in big type with attractive illustrations the story of the adventures of a boy and his horse at the beach. It's lively and entertaining.

"Harry By the Sea" by Gene Zion with pictures by Margaret Bloy Graham (Harper, $3.25) is a fun book for the little ones. Harry, the black and white dog who has already been the hero of earlier misadventures, is the cause of uproar at the beach this time. Tykes 4 through 6 or 7 will laugh a lot as you or they turn the pages of this one. It is humor properly pitched for children, not for adults as too many children's books are.

Davy Crockett fans will get a big boot out of "Mystery at Bear Paw Gap" by Manly Wade Wellman (Ives Washburn, $3.50). The date is 1792 and the Jarrett family arrives in the mountains of western Carolina to make their frontier home. Adventure is not long in coming for 18-year-old Mark. Wellman does this kind of thing very well and has a host of successful historical novels for young people to his credit.

"Stranger in the House" by Ann Caballero (Coward-McCann, $3.50) is a first mystery novel for young readers. Two young girls spend a weekend as guests at a remote California home. Another guest arrives, and brings with her trouble. There's some amateur sleuthing by the girls that place them in peril. Girls 12 and in the early teens will find this exciting.

This is just the right time of year to bone up on one our most important national holidays. Do the children in your home know and understand the meaning of Thanksgiving? They will from "Thanksgiving Day," by Robert Merrill Bartlett (Crowell, $2.95) which you can read to them quickly. The slim book is well illustrated and can be read easily by a third grader and up.

Sing Out for Books

CHILDREN'S Book Week is being observed nationally during the coming week under The Children's Book Council Inc. auspices, with "Sing Out for Books" as the 1965 theme.

Stereo Hi-Fi

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

FALL is here. During this season many families will be planning the addition of a stereo music system for their home. The next series of articles will describe the various units that make up a component type stereo music system to help guide in the planning.

The basic components that make up a stereo system are an FM STEREO TUNER, A STEREO PREAMPLIFIER, A STEREO POWER AMPLIFIER, two SPEAKER SYSTEMS, and a STEREO RECORD PLAYER. Additional items that may be used with the music system are furniture cabinetry to house the components, and a tape recorder/player.

In many systems the tuner and preamplifier are combined as one unit, or the preamplifier and power amplifier are combined as one unit, or all three—the tuner—preamplifier—and power amplifier are combined into one compact unit. Each of the three components will be discussed individually. A discussion of the combined units will follow.

The Stereo Tuner is a complex and very important part of the music system. Its basic function is to do just what the name implies; that is, to tune in the FM radio stations one at a time, and to convert the radio signal to a stereo or two channel form. The controls usually associated with a tuner are the tuning knob, a stereo automatic switch position, a stereo manual switch position, and a monaural switch position. Some tuners have optional features such as a hush control and a volume level control. Most tuners include a stereo indicator and a tuning device.

In the stereo automatic position, the tuner will automatically switch itself to the stereo mode of operation whenever it is tuned to an FM station that is braodcasting in stereo. The tuning indicator, generally a small light on the dial face, will light up if the station tuned to is stereo.

In the stereo manual position, or straight stereo FM position on some tuners, the set will be locked into stereo operation regardless of whether the station tuned to is stereo or mono. This position is used when the stereo station being received is weak and the automatic feature causes the set to shift back and forth from stereo to mono. The mono position locks the set in mono. The tuning indicator, usually a tuning eye or a meter, aids the setting of the tuning knob for optimum tuning-in of the station. The hush position quiets the between station noise heard while tuning. Next week—tuner specifications.

Second Memoir

BYGONES: The Recollections of Louis Untermeyer, Harcourt, Brace & World, 260 pages, $5.75. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

"Sometimes," Robert Frost remarked wistfully, "I think I'm sort of a figment of Louis' imagination."

One can understand why the poet was moved to make such a statement; Louis Untermeyer was one of the few who championed his work when it was little known. For many years they lived as neighbors. Untermeyer regarded his close friendship with the poet as one of the important relationships of what, by any measure, must be counted a crowded life.

Robert Frost is perhaps the greatest figure to benefit from Untermeyer's tireless efforts on behalf of modern poetry but all of us are in his debt. His contribution as an anthologist alone is significant: His "Modern American Poetry" and "Modern British Poetry" have been used as textbooks in high schools and universities throughout the country since they were published a quarter of a century ago.

This however, is but one of Louis Untermeyer's accomplishments. He is a nationally known poet, editor, teacher, lecturer and served as consultant in poetry to the Library of Congress. Then there are his careers as journalist, television panelist, composer, and his first, manufacturing jeweler.

This is his second autobiography, for looking back at 80 he felt his first, published 30 years ago, to be "evasive and premature." It seems doubtful that such a charge could be leveled against his second, for it is a candid account of a truly remarkable life.

One would think his many careers, any one of which should have contented an ordinary man, would have left no time at all for a private life. On the contrary: He pours forth a personal history that is every bit as excessive.

Certainly there is an abundance to recollect. Tragedies and triumphs abound, but his dry wit and obvious relish of his fellow mortals come through on every page.

Evidently Mr. Untermeyer has not taken seriously Amy Lowell's accolade: "The most versatile genius in America." Without a trace of self-importance he settles back comfortably for a good, gossipy look at his long life — and the reader hangs on every word.

Educator's Story

THE SAGE OF PETALUMA by J. Abner Peddiwell (Harold R. W. Benjamin), McGraw-Hill, 233 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Larry Kramer Jr.

"The Sage of Petaluma" is a book with something to say, and it says it well.

It combines crisp prose with wonderfully humorous touches such as we might expect from the author of "The Saber-Tooth Curriculum." This latter satire on educators and educational methods, written in 1939, is still funny, perceptive and pertinent a quarter century later.

"The Sage" is the autobiography of an educator who recognizes that learning comes to us in many guises, and that our teachers are only occasionally found in the classroom.

One of the Sage's teachers was a rancher, another an Indian who fought Custer at Little Big Horn, still others were soldiers and professors with further contributions from mules and a horse.

From the Indian, Chief Medicine Horse, he learned about "wakan" - the unique spirit of a man which urges him on to become his best self.

The Sage of Petaluma is full of amusing and meaningful anecdotes that tell how one man took his education where he found it, then improved on it. In many ways this story of a man reminds the reader of the autobiography of Mark Twain. It keeps fine conmpany.

Important Novel

BRIDGEPORT BUS by Maureen Howard, Harcourt, Brace and World, 309 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Jean Langham.

There are an awful lot of woman authors around, scribbling the quiet daytime hours away. When they are good they are very, very good, and when they are bad they are horrid.

Maureen Howard is very, very good. "Bridgeport Bus," her second novel, is original, strong, hilarious writing, a full-scale account of one woman's sojourn into life.

Mary Agnes Keeley, 35-year-old spinster, lives with her dour and aging mother in one of those dreary two-family houses so typical of the Irish suburbs in New England, looking for escape in night courses at New Haven State Teachers' College. One day she eats her last boiled potato, refuses to escort her mother to evening devotions, and gets on a bus for New York.

She enters the world all open-armed and vulnerable, soaking up each day and each person she encounters like a sponge. But she overdoes it and in the end the world turns around and devours Mary Agnes.

It is not a simple tale and it is not simply told. Mrs. Howard uses a variety of techniques including a first person journal and a short symbolic play. She displays a great gift of characterization.

Some problems develop toward the end as Mrs. Howard, like her heroine, overdoes it. Mary Agnes' hilarious exuberance, which lends so much to the charm of the book, turns into hysterical prattling. She seems to exceed the bounds of her necessary limitations and to act as we know she cannot act. However, it is also possible that we are mistaken about Mary Agnes and that she is capable of tragedy in the heroic manner, that her rejection of all she once was actually constituted moral suicide.

The fact that the denouement poses this question is actually proof of the basic high quality of "Bridgeport Bus." It should be hailed as one of the important books of this fall.

Down-To-Earth

RATTLESNAKES By J. Frank Dobie, Little, Brown and Co., 201 pages, $5. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

When J. Frank Dobie sets out to tell rattlesnake yarns, it's long odds they'll be rattling good ones.

"Rattlesnakes" by Dobie does not disappoint. The late, great chronicler of the Old Southwest had, it seems, planned to put together a book on rattlesnakes and has assembled some of his writings on the subject for that purpose. The job has been completed for him posthumously in this collection.

The rattlesnake is quite as indigenous to the Southwest as the coyote or the prickly pear. He was there before the longhorn or the bucking broncho, and has outlasted the first and seems likely to outlast the second. There is no end of lore about him, yet literary folk have felt him beneath the honor of being made into books.

It is fortunate that the work of such a writer as Dobie should be selected to correct this lack. No more in awe of scientific theorizing than of Indian folklore or Texans' tall tales, he simply spins stories, as down-to-earth as his subject.

Yes, it's a rattling good book.

The Johnsons

A FAMILY ALBUM by Rebekah Baines Johnson, McGraw-Hill, 146 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Wat Takeshita.

The Johnson name is the one item that distinguishes this from other family albums that lie on living room shelves throughout the country.

Rebekah Baines Johnson, mother of the President, compiled the album of pictures and biographies of family members, dating back to the Revolutionary War.

In the first few pages, the reader gets a few personal glimpses of Lyndon Johnson; for example that for nearly three months, Lyndon had no name but was merely called "Baby."

Then, as the book goes down the family tree, names like Huffman, Baines, and Bunton glide into view, much like the showing of slides at a family reunion.

Lunar Advocate

THE CASE FOR GOING TO THE MOON by Neil P. Ruzic, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 240 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

Apathy is the word for Americans' attitude about getting a man to the moon and back again, author Ruzic declares. He argues that this is wrong, that "hundreds of important scientific and cold-cash reasons abound for going to the moon. Exploring them is the purpose of this book."

Ruzic backs the apathy claim with surveys he conducted as publisher of "Industrial Research" magazine, a broad-spectrum publication for scientific, technical and management personnel. He aims his case not at these groups alone; the result is a book crammed with food for thought for the statesman, the professional man in any field, and the average, mildly curious layman.

Ruzic's "Case for Going" is eminently suitable for telling teen-agers what space exploration is all about, as well as giving a fascinating insight to many scientific fields.

Ruzic explores the possibilities of richly-rewarding research in the Lunar vacuum, manufacturing and mining on Luna, the probable "spin-off" benefitting other, earthbound technologies, and the use of Lunar voyaging as a stepping stone to greater distances.

He also discusses "the case for life beyond the earth."

In days when German V-2 missiles were the most potent space-probe U.S. science knew, this reviewer worked as a tiny cog of the primitive White Sands missile range. Predictions we talked about then have been so far surpassed in less than 20 years that we wonder how soon Ruzic's book will be out of date.

Ruzic and the reviewer both hope it will be within our lifetimes.

Some New Books For The Juniors

Some new reading for the juniors:

Many young Americans have astounded their elders with the courage and self-sacrifice they have shown in volunteering their time and skills to the civil rights movement. "Where Were You That Year?" by Margaret Pitcairn Strachan (Ives Washburn, $3.75) is the story of one such volunteer, Polly Masterson, University of Washington coed who answers the call for help from the SNCC in registering Negroes in Mississippi to vote. The novel, written for teen-agers, presents an honest and interesting picture of what life is like for these young and dedicated people.

SING OUT for BOOKS

CHILDREN'S Book Week is being observed nationally during the coming week under The Children's Book Council Inc. auspices, with "Sing Out for Books" as the 1965 theme.

Holiday season books are appearing on the publishers' lists. A beautiful entry in this category is "The First Christmas Gifts" by Hertha Pauli with pictures by Joan Berg (Ives Washburn, $3.50). It is, of course, the story of the three wise men or kings who sought out the Baby Jesus to offer him their gifts. The illustrations are unusually beautiful.

"The Case of the Cat's Meow" by Crosby Bonsall (Harper, $1.95) is an "I Can Read Mystery." The mystery here is the disappearance of Snitch's cat Mildred. Young detectives Wizard, Tubby, Skinny and Snitch set out to find the vanished feline. Funny, and delightfully illustrated, certain to please the 5, 6 and 7-year-olds.

"Kangaroo & Kangaroo" by Kathy Broun (Doubleday, $3.25) is a ridiculous story about two kangaroos who have the very human habit of acquiring and saving things for no good reason at all. Finally they must get rid of them for a very good reason: No more room. At first, people find it hard to believe that they're actually getting something for nothing, but when they get in the swing of things everything goes in good order. In the end, nothing is left but some paper and string. And since there is so much space, "It wouldn't hurt to save this. . . ." Illustrated by Jim McMullan.

The Gateway Books series published by Random House offers substantial and worthwhile reading for youngsters at a reasonable price — $1.95. "The Horse That Swam Away" relates in big type with attractive illustrations the story of the adventures of a boy and his horse at the beach. It's lively and entertaining.

"Harry By the Sea" by Gene Zion with pictures by Margaret Bloy Graham (Harper, $3.25) is a fun book for the little ones. Harry, the black and white dog who has already been the hero of earlier misadventures, is the cause of uproar at the beach this time. Tykes 4 through 6 or 7 will laugh a lot as you or they turn the pages of this one. It is humor properly pitched for children, not for adults as too many children's books are.

Davy Crockett fans will get a big boot out of "Mystery at Bear Paw Gap" by Manly Wade Wellman (Ives Washburn, $3.50). The date is 1792 and the Jarrett family arrives in the mountains of western Carolina to make their frontier home. Adventure is not long in coming for 18-year-old Mark. Wellman does this kind of thing very well and has a host of successful historical novels for young people to his credit.

"Stranger in the House" by Ann Caballero (Coward-McCann, $3.50) is a first mystery novel for young readers. Two young girls spend a weekend as guests at a remote California home. Another guest arrives, and brings with her trouble. There's some amateur sleuthing by the girls that place them in peril. Girls 12 and in the early teens will find this exciting.

This is just the right time of year to bone up on one our most important national holidays. Do the children in your home know and understand the meaning of Thanksgiving? They will from "Thanksgiving Day," by Robert Merrill Bartlett (Crowell, $2.95) which you can read to them quickly. The slim book is well illustrated and can be read easily by a third grader and up.

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER

Some music from the movie soundtracks:

THE BEATLES IN MOVIE SOUNDTRACKS — "A Hard Day's Night" — United Artists UAL 3366; "Help" — Capitol Stereo MAS 2386:

As a certain columnist noted recently, "The more you hear the more you like it." And of all the new, improved rock 'n' roll that has been coming out lately, the famous Beatles are the best.

Sure, the lyrics are from nowhere, but the free-wheeling ensemble, with its infectious rhythm and catchy harmonic and melodic effects, is extremely captivating to the unbiased adult listener. That last comment means that if you have a teen-ager in the house, all this is falling on deaf ears.

The first movie, which surprised so many people who expected the usual formula picture a la Elvis Presley, has a list of very catchy tunes that everyone must be quite familiar with by this time. There are eight vocals and four instrumentals, some of the latter being quiet jazz versions of the vocals. This lp would be a fine introduction to the Beatles for adults who want to "get with it" without the painful experience of lengthy listening to one of the rock radio stations.

Beatles movie No. 2 was even more fun than No. 1 and has an equal number of interesting tunes. My favorites are the title tune and "You're Gonna Lose That Girl."

Unlike most soundtrack albums, it makes absolutely no difference in listening whether or not you have seen the movie first.

CIRCLE OF LOVE — Soundtrack by Michel Magne from the Roger Vadim film — Monitor stereo MPS 602:

While I missed the movie—it starred Jane Fonda, in bed mostly — I understand I didn't miss much. However, this bubbling score of period continental music should be enjoyable background listening to many who also missed the film. There are turn-of-the-century waltzes, polkas and tangos with various mood pieces, all very Frenchy but without the usual musical cliches.

Pretty good stereo, too.

THE COLLECTOR — Soundtrack music by Maurice Jarre—Mainstream Records Stereo S/6053:

A finely-crafted score for a finely-crafted motion picture. M. Jarre is already known to American audiences for his scores to "The Longest Day" and "Lawrence of Arabia." The latter used a zither-like instrument frequently in solo spots, giving the effect of the Arabian oud.

"The Collector" score again uses this touch, but this time it sounds more like a zither, whatever it really is.

The musical score was extremely important in this William Wyler film and underscored the fine acting by Terrance Stamp and Samantha Eggar to a large degree.

AUTUMN BEAUTY

Today I climbed to a hill top,
  Hand in hand with you;
And while autumn winds caressed us
  Paused to enjoy the view—
The snowy peaks of the mountains
  Lined in the sky's clear blue;
The gold and scarlet of foliage
  Rivaling the rainbow's hue.
A picture the Master painted;
  No other ever could compare.
Always I will remember
  The beauty held captive there.

Stereo Hi-Fi

By C. J. Catania

FALL is here. During this season many families will be planning the addition of a stereo music system for their home. The next series of articles will describe the various units that make up a component type stereo music system to help guide in the planning.

The basic components that make up a stereo system are an FM STEREO TUNER, A STEREO PREAMPLIFIER, A STEREO POWER AMPLIFIER, two SPEAKER SYSTEMS, and a STEREO RECORD PLAYER. Additional items that may be used with the music system are furniture cabinetry to house the components, and a tape recorder/player.

In many systems the tuner and preamplifier are combined as one unit, or the preamplifier and power amplifier are combined as one unit, or all three—the tuner—preamplifier—and power amplifier are combined into one compact unit. Each of the three components will be discussed individually. A discussion of the combined units will follow.

The Stereo Tuner is a complex and very important part of the music system. Its basic function is to do just what the name implies; that is, to tune in the FM radio stations one at a time, and to convert the radio signal to a stereo or two channel form. The controls usually associated with a tuner are the tuning knob, a stereo automatic switch position, a stereo manual switch position, and a monaural switch position. Some tuners have optional features such as a hush control and a volume level control. Most tuners include a stereo indicator and a tuning device.

In the stereo automatic position, the tuner will automatically switch itself to the stereo mode of operation whenever it is tuned to an FM station that is braodcasting in stereo. The tuning indicator, generally a small light on the dial face, will light up if the station tuned to is stereo.

In the stereo manual position, or straight stereo FM position on some tuners, the set will be locked into stereo operation regardless of whether the station tuned to is stereo or mono. This position is used when the stereo station being received is weak and the automatic feature causes the set to shift back and forth from stereo to mono. The mono position locks the set in mono. The tuning indicator, usually a tuning eye or a meter, aids the setting of the tuning knob for optimum tuning-in of the station. The hush position quiets the between station noise heard while tuning. Next week—tuner specifications.

Our Reviewers Report

Second Memoir

BYGONES: The Recollections of Louis Untermeyer, Harcourt, Brace & World, 260 pages, $5.75. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

"Sometimes," Robert Frost remarked wistfully, "I think I'm sort of a figment of Louis' imagination."

One can understand why the poet was moved to make such a statement; Louis Untermeyer was one of the few who championed his work when it was little known. For many years they lived as neighbors. Untermeyer regarded his close friendship with the poet as one of the important relationships of what, by any measure, must be counted a crowded life.

Robert Frost is perhaps the greatest figure to benefit from Untermeyer's tireless efforts on behalf of modern poetry but all of us are in his debt. His contribution as an anthologist alone is significant: His "Modern American Poetry" and "Modern British Poetry" have been used as textbooks in high schools and universities throughout the country since they were published a quarter of a century ago.

This however, is but one of Louis Untermeyer's accomplishments. He is a nationally known poet, editor, teacher, lecturer and served as consultant in poetry to the Library of Congress. Then there are his careers as journalist, television panelist, composer, and his first, manufacturing jeweler.

This is his second autobiography, for looking back at 80 he felt his first, published 30 years ago, to be "evasive and premature." It seems doubtful that such a charge could be leveled against his second, for it is a candid account of a truly remarkable life.

One would think his many careers, any one of which should have contented an ordinary man, would have left no time at all for a private life. On the contrary: He pours forth a personal history that is every bit as excessive.

Certainly there is an abundance to recollect. Tragedies and triumphs abound, but his dry wit and obvious relish of his fellow mortals come through on every page.

Evidently Mr. Untermeyer has not taken seriously Amy Lowell's accolade: "The most versatile genius in America." Without a trace of self-importance he settles back comfortably for a good, gossipy look at his long life — and the reader hangs on every word.

Educator's Story

THE SAGE OF PETALUMA by J. Abner Peddiwell (Harold R. W. Benjamin), McGraw-Hill, 233 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Larry Kramer Jr.

"The Sage of Petaluma" is a book with something to say, and it says it well.

It combines crisp prose with wonderfully humorous touches such as we might expect from the author of "The Saber-Tooth Curriculum." This latter satire on educators and educational methods, written in 1939, is still funny, perceptive and pertinent a quarter century later.

"The Sage" is the autobiography of an educator who recognizes that learning comes to us in many guises, and that our teachers are only occasionally found in the classroom.

One of the Sage's teachers was a rancher, another an Indian who fought Custer at Little Big Horn, still others were soldiers and professors with further contributions from mules and a horse.

From the Indian, Chief Medicine Horse, he learned about "wakan" - the unique spirit of a man which urges him on to become his best self.

The Sage of Petaluma is full of amusing and meaningful anecdotes that tell how one man took his education where he found it, then improved on it. In many ways this story of a man reminds the reader of the autobiography of Mark Twain. It keeps fine conmpany.

Important Novel

BRIDGEPORT BUS by Maureen Howard, Harcourt, Brace and World, 309 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Jean Langham.

There are an awful lot of woman authors around, scribbling the quiet daytime hours away. When they are good they are very, very good, and when they are bad they are horrid.

Maureen Howard is very, very good. "Bridgeport Bus," her second novel, is original, strong, hilarious writing, a full-scale account of one woman's sojourn into life.

Mary Agnes Keeley, 35-year-old spinster, lives with her dour and aging mother in one of those dreary two-family houses so typical of the Irish suburbs in New England, looking for escape in night courses at New Haven State Teachers' College. One day she eats her last boiled potato, refuses to escort her mother to evening devotions, and gets on a bus for New York.

She enters the world all open-armed and vulnerable, soaking up each day and each person she encounters like a sponge. But she overdoes it and in the end the world turns around and devours Mary Agnes.

It is not a simple tale and it is not simply told. Mrs. Howard uses a variety of techniques including a first person journal and a short symbolic play. She displays a great gift of characterization.

Some problems develop toward the end as Mrs. Howard, like her heroine, overdoes it. Mary Agnes' hilarious exuberance, which lends so much to the charm of the book, turns into hysterical prattling. She seems to exceed the bounds of her necessary limitations and to act as we know she cannot act. However, it is also possible that we are mistaken about Mary Agnes and that she is capable of tragedy in the heroic manner, that her rejection of all she once was actually constituted moral suicide.

The fact that the denouement poses this question is actually proof of the basic high quality of "Bridgeport Bus." It should be hailed as one of the important books of this fall.

For An Autumn Show

Gardening Page

Sunny Indian Summer days and nippy nights are signals for blooms to appear on some of our choicest camellias.

One group of camellias specializes in putting on an autumn show. The varieties belonging to this group are called "sasanquas."

They are characterized by small, glossy leaves with serrated edges, a willowy growth habit and an abundance of small to medium size flowers, single or double.

THE SASANQUAS may be used in full sun or part shade, make excellent espalier subjects against sunny walls and can be used as medium-height hedges. The more spreading varieties make excellent hanging baskets.

Colors available include white and all shades of pink, including deep rose — almost red.

Many of the favorite larger-flowered "japonica" camellias begin blooming now. These include the formal double white Alba Plena, as well as all of the variations of Daikagura and Chandleri.

In the Daikagura group there is a solid red, red and white variegated and white. The form is informal double. In the Chandleri group there is the best known "elegans," with pink and white flowers, Francine, solid pink, C. M. Wilson, pale pink and Shiro-Chan, a pure white. All have peony-type flowers.

THE MOST popular of all of the early pinks is the informal Debutante. A real old-timer, Pink Perfection, is still a favorite with some—it is formal and pale in color.

All of these varieties require exposure to filtered sun every day. Perhaps this is the clue to their desire to start blooming earlier than other japonica varieties.

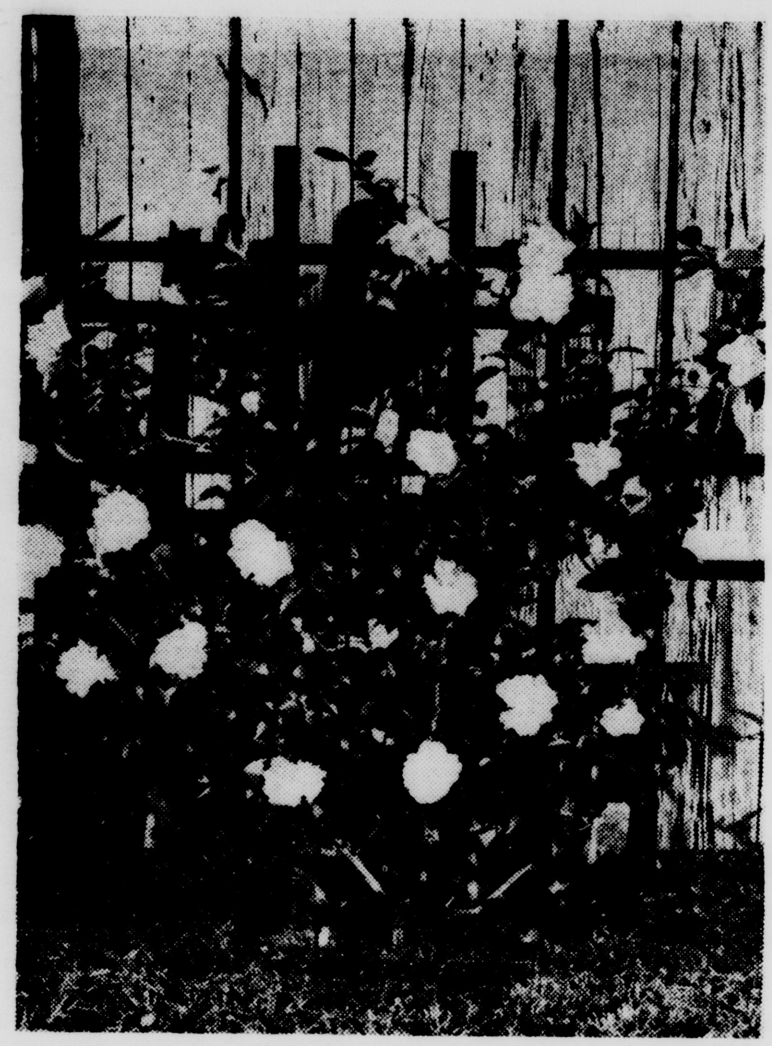
Pink Perfection is particularly sensitive to too much shade.

The Chandleri group will require staking to begin with, unless you would like to grow them as espaliers against an east or southwest wall, or sprawling below a widely sweeping window.

THE DAIKAGURAS, and Debutante, are upright growers and make excellent subjects for containers, to grow as foundation plants between windows and to view backgrounds for lower-growing part-shade lovers, such as azaleas and rhododendrons.

Soil preparation is important with camellias. Your nurseryman has available a combination of peat, compost, leaf mold and soil called "planting mix."

Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the plant, set the camellia exactly at ground level and fill in with undiluted planting mix. Water with a slow stream from your hose. Feed with special azalea and camellia food about the middle of March and again about the middle of July.



THE CAMELLIA sasanqua White Dove is seen here in espalier form. Lovely displays of flowers in the fall and winter, as well as a lavish green foliage all year, make it a popular landscape shrub.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- ✓ Berried shrubs to plant now include hollies, pyracanthas, Heavenly Bamboo and California Toyon. Miniature berried shrubs such as Dwarf Burford Holly and Tiny Tim pyracantha makes effective holiday decorations when grown in tubs.
- ✓ Clean up leaves and fallen fruit. Cut back browned perennials and prune evergreens lightly.
- ✓ This is an excellent time to plant new groundcovers. Dwarf Periwinkle makes a beautiful small-scaled evergreen one, that will bloom along with spring bulbs and flowering trees. Choose it with pink, white or blue flowers. Thrives in any soil and gets along with little moisture if grown in shade.
- ✓ This is a good time for transplanting. If you are remodeling your garden, see the fine hardy evergreens that are arriving daily at your nursery. You'll find excellent hedge material, foundation plants and accents.
- ✓ When planting your spring garden, include some new azaleas. Fall planted azaleas become well established by spring and bloom vigorously.
- ✓ Continue to water roses regularly. Remove suckers and old blooms. Spray as your nurseryman recommends.

To Make Your Arrangements Last Longer

Some tips that will result in longer-lasting flower arrangements for your home:

1. Cut flowers early in the morning or late in the evening.
2. Strip the lower leaves from the stem—it will prolong flower life by reducing moisture loss.
3. Gather the stems and roll loosely in wet newspaper.
4. Place the stems in warm water and let stand over night in a cool, dark place.
5. When arranging, cut the stems diagonally so they will absorb more water.

LUCKY IS THE youngster with a home-grown pumpkin from which to fashion his own jack-o-lantern. This one is Burpee's Big Max, a 100-pound giant that has stolen the show at Halloween time — and at Thanksgiving as well.

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER

Some music from the movie soundtracks:

THE BEATLES IN MOVIE SOUNDTRACKS — "A Hard Day's Night" — United Artists UAL 3366; "Help" — Capitol Stereo MAS 2386:

As a certain columnist noted recently, "The more you hear the more you like it." And of all the new, improved rock 'n' roll that has been coming out lately, the famous Beatles are the best.

Sure, the lyrics are from nowhere, but the free-wheeling ensemble, with its infectious rhythm and catchy harmonic and melodic effects, is extremely captivating to the unbiased adult listener. That last comment means that if you have a teen-ager in the house, all this is falling on deaf ears.

The first movie, which surprised so many people who expected the usual formula picture a la Elvis Presley, has a list of very catchy tunes that everyone must be quite familiar with by this time. There are eight vocals and four instrumentals, some of the latter being quiet jazz versions of the vocals. This lp would be a fine introduction to the Beatles for adults who want to "get with it" without the painful experience of lengthy listening to one of the rock radio stations.

Beatles movie No. 2 was even more fun than No. 1 and has an equal number of interesting tunes. My favorites are the title tune and "You're Gonna Lose That Girl."

Unlike most soundtrack albums, it makes absolutely no difference in listening whether or not you have seen the movie first.

CIRCLE OF LOVE — Soundtrack by Michel Magne from the Roger Vadim film — Monitor stereo MPS 602:

While I missed the movie—it starred Jane Fonda, in bed mostly — I understand I didn't miss much. However, this bubbling score of period continental music should be enjoyable background listening to many who also missed the film. There are turn-of-the-century waltzes, polkas and tangos with various mood pieces, all very Frenchy but without the usual musical cliches.

Pretty good stereo, too.

THE COLLECTOR — Soundtrack music by Maurice Jarre—Mainstream Records Stereo S/6053:

A finely-crafted score for a finely-crafted motion picture. M. Jarre is already known to American audiences for his scores to "The Longest Day" and "Lawrence of Arabia." The latter used a zither-like instrument frequently in solo spots, giving the effect of the Arabian oud.

"The Collector" score again uses this touch, but this time it sounds more like a zither, whatever it really is.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

AUTUMN BEAUTY

Today I climbed to a hill top,
Hand in hand with you;
And while autumn winds caressed us
Paused to enjoy the view—
The snowy peaks of the mountains
Lined in the sky's clear blue;
The gold and scarlet of foliage
Rivaling the rainbow's hue.
A picture the Master painted;
No other ever could compare.
Always I will remember
The beauty held captive there.

Paint For Aluminum

The bright, reflective surface that typified aluminum for so many years is often being covered these days.

In addition to the factory-applied coatings that usually are baked on, ordinary aluminum is getting the do-it-yourself treatment from many home owners who once thought that this useful metal could not be satisfactorily painted.

Aluminum may be painted because of a desire to cut down its shine, to change its color or to add to its natural corrosion-resistant qualities. Exactly what is done to get a satisfactory result depends on the age and condition of the metal, as well as the purpose for which the paint is being applied.

NEW ALUMINUM has an invisible coat of oil on it. Generally, wiping with mineral spirits will prepare the surface properly. But if this does not appear to have removed all oil, grease and dirt, then it may be necessary to wash the aluminum with a phosphoric acid mixture.

In using this acid, be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully.

When aluminum has been exposed to the weather for a month or two, the oil coating will have been washed away, and no acid wash is required. A conventional primer will satisfactorily prepare the surface for the finish coats. But in an extremely corrosive atmosphere, such as near a chemical plant, it is best to apply a primer with a corrosion-inhibiting pigment.

ONCE THE PRIME coat is on, aluminum will "take" almost any paint or enamel which is suitable for wood or metal.

Some aluminum, such as that used on window frames, is given a clear coating to protect it during shopping and installation. As with the oil coating previously mentioned, this will wear away in time. If it doesn't — and you wish to paint the aluminum — inspect the clear finish carefully.

If it is adhering tightly, you can paint right over it. If there are signs that it is wearing, then it must be removed with a solvent, a scraper or sandpaper. Incidentally, one way to determine whether the coating needs removal is to test it with a scraper. If scraping takes off some of the coating, then all of it must be removed before painting.

Should you desire to retain the original appearance of aluminum with lacquer or similar clear finish, remember that you will have to renew it more often than paint, especially if the aluminum is exposed to the elements.

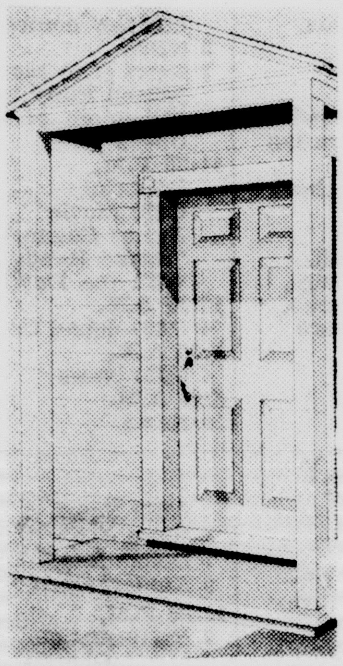
SOMETIMES the expense of a re-roofing job can be trimmed by simply applying heavyweight asphalt shingles directly on the old roof surface, as is being done here, instead of removing the old roofing first.



FOR THE homeowner whose front door is uncovered and exposed to the winter elements of rain and wind, a simple canopy can give valued protection. Canopy Pattern No. 305 is available from the Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, for 75 cents. The canopy can be built to conform with all types of siding and roofing, and can serve over the back or side entrances as well as the front entry.

For An Autumn Show

Gardening Page

Sunny Indian Summer days and nippy nights are signals for blooms to appear on some of our choicest camellias.

One group of camellias specializes in putting on an autumn show. The varieties belonging to this group are called "sasanquas."

They are characterized by small, glossy leaves with serrated edges, a willowy growth habit and an abundance of small to medium size flowers, single or double.

THE SASANQUAS may be used in full sun or part shade, make excellent espalier subjects against sunny walls and can be used as medium-height hedges. The more spreading varieties make excellent hanging baskets.

Colors available include white and all shades of pink, including deep rose — almost red.

Many of the favorite larger-flowered "japonica" camellias begin blooming now. These include the formal double white Alba Plena, as well as all of the variations of Daikagura and Chandleri.

In the Daikagura group there is a solid red, red and white variegated and white. The form is informal double. In the Chandleri group there is the best known "elegans," with pink and white flowers, Francine, solid pink, C. M. Wilson, pale pink and Shiro-Chan, a pure white. All have peony-type flowers.

THE MOST popular of all of the early pinks is the informal Debutante. A real old-timer, Pink Perfection, is still a favorite with some—it is formal and pale in color.

All of these varieties require exposure to filtered sun every day. Perhaps this is the clue to their desire to start blooming earlier than other japonica varieties.

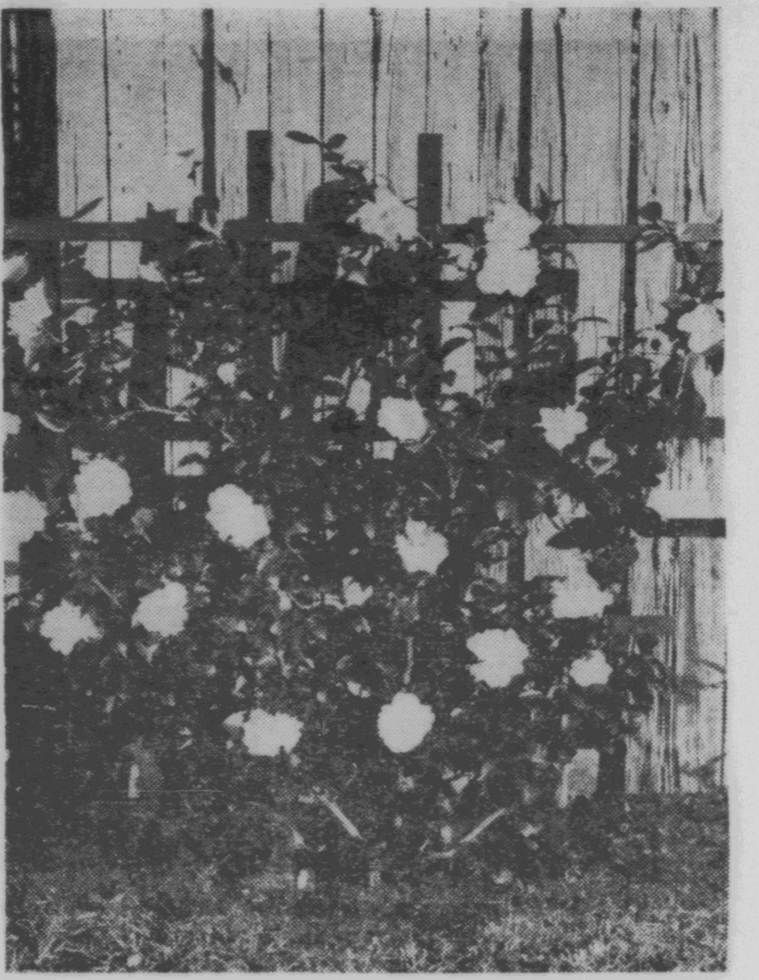
Pink Perfection is particularly sensitive to too much shade.

The Chandleri group will require staking to begin with, unless you would like to grow them as espaliers against an east or southwest wall, or sprawling below a widely sweeping window.

THE DAIKAGURAS, and Debutante, are upright growers and make excellent subjects for containers, to grow as foundation plants between windows and to view backgrounds for lower-growing part-shade lovers, such as azaleas and rhododendrons.

Soil preparation is important with camellias. Your nurseryman has available a combination of peat, compost, leaf mold and soil called "planting mix."

Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the plant, set the camellia exactly at ground level and fill in with undiluted planting mix. Water with a slow stream from your hose. Feed with special azalea and camellia food about the middle of March and again about the middle of July.



THE CAMELLIA sasanqua White Dove is seen here in espalier form. Lovely displays of flowers in the fall and winter, as well as a lavish green foliage all year, make it a popular landscape shrub.

Paint For Aluminum

The bright, reflective surface that typified aluminum for so many years is often being covered these days.

In addition to the factory-applied coatings that usually are baked on, ordinary aluminum is getting the do-it-yourself treatment from many home owners who once thought that this useful metal could not be satisfactorily painted.

Aluminum may be painted because of a desire to cut down its shine, to change its color or to add to its natural corrosion-resistant qualities. Exactly what is done to get a satisfactory result depends on the age and condition of the metal, as well as the purpose for which the paint is being applied.

NEW ALUMINUM has an invisible coat of oil on it. Generally, wiping with mineral spirits will prepare the surface properly. But if this does not appear to have removed all oil, grease and dirt, then it may be necessary to wash the aluminum with a phosphoric acid mixture.

In using this acid, be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully.

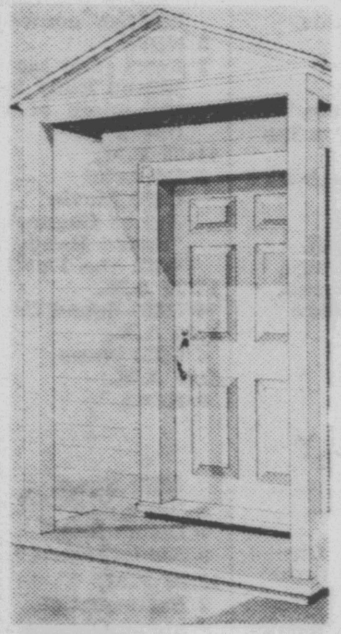
When aluminum has been exposed to the weather for a month or two, the oil coating will have been washed away, and no acid wash is required. A conventional primer will satisfactorily prepare the surface for the finish coats. But in an extremely corrosive atmosphere, such as near a chemical plant, it is best to apply a primer with a corrosion-inhibiting pigment.

ONCE THE PRIME coat is on, aluminum will "take" almost any paint or enamel which is suitable for wood or metal.

Some aluminum, such as that used on window frames, is given a clear coating to protect it during shopping and installation. As with the oil coating previously mentioned, this will wear away in time. If it doesn't — and you wish to paint the aluminum — inspect the clear finish carefully.

If it is adhering tightly, you can paint right over it. If there are signs that it is wearing, then it must be removed with a solvent, a scraper or sandpaper. Incidentally, one way to determine whether the coating needs removal is to test it with a scraper. If scraping takes off some of the coating, then all of it must be removed before painting.

Should you desire to retain the original appearance of aluminum with lacquer or similar clear finish, remember that you will have to renew it more often than paint, especially if the aluminum is exposed to the elements.



FOR THE homeowner whose front door is uncovered and exposed to the winter elements of rain and wind, a simple canopy can give valued protection. Canopy Pattern No. 305 is available from the Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, for 75 cents. The canopy can be built to conform with all types of siding and roofing, and can serve over the back or side entrances as well as the front entry.

SOMETIMES the expense of a re-roofing job can be trimmed by simply applying heavyweight asphalt shingles directly on the old roof surface, as is being done here, instead of removing the old roofing first.

YES, BUT WITCH WAY?

For those who feel bewitched, bothered and bewildered because Daylight Saving Time ends this year on Halloween, Mrs. Charles Price of 217 Orris Terrace demonstrates what to do: at 2 a.m. tomorrow, turn the clock BACK one hour, thus returning it to 1 a.m. Of course, you can really do it before you go to bed—or after you get up, for that matter. Bolinas Group Opposes Job Corps Camp Site

Worried About Disorder

A meeting of 60 Bolinas residents last night voted its disapproval of a plan to station 220 young people involved in the federal Job Corps program near the community.

The door, however, was not closed completely.

James Dougan, vice president of Bolinas Community Inc., which called the meeting, said, "We felt we could not give approval at this time and have a problem landed in our laps sometime in the future.

'POLICING'

"What we want is an assurance that there will be the proper disciplining and policing of the area we think is necessary when you get a large number of people together."

Thomas J. Barfield, president of the group, will represent it at Tuesday's meeting of the Marin County Board of Supervisors when the subject comes up for discussion.

In January, Fred W. Binniewies, superintendent of Point Reyes National Seashore, said he had applied to federal officials to set up a job camp there for the Job Corps program, part of the government's "war on poverty."

MOST APPROVE

"The great majority of our residents," said Dougan today, "approve of the program and all it is doing. But try to imagine the effect 200 people aged 16 to 20 years would have on Bolinas if they were let loose after 5 p.m. each day.

"We do not have the recreation facilities."

"We have not closed the door completely," he added, "but feel we should have more answers to our questions before giving our approval."

LBJ Silent On Luci's Romance

(Combined AP & UPI)

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. — Luci Baines Johnson, daughter of the President, was at the LBJ Ranch today, seeking her parents' permission to marry Pat Nugent of Waukegan, Ill.

The 18-year-old Luci flew by Jetstar last night with Nugent, 22, to try to win her father's consent. Close Texas friends said Mrs. Johnson will go along with Luci's wishes, but the President is holding out.

The black-haired, blue-eyed youngest member of the first family is said to have wanted to have her engagement announced Wednesday, the first anniversary of the President's election to the White House.

The White House remained silent on the reports.

"I don't know anything about it," said Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers.

The first lady's press secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Carpenter said there was nothing unusual about Luci bringing a beau to the ranch.

Asked about a possible nuptial, she said, "We have no knowledge of any such plans."

Luci reportedly broke the news to the President while he was at Bethesda Naval Hospital recovering from gall bladder surgery.

It was understood that Johnson preferred she concentrate on her studies at the Georgetown University School of Nursing in Washington, where she is a freshman.

Nugent, a good-looking blond Marquette University graduate, has been working for the government in Washington for several months. He is about to be called into military service and is expected to go into the Air National Guard or Air Reserve soon.

Luci and Pat have been dating since they met last June in Milwaukee. Nugent was one of the special guests at Luci's baptism into the Roman Catholic Church July 2, her 18th birthday. He also is a Catholic.

Nugent went to Luci's surprise graduation party at the

Ditch Left Agape In Sewer Dispute

There is a 16-foot deep ditch in front of the Paradise Shopping Center in Corte Madera, and as far as the contractor who put it there is concerned, it can just stay there.

James Kirkwood, of Kirkwood-Bly, Inc., of Santa Rosa, said the town of Corte Madera has ordered his crew to stop work there, so he intends to pull his equipment out.

Meanwhile, Gabe M. Angel, head of the Paradise Shopping Center Merchants Assn., began pleading for action today because the ditch is a hazard and is keeping customers out of the shopping area.

The ditch was dug to lower a sewer for the Corte Madera Sanitary District, serving Mariner Cove. The contractor's city encroachment permit expired today, and Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said no new one will be issued unless it is on the town's terms.

Kirkwood said the town wants him to lower the street four

Novato Chase Gets Rough For Officer

Novato Police Sgt. P. J. (Jack) Haley saw a man drive through a red light at 1:36 a.m. today. A few minutes later, Haley had a swollen lip and another officer, Ronald Green, had a cut over his left eye and behind his left ear.

Booked into Marin County Jail afterward was John Douglas Smith, 32, of 1117 Second Street, Novato. He was charged with two counts of assaulting a police officer, one of resisting arrest and one of running a stop light.

He was released later on $550 bail and is due to appear Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Haley said he used his red light and siren to try to stop Smith after he saw his car run the light on Vallejo Street. The driver continued to his home, Haley said.

When the man started into his home, Haley said, he ran after him, telling him to stop.

Police say the man cried "Get the hell off my property" as he smashed Haley in the mouth.

Haley called for help, and three other officers responded. The four of them finally were able to get Smith down, they reported. Haley and Green both ended up with bruised knuckles, and Green's helmet was ripped off his head.

Soviets Hit Kashmir U.N. Peace Attempt

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The Soviet Union today was reported blocking a second Kashmir peace resolution in a new power play to reduce the importance of the secretary general's office.

The reports said the Soviet Union was opposed to any resolution that mention Secretary General Thant's efforts to enforce the Kashmir cease-fire and bring about the withdrawal of Pakistan and Indian troops.

Corte Madera Dump Project Speedup Seen

It might be possible to put the proposed county dump at Corte Madera before the newly formed Bay Conservation and Development Commission before January, county public works director Donald R. Frost said yesterday.

Earlier, the commission had ruled that no applications would be considered prior to January. This evidently did not include small projects, Frost said.

Frost, who talked to Alvin Baum of the commission staff yesterday, said it appeared the Corte Madera dump and golf course project might fit the category of a small project.

After today, there will be no county dump in operation. The present dump, in Larkspur, is being closed.

The plan (to use 100 acres on the south side of the mouth of Corte Madera Creek for a dump which would eventually become a golf course) must be approved by the new commission since tideland filling is involved.

Frost said it appeared the Gallinas Creek dredging project would definitely qualify as a small one and could go before the commission soon.

A member of Frost's staff will confer with Baum next week to get a firm answer.

Boy Spy Aids Red Attack On Marines

SAIGON (UPI)—A company of U.S. Marines, outnumbered four to one, today repelled a massive Communist human wave attack west of the Da Nang air base in hand to hand fighting. At least 56 guerrillas were killed.

Marine casualties in the bitter fighting in the dark early morning were listed as "moderate," but no totals were given.

The Viet Cong drove as far as the Marines' tents before they were driven back, dragging off their dead with meat hooks.

A U.S. military spokesman said a 15 year old boy, who had been selling Marines soft drinks the day before, apparently was a Viet Cong intelligence agent.

The leathernecks recognized the boy among the 56 dead Communists around their defensive positions guarding the Da Nang air base, the biggest American complex in South Viet Nam.

The youth still carried a map he apparently had drawn while selling drinks to the Marines yesterday.

"They had everything pinpointed," one Marine platoon leader said. "They knew where all the positions were."

The Viet Cong attack came at 2:20 a.m. about 10 miles west of the huge airbase, not far from the scene of a Communist suicide squad assault two days ago which destroyed 18 U.S. helicopters and damaged 22 others.

The fighting occurred on Hill 22, a small piece of ground rising from rice paddies about 380 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the first time the Communists had attacked a Marine unit dug in at a defensive position.

The attack was spearheaded by a hard core company of Viet Cong regulars with three other companies in reserve. They hit with automatic weapons, 57 mm. recoilles rifles, mortars, grenades and small arms fire.

The Marine company took between 50 and 70 mortar shells, according to UPI correspondent Martin Stuart-Fox who reported from the area.

Fairfax City Fathers Deny 'Bias' On Aide

Comments circulating in Fairfax that Mayor Frank L. Lawrence and other councilmen have shown bias in accepting city building inspector Rolfe M. Ockenden's resignation Oct. 18 were repudiated last night at a special meeting of the council.

"I am not concerned with bias comments. We do what we think is best for this city. What people think about it is their business," said Lawrence.

Lawrence joined with two other councilmen present, Robert R. Souza and George A. Pagni, in authorizing City Administrator David J. Sumbardo to seek a new inspector to replace Ockenden.

Absent were councilmen Peter R. Arrigoni, who voted against accepting Ockenden's resignation, and Waldemar R. Radtke, who also missed the Oct. 18 session but had earlier supported Ockenden in a dispute with Souza.

Souza proposed the administra-

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Eight Indian troops were killed in new clashes along the cease-fire line, a government statement said today.

Five Indians were killed in the Bedian sector about 200 miles east of Rawalpindi "as a result of retaliatory action by Pakistan troops," the statement said.

Jilted Octogenarian Declares Young Lady Strung Him Along

By BRUCE COLEMAN

"I gave her a piano, fine furniture, draperies, a car and all expenses.

"I bought her a suit at I. Magnin's for $300. I put in a $4,000 swimming pool for her and her friend.

"For four years she said she would marry me — then she refused."

Octogenarian Max Bootzin sat forlornly yesterday with his daughter, Mrs. Adeline Rodriguez, in a car parked in front of the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in Mill Valley.

"I have just asked them to turn off the gas and electricity," he said. He planned to go next to a garbage company and the Marin Municipal Water District to stop other services.

Bootzin, 82, who had been paying for these utilities at his hilltop house at 8 Robertson Terrace, filed a suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court charging that two women whom he befriended — Charmaine Klenman, 27, and Joan Taylor, 18 — bilked him out of $120,000 in money and property and took possession of his Mill Valley home.

A hearing has been set by Judge Joseph G. Wilson for 2 p.m. Nov. 9 in which the two women must show cause why they should not be temporarily enjoined from disposing of any of the property.

Bootzin said he gave Miss Klenman more than $25,000 in

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Viet Bonus Paid

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The nation's first state bonus for service in Viet Nam has gone to the widow of an Army officer. He was killed in action on their 13th wedding anniversary. Gov. Otto Kerner presented a $1,000 check to Beverly Louise Dexter, 33, of Decatur, Ill., a mother of five. Her husband, Maj. Herbert J. Dexter, was killed Sept. 18.

Politico Predicts

SAN BERNARDINO (AP) — Democratic State Controller Alan Cranston has predicted that Ronald Reagan will be the Republican choice to run against Gov. Edmund G. Brown next November. Cranston, honored last night at a dinner at the National Orange Show, said he was confident Gov. Brown would win but he cautioned against taking Reagan lightly.

Federal Jobs Fewer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government employed 2,520,724 civilians in September, an increase of 59,184 over a year ago, a Senate-House committee reported today. The total was 29,261 less than the August figure, a decline largely caused by seasonal factors, the committee said.

Riot Trial Ending

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Final arguments are scheduled Monday in the trial of Mrs. Rena Frye, who is charged with interfering with an officer attempting to arrest her 21-year-old son. The arrest of Mrs. Frye, 49, Marquette, and Ronald Frye, 22, were believed to have been the incident that started Los Angeles' week of wild rioting.

East Cool, West Hot

Dry, cool weather was massed over the nation today. The Atlantic Coast suffered frost and freezing temperatures as far south as the Carolinas. On the West Coast, Los Angeles was plagued for the fourth day yesterday with a choking combination of millions of exhaust-spewing automobiles and atmospheric conditions that kept the fouled air close to the ground.

Rockets Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Army has given General Dynamics Corp. a $41 million order for production of the Redeye, a 30-pound anti-aircraft missile designed for the use of individual front line troops. The Redeye is fired from the shoulder, much like the World War II bazooka. It has a heat-seeking nose that leads it to low-flying supersonic aircraft.

Gory Crashes On U.S. Roads

A total of 26 persons died last night and early today in four auto accidents across the nation. Eleven of those killed were students, according to United Press International.

The most lethal accident occurred at Carthage, Tex., where nine persons died after a two-car collision turned both autos involved into a "blazing mass of wreckage."

A head-on collision at Emmitsburg, Md., brought death to eight people including six students at Mt. St. Mary's College. Two other students were pulled from the wreckage and taken to a Gettysburg, Pa., hospital where they are in critical condition.

Five teen-agers on their way to a high school football game were killed when their convertible overturned at Pomona, Calif.

At Stratton, Maine, four men died when their car plunged out of control and into the south branch of the Dead River. Police said their car failed to make a sharp turn just before coming to a bridge over the river.

Atomic Earthquake Studied

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska (UPI)—Project Long-Shot scientists, admitting only that things so far looked good, today began scrutiny of records kept on a giant explosion to see if they can determine the difference between the flinch of the Earth's crust left by an earthquake and that which follows a nuclear blast.

To provide needed data, the U.S. yesterday set off without a hitch an 80-kiloton hydrogen bomb 2,300 feet below tiny Amchitka Island, located 750 miles from the Siberian coast in the neckline of Aleutian Islands stretching from the Alaska peninsula.

The principal hope of the test was that the U.S. might devise a way to detect underground nuclear explosions without having to inspect test sites such as those in Russia. One of the chief obstacles to international regulation of underground nuclear explosions is the need for on-site inspections to prevent cheating.

Teen-Age Charmer Crowned

DALLAS (UPI)—The new Miss Teen-age America is Colette Agnes Daiute, a slender, 16-year-old charmer from Paramus, N.J., who intends to spend part of her reign advising shaggy haired boys to see a barber.

Miss Daiute

Miss Daiute, as "Miss New York City," won the 1966 Miss Teen-age pageant last night. For her talent performance in the 90-minute television pageant, she twirled two flaming batons.

As winner, the brown-haired, brown-eyed Colette got a $10,000 college scholarship, and other prizes.

One of Colette's duties is traveling about the country and talking to teen-agers, among other things, about traffic safety. She intends to campaign against shaggy haired boys during her travels.

"I don't think shaggy-haired boys are necessarily trying to identify themselves as girls," she said as a young man in stovepipe trousers and beatle boots tried to get her to sign an autograph. "It's a part of growing up, but I don't like it."

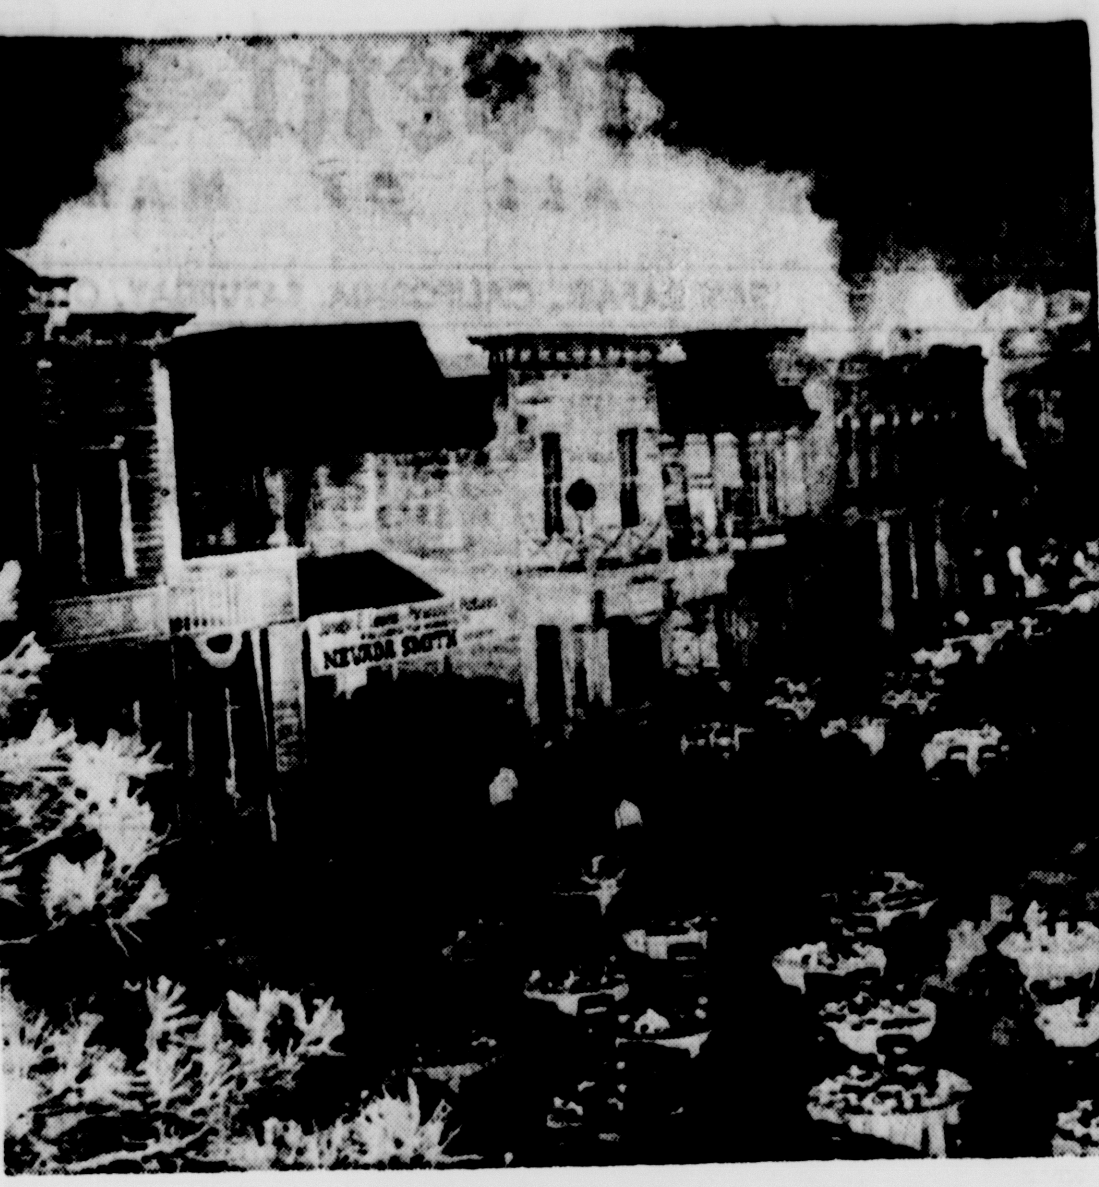
New York Contest Hits Climax

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democratic candidate Abraham D. Beame, bolstered by President Johnson's endorsement, meets his chief opponent, Republican-Liberal John V. Lindsay, tonight in the final television debate of the campaign for mayor.

The president, in a statement issued yesterday, gave his unreserved backing to Beame, and said he was "ideally qualified for the administrative challenges of the office" of mayor of New York.

The third mayor contender, conservative Willam Buckley, will not participate in tonight's debate. Most observers have agreed that in previous electronic appearances the acid-tongued Buckley seemed to have an edge over the other two men.

Mission San Rafael Arcangel was originally intended as a health rehabilitation center and was named for the Patron Saint of Good Health, St. Raphael.



THIS SPECTACUAR UNPLANNED

Hollywood's most dramatic fire scene in years wasn't before the cameras last night, as flames did $200,000 damage to sets in the Desilu and Paramount studios. More than 1,500 theater owners and film stars attending an outdoor party on the set of a Paramount Western, "Nevada Smith," fled the flames safely, leaving dinner tables deserted. (AP Wirephoto)

Cubans Drown While Officials Talk Of Airlift

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Refugees in small boats poured out of Cuba without letup today, braving a spray-driving nor'easter in the Florida Straits while U.S. and Cuban officials neared agreement on a safer and more comfortable air shuttle for exiles.

Yesterday, highly placed sources both in Washington and Havana said Monday was the more likely day for an announcement of a plan for moving 3,000 to 4,000 refugees a month to this country. The same sources said it was possible Fidel Castro might agree to release between 15,000 and 30,000 political prisoners.

The Florida Straits claimed the first victims of the small boat shuttle which has been under way since Oct. 7. One woman died en route to freedom and a dazed man told of four companions who went down with a boat they were taking to Cuba to bring back refugees.

Britain Warns Rhodesians, Says Solution Is Possible

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson said today Britain does not believe Rhodesia is ready for independence under black African majority rule.

He said he thinks the present crisis can be ended "in a short time."

Wilson ruled out the use of any air attack, military invasion or any other form of force by Britain to impose an African majority government on this white-ruled colony.

He also warned white extremists that Britain will not stand idly by if they try to "take the law into their own hands."

He said although Britain had decided to forego the use of military force it still might employ economic sanctions.

Wilson said he and Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith had agreed that a royal commission might find a solution to the crisis.

Arizona Aide Refuses To Help Indians Vote

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Apache County Atty. Richard Greer says he will refuse to register prospective Indian voters who can't speak English despite a ruling that language tests used in the county violate the new federal Voting Rights Act.

"We'll invite the federal registrars in and let them live in the (Indian) hogans," he said Friday. "We're not going to assume responsibility for registering them."

There are 39,000 persons in Apache County. Only 4,500 of them are registered voters.

Navajos, who live on federal reservations, outnumber whites more than three to one in the county, the only one in Arizona in which the U.S. Justice Department presumes possible discrimination under the new law.

Greer says most members of the tribe are illiterate and can't speak English.

Greer contends the lack of tests would result in reservation Indians taking control of the county, although they don't pay taxes and aren't liable to prosecution for such state crimes as election fraud.

Big Parade Today Backs Viet Policy

NEW YORK (AP) — A massive demonstration of support for American fighting men in Viet Nam is being marshaled today on New York's Fifth Avenue.

A turnout of 50,000 to 100,000 is estimated by leaders of the march, set to begin at noon.

Five holders of the Medal of Honor, the nation's highest military decoration, are grand marshals for the demonstration, billed as an answer to the anti-Viet Nam protests two weeks ago.

The parade was new evidence of welling support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam. Elsewhere, other signs of support appeared, particularly on the college campus.

A "silent vigil" against the Viet Nam war will be held at the same time by several peace organizations in Times Square.

Politicos Trade Charges Over Smog Woes

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Los Angeles suffered through its fifth straight day of thick, eye-burning smog today and Mayor Samuel W. Yorty and Gov. Edmund G. Brown accused each other of part of the blame. The smog attack, described by the Air Pollution Control district (APCD) as the worst since the mid 1950s, was aggravated by 90 - plus temperatures for the 11th day in a row.

Friday's heavy shroud of smog prompted the APCD's emergency committee to appeal to motorists to reduce or curtail driving on streets and freeways. Scientists fixed the major portion of blame of the four million vehicles which daily use the vast network of freeways in the Los Angeles area.

In an angry exchange of telegrams, Yorty charged Brown with delaying smog control measures, and Brown retorted that it was the first time Yorty was "showing an interest in the work the state has been doing to ease the smog problem in Los Angeles."

WITH DAUGHTER—Former Mill Valleyan Max Bootzin, 82, gets a guiding hand from his daughter, Mrs. Adeline Rodriguez of San Francisco, as he enters utility office in Mill Valley to cut off gas and electricity at the Robertson Terrace home he formerly shared with two young women. He filed suit against the women yesterday, charging they had swindled him out of $120,000 worth of money and property through insincere vows of affection.

cash and mortgaged his apartment house for $30,000. He now owns an apartment house where he lives in San Francisco as well as one in Oakland and the Mill Valley home.

Asked who was to blame, Bootzin replied that "it is Jesus's fault."

"I always read in the bible that Jesus said if you give them one cheek, give them the other. I will try to be like Jesus, I said. I will try and give them more and more."

But when Miss Klenman got the money, "she threw me out," he declared. "I gave them four lots. After that, she wrote a dirty letter to my boy in Los Angeles that I'm a stingy guy.

"Charmaine is my girl. She said she was going to marry me."

He explained that he met Miss Klenman after his wife, Minnie, died five years ago. Miss Klenman lived in his apartment house on 14th Avenue in San Francisco and declined to pay the rent, said Bootzin.

"I told her to go. But I didn't demand rent payment when she said she would marry me."

Bootzin said he moved to Mill Valley in 1960 and lived one year with Charmaine before she told him to leave. He then moved to San Francisco.

The partially blind widower reminisced about his late wife, known to Mill Valleyans as "Mushka, the Russian."

Long-haired, she used to wear bright jackets and peddle pushers rolled part way up, and would walk up and down Mount Tamalpais collecting flowers.

"Everyone liked her," said Bootzin.

Mrs. Rodriguez, who lives in San Francisco, said she had long warned her father about the situation.

"She will wrap you around her finger," Mrs. Rodriguez recalled telling her father.

"I paid for gas, light and utilities and I paid everything," said Bootzin sadly. "She said things would be good. It was not good."

"This is a lesson for another one," he added. "Not to take things from an old man."

Jewels, Pistol Taken From Home

Jewelry worth $2,385 and a fully-loaded automatic pistol were stolen yesterday from the home of Dean M. Nelson, 403 Jewell Street, San Rafael, police reported today.

The theft was reported by Nelson a few minutes after he returned home at 7 p.m. last night.

Police said the thief entered through an unlocked side door into a backyard. A rear door window also was smashed.

Inside, a fire safe was pried open to reach its contents of wrist watches and rings. The pistol was taken from Nelson's bedroom, he told officers.

Battery Run Down, But Cycle Stolen

In spite of the fact that his black and gray Honda motorcycle had a dead battery, Robert B. Bales of 811 Hacienda Road, Santa Venetia, complained to sheriff's officers yesterday, it proved no protection against theft.

Somebody stole it from in front of his home, he said.

FBI Claimed To Know Of Cannon Sale

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)—A gun dealer who sold two anti-tank guns which might have been used in a $400,000 robbery in Syracuse, N.Y., said today he had kept the FBI informed throughout on the sale.

Johnny Richards, 39, owner of the Potomac Arms Co., said he checked with police and the FBI last March 30 when a man sought to purchase the guns.

He said the man gave his name as John Finch and address as 620 Oronoco, Alexandria. He said police told him there was no such address.

Richards telephoned the FBI and said he was told not to refuse to make the sale, but to stall until the next day.

He did, the man returned, paid $99.95 each for two anti-tank guns and bought ammunition for them. Later, two men went to the Railway Express Agency here and shipped crates they said contained machine parts to Plattsburgh, N.Y. Police were notified there.

Sometime early on April 8, someone broke into the company's office and stole what apparently were the guns.

At FBI headquarters, a spokesman said the department had no comment.

tor seek a new man for the job, and said he was disappointed the other members could not be present to discuss the action.

"This particular position has been an extremely controversial one," he said. "Certain comments have been made . . . I do not want to be subjected to comments of bias regarding this."

Lawrence commented that: "We want a new building inspector as soon as possible. I am not biased in any sense of the word. I do what I think is best despite what people say . . . or write."

Sumbardo told Souza an outline of specific duties for the building inspector had already been drawn up so there would be no conflict between any phases of the job.

"There were times our lines of communication were fogged, that's for sure," said Souza.

Last night's action gave Sumbardo permission to seek a new man at a salary rate of $556 to $676—higher than the proposed $550 salary which had been a bone of contention in this year's budget sessions.

Pagni said he was disturbed about this, although he went along with the vote.

Sumbardo replied that it would be necessary to pay the prevailing rate in order to hire a new man.

Federal Vote Signup Pace Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal examiners were on their way to 12 more deep south counties today under orders from Atty. Gen. Nicholas B. Katzenbach to speed registration of Negro voters before next year's primary elections.

Acting after complaints from civil rights leaders that he was moving too slowly to enforce the new Voting Rights Act, Katzenbach deplored slowdown tactics of southern officials.

He sent examiners to South Carolina for the first time and listed additional counties in Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana where he has found interference with registration of Negroes. They will open their offices early next week.

In an implied warning to other southern voting officials, the attorney general said:

"In evaluating compliance with the Voting Rights Act, we look for full compliance — not only the suspension of unlawful literacy tests, but the provision of reasonable access to new applicants."

inches, at a cost of perhaps $20,000. Filling the ditch and leaving the street as he found it would cost about $3,000, he said.

Usher claimed that the street was damaged during the work by the contractor, and that it must be repaired before a city project to widen the street to four lanes and resurface it can be started.

The contractor claimed the sanitary district has, so far, backed him in the matter. He admitted he orally agreed to fix the street to the town's satisfaction several weeks ago, when a broken water main caused large cracks to form.

But, Kirkwood added today, he did not think such a large change would be asked.

Usher said the entire matter will probably come up before the town council at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday, although it is not on the agenda.

Electric Scissors Are Praised, Extremely Easy On The Hands

By EUNICE FARMER

Thanks for sending your opinions of the electric scissors in answer to the letter written by Mrs. B. A. Most all of the letters praised the scissors, and very few found them unsatisfactory. It seems they are great for cutting several thicknesses of fabric, even fairly heavy fabric, but not too good for cutting very sheer, pully or stretch fabrics. We are warned to practice with them before using them as they are a little difficult to control because of the speed at which they operate.

They are extremely easy on your hands and for this reason are especially good for women with arthritis or any weakness in their hands. Be cautious, be accurate and most of all, be alert because you can't change your mind once you have cut!

Mrs. Everett L. Deason, Okawville, Ill., is this week's winner of a Tailor Trix pressing board for the following suggestion.

"If you made a belt of any type knit fabric or stretchy fabric, it would stretch too much if you constructed it in the conventional way. So instead, baste both edges of the fabric under to form the correct width. Then by placing the backing on top of the fabric while machine stitching, it won't stretch and the belt will turn out perfect every time."

I need your advice in regard to altering four lovely woolen suits given me by a friend. The suits, very expensive at one time, are out of style now because they are quite fitted at the waistline. I can't afford to take these suits to the dressmaker. Can you help me alter them so they will look more like today's style?

Mrs. A. M.

Dear Mrs. A. M:

I'm afraid you will be disappointed in me because I can't help you much with this project. Once a suit has been fitted in at the waistline, the darts and seams have also been clipped in order to curve in at the waist. You won't be able to let these seams and darts out because of the clippings and there isn't any other way to achieve a straight look to the jackets. You might be able to cut them short, just below the waistline and wear the jackets open like a bolero jacket. Just hang on to them, who knows when we will be going back to that style again!

I have two teen-age girls, and it seems that I am constantly taking in or letting out their skirts. Every time I have to alter them I have to remove and replace the zipper. Surely there is a better way of altering the side seams of a skirt. Please help!

Mrs. J. K.

Dear Mrs. J. K.:

I will share the solution I used when I was sewing for my girls and, as you say, "spending all my time altering." Once they know how a skirt should fit, they aren't satisfied with anything else. Try putting the zipper into the center back seam instead of the side seam. The procedure is just the same and the side seams will be free to take up or let out without having to replace the zipper.

When you requested letters about things that annoy seamstresses, I decided to write to you. I would gladly pay twice as much for the thread I use if I could depend on the quality. I have so much trouble with thread breaking I told my local store and got the reply, "The thread just isn't the same as it used to be." What an answer! If anything, it should be better. It is the thread and not the sewing machine because I just had the machine put into perfect order.

Mrs. R. W. B.

Dear Mrs. R. W. B.:

Yours is not the first letter I have received about the quality of thread. I have checked with the thread companies, and they do claim that the quality is better than ever, so who knows where the problem is. If enough of you write to me and tell me the problems you are having concerning thread, I will be more than happy to be the middle man and take them to the proper sources for immediate action. Write me and let's see what can be done!

If you would like my leaflet "Twenty Most Asked Questions" send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Sew Simple, in care of the Independent-Journal.

Eightieth Birthday Marked With Ignacio Dinner Party

Special festivities marked the 80th birthday of Mrs. Eudora Codoni of San Rafael, who has taken an active part in community affairs in Marin County for the past 50 years.

Fifty friends, neighbors and family members were invited to celebrate the occasion at a dinner party at Nero's Restaurant in Ignacio by Mrs. Codoni's children, Miss Edwina Codoni, Mrs. Josephine Leary and Fred Codoni. She is the widow of the late Joseph Codoni of San Rafael.

Her son, who had just returned from a vacation in Hawaii, brought a lei of carnations, anthuriums, and orchids for the honoree. An old friend, Miss Alvina Lopez of Honolulu, attended the party.

Decor of gold and blue was used. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fracchia of Santa Rosa made a three tiered cake for the 80th birthday fete.

The Rev. John Dwyer, of Gilroy, long-time family friend, and the Rev. Thomas Kennedy of St. Raphael's Church, were present. Warren Crane was master of ceremonies at the birthday tribute.

Mrs. Codoni is a past grand president of the Catholic Ladies Aid Society, a founder of the Marin Music Chest, served as secretary for the San Rafael Tree committee for 15 years, and was secretary of the Grand Jury in 1929. Presidents Assembly Sees Need For Scholarships

Not generally realized is the great need for scholarships and loan funds among college students in Marin the Presidents Assembly of Marin believes.

The Assembly is composed of past presidents of Marin women's clubs affiliated with the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

One of its most important projects is its scholarship program.

"Since its founding in 1936, the Assembly has awarded a scholarship each year from funds contributed by members of the federated women's clubs in Marin," said Mrs. William McKay, current Assembly president.

"Additional funds are raised through such projects as luncheons and white elephants sales. The last students to receive scholarships were Maureen Purcell, who is in the field of nursing, and Katherine De Brett, who is a pre-medical student. Both were College of Marin honor students."

Mrs. Paul Hammer, scholarship chairman, described some of the reasons for the program.

"Because the Junior College District is by law prohibited from contributing directly to the financial support of its students, it must look to individuals and groups in the community," she explained.

"There is a critical shortage at the College of Marin of scholarship and loan funds. Enrollment increased 80 per cent in two years, but funds have remained the same.

"More than 50 per cent of the students find it necessary to combine study and a job. Some 15 per cent, in fact, work 20 or more hours a week. This is in the face of the fact that students carrying a normal study program should put in approximately 40 hours or the equivalent of a full-time job in out-of-class study.

"Of those students who drop out of college in mid-semester, 40 per cent do so for financial reasons. Many are the most capable students.

"Most crucial need in the scholarship and loan program," she pointed out, is for expansion in the number and amount of book scholarships to cover books, supplies and other incidentals (average cost is $50 per semester), and for scholarships at graduation. These help relieve extreme financial pressure on College of Marin transfer students during their first year at a four-year institution."

Women's clubs who have contributed to this program in Marin are the San Rafael Improvement Club, Larkspur Women's Club, Outdoor Art Club, Fairfax Women's Club, Tamalpais Centre Women's Club, Sausalito Woman's Club and Corte Madera Women's Improvement Club, she said.

Other current officers of the Marin Presidents Assembly are Mesdames Albert Heston, vice president; Leslie Cowen, secretary; Donald A. Denton, treasurer; W. A. Fusselman, auditor; Richard D. Hardin, publicity; and Russell C. Mills, historian.

TO DANCE AGAIN — David R. White, 11, of Corte Madera, was portrayed in this photo as he rehearsed last year for an appearance with a leading Soviet ballet troupe. Now, the boy is scheduled to appear with another European group, the Royal Danish ballet. He will be one of three children appearing in performances of the ballet "Coppelia," which is set in a toy shop. (Independent-Journal photo)

Marin Boy To Dance With Danish Ballet

Last November, 11-year-old David R. White of Corte Madera danced with Russians. Now he is going to appear with the Royal Danish Ballet.

White, known as Rocky to his friends and family, has been chosen to appear three times next weekend with the ballet in its performance of the ballet "Coppelia" by Louis Merante.

His mother, Mrs. Ralph White of 263 Morningside Drive, said the youngster won the role without a tryout, partly because he made an impression on San Francisco dance teacher Carolyn Parks and partly because there is a shortage of boys who can dance well.

Mrs. Parks teaches youngsters for San Francisco's Pacific Ballet. After seing David in the Marin Civic Ballet's production of "The Nutcracker" last December, she invited him to appear in the ballet in San Francisco.

She apparently liked what he did, because when the Danish troupe asked her to supply three youngsters for "Coppelia," she thought of Rocky.

Mrs. Parks called the youngster's teacher, Mrs. Leona Norman of San Rafael, who in turn talked to David's father. The family left it up to him to decide whether he wanted the part. Over the breakfast table yesterday, he said he did.

He will appear in a Nov. 6 matinee and two performances the next day.

His appearance with Russians came when David danced with the famous Leningrad - Kiev troupe during a tour as part of the cultural exchange program between this country and the Soviet Union.

Fresno Police Arrest Suspect In Theft Case

In addition, the 18-year-old, whose case was transferred to juvenile court, and Schneider are charged with burglary of Honda of Marin, 1542 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

Mill Valley Sets Talk On Marina

Mill Valley city councilmen will consider a six-month option by Paul B. Fischer and associates of Corona Del Mar, Orange County, on a $3 million plan to privately develop the city's yacht harbor at an 8 p.m. meeting Monday in city hall.

The plan, already enthusiastically received by councilmen in a "workshop session" Oct. 9, would provide 350 boat slips, shopping mall, club and restaurant.

The council will hold a hearing on the proposed planned unit development and subdivision map of William S. Allen for a 15-unit single family development in Blithedale Canyon. It is also expected to discuss the garbage franchise of Mill Valley Refuse Co. and a report on underground utilities in Scott Highlands by Councilman Albert E. White.

DRAMA REVIEW

Grand Larceny Seen In 'Juno, Paycock'

By KARL BARRON

Two expert larcenists made off with last night's opening performance of Sean O'Casey's "Juno And The Paycock" at Sausalito Little Theatre, although this Irish drama is not the production that last season's "The Hostage" was.

The potential is here, however.

"Juno" will be repeated tonight at 8:30 and on Friday December 4.

The larceny of Jessie Diffley and Bill Sweeney was nothing so petty as scene-stealing. They simply outshone the rest like a couple of incandescent lights beside the oil lamps of the set, nicely designed and lighted by Lavonne Bain.

Nipping a man-sized drink, telling a long-winded story, breaking into song and finally descending on "Captain" Jack Boyle in full Irish fury, Miss Diffley gave a virtuoso performance as Maisie Madigan.

Sweeney's "Joxer" Daly was seemingly unacted. His involvement was total, his humor sly, his counterpoint of Dion Chesse's "Captain" flawless.

Plagued by line uncertainty, the cast under John King's direction managed to maintain a good pace, but the balance of power in the characters seemed to end other than the way O'Casey intended them.

In this story of lazy, malingering Boyle's efforts to avoid working for a living, set against the terroristic background of the 1922 IRA revolt, Juno (Adelaide Roberts) is obviously the dominant character. It is she who calls the turns throughout, while Boyle dances to her call—except in the second act, when an inheritance has raised his status to that of true master of the house.

Miss Roberts was more mouse than turn-caller, and seldom dominated Chesse's rascally Captain, although she showed good power in her final scene.

Cheese appeared to be working harder than necessary to achieve Boyle's bumbling, lying, guzzling charm. His characterization should settle down to a thing of joy by tonight.

Tom Littlefield as Jerry Devine seemed to be working toward a character which did not quite make it, but should solidify, while Ann Rhine did a very effective bit as the mother whose son has been found riddled with bullets.

As Mary, the daughter of the Boyle family, Barbara Higgins had trouble keeping her accent in gear, as well as emotional gearshifting troubles, while Ian Frankenstein as crippled brother Johnny was in the main totally unintelligible. (In fairness to the actor, my companion said she has never been able to understand what the character says. Perhaps O'Casey wrote it that way.)

As the "Captain" put it, "the world is in chaysus" — chaos, that is.

Expansion At Bridge Approved

A $300,000 expansion of the Golden Gate Bridge Administration Building was approved yesterday by bridge district directors.

Directors approved plans and specifications for the project and authorized general manager James Adam to call for bids.

The plan calls for the building located at the bridge toll plaza to be extended 114 feet to the north of its present location.

It would contain 4,500 square feet of additional office space and will have a redesigned, sound proof meeting room for bridge directors.

Director Dan E. London of San Francisco, chairman of the bridge's building and operating committee, said $100,000 in electrical work would be required in addition to the $300,000 in the building expansion.

Bridge directors also followed a recommendation of the same committee to give the present tenants of the Round House Restaurant 30 days notice to move out by Dec. 1.

They authorized London to work with Adam in seeking proposals from firms which might be interested in operating the restaurant on a month to month basis until the future of the restaurant is determined.

Samuel H. DeLisle is executive director and manager of the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors of Marin-Sonoma-Mendocino counties.

Student To Have Practical Ministry

By STEPHEN COOK

ALABAMA STUDENT—William E. Thomas came from Alabama to study at San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo. He wants to become a minister and sees his duty as taking an active part in the community and civil rights work. (Independent-Journal photo)

Last April, William E. Thomas, 29, and others who shared his beliefs, made daily marches on the town of Camden, Ala. Their goal was the Negro's right to vote.

That demonstration is finished, the voting rights bill has been passed by Congress and Thomas is in San Anselmo, arming himself for a new campaign for the rights of Negro people.

Thomas lives with his wife and four children at 108 Ross Avenue, San Anselmo, and is studying at San Francisco Theological Seminary for his bachelor of divinity degree.

He wants to be ordained a minister of the Presbyterian Church, then return to the South to provide the Negro there the practical leadership he thinks the church should, but often does not, offer.

Thomas taught in a Presbyterian mission school, financed by the church and Wilcox County, in Mills Ferry, nine miles from Camden.

He thinks he probably would have gone to a seminary one day, but credits a group of students from the seminary in San Anselmo, who came to Camden to demonstrate last spring, with his enrollment here.

"The students who came South influenced me a whole lot," he said. "I felt I should be in the company of people who know the church's place is out in the world."

The church's place in society is of major concern to Thomas. He complains of such things as too much emotionalism in the Negro's religion.

"The Negro just cannot hide behind emotionalism and superstition any more," he said. Thomas claims minister preach too much of the "spiritual" and not enough of the practical life.

The "God's going to take care of you" approach is not right for the Negro people, he said. "They don't talk about what you can do today but what's going to come."

Thomas' education is paid for by the Presbyterian Church. Living expenses are taken care of by his part time job in the seminary cafeteria and his wife, Barbara's job as a switchboard operator in San Rafael.

When his three years at the seminary are up, they will head back to the South, preferably to a small town.

"Leadership is very badly needed there, especially in the small towns," he says. "People in those towns are the worst off because they are in need of an education."

Though the southern churches have been rallying points for several major civil rirghts demonstrations in the South, Thomas does not think the church is doing its part. Its worst offense, he said, is silence.

"Some ministers won't speak up for civil rights," he says. "Others are cautious and keep telling us to stay out and study the movement until we really know what's happening.

Thomas thinks one of the southern ministers' worst problems "is that he does not know enough about government and politics to give the people any real help."

He does think there has been progress since the civil rights movement began.

"There are signs. They are opening up more jobs now. I think they are realizing you just can't hold people down anymore," he said.

Lutheran Asks Change In Habits Of Africans

ADDIS ABABA—Delegates to the third All-Africa Lutheran Conference here heard a strong plea for less church discipline and more personal pastoral counselling, especially in problems of sex and marriage.

"What is needed in Africa are not church disciplinarians but marriage counsellors," declared Rev. Walter Robisch.

To deal with polygamy, adultery and other kinds of sexual "misconduct," the churches ought to provide the people of this continent with "not excommunicators but confessors," emphasized the German clergyman, who is on study leave from service in the American Lutheran Mission in Cameroun.

Rev. Trobisch, who conducts a "Marriage Guidance Service for Africa" by mail from his furlough home in Mannheim, Germany, told the conference that "church discipline means to go and to win, not to wait and to judge," the Lutheran press reported.

In keeping with his own affirmation that "in a concrete situation, general principles are not enough—we need a message tailored for each individual," he dedicated most of a plenary session paper to a pastoral analysis of three actual cases in which he was able to give premarital or marriage counsel.

Among the problems he dealt with was that of many African husbands' understanding of their wives' role in marriage as an inferior one.

"This conception of marriage," according to Rev. Trobisch, "is not only based on a wrong and inaccurate biology, but it is also not in accordance with the New Testamenrt which conceives of husband and wife as equal partners before God."

In Africa, he asserted, "there will be no free nations unless there are free couple, and there will be no free couples unless the wife grows into a true partnership with her husband."

Chaplain Keeps His Promise

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Walt Hiskett made a promise to God, and he kept it.

Hiskett, a native of Chicago, was wounded in the Korean War during the battle of the Chosin Reservoir in November 1950. He asked God to spare his life, and promised to serve Him in any way he could.

Hiskett was 20 years old then and a Marine sergeant. Today, he is a Navy lieutenant serving with the Marine Corps as a chaplain in the same battalion he served with during the Korean War as a squad leader — the 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines.

Hiskett, 35, spent three years as a construction worker in Chicago to save enough money to finance him through Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

From Wittenberg, he went on to the Chicago Lutheran Seminary where he received a bachelor of divinity degree in May 1961.

He volunteered for service in Viet Nam.

His wife, Marilynn, and two children reside in San Diego.

Hiskett lives in a tent in a valley about 15 miles southwest of Qui Nhon, and frequently goes up into the hills, where the Marines have their defensive perimeters, to visit the frontline men.

"In serving with the Marines, I feel it's some kind of asmall token of repayment for the blessing that I received at the reservoir," he said.

"Our company was surrounded at Chosin Reservoir for six days. I got wounded on the first day. We thought the wounded would be evacuated. One helicopter came to evacuate us, but it was under sniper fire and had to take off before they could get any wounded to the chopper.

"On the third day, I was getting in bad shape with pain and I went back to the aid tent. That night the Chinese attacked again.

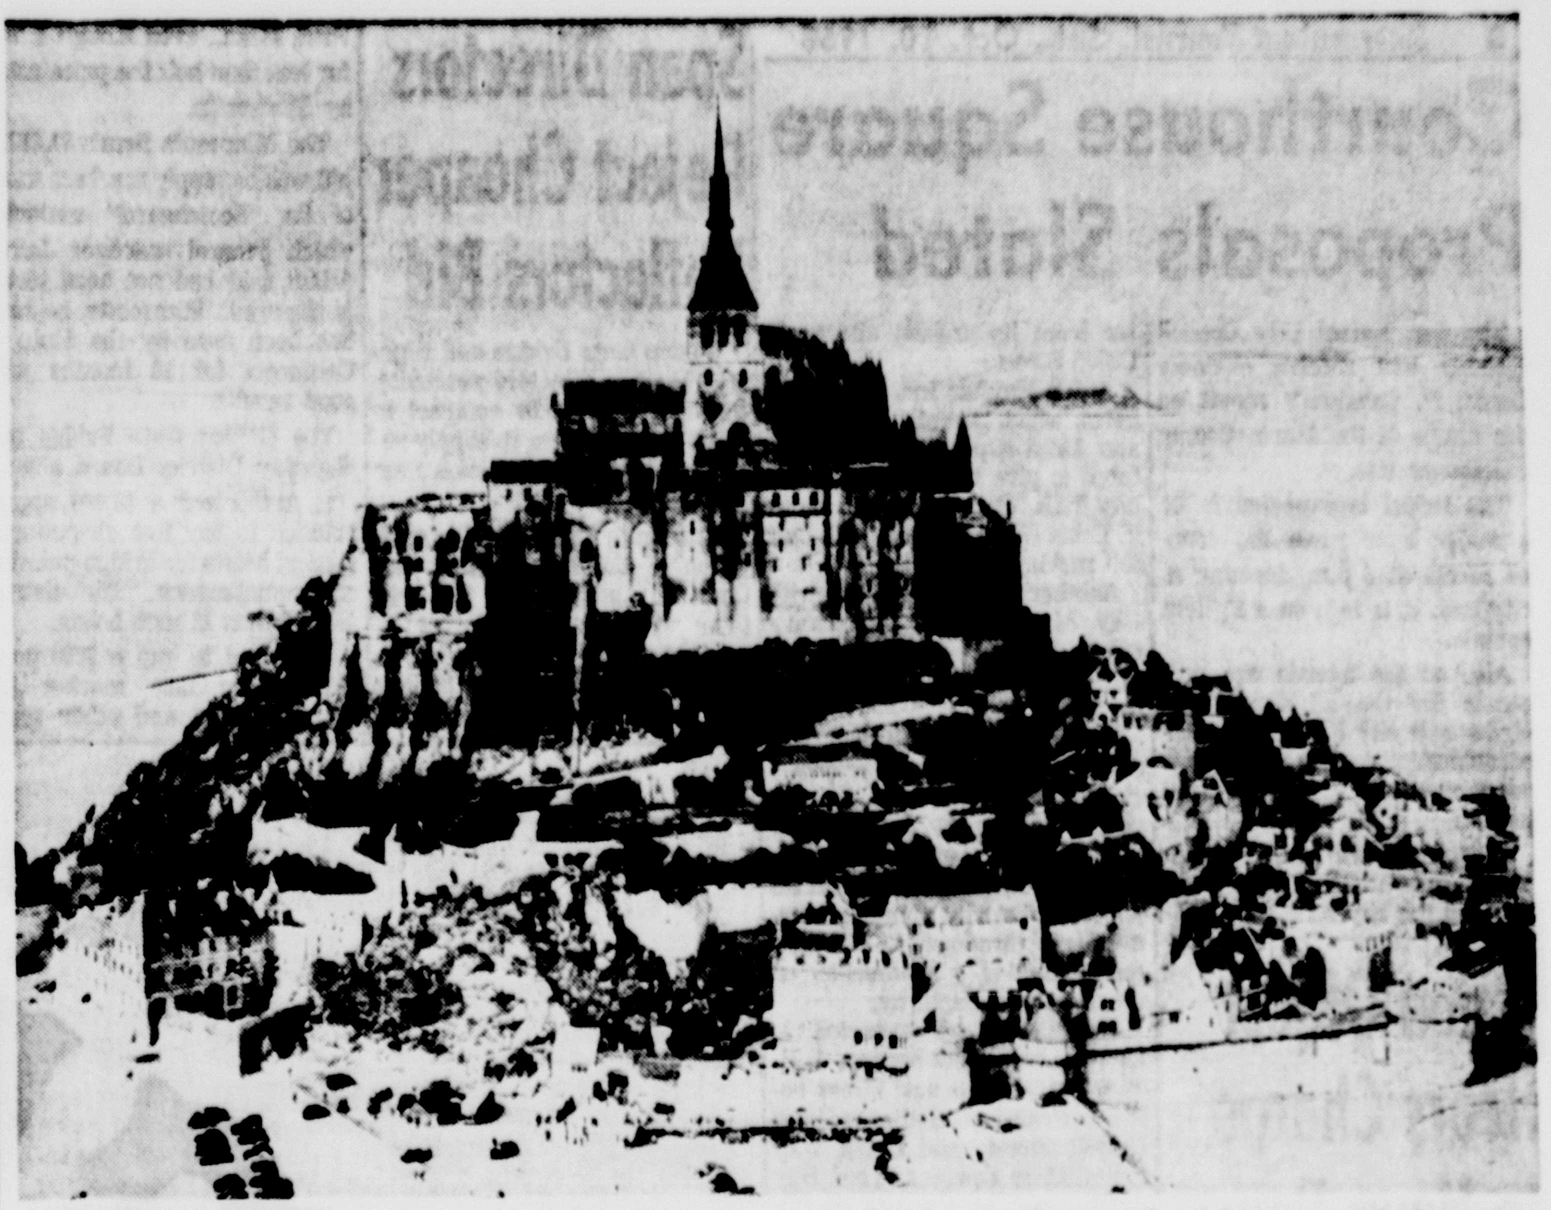
"I made special petitions for my life. I asked God to save me and keep me from being killed and to help the Marines push back the enemy.

"On the sixth day, one of the companies broke through to us from the forward elements."

Choir, Brass In Reformation Observance

The choir of San Francisco Theological Seminary, and a brass trio will join the chancel choir of First Presbyterian Church, San Anselmo, in music to observe reformation day tomorrow at the church's 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

The music will be drawn entirely from the reformation period, beginning with the prelude, Johann Sebastian Bach's setting of the chorale "Sleepers Awake." Trumpets and organ will join for the introit fanfare on "Praise Ye the Lord," also by Bach.



MONT ST. MICHEL — One hundred years ago Benedictine monks came to this island off the coast of France. Today it is best known as a tourist focal point, but monks this year are helping to point out the religious meaning of the island. (AP Wirephoto)

Abbey Having Its 100th Anniversary

MONT ST. MICHEL, France (UPI — Commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the coming of Benedictine monks to this holy island is being carried on by 20 monks.

Mont St. Michel towers 300 feet above the sea off Britany on coast of France. The historic abbey which tops it is a landmark visible for miles.

The black-robed Benedictines from the monastery of St. Wandrille, near Rouen, and their white-robed brothers from Bec Hellouin walked a path to the island hallowed by tens of thousands of pilgrims, over tidal mud flats and quicksand patches in which many have been swallowed up by inrushing tides during the past 10 centuries.

According to tradition, the Mount became a Christian place of worship after Saint Michael appeared three times in the dreams of Saint Aubert, the bishop of nearby Avranches, in the year 708.

For more than 200 years a college of 12 canons founded by Saint Aubert managed the mountaintop shrine.

In the winter of 965-966 A.D., Richard I, Duke of Normandy, replaced the canyons with Benedictine monks from St. Wandrille and Monte Cassino, Italy.

Members of the same order maintained the monastery, fighting off military sieges by the British but finally succumbing to their own desires for a non-Spartan life. The French Revolution turned their hilltop haven into a prison for recalcitrant religious figures and nobles in 1793.

Philosopher Says There Is Intellectual Basis For God

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Is it possible to believe in God on purely intellectual grounds?

Many theologians would say no. Religious thought today is dominated by the assumption that God is beyond the reach of human intelligence and can be known only as He takes the initiative in revealing Himself.

This view is vigorously challenged by Michael Novak, a brilliant young philosopher on the faculty of Stanford University, in a new book entitled, "Belief and Unbelief."

Novak argues that man can arrive at belief in God without making a "leap of faith" and without depending on the authority of any religious revelation, simply by reflecting upon his own experience and identity.

Looking inward at his own deepest nature, Novak says, man finds himself gripped by "a drive to understand," a basic hunger to make sense out of the world in which he lives.

This drive to understand is unlimited. It is not satisfied with explanations of the way things work in the physical universe. Nor does it stop with asking how the universe came into being.

It wants to know, ultimately, "why should anything exist at all?"

Behind the quest for understanding, Novak says, is a deep human intuition that what is real must be intelligible.

"It does not make sense to say that the real just happens; for then the real is radically unintelligible.

"If . . . there is not a God, then the intelligible just happens; it is of itself unintelligible."

He contends the thoughtful man is led to believe in God as the "source of the intelligible."

"We conclude that there is a God, and that his existence and power explain why the real is intelligible, and why our drive to understand is as it is."

In this concept, God is "not an explanation among explanations, but the explantion of why there are explanations."

He is "the source of active understanding in man and of intelligibility in things . . . the prompter of the drive to understand and its fulfillment."

Although a purely intellectual belief in God's existence is more satisfying than unbelief as a basis for organizing one's life, Novak says, man hungers for more than the mere knowledge that God is.

"To believe in God is not to accept the conclusion of a deduction . . . It is, above all, to enter into a conversation with that God, not through words so much as through words so much as through the direction of one's attention.

"To come to believe is to begin to pray," Novak says. "To come to recognize God is to become aware of standing in a conscious presence; it is to stand in silent, wordless communication; and this is prayer."

Courthouse Square Proposals Slated

The San Rafael City Council Monday will receive engineer Daniel P. Coleman's report on the future of the Marin County courthouse site.

The report is expected to be a major topic when the council meets at 8 p.m. Monday at city hall. It is 24th on a 25 item agenda.

Also on the agenda are proposals for the interior design of the new city hall, now under construction. A change order in the project also is slated for approval.

Councilmen will receive a report on how much it would cost to move the city recreation center from its present site at 37 Union Street.

Arden-Mayfair Inc. of Los Angeles, which recently bought the site for a supermarket, has offered to give the building to the city if the city will pay to move it. Councilmen fear this will cost too much.

Another report will deal with City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen's efforts to find new quarters for the center. It must be vacated by Nov. 19.

Public hearings will deal with downtown parking, the proposed "cluster" amendment to the zoning ordinance, extension of the downtown underground utilities district to the west, and an appeal of the city planning commission's turndown on the tentative map of a subdivision on the Redwood Highway.

Councilmen are expected to approve two street names: J. B. Rice Drive for a new street between Francisco Boulevard and DuBois Street; and Bahia Way for what is now called Bay Street, next to the site of the planned Bahia Vista elementary school.

Final adoption of two ordinances is scheduled. One puts into effect the long-discussed city slope policy; the other creates a finance department and spells out its director's duties.

Union Officer Hears Charge In News Row

Douglas A. Smith, 45, of San Jose, president of Mailers Union Local 18, was arraigned in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on a complaint of trespassing signed by Harry H. Johnson, Marin Guide publisher.

Smith pleaded innocent before Judge Leonard A. Thomas. Trial by jury was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. Nov. 30.

Smith was represented by Socrates Mamakos, San Francisco attorney.

He was booked in county jail Wednesday on a citizen's arrest by Johnson following a reported bombing of a room at 200 Shoreline Highway in Tamalpais Valley where copies of the Marin Guide were being prepared for distribution. He is free on $110 bail.

Sheriff's officers and the district attorney's office are investigating possible arson in the incident.

Trespassing Verdict Means Fine Of $110

Clifford Albert Ghames, 32, was fined $110 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday on his guilty plea to trespassing on property of W. W. Anderson on Frank Valley Road in Mount Tamalpais State Park last Aug. 10.

A second count of destroying state park property against Ghames, of 348 Montford Avenue, Mill Valley, was dismissed following his plea.

Tam Candy Sale Set

An all-school candy sale will be held from Monday through Nov. 16 at Tamalpais High School to raise money for the student body and individual classes. Prizes will be awarded to the most successful salesman in each class.

Span Directors Reject Cheaper Reflectors Bid

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday awarded a $2,789.80 contract to a New Jersey firm to supply reflective traffic lane markers for the bridge.

Stimsonite Signal Products Division of the Elastic Stop Nut Corp. of America was the only firm which bid according to specifications. Directors rejected a bid from Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. of St. Paul, Minn., even though it was for less than half the price asked by Stimsonite.

The Minnesota firm's $1,357.20 bid was to supply markers made of its "Scotchgard" material, which general manager James Adam said had not been tested in the area. Stimsonite, he said, has been used by the State of California for 18 months with good results.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District Board also:

1. Authorized a $6,000 appropriation to buy five air-powered rigging hoists for bridge painting and maintenance. The district already has 12 such hoists.

2. Agreed to buy a $650 portable traffic lane marker for parking areas and other spots not reachable with large equipment.

3. Approved purchase of two electric toll receipt printers in the truck lanes at the toll plaza, to cost a total of $1,350.

4. Authorized Adam to prepare specifications and call for bids on a large portable air compressor for maintenance work.

Falls Into Glass

Mrs. Frances Silva, 43, of 775 McClay Road, Novato, was in good condition today at Novato Hospital suffering from cuts received Thursday when she accidentally fell through glass shower doors at her home.

She was severly cut on the upper left arm and the right ear, according to the hospital.

Corte Madera Officials' Moving Day Draws Near

Corte Madera town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher said yesterday that architects Crawford and Banning of San Rafael have told him work will probably be complete Monday on the new Public Safety Building.

We're gearing our plan to move into the building next week—I would imagine in the latter part of the week," Usher said.

The new building will house the town's police and volunteer fire departments. Before the move from the Town Hall can be made, Usher said, new furniture for the building must be moved in.

Monday, the town's fire horn system will be moved from Town Hall to the Public Safety Building.

Police and Fire Chief Frank L. Nelson warned that the fire horn will be out of commission all day Monday and possibly longer. During the move, alarms for volunteer firemen will be sounded with the town's air raid siren, he said.

In three years, 127 sunfish introduced in an Illinois lake multiplied to 67,700.

UNICEF Spooks Prowl Tomorrow

Costumed Marin children tomorrow will carry orange and black cartons door to door in the annual UNICEF Trick or Treat. More than 7,500 cartons have been distributed this year, 1,000 more than in 1964.

The children will not ask for candy, but for money to help support the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, which operates on an annual budget of 35 million dollars and which this year was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize.

The 1965 program started early in Mill Valley, where last Sunday, United Nations Day, children in Mill Valley collected $460.

Marin Reaches Hands Into San Francisco Bay

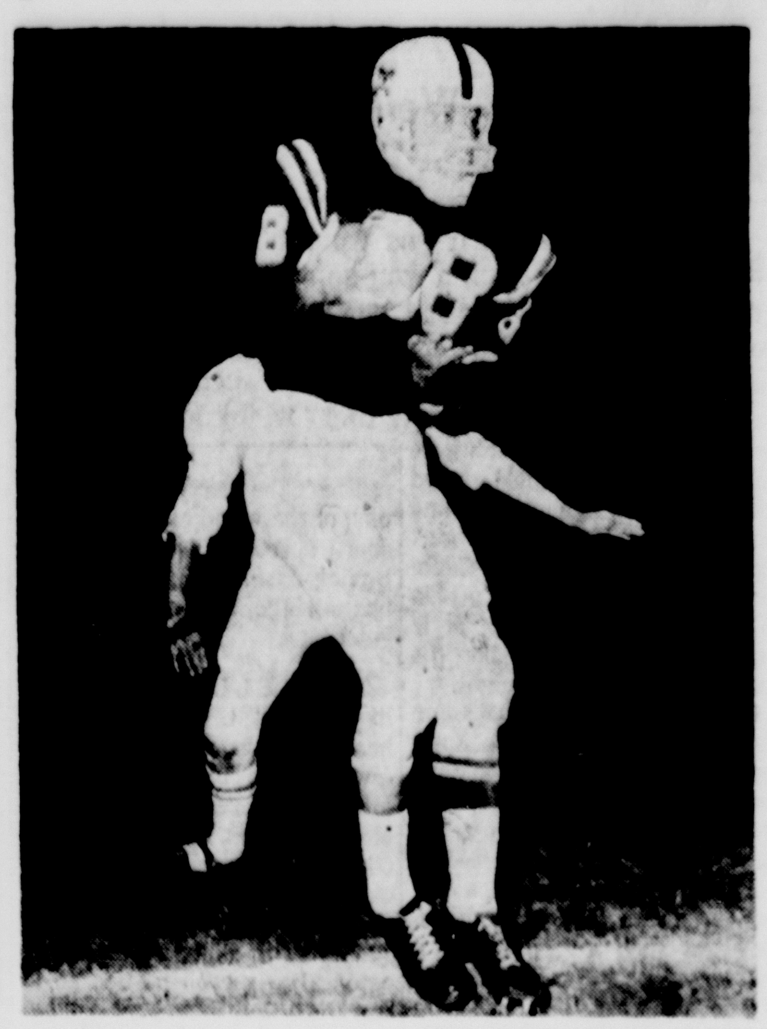
Marin County's ridges of hills form numerous peninsulas in San Francisco Bay from Sausalito, near the bottom left corner of the picture to the Sonoma County line at the top. The most prominent is the Tiburon Peninsula, pointing at Angel Island, with the town of Belvedere connected by roads across a lagoon near the tip. In Richardson Bay to the southwest, Strawberry Point can be seen at the far left. Point San Quentin provides the west footing of the San Rafael-Richmond Bay Bridge. North of that is the San Pedro Peninsula, with the Peacock Gap development at its tip. Flatlands of the Gallinas and Novato creek watersheds extend north to Sonoma County. The major city on the right side of the picture is Richmond. San Pablo Bay and the lower part of the Napa Valley may be seen at the top. (Aero Photographers picture)

Drake, Tamalpais Remain Tied For Prep Grid Lead

DO IT THIS WAY—San Rafael High School coach Bob Muster might be explaining a pass pattern to end Sam Crowell, because he sure scored a dazzling touchdown last night against Drake, catching a Jay Widmer pass that netted 79 yards.

IT'S THIS WAY—Drake coach Bob Franceschini (left) explains his team's good fortunes to San Rafael coach Bob Muster after last night's game in San Rafael. Franceschini's Pirates thumped the Bulldogs 34-7, so the Drake mentor had much to talk about.

RUNNING QUARTERBACK—Drake High School's Bill Ingram is a boy who likes to run as well as throw. He's shown here picking up a first down in the fourth quarter before being stopped by San Rafael's Al Heisler. Ingram passed for 129 yards and ran for 24 more.



I GOT IT!—San Rafael end Joe Cunningham catches a pass from Jay Widmer good for 14 yards during the second quarter of last night's game which drew some 4,000 spectators at the Bulldogs' field. Behind Cunningham is Drake defensive back Mark Rasmussen.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

Dedication To Sport Pays Off; UCLA Brewin' Up Another Title

MEET THE CHAMPS:

It's been a long road back for John Noonan. Five years ago the Novato lad couldn't run across the street. Osteomyelitis of an ankle hospitalized him for a couple of months and certainly didn't encourage his athletic ambitions.

But John Noonan is a young man in a hurry and he ran along the comeback road, starring for the Novato High School cross country team and keeping active the year 'round in Amateur Athletic Union races.

His dedication to sport is paying off. Today, as an 18-year-old freshman, he is the best cross country runner at Sonoma State College, having led his team in seven races thus far, including a sparkling 23-minute, 39-second performance over the rugged 4.7-mile course against powerful Sacramento State recently. He runs for an hour to an hour and a half daily. Looks like John Noonan is going places.

FORMER DRAKE High gridder Charles Hahn, who sat out his senior prep year due to a shoulder injury, is earning straight A grades in football at U. of Oregon. A linebacker on the Duckling (frosh) team, Hahn was described by Coach Len Casanova as "one of the most intense boys I have ever seen on a football field." Cas is counting on Hahn to develop into one of the outstanding players on the coast, according to Oregon alum Al Murray.

FAST START—Otis Roberts, a beginner in the sport, bowled a 237 game—106 pins above his average—at Greenbrae Lanes the other night. Not bad when you consider it was his first night of league competition.

UCLA BASKETBALL coach Johnny Wooden's appearance at the Marin Coaching Clinic in Kentfield today brings our attention to the fact that former Redwood High and College of Marin whiz Jay Johnson is vying for a berth with the Bruin varsity this year. The 6-foot Johnson, All-Northern California J.C. last year, was one of the most prolific scorers in history at the Kentfield school noted for producing basketball champs.

Equipped with cat-like quickness, hands of a burglar and an eye that scores points just by looking at the basket, Johnson would appear to be perfectly-suited for the Bruin style of play.

It looks like Papa Bear Wooden is brewin' up another great team, what with seven lettermen returning from last year's club that won its second straight NCAA title. Although Gail Goodrich and Keith Erickson are gone, Bruin returnees include such pips as Edgar Lacey, Doug McIntosh, Mike Lynn, Freddie Goss and Kenny Washington.

It looks like a long winter for UCLA opponents.

TICKETS FOR the live closed-circuit Richmond Auditorium telecast of the Nov. 22 Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson fight in Las Vegas now are on sale in San Rafael at the Carmel Barber Shop.

Seems funny that a barber shop would sell tickets to a heavyweight title fight show. Last one wasn't exactly a hair-raiser. In fact, most of the patrons felt they got clipped.

Litchfields Eye Third Straight

Litchfield's semi-pro baseball team from San Rafael will be trying for its third straight triumph in San Francisco AAA Winter League action tomorrow when it goes against the Gino Benedetti nine.

Southpaw Bob DeRosa is expected to pitch for the Marin team in the game slated for the Graham diamond in Golden Gate Park. It will start at 2 p.m.

Joe Anselmo, manager of the Litchfield team, announced yesterday the signing of Walt Williams who was No. 2 batter last season in the Texas League with a .330 mark. The outfielder was initially signed by the Houston Astros last year and then traded to the St. Louis Cards.

Pirates Thump Bulldogs In 34-7 Rout

Indians Top 'Cats By 19-12

By MAURICE WEINGER

Holding off a last quarter bid, Tamalpais had enough strength to defeat a determined Marin Catholic eleven, 19-12, last night at Kentfield.

It was the Indians' third win in four contests in the Marin Athletic League and left them in a tie for first place.

Marin, however, in losing its fifth straight league game, did play Tamalpais even for the first two quarters, leaving the field at halftime tied 6-6, and then rallied from a 19-6 deficit in the fourth quarter to score one touchdown and was moving towards a second when the gun sounded ending the ball game.

It was Marin's offensive mistakes that lost the game as Tamalpais took advantage to score its three touchdowns.

Tamalpais scored first in the opening quarter when Marin quarterback Mike Giacomini tried a pitchout to halfback Stan Hardeman, but the latter fumbled the ball on his 14 yard line and defensive end Ken Blasingame fell on it.

Steve Meyers and Mike Fowler, who did almost all of the Indian running throughout the contest, each took turns carrying the ball and moved it in five plays for the score with Fowler getting the final yard after Meyers had gotten a first down on the previous play.

Marin came back with the surprise play of the game with three seconds remaining on the clock before halftime.

Taking a Meyer's punt on his own 35, fullback George King started to run towards his right and up the field near the sidelines next to the Tamalpais bench.

Everyone converged at the midfield line next to the Indian bench — either trying to stop King or block him through. The runner bounced off three players, and before anyone knew where King was, he was in the clear and on his way to the end zone for a 65-yard punt to tie the game at halftime.

Tamalpais moved out to a two touchdown lead in the third quarter with the defense setting up both scores.

Deep in its territory, Marin fumbled the ball on the eight-yard line and Honor Jackson, a defensive halfback, recovered for Tam on the five yard line. Again it was Fowler who started the two play drive with four yards and quarterback Tom Lecy finished it with a sneak with 3:21 left.

The Indians came right back to increase the lead to 19-6 on Marin's ensuing series of plays. Quarterback Bob Nelson, taking over for Giacomini who injured his leg, tried a pass from his 38 yard line, but safety Ray Stark intercepted on the 42 and

ADELAIDE, Australia, (AP) — Gary Player, South Africa's wonderboy of golf, won the Australian Open Championship today by six strokes after posting another spectacular 62 in the third round and then finishing the 72-hole test with a 69 for an aggregate of 264.

Jack Nicklaus of Columbus, Ohio, who started the final day four strokes ahead of Player, zoomed to a 70 in the third round and then took a 71 in the fourth round over the flat Kooyonga Course, where par is 37-36—73.

Frank Phillips of Australia, registered 66-69 for his two rounds and pulled into a tie with Nicklaus for second place honors at 270.

Player, already the U.S. Open champion and winner of two world titles in international competition this summer, was threatened with a two-stroke penalty for slow play but it was disallowed.

He started the day four strokes behind Nicklaus but got eagles on the first two holes of the morning round and was even. By the time they went to lunch, Player was four strokes ahead of the Ohioan.

Whatever chance Nicklaus had of catching up with Player, who also had a 62 in the opening round on Thursday, went down the drain on the second hole of the final round. The American teed off an hour after Player and had just been told of the South African's progress.

He smashed his drive deep into the rough and when the ball was found it was unplayable. He took a seven on the hole. That virtually assured Player of the title.

The victory was worth $2,632 to Player and Nicklaus got a check for $812.

Peter Thomson of Australia, the current British Open champion, was fourth at 271 and Bob Charles of New Zealand fifth at 275.

Lazzarini Scores Three More TD's

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Drake High School's powerful offensive machine, and especially its main wheel, was all too much for San Rafael Bulldogs last night as Dean Lazzarini ran his way to three touchdowns to lead the Pirates to a 34-7 romp.

The Drake triumph spoiled San Rafael's homecoming festivities and kept the Pirates in a tie for the Marin Athletic League lead. It was the largest crowd of the season on the San Rafael High School field, with 4,000 fans jamming the stands and spilling onto the sidelines.

Lazzarini, the speedy fullback, ran his touchdown total to 13 for the season and gained 116 yards in 19 carries. Most of his yardage came in the middle of the Bulldogs' line, as the Drake blockers up front never looked better. Time after time huge holes were gouged in the San Rafael defensive front wall.

As they say, you can contain Lazzarini part of the time, but don't expect to hold him for the whole game. San Rafael had held him to nine yards net for the first 20 minutes and 15 seconds of the game before he exploded for his first touchdown late in the second quarter. The first quarter was scoreless.

After a five-yard penalty had given the Pirates a first down on the San Rafael 35, Lazz struck. He took a handoff from quarterback Bill Ingram and slanted over left tackle. It was one of his better open field runs of the season as he dodged one of the San Rafael defensive backs on the 10 and then carried two more with him into the end zone after being hit on the five. Ingram, on a quarterback sneak, bulled over for the extra point to give the Pirates a 7-0 lead with 3:45 left in the first half.

Before the half was over, the Pirates struck again, this time on a pass play. It was sophomore end Don Alvarado for the TD, catching a pass from Ingram that netted 46 yards. Alvarado, who has surprisingly fine moves for a boy playing his first year of varsity ball, got a step on defensive back Paul Giompaoli and made a great catch on the 20 and ran the rest of the way for the score. Ingram again added the PAT on a sneak and with only 47 seconds left in the half, Drake had itself a 14-0 bulge.

Starting off the second half, Drake drove all the way to the Bulldogs' 14 before Giompaoli intercepted an Ingram pass to cut off the drive. But two plays later halfback Dick Loomis fumbled and Drake's Jerry Sprout fell on the ball on the San Rafael 15-yard stripe.

After a five-yard off sides penalty against San Rafael moved the ball to the 10, Lazzarini took a handoff and blasted through a huge hole at his own right tackle spot and shot past the dazed San Rafael secondary to score standing up. Halfback Tom Mauer skirted right end for the extra point and now it was Drake 21-0.

After the ensuing kickoff, San Rafael hit its touchdown and it was a dazzler. End Sam Crowell faked his way past a Drake defender and S.R. quarterback Jay Widmer had one of his few opportunities to take time to spot him. Jay tossed a long bomb which Crowell caught on the Drake 40 and ran the rest of the way to the end zone with a key block thrown by Joel Bortfeld. The play netted 79 yards. Tom Gagen's kick was good for San Rafael's seventh point.

But Drake came right back after getting the ball on their own 49 on a short San Rafael kickoff.

Ingram passed to Alvarado for 30 yards and it was first and 10 on the Bulldogs' 21. Then Mauer carried three straight times, gaining 7, 5 and 3 yards to the 6. From there, Ingram faked a handoff through the middle and then bootlegged around his own left end for the touchdown. Ingram, who passed for 129 yards and ran for another 24, missed this time on his quar-

Terrell-Chuvalo: Well-Kept Secret

I'd appreciate it if you wouldn't noise it around —I hate to break such a well-kept secret—but there's going to be a heavyweight championship fight in Toronto Monday night. Not since the night Marvin Hart fought Tommy Burns has there been such excitement.

The participants are that well-known heavyweight champion, a man whose name is a household word wherever fight fans gather (and that household word is "sink stopper"), and a Croatian-Canadian with a strong back, a chin to match, and a boxing style modeled after a guy raiding the refrigerator after midnight.

George Chuvalo, the Canadian challenger, can do more damage to a stomach than Mexican food. Against Ernest Terrell, the champion, he's going to get a lot of target. Ernest is 6 feet 6 inches tall, and all but a few inches on each end is stomach. He's got such a long trunk, it should have bark on it. His chin is above timber line.

TERRELL'S PLUS is that he's got a longer range than a .22 rifle. All he has to be, to hit you, is in the same country. His arms are so long that when he hits someone, they turn around to see who did it. Terrell is almost over the horizon. He could be the world's greatest pickpocket because, even if he got caught with his hands in somebody's wallet, it would take him several hours to track it back to the shoulder.

Terrell's boxing style is modeled after a yacht race — or a channel swim. It's the Australian crawl with six ounce gloves. But it has stood him in good stead. He has won slashing victories over Gerhard Zech of Germany, Henry Wallitsch of New York, Herb Siler of parts unknown, and several other all-time anonymities. His chief claim to fame is he never fought Sonny Liston. But, then, neither did Floyd Patterson.

CHUVALO HAS a reach just long enough so that he can comb his hair if he lies down. He can scratch his ear easier with his foot. But he has a back broad enough to advertise Volkswagens without hyphens. He fights like a surgeon probing for an ulcer. He hasn't landed a punch above the navel in years. He makes Gene Fullmer look like a stylist. He has never been knocked off his feet — and that includes 44 prize fights and two streetcar accidents. Report has it he did severe damage to the streetcar's mid-section.

Everybody knows Ernest Terrell isn't the heavyweight champion of the world except a comic opera chorus called the "World Boxing Assn." It is a group that has all the say of a Russian voter.

TERRELL FIGHTS people like ancient China. He doesn't beat them, he absorbs them. A few fighters have disappeared into those forests of forearms, elbows, biceps, and have never come out. Terrell gets the decision because he's the only one they can find at the end of 15 rounds. The other guy is extricated after search parties go in and when they emerge, blinking, into the ring lights, and are asked "How was it?" they reply "Dark." You should be allowed a miner's lamp and a gauze mask when you fight Terrell. Your oxygen is apt to be cut off about the fourth round.

Terrell "won" the "heavyweight championship" by beating Eddie Machen. Machen, apparently, was the only fighter who wasn't busy that night. There was no other reason to give him a "title" shot.

CHUVALO'S CHIEF claim to fame is, he went 12 rounds with Floyd Patterson without knocking him out. Or even down. This is a feat not many of Patterson's opponents can boast. George did it by ignoring Floyd's chin. Apparently he did not want to get hit with any flying glass. As a matter of fact, his face was cut enough from flying gloves. The best thing he has going for him defensively, is, he clots nicely.

If Chuvalo wins, it will be a shot in the head. At least, neither of these guys ever robbed any trains, kicked the canes out from under old men, or recommended the obliteration of the white race. But there is nothing in their records to indicate they should be favored over anybody who has.

THE WINNER will get a shot at the Cassius Clay - Patterson winner. Men of good will everywhere will be rooting for a draw. Together, they might be a match for Clay. Get a price, though, if you're betting.

Drake Whips San Rafael To Stay Tied For Lead

terback sneak for the PAT. But with still the fourth quarter to go, Drake was ahead 27-7.

Lazzarini scored his third touchdown in the final stanza on a play that was apparently "blown."

The Pirates drove from their own 34 to the San Rafael 4, using 12 plays, and now it was third and goal. Ingram started to run but was stacked up at the line of scrimmage. As he was hit, he pitched back to Lazzarini but the ball went a couple of feet over Dean's head. Lazzarini scooped up the ball back on the eight-yard line and shot like a bullet straight over right tackle and dove into the end zone. Dave Simonini scored the conversion on a run over right tackle. That ended the scoring for the night.

Lazzarini would have had more yardage last night if it wasn't for San Rafael defensive end John Balzan who stopped him a few times, one time for a 10-yard loss. As usual, Balzan was all over the field, and one time even carried the ball as a fullback and gained 5 yards.

Top defensive player for Drake appeared to be Sprout, the 210-pound tackle for the Pirates. He was in on numerous tackles and was one of the key men that kept Widmer back pedaling all game. Drake's defense was really up for the game, holding San Rafael to minus 4 yards. Widmer's passing accounted for 125 of San Rafael's yards. Drake, on the other hand, rolled up a total of 317 yards.

It was raining red handkerchiefs, the officials calling a total of 240 yards on penalties, 110 against Drake and 130 against San Rafael.

49ers (Brodie), Colts (Unitas) Collide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Baltimore's Johnny Unitas has completed more passes than any other National Football League quarterback this fall except the fellow the Colts face tomorrow—John Brodie.

The veteran San Francisco 49er has hit 106 times for 1,450 yards and 14 touchdowns.

Unitas takes the field at Kezar Stadium with 94 completions for 1,461 yards and 12 touchdowns. Each has had seven intercepted.

The game, scheduled for a 1 p.m. kickoff, will be the second between the two clubs this season. At Baltimore, the Colts ran up a 24-7 halftime lead and then had to hang on for a 27-24 triumph.

They come to San Francisco with a 5-1 record, second in the Western Conference to Green Bay's 6-0. The 49ers, after dropping a 42-41 verdict to Minnesota last week, stand 3-3.

San Francisco end Dave Parks was voted the offensive player of the week by The Associated Press after his performance at Baltimore when he caught nine passes for 231 yards and three touchdowns.

Still he was disappointed and declared, "We should have won it. We will next time."

A crowd of 40,000 is expected to see if the 49ers will generate enough offense and have the defense to stop Unitas and the defending divisional champions.

The Colts may have to operate without defensive tackle Fred Miller and halfback Lenny Moore. The former was injured in last week's 35-20 victory over Los Angeles. The latter has missed the past two games because of bruised ribs.

Moore's replacement, Tom Matte, ran for 41 yards against the Rams, caught a pass for 10, threw one for 19 and returned to kickoffs a total of 71.

Defensive halfback Lenny Lyles also has been out since the 49er game in Baltimore but may be able to see action this week.

San Francisco came out of the Minnesota game with no additional injuries and will start the same club again. Rookie Ken Willard, the club's leading rusher with 340 yards, opens at fullback with John David Crow at halfback, Bernie Casey at flanker and Parks the spread end.

Rejoining the club will be veteran linebacker Matt Hazeltine who has been out since undergoing knee surgery on Sept. 24.

Despite all the 49er throwing and running, the leading scorer hasn't tallied a touchdown. He's Tommy Davis, the kicking specialist who has booted 25 conversions and eight field goals for 49 points. Parks, Casey and Willard each have 30 on five touchdowns.

$1 Million Suit Over Machen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The services of heavyweight boxer Eddie Machen have become a matter of a $1 million damage suit in federal court.

Professional Boxers Inc., of Portland, Ore., whose president is Machen's former manager, Sid Flaherty, filed the suit yesterday in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Main defendants are Vincent Correnti, a car wash owner, and fight manager in San Francisco, and Los Angeles boxing figures Walter and Leo Minskoff.

The suit asks $250,000 actual and $750,000 punitive damages for allegedly inducing Machen to break an exclusive seven-year contract with Professional Boxers one year after he signed it in 1961.

The California Athletic Commission approved Machen's contract with Walter Minskoff on Feb. 7, 1963.

Bob Turley, chief commission inspector, said then, "In 1959, Flaherty signed a release from the contract and he has stated numerous times he has no fighters under contract, and specifically not Eddie Machen."

sailed down the sidelines for the third score.

Marin was not giving up in this ball game as it rallied to close the score with the opening of the last quarter.

Starting from their own 47, the Wildcats moved five yards on runs by King and Tom Murray, but Nelson put the spark into the drive with a long pass down the middle of the field to Stan Hardeman for 40 yards and a first down on the Tamalpais 14.

King added two on a shot off tackle but Nelson was the hero as he again called for a pass, this time to Mark Stempel, who slanted in from his right end spot to catch the ball on the five and bounced his way into the end zone with 9:39 in the contest.

Marin almost got moving again as it started a last ditch drive from its own 20 that went to the Indians' 43, but the gun sounded and the Wildcats had suffered its 27th straight MCAL defeat.

DOLLED UP FOR HALLOWEEN

New York Knicks Willis Reed wears a face mask to protect a broken nose and it must be quite a sight to someone trying to guard the 6-10, 235-pound center. In this photo Reed shoots in practice before the game last night at Civic Auditorium as a teammate holds a ball that turns into a pumpkin jack-o-lantern face.

Marin Vs. Yuba At Marysville Tonight

The big one has come early for the Marin Tars football team.

College of Marin's gridders travel to Marysville tonight for a key Golden Valley Conference game with Yuba College 49ers, starting at 8 o'clock.

Yuba has the honor this season of being the first GVC team to beat Santa Rosa in conference action, snapping the Bear Cubs' string of 15 straight conference wins. Yuba is favored to win the GVC championship.

The 49ers have a 2-0 conference mark compared to a 1-0 for the Tars. Winner of tonight's game has a good chance to go all the way to the title. Marin's win was an impressive 34-16 triumph over Sierra.

Normally, Marin's most important game of the season comes on the final day when the Tars play Santa Rosa, but this time the biggie is only the second conference game of the year.

Warriors Grab Lead; Battle L.A. Tonight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The San Francisco Warriors, suddenly a threat to Los Angeles superiority in the Western Division of the National Basketball Association, meet the Lakers tonight in a battle for the early lead.

The Lakers beat the Warriors 122-115 in the season opener, the last San Francisco loss. The Warriors then went on a three-game winning streak that included last night's 110-100 triumph over New York.

The Warrior victory was the first after 16 straight losses in their San Francisco Civic Auditorium home, stretching back to Dec. 18 last season. And it marked the first three - game winning streak since the season before last when the Warriors won the divisional title.

Last season, the Warriors won only 17 games for an all - time NBA low. Now they're in first place with a 3-1 record compared to the Lakers' 4-2.

Guy Rodgers stole the show for San Francisco last night against the Knicks, scoring a game-high 24 points, contributing 13 assists and stealing the ball seven times.

Paul Neumann threw in 20 points as the Warriors broke a 54-54 halftime tie. After a 10-minute rest in the third period, Neumann scored 11 points in the fourth quarter.

Up front, Tom Meschery and sensational rookie Rick Barry tossed in 18 points each for the Warriors, equaling Willis Reed's high point total for the losers.

Terra Linda Vs. Manteca In Practice

Terra Linda High School's Trojans get a break from Marin Athletic League football action this week, but they do not have things easy.

The Trojans trek to Manteca tonight for a non-league battle with the Manteca High School Buffaloes starting at 8 o'clock. Terra Linda will be matching its 3-1-1 record against the 3-2 mark of Manteca.

Included in Manteca's three wins is a 15-0 triumph over Downey of Modesto. Terra Linda coach Brad Squires scouted that game and reports the Buffaloes are big and strong. They are in the Valley Oak League.

Only injured Tropans who will see limited action tonight are John Forry and center Steve Machado. Forry, nursing an ankle injury, will be moved to end for tonight's game, while Machado is on the doubtful list with a knee bruise.

Ferree Captures Lead At Almaden

SAN JOSE (AP)—When Jim Ferree takes off his glasses and lines up a putt in the San Jose-Almaden golf tournament, he could be thinking "50."

He could because so far this year he ranks No. 51 on the pro golfers' money-winning list and the top half-hundred at the end of the campaign will be exempt from qualifying at PGA tournaments all through 1966.

The 5-foot 9-inch, 165-pounder playing out of Corona, Calif., fired a 67 in the second round of the $46,000 tournament at San Jose to grab the lead at the midway point with an 11-under-par 133.

The North Carolina native, who putts cross handed and takes his spectacles off when he reaches the greens, has won $14,432.92 so far this year and now goes after the $7,200 first prize which will be decided with roundse today and tomorrow over the Almaden Country Club layout.

That would virtually assure him of finishing in the top 50 and gaining the valuable exemption.

Hot on his heels at 135, two strokes back, comes a pair with similar thoughts.

Charles Coody of Fort Worth, Tex., shot a 69 yesterday while South Africa's Bob Verwey had a 66. Strangely enough, Coody ranks 50th right now and Verey 52nd in money winnings.

They have some of the bigger money winners firing at them—notably Billy Casper, of Peacock Gap, winner of last week's Sahara Invitational, who has posted 69-71.

CO-LEADERS FALL

The first round co-leaders fell back — Al Geiberger combining a 73 with his 65 for 138 and Steve Oppermann a 74 for 139.

Anyone shooting a stroke over par on each of the first two rounds over the par 36-36 — 72 course of 7,035 yards, missed the cut. It took 145 or better for 74 golfers to remain in the tournament.

Five were tied at 137—Billy Martindale, Gary Bauer, and Larry Mowry with 67 on the second day, Don Massengale with 69 and Ken Still with 70.

Ken Venturi, the 1964 U.S. Open champion who suffered from a circulation ailment in his hands this year and underwent surgery, proved himself on the comeback trail with a 65, equalling the competitive course record and posting 141 at the midway mark.

Guy Bill of Oakland and Tom Culligan of Hillsborough, each had 142 to share the lead for amateurs, the former having a 72 and the latter 68 on the second round.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Oct. 30, the 303rd day of 1965 with 62 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter; the morning star is Jupiter; the evening stars are Mars, Venus and Saturn.

In 1929, heavy selling on the New York Stock Exchange followed the big plunge of the day before.

In 1938, Actor Orson Welles caused a national panic with his radio dramatization of an invasion of New Jersey by men from Mars.

In 1941, a German sumarine torpedoed and sank a U.S. naval destroyer, although America was not yet at war.

In 1948, an Army transport from Germany arrived in New York City with the first refugees to arrive in the United States under the Displaced Persons Act.

A Thought for the Day — Former American President John Adams said: "The happiness of society is the end of government."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Help Your Partner's Long Suit By Garnering Early Tricks

When your partner leads a long suit against three no-trump you must use your entries early to set up his suit.

Let your partner save his entry so that by the time he gains the lead he can run his suit and defeat the contract.

Opening lead — ♡ 5

West opened the five of hearts, and South allowed East to win the first trick with the jack. East returned a heart to dummy's king.

Declarer next led a diamond from dummy, and East played low in the hope that South would misguess a finesse. South tried a finesse with the jack, but this did the defenders no good at all.

West had to win with the queen of diamonds, and now his hand was dead. He made a switch to the jack of spades, but South was too shrewd to take a losing finesse. He put up the ace of spades and led another diamond from dummy.

END OF DEFENSE

The defense had now come to an end. East could take the ace of diamonds and the king of spades if he cashed them at once. Then South had tricks to burn.

East's best chance to defeat the contract was to step up with the ace of diamonds when declarer first led that suit from dummy. East would then return his last heart, setting up West's suit.

If South played for the diamonds he would let West in with the queen of diamonds and the rest of the hearts. If South fell back on the spade finesse instead of continuing with diamonds, East would take the king of spades and return a spade, holding South to eight tricks.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club.

With four cards in each black suit open with one club rather than one spade. You have a very convenient rebid if partner responds in any new suit.

CHANGES HEIGHT—Navy pilot Lt. Frank Ellis, 32, already had won nationwide attention for continuing his military aviation career after losing both legs in a jet accident three years ago. Yesterday, the Pentagon revealed that Ellis had been selected as a candidate for astronaut training. The flier, shown having his artificial legs adjusted, holds that being able to change his height actually is an advantage in space flight. (UPI Telephoto)

Legless Navy Pilot May Be Space Flier

MONTEREY, Calif. (UPI) — One of the nation's newest potential astronauts is a double amputee who thinks he had an advantage over other candidates because his "height is adjustable."

"I'm so anxious to be an astronaut that I'd join immediately," said Lt. Frank K. Ellis, a 32-year-old Navy flyer who lost both legs in a plane crash three years ago.

Ellis thinks the way to convince the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) of what he can do is to show them. When United Press International first tried to contact Ellis Friday to inform him of his possible selection as an astronaut by NASA, he was flying a T-28 aircraft.

The astronanut candidate is an authentic Navy hero. He lost both legs in 1962 when his jet crashed near Pt. Mugu, Calif., as he struggled to miss a residential district.

The brave pilot stayed with his plane too long for his personal safety and bailed out only 65 feet above the ground. Both his legs were cut off.

Ellis said he had applied for the space program before the accident and was delighted to hear that he is still being considered.

"I have the desire," he said, "but I am surprised to hear this now. I think it is awfully premature. There are a lot of candidates."

"The prevalent attitude about an amputee is, 'That's too bad, you can't do this and you can't do that.' " He hopes to change all that.

"I think it should be 'Now, let's see what you can do,' " said the potential spaceman.

Sub Rosa Campus Sanction Gains Official Sanction

"The White Pizza," a two-page newspaper published anonymously last week at Redwood High School, has come above ground and received approval to continue as an official student publication.

The paper, describing itself as "the newspaper for upper classmen," contained tongue-in-cheek features, "letters," and editorial comment on such matters as impolite teachers and Larkspur police officers who keep a close eye on students.

Principal Donald Kreps took no offense and said "there was quite a lot of good writing in it."

Senior Mark Reed of Greenbrae will edit the new, sanctioned version. Others on the staff are Craig Faulkner, Jim Gough, Joe Fernandez and Bruce Stock.

In their anonymous issue, the students said the Redwood Bark, official student newspaper, "has become less and less student oriented" in recent years.

Vice Suspects Granted Delays To Enter Plea

Donna Lee Donaleche, 24, charged with soliciting or engaging in prostitution, and Barbara Ellen Benson, 40, facing that charge and another of operating a house of ill repute, were arraigned yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas granted Barbara Benson a continuance until Nov. 5 at 1:30 p.m. to secure counsel. Miss Donaleche, of San Francisco, was given until 1:30 p.m. on Nov. 12 for plea entry.

She was represented by Roger A. Bramy, San Francisco attorney who told the court his client also is facing two similar counts in San Francisco courts.

The women were arrested by Sausalito police at the Benson apartment, 77 Bulkley Avenue, Wednesday, after allegedly being involved in an expensive call girl operation. Both were released on bail.

Tiburon Master Plan Speedup To Be Discussed

The Tiburon Planning Commission, meeting at 8 p.m. Monday at Del Mar School, will consider a plan to speed work on revision of the 1956 Tiburon Master Plan.

As originally proposed by the planners, federal funds were to be sought to help pay for the revision to be prepared by the consultant firm of Williams, Cook and Mocine.

The city council reviewed the program Oct. 25. After deciding it would be better for the city to pay for getting the work started, councilmen sent it back to the planners.

Federal aid will still be sought, they agreed, but estimated that eight to 10 month time can be saved by starting the work while the government is processing the application for aid.

The revised master plan is expected to cost about $3,900, with the federal government paying two-thirds of this.

Spanish moss, which grows on southern trees in long strands, neither originated in Spain nor is moss. The flowering, rootless plant grows from a seed and depends on water, light, dust and air for growth.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Look At Teen-Agers Avoids Prime Topic

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Last night's ABC-TV documentary, "Teen-age Revolution," was another example of television's avoidance of perhaps the most fascinating aspect of the subject:

The exploiters of teen-agers—the people, many famous, and industries, many big, that couldn't care less about the youngsters except for their increasing numbers and spending power. And, on the other hand, the kind of people that genuinely care about them.

Instead, the ABC-TV documentary took one hour to come to these conclusions: Some teen-agers are good, and some are not. Some are smart, and some are not.

It was, at least, a bit more fair-minded than the teen-age idol, who, when I asked him the other day whether he was going to watch last night's show replied: "Are you kidding? I perform for those creeps almost every day. I don't want to see them when I don't have to."

The essential ingredient that last night's program missed was the fact that the best of today's teen-agers are romantic as only skeptics can be. In this sense, they are a beautiful generation, if one can make that kind of generalization. Instead, ABC-TV had film clips.

Instead, also, it utilized almost every meaningless cliche on the subject that you have ever heard, taking advantage of the topic rather than illuminating it with a fresh vision. And all of this was presented solemnly, like a sociologist's devotion to the obvious.

The quantitative importance of teen-agers is indicated, by the way, by television ratings figures which suggest that the two main prime-time viewing groups are: Persons under 18, and women over 50.

You can be certain, of course, that last night's documentary had plenty of rock 'n' wriggle shots— strictly for enlightenment, naturally. Which reminds me of the comment of a young lady named Lada Edmund Jr. who dances in a cage on NBC-TV's "Hullabaloo" musicale:

"Funny about these dances—many adults criticize them for various reasons. They don't understand that they are our avenues for venting frustrations. Some adults get rid of their frustrations by going out and getting smashed. We dance. Now I ask you, which do you think is preferable?"

There must be a way out of this dilemma.

THE CHANNEL SWIM: The great Italian film director, Federico Fellini, is interviewed on NBC-TV's "Today" program Tuesday...Allan Sherman discusses his autobiography, "Gift of Laughter," on "Today" Monday... The pressures and responsibilities of congressmen are explored on "ABC Scope" next Saturday . . . The well-known public relations counsel, Edward L. Bernays, whose book "Biography of an Idea" deals with his memoirs, is a guest on "Today" Thursday.

With ABC-TV introducing a one-hour British series entitled "The Baron" Jan. 20, the English will have at least three of their weekly secret agent-type programs on American networks next season . . . The others are CBS-TV's "Secret Agent," which returns Dec. 4, and NBC-TV's "The Waint," which will switch from syndication to that network in 1966 . . . Ralph Bellamy replaces Henry Fonda as host of NBC-TV's "Telephone Hour" Nov. 7 . . . Nancy Sinatra bowed out of her appearance on ABC-TV's "Shindig" next Saturday because of a movie commitment.

Although Monday's planned Gemini 6 mission was unsuccessful, International Telephone and Telegraph (ITT) says television's intended first live coverage of recovery of the astronauts opens the way to live short-notice video reporting of news events anyhere . . . The recovery would have been transmitted via the Early Bird satellite, by way of a transportable earth station on the USS Wasp . . . Says ITT: "An important political election in Europe, a revolution in South American or a disaster in Asia could all be covered live via satellite transmission origination from compact, fast-moving earth stations."

Vatican Council Nears Conclusion

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council, with only five items left to vote on, began a 10-day recess today. Final adjournment on Dec. 8 appeared certain.

The council gave a final approval yesterday by a vote of 2,081 to 27 to a decree on divine revelation which lends new weight to scripture in the Roman Catholic Church. It paves the way for joint translation of the Bible by scholars of all denominations.

The five items left on the council's agenda have all been thoroughly debated and need only be voted on. The current recess was necessary to give council committees time to revise and rewrite the documents before they come to a vote.

Snail-Carried Parasite May Pose Threats In This Nation

VAN DELLEN

Molluscicides (snail killers) are replacing insecticides in many tropical countries as a means of controlling schistosamiasis. These blood flukes infect 200 million people in parts of China, Egypt, Africa, the West Indies, and Latin and South America. Almost one-third of the Puerto Rican population is said to harbor the causative parasite. This is important to us because one million citizens from Latin America have come to New York City.

IT IS NECESSARY to understand the life cycle of the schistoma worm. A freshwater snail is a necessary intermediate vector. The process begins when a human contaminates the water with schistosomal eggs. They hatch almost immediately into an organism that is capable of swimming to and entering the host snail. In one month the critter develops into a wiggling parasite (larva) that leaves the snail and penetrates the skin of a person who is wading in or drinks the polluted water.

At this stage, the outcome depends upon the type of schistosomal involvement. The most common variety (S. mansoni) settle in the veins of the intestinal wall and rectum. They lay eggs that escape via the intestinal contents to complete the cycle. This type is prevalent in Latin America but the disease is not yet a threat to us, because only one of the 72 North American snails is a possible host. In addition, we have better sanitation. Other types of blood flukes have the same life cycle except that these migrate to the walls of the bladder, bile ducts, and lungs.

THESE ARE inconspicuous maladies in that the manisfestations vary in severity and are not specific. Symptoms include fever, chills, cough, headache, diarrhea, pallor, abdominal pain, and bladder irritability. Remedies are available but prevention with molluscicides is more promising.

The disease is growing in seriousness especially in the underdeveloped, tropical countries that are digging irrigation ditches and dams. The climates in these areas are fertile fields for the causative organism.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

DAILY TEA

Mrs. E. D. writes: I drink three cups of tea a day and have been told this amount is as harmful as coffee. Please advise.

REPLY

Neither tea nor coffee is harmful in moderation. Only a few medical conditions involving chiefly the heart, stomach, and intestine are aggravated by these stimulants.

HAIR AND NERVES

Mrs. C. writes: My hairdresser tells me my thinning hair is due to nerves. Is this possible?

REPLY

No. Loss of hair may be a hereditary trait or it may be due to a variety of conditions, varying from age to insufficient thyroid secretion.

COUGH "LOOSENER"

H. P. writes: Why are expectorant drugs given for cough?

REPLY

To loosen the secretions, making it easier to bring up the mucus. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on cough.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW

Mrs. F. writes: Could a prospective mother be unaware of her condition for four months?

REPLY

Yes, but the day of reckoning will soon be here.

SKIN CANCER

S. A. writes: What are the chances of curing a malignancy of the skin?

REPLY

Excellent, more than 95 per cent when removed early.

Election Is Months Away But Ritual's Already On

CALIFORNIA'S PRIMARY elections are still more than seven months away, but already the political pot is being stirred.

Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, a political slugger, appears to have "chosen" Governor Brown. It looks like a contest—possibly a hard-fought one—on the Democratic side, just for Pat Brown to win his party's nomination for reelection.

On the Republican side, you have to say that Ronald Reagan, at this stage, must be considered "out in front."

Former Governor Goodwin Knight and former San Francisco Mayor George Christopher, at this stage, must be regarded as potentially strong contenders, while Laughlin Waters (who visited Marin this week) and Warren Dorn are possibilities.

IN THE STRANGE GAME of politics, considerable cat and mouse are played in connection with one's formal declaration of candidacy.

Ideally, an aspirant does his initial campaigning on the ostensible basis that he "is being urged by friends to seek the nomination."

At a psychological moment, he seemingly succumbs to the pressure of this urging and formally declares his candidacy (long before the date for formal filing of an official declaration of candidacy to get his name on the ballot.)

It all adds up to ritual which politicians think they must practice.

The results at times get silly.

Ronald Reagan, the best financed and best organized and staffed candidate, for instance, hasn't yet declared or announced his candidacy and, therefore, is still in the imagined position of trying to decide whether or not to run.

WITH FORMER GOVERNOR Knight, the situation is a bit different. He says privately to his supporters that he is in the race to stay and intends to continue campaigning up to election day. He will, he says, formally declare his candidacy when he thinks a public declaration will do him the most good.

It is hard to escape the idea that he really is still surveying the situation to see if he can generate enough enthusiastic support to have a good chance of winning. This means having campaign contributions in sight to finance the race.

Goody Knight is a realist. If he doesn't see enthusiasm rising for his candidacy among potential campaign workers and if he doesn't see campaign contributions heading his way, he will have the good judgment to pull out and preserve his dignity.

George Christopher is an impatient slugger. He has impatiently gone through the required rituals and just the other day made his "announcement of candidacy."

He will give Reagan some trouble. There are some curious things in Reagan's background and record which the public deserves to know. Christopher can be counted upon, in fairly gentlemanly fashion, to direct the public's attention to said items of curiosity in Reagan's background.

WARREN DORN, CHAIRMAN of the Los Angeles Board of Supervisors, is up to his ears in advocating a state constitutional amendment which would give to cities and counties the power to legislate their own "decency laws."

The question that politicos debate about Dorn is this:

Is he using this proposed constitutional amendment as a vehicle to get his name before the public as an initial step toward the GOP gubernatorial nomination, or is he using the possibility of his candidacy to further the campaign for his "decency" amendment?

THAT LEAVES "LOCK" WATERS. In a sense, he is a "progressive" Republican like Earl Warren and, therefore, could be counted upon to attract Democratic votes as did Warren and as does Republican U.S. Senator Thomas Kuchel.

Waters' background and experience —including service as U.S. Attorney for Southern California under Eisenhower) and in the state legislature — would seem to qualify him well for the governor's job.

When you talk to him, he's all business. You get well-considered answers to questions. He obviously has the capacity to give serious and well-reasoned leadership toward the solution of our state's problems.

Unfortunately, he lacks what is sometimes termed political sex appeal. That his, stage presence is too business-like; no warm personality shows through. In this, he is like Earl Warren, and unlike Ronald Reagan or Goody Knight or Nelson Rockefeller.

Lock Waters is the only aspirant who has brushed aside the traditional ritual and proceeded along simple, common sense lines. As soon as he became seriously interested in seeking the governorship, he said so in a declaration of candidacy. He has traveled about the state tirelessly ever since, meeting individuals and speaking before groups.

His lack of political sex appeal may prevent the development of a great wave of emotional support for him, but he could make the best governor California has had in many a year.

UNDERSTAND WHY YOU COUNT

The contempt of Adolph Hitler for the sacred worth of every person is summed up in his own words: "To the Christian doctrine of the infinite significance of the individual human soul . . . I oppose with icy clarity the saving doctrine of the nothingness and insignificance of the human being."

In many parts of the earth, human beings are still being taught that they are worth little more than animals. This degraded concept of man can have disastrous effects. A person who has no respect for himself seldom has respect for anyone else. He can be either coldly indifferent to the misery of others or even brutal toward them.

The better you comprehend your own divine value and eternal destiny, the more readily you recognize the same divine image in others and wish to treat them as brothers and sisters of a common Father . . . Keep in mind the old proverb: "Most of all reverence yourself."

Then you will better understand the divine commandment of love.

"What is man that You should be mindful of him . . . You have made him little less than the angels." (Psalm 8:5, 6)

Let me see in every person in the world, O heavenly Father, a reflection of Your bountiful goodness.

Another 'Crisis' In Americus, Ga.

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As you know, a disproportionately large number of Marin residents are interested in various facets of the civil rights movement. Many of our young people in particular have spent time in the South doing work which was there to be done. At least two of these spent time in Americus, Ga., during a particularly critical period there last summer.

I believe, therefore, that your readers may be interested in the enclosed bulletin occasioned by still another "crisis" in Americus, and originating from the Davis campus of the University of California.

The need is obvious and urgent. Anyone wishing to help may do so by sending check or money order to Mr. Judson Ford, care of Barnum's Funeral Home, Americus, Ga.,

Stars Tournament Thanks Given

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We are most grateful to you and the members of your staff for the outstanding help and cooperation which we received in this year's Tournament of Stars.

We consider Jim Gilmartin to be a working member of our tournament committee since he came up with so many constructive ideas as well as excellent coverage of the event in your newspaper. Barbara Hosmer, Pat Zinn and Lois Sens in the society department also helped a great deal.

Although the final accounting has not been completed, we estimate the net proceeds from this year's event to be approximately $10,000, which is roughly three times as much as we netted last year. Although we had extensive radio and television coverage of this year's event, we see the ultimate potential of this tournament becoming a national event and are hopeful of having network television coverage next year. We also see many opportunities of increasing our net proceeds substantially in future years. None of this would have been possible without the excellent cooperation of your newspaper and the effective work of your competent staff. Our sincere thanks on behalf of the committee and the charities which benefit.

Why Communists Are Called Reds

Editor, Independent-Journal:

We are in grade four and during our recent current events discussion the question "Why are the communists called Reds?" was asked. We are having a hard time finding the answer to this question. Can you help us?

We wonder how many of your readers know why the communists are called "Reds."

MELINDA SLOAN

(According to Brewer's "Dictionary of Phrase and Fable," the red flag was a symbol of insurrection and terrorism during the French Revolution. Red Republicans were extremists who never hesitated to dye their hands in blood to attain political goals. The red flag was adopted by the Bolsheviks in the Russian revolution. The Bolsheviks later became the Communist Party. Hence, "red" came to be identified with communists.—Editor)

Governor Brown Is Out Of Line

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Not only Simon Casady's but also every top-ranking individual's right to be heard is under fire.

Governor Brown has declared that as president of the California Democratic Council, Simon Casady was representing the views of the majority of the membership; and he asked him to resign so that "he would then be free to express his point of view as a private citizen." Is he not then affirming the right to free expression to the private citizens and denying it to those in leading positions? Is our freedom of speech confined solely to the private people whose voices are seldom, if ever, heard or heeded? Should not one's high position afford him an even wider range for free expression, especially since our country is suffering so much from imperfection and wrong leadership?

I am afraid Governor Brown is confusing our Democratic system of government with church government. A minister or a priest speaks for his church and represents its ideas; whereas in leadership outside of the church, the individual expresses his own ideas and represents only himself. Top voices must never be stifled, but rather highly scrutinized. Simon Casady no more represented the views of the membership of the Democratic Council than Edmund G. Brown represents the views of those over whom he presides.

One cannot strip another of his right to be heard without also depriving himself of the same privilege. The stripper is always left bare in the end.

Student Says U.S. Is 'Greatest'

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I would like to hear a few more comments supporting our government and its decision to be in the war in Viet Nam. If these student demonstrators would spend more time studying the situation in Viet Nam and less time marching and protesting, then the whole world would benefit.

Too many people are quick to criticize our government and President Lyndon B. Johnson. I am sure that if these protesters spent as much time researching and had as much experience in world affairs as our government, then maybe they could understand the U.S. policy.

America is the land of freedom and freedom of speech and opinion are two very wonderful freedoms. But let us think, reason, and place confidence in our elected representatives before we are so quick to criticize.

America is the greatest country in the world. Let's hear it once in a while.

Johnson's Views Needed Again To Explain Nation's Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Missing for months has been a detailed address to the nation—and thus to the world — by President Lyndon Johnson on the aims and actions of American foreign policy.

He has made such explanations in the past, particularly on this country's role in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic, when the United States was initiating or stepping up action in those places.

This was especially true last spring when he considered it necessary to send 22,000 troops into the Dominican Republic.

BUT TENSION finally dwindled there, American action in Viet Nam although greatly increased had lost its novelty, and more and more of the President's time was taken up with getting his programs through Congress.

And for months now he has not attempted a lengthy, detailed, and carefully reasoned explanation to the world. Thus he left a vacuum and the critics of American foreign policy stepped into it.

The criticism has come not only from abroad but from American school campuses and not only from Republicans in Congress but, much more vehemently, from some of Johnson's own Democrats there.

In particular one Democrat, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, attacked American policy in the Dominican Republic, and another, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, has been a thorn to Johnson on Viet Nam.

The House Republican leadership has raised questions on and off but never with the same head-on assaults of Fulbright and Morse.

AND PROTESTS on college campuses, even though only a minority of students was involved, have reached the point of parades and demonstrations. All this is ammunition for American critics abroad.

This week the need for a single, careful, authoritative American voice — meaning the President's — to discuss American foreign policy was illustrated by the CBS television show, "Town Meeting of the World."

Through a satellite relay, students in London, Belgrade, Paris and Mexico City were able to appear on television to question former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, and Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall.

It was an unsatisfactory performance all around and, on the part of the students, a hostile one. Amid sneers and apparent contempt the students quizzed the three distinguished Americans about this country's policies in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

The three Americans —although Marshall said little and seemed angered by the attitude of the questioners — were sometimes too long, rambling or platitudinous.

And they certainly weren't always on the beam even though the questions themselves were part of a now familiar pattern of criticism of American policy.

This was hardly the way in which American foreign policy can be explained or understood and absorbed at home or abroad. The program made it clear that the need for such explanation can be filled by no one as well as Johnson.

YET, BECAUSE of the need for some peace and quiet to recover from his recent operation, Johnson is not likely to take the airways soon.

BARKER ON CHINA

Red Dragon Is Noisy But Really Cautious

By GEORGE BARKER

Peking's biggest export is fear and its biggest crop is babies. The two are interwoven like strands in some great fabric. The world fears that an aggressive China, multiplying at geometric rate, will explode by sheer pressure into Southeast Asia. Some people actually believe China's leaders think the country would be benefitted by a nuclear war: that they are so barbarous they would gladly sacrifice a third of their populace to ensure a higher standard of living for the remaining two-thirds.

THE CHINESE DRAGON breathes fire, thrashes its tail, paws the ground and roars loudly, but seldom attacks. China's recent withdrawal from the borders of Sikkim was typical Chinese behavior. Despite the bellicose propaganda which emanates from Peking, the leaders are quite cautious in their actions. In Korea they acted with the backing of the Soviet Union, but later China declared her independence of Russia and a mighty, unbridgable chasm now divides them. China's leaders know that war with the U.S. would do terrible damage to that nation's already weak industrial economy.

Contrary to the widespread popular notion that China could survive a nuclear war better than most countries, China is particularly vulnerable to nuclear attack because her industries are concentrated in a few places. We could make deserts of China's industrial centers and seats of political power.

Some people might call this a victory. Even with conventional weapons, the U.S. could probably make a shambles of Chinese industry in a short time.

To compare Mao's China to Hitler's Germany is like comparing an ill-tempered shrew with a man-eating tiger. Hitler had a massive armaments industry and the most advanced technological know-how. Thirty years ago Japan was mass-producing military aircraft. China has yet to produce a plane.

China has produced some fine scientists, but taken as a nation China is backward scientifically. By concentrating all her scientific know-how on producing an A-Bomb, China succeeded. But three or four leaves don't make a summer.

CHINESE INDUSTRY is really pitiable. Several months ago, I had the bright idea of making a chart which would dramatize this fact. I asked an artistic friend to make a bar graph, showing per capita production of certain key industries in the U.S. and Red China. I gave him some figures and in a week he was back—without the graph. He said that in everything except grain production, a thin pencil line for China would put the U.S. off the sheet of paper.

China's manpower is her most formidable asset, as well as her greatest weakness. War is an expensive business, which China, like India and Pakistan, can ill afford. China's leaders know this, but it may be doubted if the average Chinese, fed a steady diet of baloney, is quite as aware of this unpleasant fact.

I AM A SINOPHILE, but recognizing the realities of power in the Far East, I hope we can keep Japan with us. A resurgent militarism in Japan seems to me more menacing in the long run, than a weak China gnashing her teeth and growling.

Canadian Tory Seeks To Recapture Vote-Getting Title

By BEN BASSETT
Associated Press Writer

John Diefenbaker, once the greatest vote-getter in Canadian history, is trying for a comeback in Canda's national election Nov. 8.

As head of the Conservative (Tory) party, Diefenbaker seeks to unseat the Liberals of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson as the leading party in Canada's Parliament.

Pearson, in turn, hopes to improve the standing of his party, which holds only 127 of the 265 seats in the House of Commons. He has been able to run the government only with the support of minor parties. This time he seeks a clearcut majority.

That, in fact, is why he called the election.

In Canada the party in power needs to go to the voters only after five years, unless it is brought down in the meantime on a question of confidence. Since the last election was held in 1963, Pearson might have struggled along until 1968. But he decided to call an election with the expectation of increasing the number of Liberal seats in the Commons.

The Liberals were Canada's dominant party for 22 years in this century—at the period of the New Deal in Washington and in the immediate postwar years. The Liberal leaders who were prime ministers in this long tenure were W. L. McKenzie King and Louis St. Laurent.

Diefenbaker was the giant killer. The prairie lawyer led his Tories to victory in 1957, winning 42 per cent of the Commons seats. The Liberals took 39 per cent and minor parties and independents 19 per cent.

Diefenbaker saw his chance to increase this margin, and called another election in 1958. That polling brought him an unprecedented victory and tabbed him as Canada's champion vote-magnet. His Conservatives took 78 per cent of the House of Commons.

Diefenbaker and his party lost much of their appeal in the ensuing four years. In 1962's election the Conservatives could win only 44 per cent of the seats, against the Liberals' 38 per cent.

This election was so indecisive that Diefenbaker had to go to the polls again in 1963, but the Liberals took 49 per cent of the seats and the Conservatives dropped to 35. That put Diefenbaker out of office and brought in Pearson as Prime Minister.

Pearson's lack of a majority over the combined opposition—the Conservatives and minor parties such as the New Democratic and Social Credit groups—has hampered the government in dealing effectively with such problems as Frence-speaking Canada's demands for a larger voice in its affairs.

Quebec, the province where most French-speaking Canadians live, has tended to go Liberal in recent elections, and there is no sign of any significant change this year. The other big province, Ontario, also went Liberal last time by about a 2-1 margin but Diefenbaker's forces hope for gains there.

The Conservatives have been successful in the Prairie provinces, and can't make many gains there. In fact the Liberals hope to cut into the Tory strength in these lightly populated areas.

Diefenbaker, at 70, must make a showing in this election if he is to remain as leader of the Conservative forces. In fact his leadership has been under attack in the last few years, but now most Conservative Party chiefs, including those who dislike Diefenbaker, are closing ranks behind him.

Just before Diefenbaker bowed out as prime minister his government almost disintegrated under the impact of a controversy over Canada's taking nuclear warheads for missiles, in agreement with the United States.

Pearson, 68, was foreign secretary under St. Laurent and won the Nobel peace prize in 1956 for his part in resolving the Suez crisis. This year his regime has been beset by a series of scandals, but it is doubtful how many of the voters will connect Pearson personally with responsibility for the actions of some of the men under him.

Non-Candidate Brown's Campaign Kitty Elevates Some Eyebrows

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The business of soliciting campaign contributions—a business second in age only to the business of politics—caused a stir in the capitol last week when it was revealed Gov. Edmund G. Brown's aides were putting the bite on political appointees.

While no one felt there was anything especially new in a governor accepting monetary expressions of confidence and gratitude from his appointees, the present case had two notable different twists: 1) Brown has not announced he will seek reeelction and, in fact, will not make known his plans until after Jan. 1; and 2) This solicitation included a schedule of minimum and optimum contributions based on salaries, ranging from $100-$250 for persons making $12,000 a year or less to $1,250-$1,500 for persons in the $25,000 bracket or higher.

Brown said the collections were made without his knowledge by persons who wanted him to run for a third term. His executive secretary, Winslow Christian, was believed to be the organizer of the effort.

There was a question as to whether any of the solicitations and collections were made on state time and on state property—as prohibited by law. Brown said he was sure this hadn't happened but several of the collectors were seen making their rounds in state buildings and during working hours.

Laughlin E. Waters, former U.S. attorney in southern California who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor next year, called for an investigation by the attorney general into possible law violations. Brown said he would welcome any investigation of possible violations.

Another Republican has tossed his hat into the ring in the race for governor next year. George Christopher, former mayor and supervisor in San Francisco, made his official announcement in a flying trip around the state.

The candidacy of Christopher, an avowed moderate, caused few surprises as he had been making speeches like a candidate for some time. Christopher said he hoped the so-called moderates would permit him to represent that philosophy alone in the primary, in an obvious reference to what he feels is the need to beat the front-running GOP candidate, Ronald Reagan. Christopher, who served two terms on the San Francisco supervisors and twice was mayor of that city, has been unsuccessful in statewide campaigns for lieutenant governor and U.S. senator.

A volumious report by Los Angeles District Attorney Evelle J. Younger has cleared the California highway patrol officers involved of any wrongdoing in the arrests which are believed to have touched off the Watts riots in Los Angeles county in August. There had been charges that the officers were responsible for starting the uprising through improper actions.

Meanwhile, Governor Brown said the report from his special commission investigating the Watts riots may report by Dec. 1, rather than Jan. 1, and that the commission may be retained for two years in order to see what happens to its recommendations.

The liquor license of a San Francisco bar featuring "topless" waitresses has been ordered revoked by the department of alcoholic beverage control, but only on charges indirectly connected with the waitress' nudity. James O. Reimel, ABC director, said charges were filed against the premises and, when officers investigated later, they were beaten by patrons and a bartender.

The revocation was ordered on the beating charge and a 30-day suspension ordered on the topless charge. Reimel said he is in the process of preparing a rule which would set standards of dress or undress for employees in licensed premises.

California consumers enjoy rates for natural gas, electric and telephone service among the lowest in the nation, an annual survey of the state public utilities commission has indicated. The study covered the 25 largest cities in the country and, of these, San Francisco had the lowest rates of the 25.

Los Angeles had the second lowest rates and San Diego ranked 11th. A combined charge for all services for a typical residence amounted to $15.96 per month in San Francisco, $16.49 in Los Angeles and $19.66 in San Diego. The combined charges of 14 of the largest cities were above $20 per month, to a high of $34.86 in Boston.

Governor Brown's family was in the news again. It was revealed that one of his sons-in-law, Joseph Kelly, a San Francisco attorney, was representing the American Machine & Foundry firm, manufacturers of an anti-smog device. The special session of the legislature was opened to include consideration of changes in the smog law. However, both Brown and an AMF represenaative said Kelly had not even discussed the subject with the governor.

Twin-Gemini Try Set

By U. P. International

Two manned capsules will keep a date in space soon if America's newest step toward landing a man on the moon is successful.

The White House announced this week that Gemini 6 and Gemini 7 would attempt to whiz around the world side-by-side "like two cars on a super highway."

Unlike Monday's aborted rendezvous attempt the vehicles will not try to make physical contact. It is planned to have them sail within feet of each other with their occupants in a position to take snapshots, talk by voice radio and exchange greetings.

Gemini 7 will blast off first on a 14-day endurance flight as previously planned. Gemini 6 will leave the launching pad about a week later and attempt to creep up to Gemini 7 and fly alongside it for approximately two days.

Each capsule will carry two astronauts during the space spectacular scheduled for early January. Informed sources said, however, it could take place as early as Dec. 8.

If successful the project would wipe out much of the scientific and prestige setback sustained by Monday's scrubbing of the rendezvous effort.

In connection with that setback, scientists are investigating the failure of the Agena target rocket to orbit, a development which caused the cancellation of the docking mission.

Around The World, Around The Clock:

SAIGON: Communist Viet Cong suicide squads, attacking two bases 60 miles apart, destroyed or damaged 47 aircraft in mortar and hand grenade attacks. It was the worst loss suffered by U.S. and south Vietnamese Air Force installations at the hand of the guerrillas.

VATICAN CITY: A major decree of the Ecumenical Council's final session, exonerating the Jewish people of any collective guilt for Christ's death, was made effective by Pope Paul VI.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia: Rhodesia appeared determined to go on with its push toward independence despite the threat of world counter-measures. A week-long visit by British Prime Minister Harold Wilson in an attempt to dissuade Rhodesia from making any unilateral declaration of independence had apparently met with failure.

BRASILIA, Brazil: President Humberto Castello issued a decree suspending all political parties and giving himself virtually dictatorial powers.

OSLO: UNICEF, the United Nation's Children's Fund, was awarded the 1965 Nobel Peace Prize. The 18 year old agency will receive the $57,000 award in ceremonies at Oslo University in December.

State Acts To Prevent Babies' Brain Damage

BERKELEY (AP)—The State Board of Public Health adopted regulations yesterday for tests, beginning Jan. 1, of babies for a brain - damaging disorder which leads to mental retardation.

The disorder is called, in simplest form, PKU. Spelled out it is phenylketonuria, an hereditary ailment.

The regulations: As soon as practical after the baby leaves the nursery, the hospital is to draw a blood sample. Within 36 hours, the hospital must send the sample to an approved laboratory for testing. The laboratory has five days to make findings.

Officials said the disease involves a body's inability to use phenylalanine (part of the protein in food). If this can be identified early enough in infancy, the effects can be avoided by use of a special diet free of that part of the protein food which a child cannot metabolize.

Investigators say that foods such as meat, fish, eggs, milk and most cereals are harmful to babies with PKU. In order for such a child to have protein for normal growth, a synthetic substitute must be used. The substitute utilizes an amino acid mixture made from a natural protein from which phenylalanine has been removed.

British Columbians Flirting With Secession Thoughts

By WILLIAM CLEMENGER

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—Canada worries about Quebec. It may break away from the Confederation of Canadian Provinces.

But Quebec is not the only province where there is talk of secession. Some observers here have suggested that there is more danger of British Columbia leaving the confederation than Quebec.

Provinces like Manitoba and Saskatchewan could not "go it alone" should the central government break down. But British Columbia with its vast resources and solid west coast U. S. market, could survive very nicely on its own.

In fact, some claim, it might even grow richer, not have to contribute as it does now to federal subsidization of the poorer provinces.

To put it simply, British Columbia exports while eastern Canada imports. Without British Columbia's exports to the U.S., economists say the imbalance in commodity trade which occurs each year would reach unbearable proportions.

Economic independence creates in British Columbia its own secessionist, or more correctly, anti-central government, forces.

B.C. Premier W.A.C. Bennett, during his recent trade mission to Japan, told Japanese officials he felt closer to Tokyo in some ways than to Ottawa, home of the central Canadian government.

He was referring to the tremendous expansion of trade between British Columbia and Japan, and although he was only joking, his remark riled Ottawa, currently wrangling with Bennett's government over a number of jurisdictional issues including offshore mineral rights and the question of provincial ownership of shares in the proposed Bank of British Columbia.

One of Bennett's right hand men, Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi, told Ottawa recently "to keep its cotton picking fingers off B.C.'s off shore minerals."

Gaglardi, Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark and other B.C. cabinet ministers have made front page news across Canada in recent months with anti-Ottawa remarks concerning a variety of issues.

More ominously, some recent comments by cabinet members indicate the British Columbia government may have been curious about public reaction to union with the U.S. Something of a trial balloon was launched.

The public rejected the idea, although opposition could not be termed "violent."

It has been estimated that it costs British Columbia $100 million a year to stay in confederation and Bennett said last month, "B.C. is being bled to death by Ottawa."

British Columbia gets back only 21 per cent of the taxes collected by the federal government. "we are the only government outside Ontario which doesn't get equalization grant in addition to this," Bennett has said.

"Ontario, being the central province (and) close to the capital, gets all the benefits. B.C. pays the largest tribute in taxes because we have the highest wages and income tax is highest per person."

Quebec's motive for secession is more racial and linguistic. Its people are largely French in heritage. British Columbia's motive is economic. The question Ottawa worries about is which motive is stronger.

Destructive Mobs Erode Ancient 'Rights Of Legation' Overseas

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In less than two years more than 40 U.S. embassies, consulates, libraries and other non-military installations in some 21 countries have been damaged by mob attacks, according to new U.S. government figures.

Total damage since the beginning of 1964: an estimated $952,000.

Library books destroyed or damaged: roughly 98,600 volumes.

Mob violence against U.S. diplomatic installations abroad has been on the rise in recent years. The problem is more than cost in dollars or loss of the knowledge in books.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk has spoken of it as a modern "erosion" of historic "rights of legation," affecting the "very heart of the structure of international relations."

The State Department's historical office recently prepared a 95-page report listing assaults which resulted in damage to U.S. diplomatic, consular and information installations abroad from the turn of the century to August, 1965.

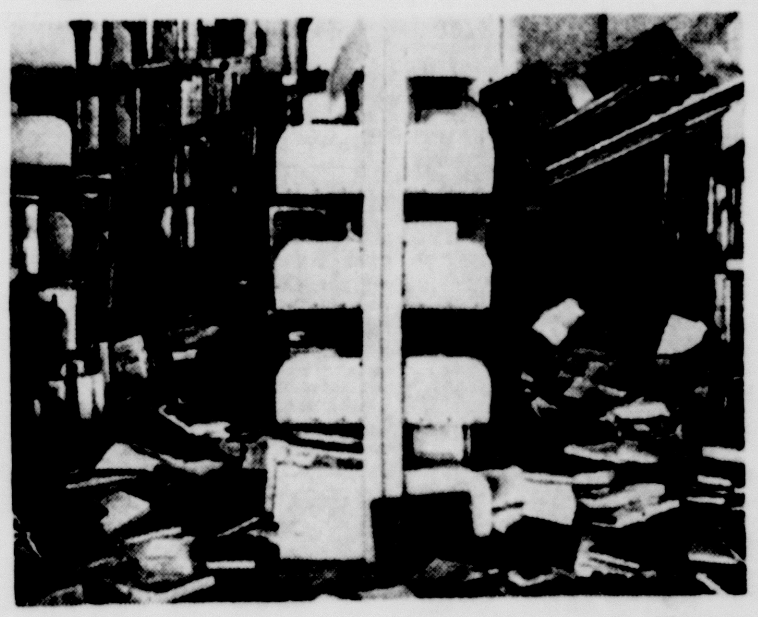
Applying a little arithmetic to the report leads to the following conclusions:

From 1900 through 1945 there were 14 incidents in eight countries. Some of these, and some listed below, were multiple incidents involving attacks on more than one outpost in a country at about the same time.

From 1946 through 1956 there were 15. Since the beginning of 1960 there have been 64.

As a matter of record, demonstrators have thrown rocks, bottles, gasoline, ink, tomatoes, mangoes, hand grenades, Molotov cocktails, iron bolts, ball bearings, bricks, chunks of ice and plastic bags filled with oil. They have employed rifles, shotguns, machine-guns, bamboo poles and dynamite.

Since the beginning of 1964, analysis of the report plus other data shows attacks resulting in damage to:



MOB'S TARGET—United States Information Service library in Jakarta, Indonesia, shown in 1964 photo, is typical of what happens in mob demonstrations against foreign powers' embassies and other diplomatic quarters. Indonesians have been most frequent offenders of any, against American legations. (UPI File Telephoto)

Thirteen U.S. embassies in Panama, Cyprus, Gabon, Sudan, United Arab Republic, Czechoslovakia, Russia, three times, Burundi, South Viet Nam, twice, Indonesia, three times, Ghana, Cambodia and Venezuela.

At least 22 U.S. Information Agency installations in Panama, Cambodia, Bolivia, Pakistan, Sudan, UAR, Burundi, South Viet Nam, Malaysia, Ghana, Venezuela, British Guiana and Indonesia.

Five U.S. consulates, two legations and two diplomatic residences.

Eight U.S. flags damaged or hauled down, in Panama, Cambodia, Sudan, Czechoslovakia, Indonesia, Chile and Cambodia.

At least 19 American automobiles overturned or damaged.

Five coats of arms removed or defaced.

The most costly single attack appears to have been the sacking of the U.S. Information Agency library in Cairo Nov. 26, 1964, a loss estimated at $560,000. U.A.R. President Nasser has since given the United States 1,000 books and free temporary quarters for a new library.

In recent years Indonesia has been the scene of most frequent attacks, 10 sets of incidents since 1961, many involving more than one installation.

Records show that the Russians always promptly compensate the U.S. for damage, or repair it themselves. Other countries sometimes pay and sometimes don't.

Officials could locate no figure on how much of the total damage has been compensated, but it is relatively small.

Secretary Rusk has complained that in too many cases local police seem to be lax to such a degree that it appeared the local government "connived or acquiesced in" allegedly spontaneous citizens' demonstrations.

"It has taken several centuries to get these rights of legation on a stable basis," Rusk recently said. "It is not necessary that governments always agree with each other. But it is necessary, if they are to have communication and some chance to establish relationships on a reciprocal basis, that these elementary rights of legation be fully respected."

Teacher Says Cars Not Vital

MANHATTAN, Kan. (UPI)—Some things Americans regard as necessities for a happy life really aren't necessary, says a Fulbright scholar, home after a year in Vienna.

"Most European students don't have nearly as much money as American students and few of them drive cars," says Jean Sloop, a music professor at Kansas State University.

Box Lunches For Uncle Sam's Airmen

Small Kitchen At Hamilton Is Performing A Big Job

SEALING THE FRESHNESS in, T/Sgt. Lee Montague, left, and A2C Charles R. Swift of Hamilton Air Force Base's "In-Flight Kitchen" personnel work together in the packing of flight lunches for personnel of the air base. Sergeant Montague checks his menus while Airman Swift packs the food. (Air Force photos)

In a small, spotless and secluded corner of hangar seven at Hamilton Air Force Base, a food service unit busily prepares and packages more than 485 flight lunches a day.

Dubbed the "In-Flight Kitchen," this tiny three-man section is usually hard at work, fulfilling requests for in-flight lunches for the feeding of passengers, air crews, and alert personnel at the North Marin Air Defense Command base.

Considered support personnel, since they are not on flying status, these individuals have more than their share of work, sustaining flying units in meeting mission requirements.

WORKING IN dining hall "whites," the trio manages to prepare the food, package it, and still have time to arrange a variety of menus for flight lunches.

Cardboard containers no larger than an ordinary shoe box are used for the lunches. A2C Arthur Horsfall of Ukiah, Calif., says he packs sandwiches, vegetables, fruits, pastries, beverages, eggs, spreads and seasonings for breakfast, lunch and dinner meals, on a 24-hour basis.

Milk is placed in the lunch boxes last to prevent spoilage, and the sandwiches are sealed electrically to retain freshness.

SINCE SOME requests for flight lunches arrive only minutes before flight time, the In-Flight Kitchen is geared for last minute preparations. The exception is that a two-hour advance notice is needed for fried chicken.

Although the emphasis seems to be on "rush," Hamilton personnel already are aware that a real stress is placed in the In-Flight Kitchen on "care."

T/Sgt. Lee Montague of Philadelphia, Pa., supervising the operation, notes that no complaints have been received concerning the service since the facility opened a few years ago.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS have been added, of course, and with modern conveniences—like the electrical sealer for sandwich wrappers and the meat slicer — jobs are accomplished quicker and with greater efficiency.

In day-to-day operations at the In-Flight Kitchen, there is the packaging to accomplish, the stock level to maintain, and on-the-job training for younger airmen working there.

Since variety seems to be the key to better appetites, menus are periodically changed and improved.

WHEN LUNCHES are ready for delivery, a telephone call to nearby operations will result in passengers picking up their individual box lunches prior to flight time.

How much are the lunches?

For temporary duty persons, the lunches are at government expense. For personnel on leave the cost is 85 cents. And if the individual is on separate rations, a mere 40 cents will buy a lunch.

FOR PASSENGERS on most United States Air Force aircraft, coffee or tea is served with the lunch at no extra charge. In many instances, flight stewards serve the beverages and assist with other mealtime requirements.

Whatever those requirements might be, the passenger with a flight lunch prepared and boxed at Hamilton's In-Flight Kitchen is assured of a well-balanced meal while enroute to his destination, which may be a half-hour or as much as 10 hours from the Air Defense Command installation.

IT'S A DIFFICULT decision for the Meadowsweet School children to select their Halloween costumes from the many available at the San Rafael Toy Shop, but Charles Press, left, and Freddy Knowlton have made their selections. Kerri McMain is still undecided.

THERE A TV TOUCH TO HALLOWEEN GARB

It's almost Halloween, and assorted spooky creatures will be prowling the streets of Marin tomorrow night, asking "tricks or treats?"

But whereas ghosts and witches once predominated, little girls in "Mary Poppins" costumes and boys garbed and masked as characters from "The Munsters" television show are more prevalent now.

Walter Zurcher, owner of the San Rafael Toy Shop, says that the influence of the movies and TV are apparent in the sales popularity of masks and costumes at his store.

Walt Disney's Daniel Boone, for instance, is one new disguise that has received an enthusiastic reception from Marin boys.

Animal costumes, many of these, too, derived from television characters, remain the favorites of the smallest children.

Girls may prefer to dress as pretty princesses.

But for the boys, it's skeletons, hoboes, clowns, devils, and, of course, the monstrous Munsters.

Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax snapped pictures as children from the Meadowsweet School in Corte Madera visited the San Rafael Toy Shop and indicated their preferences from among the array of Halloween costumes offered there. A lion, one of the Munsters and a fairy princess won out among the three children followed by photographer Hax. And those choices, says Zurcher, are just about typical of the selections being made this year by little Marinites.

FREDDY AND Charles proceed with the donning of their Halloween costumes, already chortling at the thought of the fun that lies ahead when they go "trick or treating."

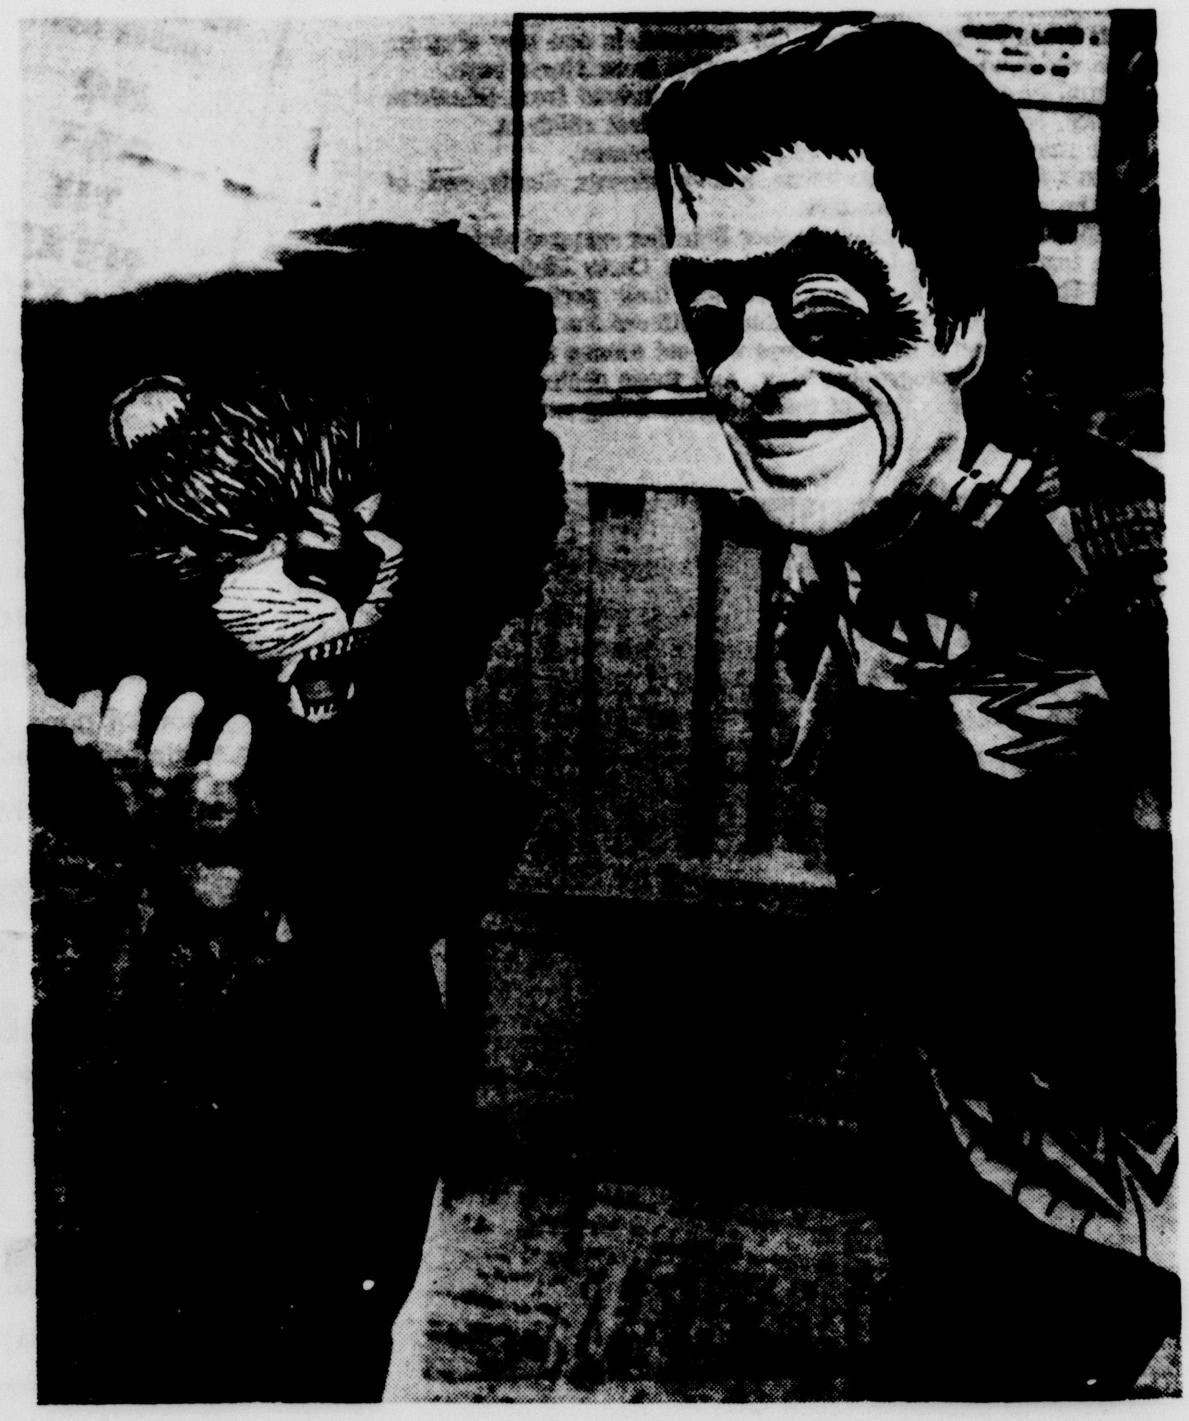
NOW FREDDY, in turn, helps schoolmate Kerri McMain with her costume while Charles, his monster mask in place, flexes his muscles just a bit.



MASKS DONNED, Freddy Knowlton makes like a lion while Charles Press wears the face of a popular television character, the monster. Naturally, the boys go for something just a wee bit frightening when they choose their Halloween costumes.

GIRL-LIKE, Kerri McMain has ignored some of the more "far-out" Halloween costumes and has dressed herself as a pretty fairy. With lion Freddy Knowlton and monster Charles Press, she examines herself in the reflection of the store window.

TWO MORE PUPILS of the Meadowsweet School, Cindy McCollum, left, and Candy Mowers, proceed with the task of selecting their Halloween costumes and masks from the store's selection.

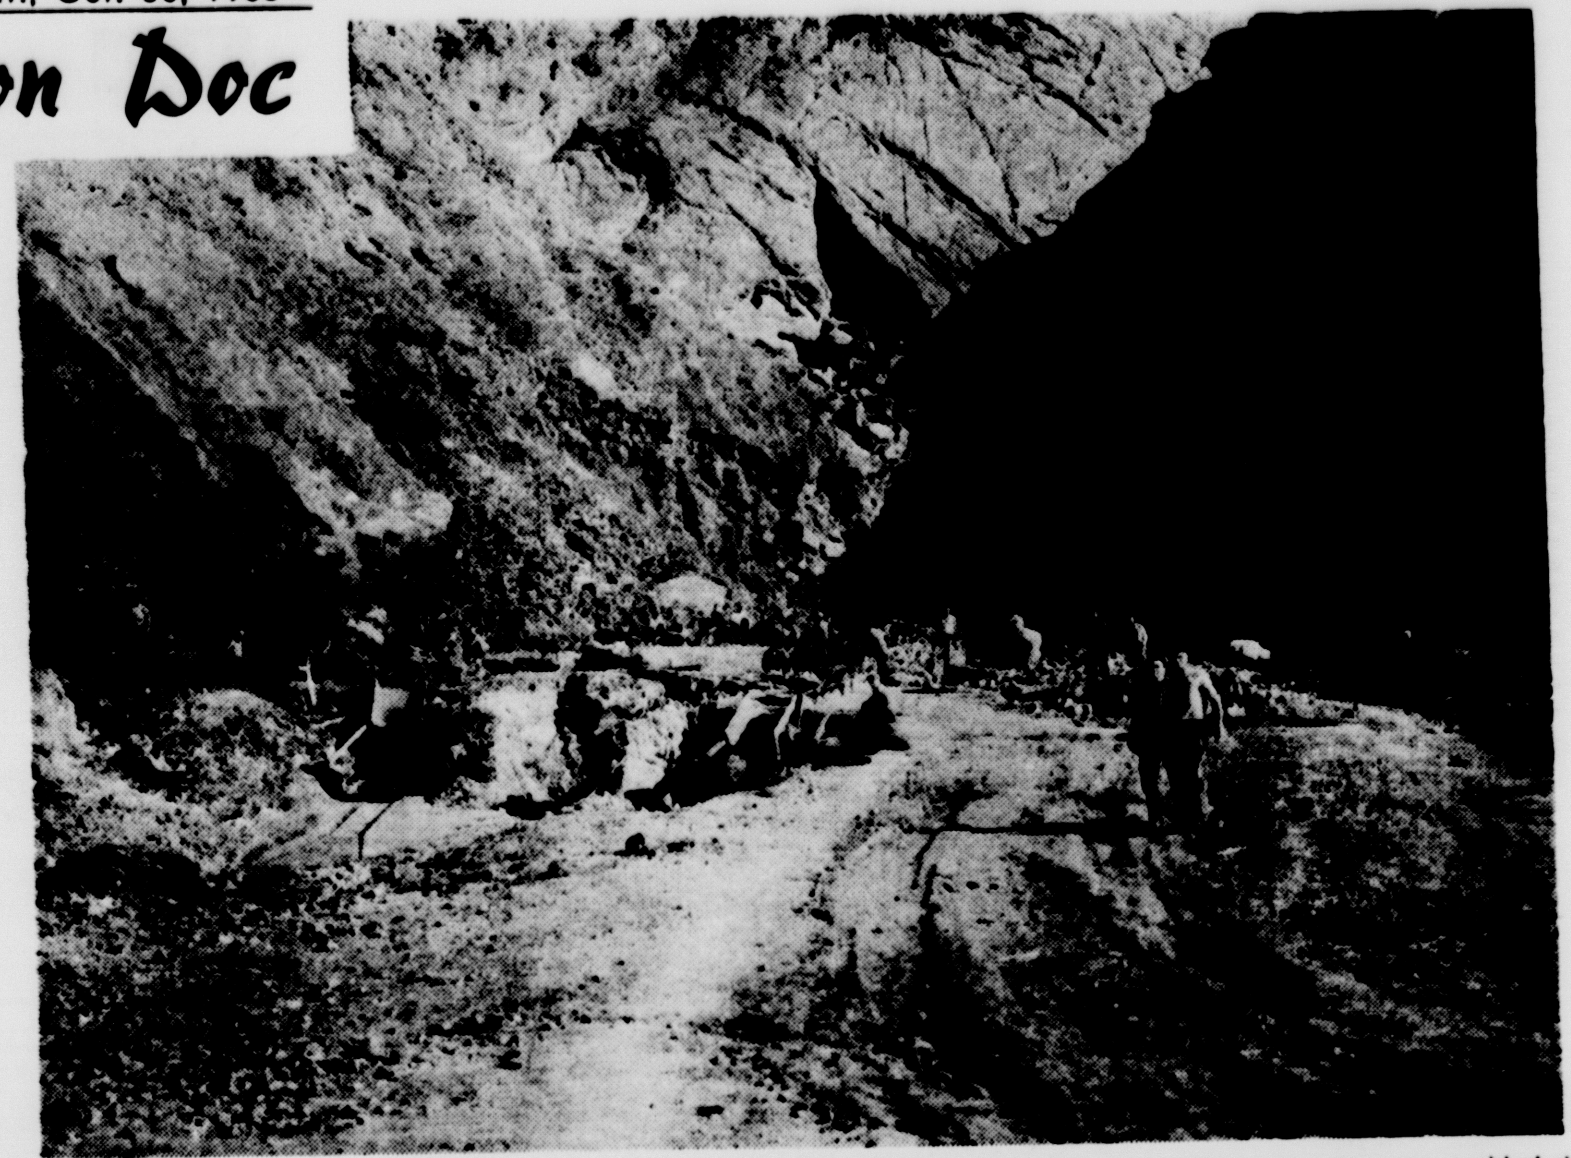
The Prison Doc

The Swim Pool Was Never Built

(Editor's Note: Dr. Leo L. Stanley served for many years as chief medical officer at San Quentin State Prison. From time to time he has written stories for the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, based upon his experiences while on the prison staff. This is another of that series.)

By DR. LEO L. STANLEY



EXCAVATION WAS under way at the quarry at San Quentin Prison for a swimming pool with natural rock base and walls and capturing and holding fresh spring water when this photograph was taken in 1933. Dr. Leo L. Stanley, then acting warden, says the men tackled the project with tremendous enthusiasm. But all went for naught. A public uproar over alleged "coddling of the cons" denied the prisoners their pool.

What? A swimming pool for convicts?

Ridiculous! What is this world coming to?

Swimming pools are only for fancy clubs and private homes. Will they never stop coddling those cons?

These were just some of the reactions from the public, most of them highly uncomplimentary, when the press heard of and publicized the idea that a swimming pool might be built for San Quentin's prisoners.

THIS ALL OCCURRED while I was acting warden in 1933, serving at the request of Warden James B. Holohan, who was on leave because of illness.

In the less modern part of the prison then there were four long four-tiered brick and stone cell blocks. Between each of them was an alley.

The first one was known as "Kid Alley." It was there the younger prisoners were celled. This was an attempt to keep them away from the possible bad influence of some of the older convicts.

THE NEXT ALLEY was known as "Crazy Alley." In the cells facing this narrow passageway were housed some of the mildly insane prisoners, the ones who were peculiar, the ones who were "a little teched," and some of those who just could not get along with the others.

In the third alley was located the latrines and sumps. It was there that every morning at "unlock time," one inmate from each cell would carry his night bucket, empty its contents, put in a scoop of quick lime, and then return the bucket to the cell.

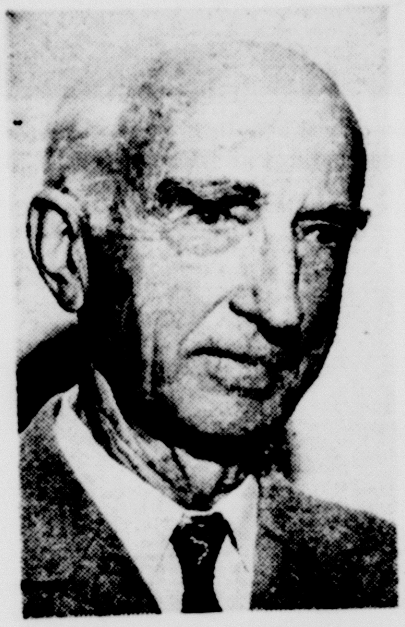
Here, also, in this alley, was a rather small and shallow concrete-lined depression which could be filled with salt water from the bay. Some of the men enjoyed taking a little wade in this "pool," and the guards did not prohibit this.

SALT WATER showers were provided at the jute mill and in some of the shops. But one bath a week was considered sufficient, available when the prisoner came to the laundry for his regular change of clothing.

There were many things which I felt could be remedied and improved with very little expense, and some of these were on behalf of common decency and cleanliness. But I did not know how long I would be the acting warden and I did not want to do anything which Warden Holohan, upon his return, would think was done to undermine him and to retain my position.

I made numerous tours of the prison, something I could do but which Holohan, because of his ill health, had been unable to do. I saw many conditions which could be improved upon.

CLEAN-UP GANGS were organized. These, under the supervision of a reliable "con boss," did wonders in policing the grounds. And the men in these work gangs were kept busy and out of trouble.



DR. LEO L. STANLEY
He was acting warden

Some of the buildings needed paint or whitewash. Work of this kind was beneficial to the men as well as the institution.

But I must say that none of these improvements was accomplished without the knowledge, consent and encouragement of the members of the board of prison directors, who visited the prison frequently.

IN THE HILLSIDE above the walled enclosure was the quarry. This had been in existence since the beginning of construction of San Quentin in 1851. Tons and tons of sandstone had been taken out, much of it to build the cell blocks and walls. Some of it had been broken into smaller pieces, too, for road ballast.

It had gotten to be quite a sizable hole.

From the sides, numerous small veins of fresh water had been uncovered, and there was a nice stream of pure water flowing into a sump. From this, a few iron pipes and ditches were installed to conduct this fluid to some of the garden areas below the quarry. There the prisoners, with proper approval, were permitted to plant small plots of tomatoes, lettuce, beans and other vegetables for their own personal consumption.

QUARRY WORK is extremely dusty. Some of the men had even built makeshift showers. Piping laid along the ground in the hot sun warmed the water to a comfortable level.

On an inspection tour one day with the president of the directors, I remarked that in the early days the warden had reported that he thought the health of the inmates was so good because he insisted that once a week the men be required to bathe in the salt water of the bay.

At the quarry, remembering the popularity of the small wading pond in the alley between the cell blocks, I pointed out the springs of fresh water to the board president and suggested that it might be a fine thing for "the boys" if they were allowed to excavate a rectangular area in the sandstone so that the fresh water could flow into it and form a swimming pool.

THE SANDSTONE so excavated could be used for construction purposes along with that already being dug from the side of the hill. And the stored water would serve as fire protection, or for additional garden development.

The president thought this was a capital idea. It would save on use of water that was then costing the institution more than $1,000 a month from the Marin Municipal Water District.

The prisoners were appraised of the plan and were greatly pleased. Never, in so short a time, had so much sandstone been quarried. And never among working inmates had I seen such enthusiasm.

THEN THE WORD leaked out. I understand the president of the board informed the press himself. It was then that the great uproar took place about the "coddling of cons."

In defending my action, I asserted that I was not coddling the men, but instead was doing only those things which I felt to be decent and beneficial. I had visited numerous prisons throughout the world, I noted, and some of them had pools.

After all, wasn't cleanliness next to Godliness?

THE PRIVILEGE of using the pool could be employed as a reward for good conduct, I pointed out. And there were many other reasons I advanced on behalf of the project.

I knew Warden Holohan would be perturbed by the uproar. So I wrote him:

"I sincerely hope you will not be troubled by the newspaper report of the swimming pool at San Quentin. At the quarry the men have dug a hole in the solid rock. They have been encouraged to make this a place where they can bathe.

"The board of prison directors, on an inspection trip, saw this. The remark was made that it might be well to have a larger one for the men in the yard. Our master mechanic, accordingly, was asked to draw up plans and estimates.

"The announcement to the papers was made by the president of the board."

BUT, UPON HIS return from sick leave, it was plain that Warden Holohan was not pleased. Some of his "friends" had gotten his ears and filled him with a lot of nonsense about my trying to get his job.

The rift in our friendship was finally patched. But the swimming pool never eventuated.

And the quarry excavation finally was filled with rubble and broken sandstone.

Thus ended one early and seemingly mild and sensible attempt at "prison reform."

"AN APARTMENT ON a deck" is what interior designer Clement Cointe calls this home he planned for himself and his wife. The basic design is a cube. All rooms open onto the deck except the bathrooms. Although floor space totals but 1,600 square feet, the sweeping deck creates the appearance of far more room.

The House That Is Designed Like A Cube

Its Planner Calls It 'An Apartment Set On A Deck'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

An extraordinary combination of continental elegance with small size and easy maintenance may be seen in the house that interior designer Clement Cointe planned as a home for himself and his wife Marion.

Located at 4 Eagle Rock Road on the knoll just east of the Alto overpass near Mill Valley, it is actually an apartment on a deck, he says. The 1,000-square-foot deck encircling the house adds to the impression of size.

It is all wood, painted sienna, or brownish pink, with white trim and looks like many houses seen in Italy, according to Cointe. It is so landscaped, however, that there are no garden problems.

"WE CAN JUST close it up when we travel," he says.

"The basic design," he explains, "is a cube. I got the idea from a picture of a house I saw five years ago. Because it was square, the architect, Richard Platt, called it 'The Decorated Box,' and it showed what can be done with the cube.

"Our house has only 1,600 square feet of floor space. The deck is the key to its success, for the plan wouldn't work without it. You can go out onto the deck from any room except the bathrooms, and this avoids constant traffic through the house."

Not only is the house designed without wasted space, but all of the decoration is planned to give the illusion of more space than there is.

As an interior designer Clem Cointe was well equipped to do this. A member of the American Institute of Design, he has recently become associated with Western Contract Furnishers in San Francisco, but decorating has been a lifelong occupation. He attended the California School of Fine Arts, going subsequently into the furniture business, department store work and designing in wholesale furniture.

Some of the devices he has used to increase the illusion of space are high ceilings, receding colors, the same floors of square vinyl tiles throughout the house and matching wallpaper and fabrics.

Entry to the house is through a high-ceilinged formal reception hall. From there one steps into the living room, which has an adjoining dining area separated from the living area only by marbleized vinyl columns which continue around the perimeter of the dining area.

These columns, together with arched windows near the top of the 15-foot ceiling—ceilings are 10 feet in the living area—give the look of a Venetian palazio.

In decor and furnishings the rooms have a continental feeling with color scheme in blue, gold and white taken from a handsome picture over the fireplace, which is a copy of an old English one. The blue adds to the illusion of size.

In accordance with a period in which they were used, the oriental is integrated with the continental, especially French influences. Among oriental art objects is a huge Coromandel screen.

DESPITE ITS elegance, Mrs. Cointe says, cleaning is simple, for the vinyl walls, ceilings and bisque-white nylon rug are all washable, and shutters are used rather than drapes and curtains.

Instead of closing doors to shut off the dining room with its unattractive after-dinner appearance, one may darken the area so that the impression of space is retained.

A separate area of two bedrooms and two baths has been combined to form a suite so that though the rooms are not large, the allocation of space to closets

ELEGANCE with small size and easy maintenance are the outstanding features of the Clement Cointes' home on Eagle Rock Road near Mill Valley. Through the door at left one enters this living room from a formal entry hall. This is the south end of the room which has a continental feeling highlighted by Oriental touches, such as the tall Coromandel screen at right of door.

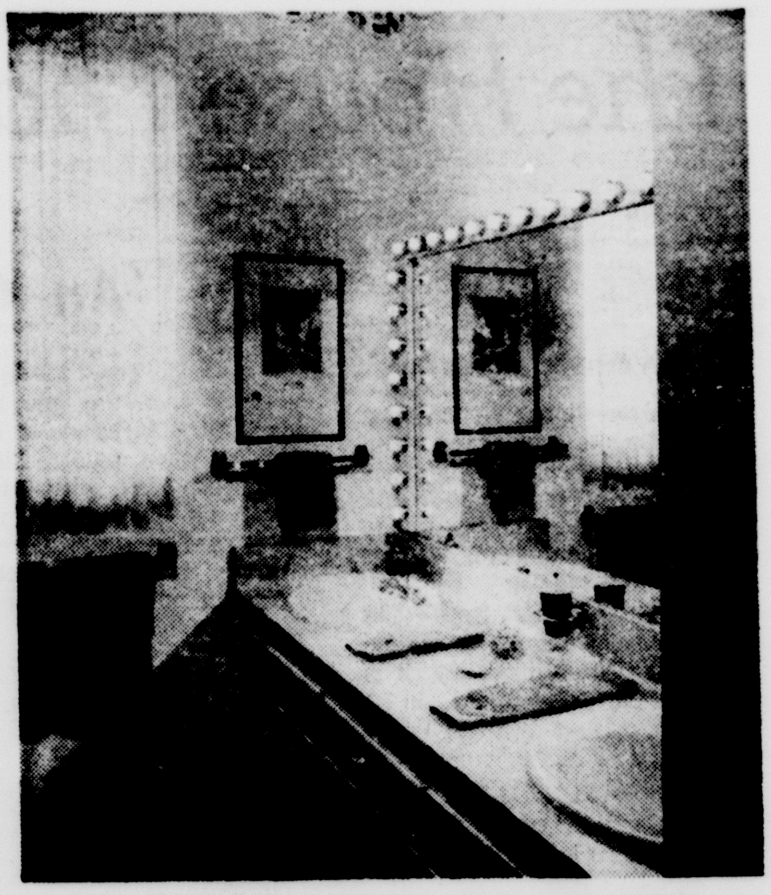
AN INTERESTING decorator's touch in this master bedroom in pomegranate and white is the picture above the bed which was blown up to the right proportion for the space above the bed from a small black and white print.



A FULL WIDTH makeup mirror in the master bath is the envy of all women guests at the Clement Cointes' home. At the top of the wall, decor is not drapery but a wallpaper design printed on vinyl. The high ceiling eliminates steam on the mirror.

Elegance In A House That's Small

and drawers is so integrated that the size factor is not important.

The master bedroom, in pomegranate and white, has an interesting decorator touch in the space above the bed. Cointe had a small black and white print, one in a series of stylized French garden scenes, blown up to fit that space.

"The high ceiling," the designer points out, "eliminates steam on the mirror."

Adjoining the master bedroom is a TV and dressing room in black, gold and beige. Walls are vinylized marble paper, and closets instead of doors have pull-down shades of the same paper, again increasing the illusion of greater size.

Window treatment is unusual here. Camouflaging small, plain windows and giving better proportion in relation to the furniture are black frames extending beyond the real windows on one side with nylon curtains stretched taut top and bottom to eliminate flapping. Art in this room is from the Far East.

The guest bedroom in French powder blue and gray has French toile wallpaper and matching fabrics on the couch, another size-increasing trick. Since this is the only room facing on the street, gray slat shades can be pulled down behind the framed windows for privacy.

The guest bathroom, which doubles as a powder room, is very elegant with marble topped sink, gold lavatory fixtures and crystal light fixtures. A picture hides the door of the medicine cabinet.

Two features are most interesting in the all-electric kitchen. A border above the cabinets and below the ceiling is composed of motifs cut from a hand-printed Swedish fabric, plasticized and applied with black tape.

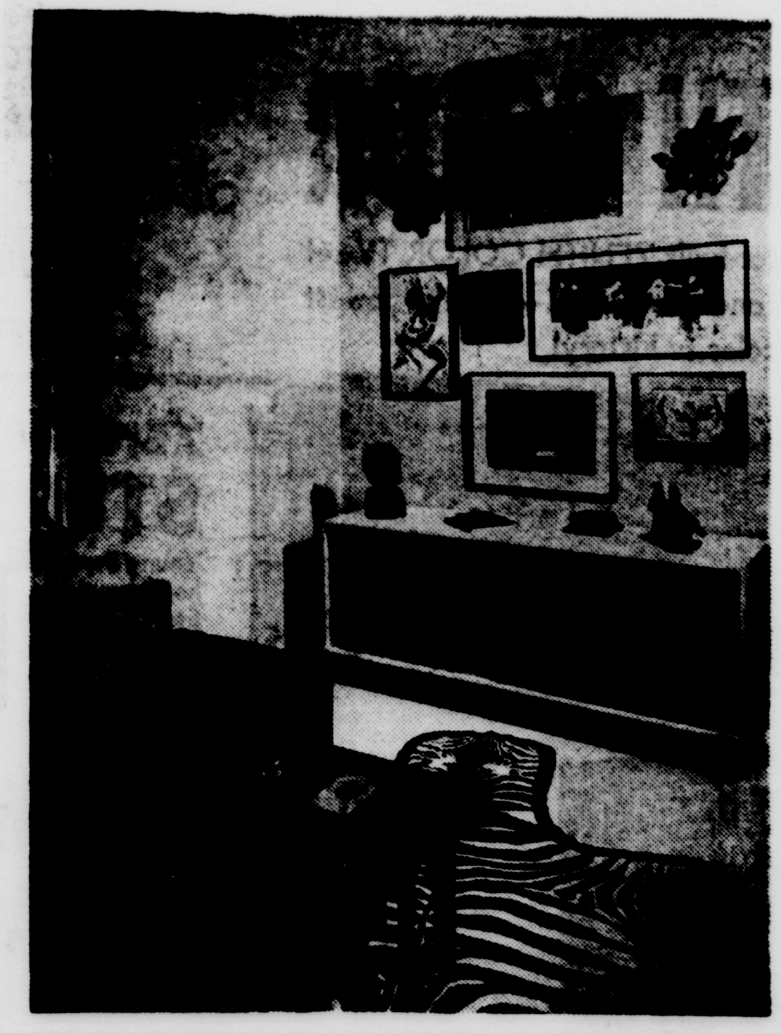
IN THE center of the room is what the designer calls a portable island. On casters so that it may be moved anywhere in the room, it is a square table with leaf on each of two opposite sides with drawers and cupboards on the other two sides. It is electrically wired so that the appliances stored in the cupboards may be used with greatest convenience.

Below the house, which is on a hill, is a laundry and storage area nine feet by 40 feet. Two bedrooms and another bath could be developed above grade so that they would have the same view as that from the deck.

Much of the work in this remarkable and very colorful house, such as painting, glazing and marbleizing, was done by the designer himself.

ONE OF THE MOST distinctive rooms in the Cointes' home is this dining room in which the high arched windows and columns around the perimeter of the room give the look of a Venetian palazio. The 14-foot ceilings increase the impression of size in this small house.

IN THE GUEST ROOM, designer Clement Cointe has used matching wallpaper and fabric to make a room look larger than it is, an impression increased by the color scheme of French powder blue and gray. The elegance of the guest room bath makes possible its use as a powder room.



CONCENTRATED IN the gold, black and beige TV-dressing room are numerous pieces of Oriental art, which decorator Clem Cointe has used elsewhere in the house. Walls are vinylized marble paper.

"Why Did My Husband's Trouser Waist Band Stretch?"

The stretch-type waist band trousers are more and more popular. For that reason more and more complaints are being received about enlarged waist bands.

These stretch-type waist bands are generally produced by wrapping a rubber core with cotton. During wear the cotton wrapping constantly chafes the rubber, weakening it. In drycleaning the weakened rubber breaks and the waist of the trousers would fit a hippo. Unfortunately there is nothing that can be done to restore the rubber core.

The fault is in the manufacture and the offending trousers should be returned to the store where they were purchased.

A Novel Of The Middle East, And A Hollywood Biography

By DON KEOWN

THE MULE ON THE MINARET by Alec Waugh, Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 506 pages, $6.95.

MARILYN: THE TRAGIC VENUS by Edwin Hoyt, Duell, Sloan and Pearce, 279 pages, $5.95.

The principal characters of Alec Waugh's "The Mule on the Minaret" are involved in intelligence work. Yet this novel should not be confused with the current spate of spy thriller fiction.

Far more important than their field of endeavor are the characters themselves. And the North African-Middle Eastern setting of World War II is another essential factor.

Waugh, writing his first novel in six years, has turned out an epic story through which run many threads. These strands are woven expertly into a well-meshed, cohesive book. Such a multifaceted plot could easily have become unwieldly or disorganized. But Waugh keeps his characters distinct as individuals, even as their relationships mingle and intermingle.

It is essentially the story of a group of men grasping for their proper niche in a war effort for which most of them are ill-suited.

Noel Reid, a scholar of considerable repute, is the central character. Assigned to counter-espionage work, first in Beirut, then in Baghdad, Reid has less difficulty than his colleagues in adjusting to his new conditions.

MARILYN MONROE
A thirst for fame

The switch, however, effects great changes in his outlook toward the life he has left behind in England. What had then seemed a satisfactory, if not wholly satisfying, existence now appears dull and incomplete, especially in light of his new relationship with his beautiful co-worker Diana Challis.

Others in his circle and those who become involved with them undergo tests and changes of their own. Reid, however, remains the key figure. It is through him that the author makes his prime point. Ultimately, Reid learns and acknowledges that while he must forego the idyllic in the postwar world, he can still savor a certain contentment. Total happiness, he finds, is not attainable, and is not a necessity.

Waugh has written an absorbing book. There is a considerable grasp of the political climate of the time, in the manner of a Sir Charles Snow, with none of the rather ponderous overtones of that writer. Waugh's account of World War II intelligence work is based upon personal experience, and its authenticity is apparent. But more important is Waugh's keen feeling for human reactions and inter-reactions. This is what makes his novel a superior one. It would be almost—although not quite—as absorbing, were his characters engaged in a somewhat less glamorous occupation.

BIOGRAPHER Edwin P. Hoyt has written a frank and penetrating account of the life of Hollywood sex goddess Marilyn Monroe in his "Marilyn: The Tragic Venus."

In it, he presents a vastly different Marilyn from the one pictured by the movie gossip columnists.

Far from being exploited, he tells us, the actress was driven and tormented—by a personal goal and by a thirst for fame.

She was, however, a contradictory character, full of paradoxes, complex, ridden by uncertainties.

Hoyt feels that Marilyn Monroe might have led a happier, more satisfied life if she had indeed been the victim of manipulators and exploiters, as she has so often been pictured. She was, Hoyt believes, incapable of charting her own course. But she insisted upon doing so, and none of her husbands, associates or friends was permitted to interfere.

ALEC WAUGH is the author of some 40 books, but "The Mule on the Minaret" is his first novel to be published in six years. It represents his most ambitious undertaking since "Island in the Sun." He is intimately acquainted with the Middle East which provides the setting for his new novel.

Hoyt also presents many sympathetic aspects of the Monroe personality. He contrasts sharply the on-camera and off-camera Marilyns. He makes it clear that in real life, despite her inner problems, Marilyn was no dumb blonde. Nor was she without acting talent.

Hoyt presents his story of Marilyn Monroe from sordid beginnings to international celebrity status to tragic death in an interesting, highly readable manner, and with considerably more taste and understanding than these candid biographies are sometimes handled — i.e., Irving Shulman's "Harlow." Still, there is a squeamish feeling that comes from reading any of these very personal, completely candid biographies. It is present as you read this book. And yet, undeniably, the story of "The Tragic Venus" makes for engrossing reading.

The fascination that lured millions to theater boxoffices remains, although it somehow seems a bit unhealthy now.

HISTORIAN Arnold Toynbee is editing "Cities of Destiny," a historical treatment of the cities of the world, to be published in the fall of 1966 by McGraw-Hill.

Sleuths & Suspense

711 — OFFICER NEEDS HELP by Whit Masterson, Dodd, Mead, 213 pages, $3.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

The veteran Whit Masterson has written a generally solid crime novel that becomes just a bit soft in its concluding chapters.

Homicide Detective Thomas Valens, on a stakeout for a psychopathic killer who has terrorized his Southern California community, shoots and slays what he believes to be an armed prowler. His victim, it develops, is a respected physician. And the gun Valens saw him draw disappears.

Valens' career as a law enforcement officer is at stake as press, politicians and public affix to him the tag of "trigger-happy cop." It is up to Valens to prove he acted justifiably in firing the fatal shot.

The story moves rapidly. The puzzle is an interesting and challenging one. And Valens is a well-drawn, believable central character. There is a tendency on Masterson's part to over-preach just a bit on the problems of the police officer working in an unsympathetic climate. But the principal weakness of the book is that the author telegraphs the identity of his main villain, so that the "unmasking" by Valens offers no real surprise.

Still, this one provides quite satisfactory fare for an evening of light reading.

Some New Books For The Juniors

Some new reading for the juniors:

Many young Americans have astounded thejr elders with the courage and self-sacrifice they have shown in volunteering their time and skills to the civil rights movement. "Where Were You That Year?" by Margaret Pitcairn Strachan (Ives Washburn, $3.75) is the story of one such volunteer, Polly Masterson, University of Washington coed who answers the call for help from the SNCC in registering Negroes in Mississippi to vote. The novel, written for teen-agers, presents an honest and interesting picture of what life is like for these young and dedicated people.

SING OUT for BOOKS

CHILDREN'S Book Week is being observed nationally during the coming week under The Children's Book Council Inc. auspices, with "Sing Out for Books" as the 1965 theme.

Holiday season books are appearing on the publishers' lists. A beautiful entry in this category is "The First Christmas Gifts" by Hertha Pauli with pictures by Joan Berg (Ives Washburn, $3.50). It is, of course, the story of the three wise men or kings who sought out the Baby Jesus to offer him their gifts. The illustrations are unusually beautiful.

"The Case of the Cat's Meow" by Crosby Bonsall (Harper, $1.95) is an "I Can Read Mystery." The mystery here is the disappearance of Snitch's cat Mildred. Young detectives Wizard, Tubby, Skinny and Snitch set out to find the vanished feline. Funny, and delightfully illustrated, certain to please the 5, 6 and 7-year-olds.

"Kangaroo & Kangaroo" by Kathy Broun (Doubleday, $3.25) is a ridiculous story about two kangaroos who have the very human habit of acquiring and saving things for no good reason at all. Finally they must get rid of them for a very good reason: No more room. At first, people find it hard to believe that they're actually getting something for nothing, but when they get in the swing of things everything goes in good order. In the end, nothing is left but some paper and string. And since there is so much space, "It wouldn't hurt to save this. . . ." Illustrated by Jim McMullan.

The Gateway Books series published by Random House offers substantial and worthwhile reading for youngsters at a reasonable price — $1.95. "The Horse That Swam Away" relates in big type with attractive illustrations the story of the adventures of a boy and his horse at the beach. It's lively and entertaining.

"Harry By the Sea" by Gene Zion with pictures by Margaret Bloy Graham (Harper, $3.25) is a fun book for the little ones. Harry, the black and white dog who has already been the hero of earlier misadventures, is the cause of uproar at the beach this time. Tykes 4 through 6 or 7 will laugh a lot as you or they turn the pages of this one. It is humor properly pitched for children, not for adults as too many children's books are.

Davy Crockett fans will get a big boot out of "Mystery at Bear Paw Gap" by Manly Wade Wellman (Ives Washburn, $3.50). The date is 1792 and the Jarrett family arrives in the mountains of western Carolina to make their frontier home. Adventure is not long in coming for 18-year-old Mark. Wellman does this kind of thing very well and has a host of successful historical novels for young people to his credit.

"Stranger in the House" by Ann Caballero (Coward-McCann, $3.50) is a first mystery novel for young readers. Two young girls spend a weekend as guests at a remote California home. Another guest arrives, and brings with her trouble. There's some amateur sleuthing by the girls that place them in peril. Girls 12 and in the early teens will find this exciting.

This is just the right time of year to bone up on one our most important national holidays. Do the children in your home know and understand the meaning of Thanksgiving? They will from "Thanksgiving Day," by Robert Merrill Bartlett (Crowell, $2.95) which you can read to them quickly. The slim book is well illustrated and can be read easily by a third grader and up.

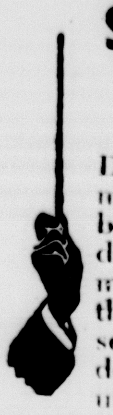
Stereo Hi-Fi



By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

FALL is here. During this season many families will be planning the addition of a stereo music system for their home. The next series of articles will describe the various units that make up a component type stereo music system to help guide in the planning.

The basic components that make up a stereo system are an FM STEREO TUNER, A STEREO PREAMPLIFIER, A STEREO POWER AMPLIFIER, two SPEAKER SYSTEMS, and a STEREO RECORD PLAYER. Additional items that may be used with the music system are furniture cabinetry to house the components, and a tape recorder/player.

In many systems the tuner and preamplifier are combined as one unit, or the preamplifier and power amplifier are combined as one unit, or all three—the tuner—preamplifier—and power amplifier are combined into one compact unit. Each of the three components will be discussed individually. A discussion of the combined units will follow.

The Stereo Tuner is a complex and very important part of the music system. Its basic function is to do just what the name implies; that is, to tune in the FM radio stations one at a time, and to convert the radio signal to a stereo or two channel form. The controls usually associated with a tuner are the tuning knob, a stereo automatic switch position, a stereo manual switch position, and a monaural switch position. Some tuners have optional features such as a hush control and a volume level control. Most tuners include a stereo indicator and a tuning device.

In the stereo automatic position, the tuner will automatically switch itself to the stereo mode of operation whenever it is tuned to an FM station that is braodcasting in stereo. The tuning indicator, generally a small light on the dial face, will light up if the station tuned to is stereo.

In the stereo manual position, or straight stereo FM position on some tuners, the set will be locked into stereo operation regardless of whether the station tuned to is stereo or mono. This position is used when the stereo station being received is weak and the automatic feature causes the set to shift back and forth from stereo to mono. The mono position locks the set in mono. The tuning indicator, usually a tuning eye or a meter, aids the setting of the tuning knob for optimum tuning-in of the station. The hush position quiets the between station noise heard while tuning. Next week—tuner specifications.

Second Memoir

BYGONES: The Recollections of Louis Untermeyer, Harcourt, Brace & World, 260 pages, $5.75. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

"Sometimes," Robert Frost remarked wistfully, "I think I'm sort of a figment of Louis' imagination."

One can understand why the poet was moved to make such a statement; Louis Untermeyer was one of the few who championed his work when it was little known. For many years they lived as neighbors. Untermeyer regarded his close friendship with the poet as one of the important relationships of what, by any measure, must be counted a crowded life.

Robert Frost is perhaps the greatest figure to benefit from Untermeyer's tireless efforts on behalf of modern poetry but all of us are in his debt. His contribution as an anthologist alone is significant: His "Modern American Poetry" and "Modern British Poetry" have been used as textbooks in high schools and universities throughout the country since they were published a quarter of a century ago.

This however, is but one of Louis Untermeyer's accomplishments. He is a nationally known poet, editor, teacher, lecturer and served as consultant in poetry to the Library of Congress. Then there are his careers as journalist, television panelist, composer, and his first, manufacturing jeweler.

This is his second autobiography, for looking back at 80 he felt his first, published 30 years ago, to be "evasive and premature." It seems doubtful that such a charge could be leveled against his second, for it is a candid account of a truly remarkable life.

One would think his many careers, any one of which should have contented an ordinary man, would have left no time at all for a private life. On the contrary: He pours forth a personal history that is every bit as excessive.

Certainly there is an abundance to recollect. Tragedies and triumphs abound, but his dry wit and obvious relish of his fellow mortals come through on every page.

Evidently Mr. Untermeyer has not taken seriously Amy Lowell's accolade: "The most versatile genius in America." Without a trace of self-importance he settles back comfortably for a good, gossipy look at his long life — and the reader hangs on every word.

Educator's Story

THE SAGE OF PETALUMA by J. Abner Peddiwell (Harold R. W. Benjamin), McGraw-Hill, 233 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Larry Kramer Jr.

"The Sage of Petaluma" is a book with something to say, and it says it well.

It combines crisp prose with wonderfully humorous touches such as we might expect from the author of "The Saber-Tooth Curriculum." This latter satire on educators and educational methods, written in 1939, is still funny, perceptive and pertinent a quarter century later.

"The Sage" is the autobiography of an educator who recognizes that learning comes to us in many guises, and that our teachers are only occasionally found in the classroom.

One of the Sage's teachers was a rancher, another an Indian who fought Custer at Little Big Horn, still others were soldiers and professors with further contributions from mules and a horse.

From the Indian, Chief Medicine Horse, he learned about "wakan" - the unique spirit of a man which urges him on to become his best self.

The Sage of Petaluma is full of amusing and meaningful anecdotes that tell how one man took his education where he found it, then improved on it. In many ways this story of a man reminds the reader of the autobiography of Mark Twain. It keeps fine conmpany.

Important Novel

BRIDGEPORT BUS by Maureen Howard, Harcourt, Brace and World, 309 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Jean Langham.

There are an awful lot of woman authors around, scribbling the quiet daytime hours away. When they are good they are very, very good, and when they are bad they are horrid.

Maureen Howard is very, very good. "Bridgeport Bus," her second novel, is original, strong, hilarious writing, a full-scale account of one woman's sojourn into life.

Mary Agnes Keeley, 35-year-old spinster, lives with her dour and aging mother in one of those dreary two-family houses so typical of the Irish suburbs in New England, looking for escape in night courses at New Haven State Teachers' College. One day she eats her last boiled potato, refuses to escort her mother to evening devotions, and gets on a bus for New York.

She enters the world all open-armed and vulnerable, soaking up each day and each person she encounters like a sponge. But she overdoes it and in the end the world turns around and devours Mary Agnes.

It is not a simple tale and it is not simply told. Mrs. Howard uses a variety of techniques including a first person journal and a short symbolic play. She displays a great gift of characterization.

Some problems develop toward the end as Mrs. Howard, like her heroine, overdoes it. Mary Agnes' hilarious exuberance, which lends so much to the charm of the book, turns into hysterical prattling. She seems to exceed the bounds of her necessary limitations and to act as we know she cannot act. However, it is also possible that we are mistaken about Mary Agnes and that she is capable of tragedy in the heroic manner, that her rejection of all she once was actually constituted moral suicide.

The fact that the denouement poses this question is actually proof of the basic high quality of "Bridgeport Bus." It should be hailed as one of the important books of this fall.

Down-To-Earth

RATTLESNAKES By J. Frank Dobie, Little, Brown and Co., 201 pages, $5. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

When J. Frank Dobie sets out to tell rattlesnake yarns, it's long odds they'll be rattling good ones.

"Rattlesnakes" by Dobie does not disappoint. The late, great chronicler of the Old Southwest had, it seems, planned to put together a book on rattlesnakes and has assembled some of his writings on the subject for that purpose. The job has been completed for him posthumously in this collection.

The rattlesnake is quite as indigenous to the Southwest as the coyote or the prickly pear. He was there before the longhorn or the bucking broncho, and has outlasted the first and seems likely to outlast the second. There is no end of lore about him, yet literary folk have felt him beneath the honor of being made into books.

It is fortunate that the work of such a writer as Dobie should be selected to correct this lack. No more in awe of scientific theorizing than of Indian folklore or Texans' tall tales, he simply spins stories, as down-to-earth as his subject.

Yes, it's a rattling good book.

The Johnsons

A FAMILY ALBUM by Rebekah Baines Johnson, McGraw-Hill, 146 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Wat Takeshita.

The Johnson name is the one item that distinguishes this from other family albums that lie on living room shelves throughout the country.

Rebekah Baines Johnson, mother of the President, compiled the album of pictures and biographies of family members, dating back to the Revolutionary War.

With the loving care of a proud mother, she has preserved photographs of the President, including his first picture, at six months. In the first few pages, the reader gets a few personal glimpses of Lyndon Johnson; for example that for nearly three months, Lyndon had no name but was merely called "Baby."

Then, as the book goes down the family tree, names like Huffman, Baines, and Bunton glide into view, much like the showing of slides at a family reunion.

For members of the family and close personal friends, the album would be a treasure. For the casual reader, the chief interest would be in tracing the President's ancestry, and matching up names with events in American history.

"THE Horizon Book of Ancient Greece," a large picture book edited by William Harlan Hale, to be published next week by Doubleday, contains 311 reproductions, 89 in color.

Lunar Advocate

THE CASE FOR GOING TO THE MOON by Neil P. Ruzic, G. P. Putnam's Sons, 240 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Jeff Greer.

Apathy is the word for Americans' attitude about getting a man to the moon and back again, author Ruzic declares. He argues that this is wrong, that "hundreds of important scientific and cold-cash reasons abound for going to the moon. Exploring them is the purpose of this book."

Ruzic backs the apathy claim with surveys he conducted as publisher of "Industrial Research" magazine, a broad-spectrum publication for scientific, technical and management personnel. He aims his case not at these groups alone; the result is a book crammed with food for thought for the statesman, the professional man in any field, and the average, mildly curious layman.

Ruzic's "Case for Going" is eminently suitable for telling teen-agers what space exploration is all about, as well as giving a fascinating insight to many scientific fields.

Ruzic explores the possibilities of richly-rewarding research in the Lunar vacuum, manufacturing and mining on Luna, the probable "spin-off" benefitting other, earthbound technologies, and the use of Lunar voyaging as a stepping stone to greater distances.

He also discusses "the case for life beyond the earth."

In days when German V-2 missiles were the most potent space-probe U.S. science knew, this reviewer worked as a tiny cog of the primitive White Sands missile range. Predictions we talked about then have been so far surpassed in less than 20 years that we wonder how soon Ruzic's book will be out of date.

Ruzic and the reviewer both hope it will be within our lifetimes.

The Stereo Scene With Sunier

By JOHN SUNIER

Some music from the movie soundtracks:

THE BEATLES IN MOVIE SOUNDTRACKS — "A Hard Day's Night" — United Artists UAL 3366; "Help" — Capitol Stereo MAS 2386:

As a certain columnist noted recently, "The more you hear the more you like it." And of all the new, improved rock 'n' roll that has been coming out lately, the famous Beatles are the best.

Sure, the lyrics are from nowhere, but the free-wheeling ensemble, with its infectious rhythm and catchy harmonic and melodic effects, is extremely captivating to the unbiased adult listener. That last comment means that if you have a teen-ager in the house, all this is falling on deaf ears.

The first movie, which surprised so many people who expected the usual formula picture a la Elvis Presley, has a list of very catchy tunes that everyone must be quite familiar with by this time. There are eight vocals and four instrumentals, some of the latter being quiet jazz versions of the vocals. This lp would be a fine introduction to the Beatles for adults who want to "get with it" without the painful experience of lengthy listening to one of the rock radio stations.

Beatles movie No. 2 was even more fun than No. 1 and has an equal number of interesting tunes. My favorites are the title tune and "You're Gonna Lose That Girl."

Unlike most soundtrack albums, it makes absolutely no difference in listening whether or not you have seen the movie first.

CIRCLE OF LOVE — Soundtrack by Michel Magne from the Roger Vadim film — Monitor stereo MPS 602:

While I missed the movie—it starred Jane Fonda, in bed mostly — I understand I didn't miss much. However, this bubbling score of period continental music should be enjoyable background listening to many who also missed the film. There are turn-of-the-century waltzes, polkas and tangos with various mood pieces, all very Frenchy but without the usual musical cliches.

Pretty good stereo, too.

THE COLLECTOR — Soundtrack music by Maurice Jarre—Mainstream Records Stereo S/6053:

A finely-crafted score for a finely-crafted motion picture. M. Jarre is already known to American audiences for his scores to "The Longest Day" and "Lawrence of Arabia." The latter used a zither-like instrument frequently in solo spots, giving the effect of the Arabian oud.

"The Collector" score again uses this touch, but this time it sounds more like a zither, whatever it really is.

The musical score was extremely important in this William Wyler film and underscored the fine acting by Terrance Stamp and Samantha Eggar to a large degree.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

AUTUMN BEAUTY

Today I climbed to a hill top,
Hand in hand with you;
And while autumn winds caressed us
Paused to enjoy the view—
The snowy peaks of the mountains
Lined in the sky's clear blue;
The gold and scarlet of foliage
Rivaling the rainbow's hue.
A picture the Master painted;
No other ever could compare.
Always I will remember
The beauty held captive there.

For An Autumn Show

Gardening Page

Sunny Indian Summer days and nippy nights are signals for blooms to appear on some of our choicest camellias.

One group of camellias specializes in putting on an autumn show. The varieties belonging to this group are called "sasanquas."

They are characterized by small, glossy leaves with serrated edges, a willowy growth habit and an abundance of small to medium size flowers, single or double.

THE SASANQUAS may be used in full sun or part shade, make excellent espalier subjects against sunny walls and can be used as medium-height hedges. The more spreading varieties make excellent hanging baskets.

Colors available include white and all shades of pink, including deep rose — almost red.

Many of the favorite larger-flowered "japonica" camellias begin blooming now. These include the formal double white Alba Plena, as well as all of the variations of Daikagura and Chandleri.

In the Daikagura group there is a solid red, red and white variegated and white. The form is informal double. In the Chandleri group there is the best known "elegans," with pink and white flowers, Francine, solid pink, C. M. Wilson, pale pink and Shiro-Chan, a pure white. All have peony-type flowers.

THE MOST popular of all of the early pinks is the informal Debutante. A real old-timer, Pink Perfection, is still a favorite with some—it is formal and pale in color.

All of these varieties require exposure to filtered sun every day. Perhaps this is the clue to their desire to start blooming earlier than other japonica varieties.

Pink Perfection is particularly sensitive to too much shade.

The Chandleri group will require staking to begin with, unless you would like to grow them as espaliers against an east or southwest wall, or sprawling below a widely sweeping window.

THE DAIKAGURAS, and Debutante, are upright growers and make excellent subjects for containers, to grow as foundation plants between windows and to view backgrounds for lower-growing part-shade lovers, such as azaleas and rhododendrons.

Soil preparation is important with camellias. Your nurseryman has available a combination of peat, compost, leaf mold and soil called "planting mix."

Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the plant, set the camellia exactly at ground level and fill in with undiluted planting mix. Water with a slow stream from your hose. Feed with special azalea and camellia food about the middle of March and again about the middle of July.

THE CAMELLIA sasanqua White Dove is seen here in espalier form. Lovely displays of flowers in the fall and winter, as well as a lavish green foliage all year, make it a popular landscape shrub.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- ✓ Berried shrubs to plant now include hollies, pyracanthas, Heavenly Bamboo and California Toyon. Miniature berried shrubs such as Dwarf Burford Holly and Tiny Tim pyracantha makes effective holiday decorations when grown in tubs.
- ✓ Clean up leaves and fallen fruit. Cut back browned perennials and prune evergreens lightly.
- ✓ This is an excellent time to plant new groundcovers. Dwarf Periwinkle makes a beautiful small-scaled evergreen one, that will bloom along with spring bulbs and flowering trees. Choose it with pink, white or blue flowers. Thrives in any soil and gets along with little moisture if grown in shade.
- ✓ This is a good time for transplanting. If you are remodeling your garden, see the fine hardy evergreens that are arriving daily at your nursery. You'll find excellent hedge material, foundation plants and accents.
- ✓ When planting your spring garden, include some new azaleas. Fall planted azaleas become well established by spring and bloom vigorously.
- ✓ Continue to water roses regularly. Remove suckers and old blooms. Spray as your nurseryman recommends.

To Make Your Arrangements Last Longer

Some tips that will result in longer-lasting flower arrangements for your home:

1. Cut flowers early in the morning or late in the evening.
2. Strip the lower leaves from the stem—it will prolong flower life by reducing moisture loss.
3. Gather the stems and roll loosely in wet newspaper.
4. Place the stems in warm water and let stand over night in a cool, dark place.
5. When arranging, cut the stems diagonally so they will absorb more water.

LUCKY IS THE youngster with a home-grown pumpkin from which to fashion his own jack-o-lantern. This one is Burpee's Big Max, a 100-pound giant that has stolen the show at Halloween time — and at Thanksgiving as well.

Paint For Aluminum

The bright, reflective surface that typified aluminum for so many years is often being covered these days.

In addition to the factory-applied coatings that usually are baked on, ordinary aluminum is getting the do-it-yourself treatment from many home owners who once thought that this useful metal could not be satisfactorily painted.

Aluminum may be painted because of a desire to cut down its shine, to change its color or to add to its natural corrosion-resistant qualities. Exactly what is done to get a satisfactory result depends on the age and condition of the metal, as well as the purpose for which the paint is being applied.

NEW ALUMINUM has an invisible coat of oil on it. Generally, wiping with mineral spirits will prepare the surface properly. But if this does not appear to have removed all oil, grease and dirt, then it may be necessary to wash the aluminum with a phosphoric acid mixture.

In using this acid, be sure to follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully.

When aluminum has been exposed to the weather for a month or two, the oil coating will have been washed away, and no acid wash is required. A conventional primer will satisfactorily prepare the surface for the finish coats. But in an extremely corrosive atmosphere, such as near a chemical plant, it is best to apply a primer with a corrosion-inhibiting pigment.

ONCE THE PRIME coat is on, aluminum will "take" almost any paint or enamel which is suitable for wood or metal.

Some aluminum, such as that used on window frames, is given a clear coating to protect it during shopping and installation. As with the oil coating previously mentioned, this will wear away in time. If it doesn't — and you wish to paint the aluminum — inspect the clear finish carefully.

If it is adhering tightly, you can paint right over it. If there are signs that it is wearing, then it must be removed with a solvent, a scraper or sandpaper. Incidentally, one way to determine whether the coating needs removal is to test it with a scraper. If scraping takes off some of the coating, then all of it must be removed before painting.

Should you desire to retain the original appearance of aluminum with lacquer or similar clear finish, remember that you will have to renew it more often than paint, especially if the aluminum is exposed to the elements.

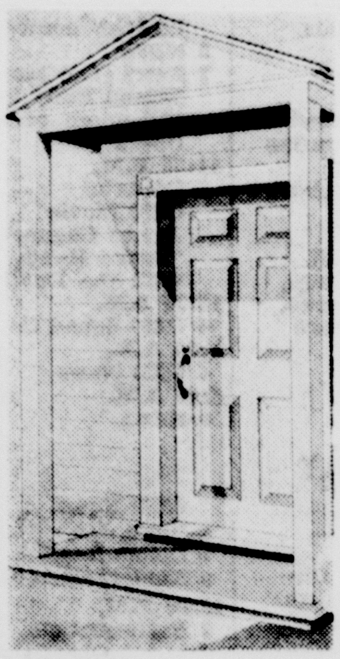
SOMETIMES the expense of a re-roofing job can be trimmed by simply applying heavyweight asphalt shingles directly on the old roof surface, as is being done here, instead of removing the old roofing first.



FOR THE homeowner whose front door is uncovered and exposed to the winter elements of rain and wind, a simple canopy can give valued protection. Canopy Pattern No. 305 is available from the Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, for 75 cents. The canopy can be built to conform with all types of siding and roofing, and can serve over the back or side entrances as well as the front entry.

At 9:30 o'clock, the same station will carry the hour-long ABC-TV network fun-and-music special, "Jimmy Durante Meets the Lively Arts," with the veteran comedian hosting Rudolf Nureyev, Roberta Peters, Robert Vaughn, Lynn Seymour, the Shindogs and Max Showalter among others.

"ABC Scope" on KGO at 7 o'clock will be devoted to Jomo Kenyatti, one time Mau Mau chief now leading the new nation of Kenya.

In the holiday spirit, Lawrence Welk and his Champagne Music Makers throw a Halloween party at 8:30 on KGO.

On KQED you can see a film of old-time grand prix automobile racing at 7 p.m., a documentary on the "new look" for Communism in Poland at 8, an interview of author-columnist John Fischer at 9, and a performance by the Carnegie Tech Chamber Orchestra and cellist Theo Salzman of "The Schoenberg-Monn Concerto" at 10.

The three top movies are Danny Kaye in a colorful circus spectacle "Merry Andrew" at 9 o'clock on KRON; a strong cast including Marlon Brando, Anna Magnani and Joanne Woodward in "The Fugitive Kind," a drama set in Mississippi, on KPIX at 11:20; and William Holden, Trevor Howard and Sophia Loren in the 1958 picture "The Key" on KGO at 11:15 p.m.

In observance of Halloween, KGO will show "horror" films throughout the night, beginning at 1:15 a.m.

ON SUNDAY, NBC-TV news will present another of its specials, this one a study of wiretapping and other illegal electronics eavesdropping in the United States. KRON will carry the program at 6:30 p.m.

The same station and network will air the Criss Awards dinner in Los Angeles at 5 p.m., honoring actor William Gargan for his victorious battle against cancer, and with many celebrities among the guests.

"The 20th Century" begins a "Man of the Month" series with Secretary of State Dean Rusk as its October choice, and with an exploration in depth of the character and philosophy of that diplomat (KPIX, 4:30 p.m.).

Albert Einstein's personal philosophy will be the subject on "Look Up and Live" (KPIX, 8:30 a.m.).

U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Arthur G. Goldberg will be interviewed on "Face the Nation" (KPIX, 9:30 a.m.).
